In an effort to assure the county's quota of 12,000 acres, a summary will be made of all those who have signed the contracts and if the quota has not been reached—those who are interested in seeing Chilton count meet its obligations to a Government that is trying to restore normalcy in business will be given an opportunity to increase their contracts.

ADMIRAL W. A. MOFFETT

In the death of Rear Admiral William Adger Moffett, chief of the Naval bureau of aeronautics, who perished in the disaster to the dirigible Akron, the nation lost one of its most distinguished and gallant Naval officers.

He was born in Charleston, S. C., October 31, 1869, and was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1890. He served with Dewey at the battle of Manila in 1898, and was awarded the nation's highest military distinction, the Congressional Medal of Honor, "for eminent and conspicuous conduct in battel" in the capture of Vera Cruz, in 1914. He also received the Distinguished Service Medal "for exceptionally meritorious service in a position of great responsibility in the World War."

During his long and notable Naval career he held many commands of high importance, and was known as a forceful and brilliant officer. He would have been retired for age in October of this year if he had lived.

Admiral Moffett was a strong advocate of the dirigible as a military weapon, and his enthusiasm for this doubtful instrument of warfare cost him his life. While many do not agree with his views on this particular branch of aeronautics, all must admire the courage he displayed in backing his opinions by risking and losing his life in his zeal to vindicate them.

Hon. Amzi Barber To Speak Here Saturday

One of the most outstanding speakers of Alabama will be at the court house in Clanton on Saturday of this week to speak on the proposed amendments to the Constitution. This is Hon. Amzi Barber, a well known and prominent attorney of Birmingham.

The speaking is scheduled for two o'clock and the public is invited to attend. Mr. Barber is in great demand over the state as a speaker and his coming to Clanton brings a rare privilege to the people here to hear such an outstanding speaker.

AMENDMENTS COME BEFORE PEOPLE TUES.

4 Amendments And Question Of Repeal To Receive Voice Of Voters

Next Tuesday, July 18th, is the date set for the special election to be held over the State of Alabama to determine whether the voters approve or disapprove of four amendments to the Constitution and whether they will give the state the right to control its own liquor matters.

In Chilton County, the regular polling places will handle this election the same manner as others, except instead of the usual political friction, there will be work done up to the last minute by those for the amendments and those against the amendments.

Repeal of the 18th Amendment will not restore legalized sale of any intoxicants. Legislative enactment will be necessary before even 3.2 beer may be sold. What the voters will deicde on July 18 is whether the Eighteenth Amendment may be stricken from the federal constitution and control of the liquor question be vested in the states themselves, individually. In other words, the question resolves itself into one of state's rights.

All four of the proposed amendments will appear on one ballot. They are the Sparks Amendment, which provides that salaries of all state and county officers may be reduced during their term of office. No. 2 is the Income Tax. No. 3 is the warrant validating amendment and No. 4 is the amendment reducing from eight weeks to four weeks for the publication of proposed amendments to the constitution.

Polk Bros. Show New Plymouths

Polk Brothers Motor Co., Inc., are receiving congratulations from their many friends over this section on their becoming dealers for Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles in this district.

This concern has been in the automobile business in Clanton for quite a number of years and is taking a great deal of pride in announcing they are now selling Chrysler and Plymouth cars.

They have a new Plymouth on their showroom floor and are extending an invitation to the people of this section to visit their place and drive the new Plymouth with the latest improvements in smaller cars. Their mechanics are being schooled in the repair departments of larger concerns in the city and are being taught the principles of Plymouth and Chrysler upkeep.

Elsewhere in this issue of the News will be found an interesting message from Polk Brothers, to the people of this section.

CHILTON GOES OVER QUOTA IN COTTON ACREAGE CUT

Report Shows 12,815 Acres Signed Up Through Tuesday Afternoon By 3,070 Farmers; Limit Of Time Was Reached Last Night

So far as Chilton County is concerned with its part, the government's cotton acreage reduction plan is a success. The report from County Agent Stapp of Tuesday afternoon, showed that a total at that time of 12,815 acres had been signed up in the county, with a possibility that more would come in before the dead-line which was this past Wednesday night at midnight.

There were 3,070 farmers who signed contracts to plow up a certain percentage of their acreage, up to Tuesday night of this week. The largest contract from any one individual called for forty acres to be plowed under.

A number of field workers were kept busy over the county for over two weeks in securing these contracts, while the office of County Agent Stapp has been a scene of great activity and tireless workers who have been taxed to keep the contracts properly arranged and filed.

Reports from daily papers, and quoting prominent citizens of the United States, expressed the belief that the project will meet with success over the entire cotton growing states, and while this has been going on, the price of cotton has been steadily climbing. The prices quoted Monday of this week was over the ten cent point, with indications of going higher.

While Chilton County went over its quota of 12,000 acres, there is a possibility that this may be cut down some after a thorough check-up is made.

MILL WORKERS RECEIVE PART OF 'NEW DEAL'

Children Under 16 Years Of Age Are Prohibited From Working

Upwards of 400,000 employes in cotton textile mills next Monday will begin working only 40 hours a week instead of 48 to 50 for no less than $12 to $13, against $8 to $9.

That was assured when President Roosevelt, with reservations and interpretations, Sunday night approved and promulgated the first work-spreading, wage-raising code of fair competition completed under the national recovery act.

Approval of this agreement, officials said, would bring more from other big industries in the attempt to recover prosperity by what the president calls "a partnership" between business and the government.

The situation now is this: A majority of the cotton textile industry has agreed upon minimum wages for a part of their employes and the maximum

ROOSEVELT ASKS STATE FOR REPEAL

President Says Party Platf'm Must Be Carried Out In Recent Wire

The endorsement of President Roosevelt and the Democratic party Saturday was definitely behind the campaign in Alabama and other states to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

President Roosevelt Saturday in a telegram to Judge Leon McCord, Montgomery, Democratic national committeeman from Alabama, delivered an appeal to the voters of this and all other states to repeal the national prohibition amendment.

Announcement of the president's message to Judge McCord was contained in an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, and the news of the message was greeted enthusiastically by Democratic leaders who are leading the fight for repeal.

President Roosevelt's appeal was wired to Judge McCord, the contents of the message being as follows:

"I think I have made it abundantly

ONLY FEW MORE DAYS UNTIL BIG COUNTY-WIDE PICNIC IS ENJOYED

Congressman Oliver And Senator Bankhead Invited To Attend Gathering; Prizes For Largest Families, Best Fiddling And Newly-Weds

Preparations are fast reaching completion for the big county-wide picnic to be held July 21 in the pine grove just across from Boswell's Tourist Camp on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway two miles south of Clanton, according to information from the office of County Agent C. E. Stapp.

Hundreds of circulars are being mailed by Mr. Stapp to almost everyone in Chilton county, urging their attendance and cooperation in making this the greatest of the several county-wide picnics that have become an annual fete in Chilton county.

Approximately 5,000 persons from every section of the county, and representing every vocation and profession are expected to congregate at the Popwell Woods on the morning of July 21 to join in one of the biggest celebrations of its kind in the history of the county.

Congressman W. B. Oliver has notified Mr. Stapp that he will accept an invitation to speak to the citizenship of the county on that date, and Senator John H. Bankhead has also been invited. So a treat in oratory will be one of the many features of a myriad program of entertainment and education that will be presented.

The Kiwanis and Pilot clubs are lending their cooperation. A committee composed of Doctors V. J. Gragg and C. O. Lawrence will maintain a first aid booth under the auspices of the Clanton Kiwanis club.

Some old-time fiddling will be another feature of the program, when artists of the bow compete for prizes. Awards will also be made to the largest families, couples married longest, and newest "Newly-weds."

Barbecue, cold drinks, popcorn and other refreshments will be available.

Farm Bureau Pres. Backs Amendments

In a telegram received from a supporter of the income tax amendment and the warrant amendment, to the News, it was stated that Hon. J. Litt Edwards, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, issued an appeal at Selma Tuesday, to all farmers to support the warrant and income tax amendments.

The message went on to state that Mr. Edwards said these amendments were opposed by selfish interests and cannot be passed on to the smaller man. The federation adopted resolutions supporting both amendments, the wire stated.

LEGION POST WILL SUPPORT AMENDMENTS

Adopt Resolution Showing Endorsement Of Two Amendments

The following resolution was passed unanimously by the Chilton County Post No. 6 of the American Legion at the regular July meeting:

Resolution

Resolved that the Chilton County Post No. 6 of the American Legion heartily endorses to the voters of the County and State the proposed Income Tax amendment, No. 2, and the proposed Warrant Act amendment, No. 3, which is to be voted upon next Tuesday, July 18;

Be it resolved further that we are highly in favor of forgetting politics and think of our children. We must protect them and keep the schools open. What we pay out will be returned in good citizenship. Resolved further that the income tax will hurt no one. Realizing that only those who earn more than is required to live, educate their children and pay for other necessary things of life will have to pay the tax. And resolved further that the tax is only imposed upon those who are able to pay and realizing that it is for the best interest of the masses of the people that this equitable limited income tax be passed, and realizing further that it will be written into the Constitution of our State that after the income ax cares for the outstanding debts of the State that all revenue collected thereafter will be used in reduc-

COUNTY AGENT GETS PRAISE FROM FARMERS

Stapp Honored With Resolution By Farmers For His Tireless Efforts

While Cohen E. Stapp, county agent of this county has been working night and day during the past few weeks, taking care of his routine duties as well as taking part in many civic affairs and overseeing the work on the cotton acreage reduction, his efforts and work have not gone un-noticed by those he serves.

At a meeting of field inspectors and other farmers of the county, held at the court house last Monday afternoon, a resolution was adopted, paying tribute to Mr. Stapp for his splendid work. Following is the resolution as adopted:

"Be it resolved by the farmers of Chilton County in public meeting assembled, that we hereby express our appreciation to Hon C. E. Stapp for the fine service he has rendered our County as farm demonstration agent during the past six years.

"Resolved further, that we do here and now voice our gratitude to Mr Stapp for the splendid service rendered during the stress and strain of our economic confusion in helping all of our farmers to understand and leading them to participate in the reduction of cotton acreage. In this work, his [illegible] leadership has challenged our highest admiration and stimulated us to strive for the accomplishment of the national goal. In all of this, he has displayed a [illegible] and [illegible] worthy of the example of all of us.

"We are happy to be at this [illegible] worthy public [illegible] of the people."

POPULAR COUPLE MARRIED HERE LAST SUNDAY, JULY 9

Miss Pauline Davis became the bride of Mr. Alonza Askins last Sunday, when they were married at the home of the Rev. Buford Lawrence in the presence of a few intimate friends. This marriage came as a surprise to the many friends of this popular couple, who are extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Askins.

Mrs. Askins is the daughter of Mrs W. C. Davis, of the Enterprise community, and has been making her home in Clanton for some time where she was employed at Matts Lunch Shoppe where she has made many friends by her pleasing personality.

Mr. Askins is one of Clanton's young business men who is well known here. He is connected with the Culver I. G. A. Store. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Askins returned to Clanton where they will make their home.

CHILTON IS SIXTH TO BE GIVEN QUOTA

Stapp Expresses Thanks For Cooperation In Putting Over Project

Mr. Stapp states that the resolutions presented at the meeting at the court house last Monday afternoon came as a surprise to him, and he wants it understood that the success of the program in Chilton County does not lie with him altogether, but that it is due to the cooperation and counsel on the part of more than 3500 citizens of Chilton County. Mr. Stapp states that he wants to make special mention of the splendid cooperation and counsel of the two vocational teachers, Mr. J. P. Montgomery of Jemison, and Mr. Earle Thomas of Isabella, and all of the field workers, office force, all of whom have labored untiringly in the program.

Mr. Stapp states that the program is only partially completed in that inspection has been made on only about half of the contracts. He points out the fact that very likely some offers are high, but that he trusts when inspection is made all farmers who have signed contracts will continue their cooperation to the extent of making agreement with the Government on the basis of estimated yield not exceeding their past five-year average.

Mr. Stapp further points out that if the total contracts of the County show an average estimated yield above our past five-year average, that someone might be quick to say that farmers of Chilton County are trying to get more out of the Government than they are entitled to.

Mr. Stapp is very appreciative of the fact that Chilton County was the sixth in the State to reach its quota of 12,000 acres set by the Government and has asked our paper to express his appreciation to everyone in the County who made this success possible.

Now Is Time To Build Or Repair

Plenty has been said about the orgy of building which took place during the boom years providing more dwellings than there was any need for. But now that several years have passed, this overproduction has been well averaged down.

A few years ago we were building several hundred thousand homes a year—undoubtedly too many. But last year we built only about 50,000.

Thousands of these newer homes, as well as millions of older ones, have been allowed to deteriorate to the point of needing extensive repair or replacement.

There never was a better time to do either, than now. Lumber, cement and other basic materials are selling at rock-bottom prices. So are electrical and plumbing and roofing supplies. There is an abundance of labor, skilled and unskilled. The citizen who builds a home today, or repairs the old one, not only obtains a bargain but strikes a blow at depression. Money spent for construction and maintenance of property covers a wide area and alights in many pockets. It has a powerful stimulating effect on the national purchasing power.

If you're able to build a home and need one, do it now. If you aren't, you can probably spend a few dollars or a few hundred dollars on repairs and replacements. You'll save money, and you'll be doing your bit in the greatest war of modern times—the war against unemployment and distress.

Investment and employment are cheaper than charity.

Clanton Needs To Issue A Wide Invitation

Clanton has secured three new places of business during the past several weeks, namely, the Hayes Chevrolet Co., The Dollar Store and Solomons Dry Goods Store. That looks good and sounds good. Mr. Pinkerson, operator of The Dollar Store says that he was impressed with Clanton on a short visit here and immediately decided to locate a place of business here. Mr. Solomon was no doubt of the same opinion.

The Hayes Chevrolet Company is operated by home people, who no doubt are great believers in the future of Clanton and Chilton County. Not only that, but Polk Brothers Motor Co., formerly Chevrolet dealers, have brought to Clanton another automobile agency, expressing their belief in the future of this section.

We are just wondering how many people, business men, and others, have made it a point to go to these people and tell them that Clanton is glad to have them in business and congratulate them on selecting Clanton for a location. It is somewhat unlike a newspaper to "jump" on the citizens of its town, but it occurs to the News that there are other persons who might be interested in locating in Clanton, but need a little inviting and encouraging.

Clanton and Chilton County are known far and wide as a fine town and a splendid county, made up of fine people. Clanton has a wide trade territory thickly inhabitated by a high class of people. Clanton is in the center of routes leading from north, south, east and west. Clanton has good churches and schools. And there are many other good points to our town and county that are attracting attention.

Saving The Mortgaged Home

The impression that almost any home mortgage may be refinanced under the government's plan is erroneous, this plan being purely a relief measure designed for the assistance of those not able to take care of the situation through the ordinary channels.

That this is true becomes obvious at once when it is remembered that the maximum sum expected to be used under the plan is two billion dollars, whereas home mortgages as a whole total over twenty billion dollars.

This means that the government estimates that only about ten per cent of the total sums involved in mortgages upon homes represents persons in actual distress, and if this estimate is even approximately correct, then the whole situation is much more hopeful than many had assumed.

As a matter of fact, the established agencies for lending money upon homes, and financing the building of homes, have done a really wonderful job in minimizing distress, foreclosures havig been waived in great numbers of instances and substantial aid extended in many others. And in many cases of actual foreclosure, the proceedings have been of a friendly nature, prior arrangements having been made to save the property for the owner.

As the situation stands now, wise discrimination will have to be exercised by those passing upon applications, the clear intent o fthe existing plan being to aid only those who cannot help themselves, and persons so situated should by all means receive prior consideration.—Tuscaloosa News.

The trade picture is thus definitely optimistic. Low of depression was touched in June-July of last year. Since then the three general barometers—index of business activity, index of commodity prices, stock prices—have been moving up, with occasional reactions. For two months progress has been uninterrupted. The net business gain is said to be close to 25 per cent.

The Alabama Farmer And Democratic Rule

Four months have elapsed since President Roosevelt took his seat in Washington and began a whirl-wind of action to bring relief to industry and the farmer. Yet in this four months things are already looking toward a brighter future.

Included in the rapidly accumulating mass of evidence which is clearly pointing to a restoration of business is the relief being given the Southern farmer. Nothing means more to Alabama than this. President Roosevelt and his Democratic "New Deal" has meant for the Alabama farmer the dawn of a new day.

Just a year ago, in July, 1932, the price being received for cotton was only five and one-half cents per pound, and today the price is on, or bordering at ten cents per pound. Alabama's cotton crop will be around 1,200,000 bales, however, the estimate has not yet been made. And if the quota for Alabama in the acreage reduction is reached, this will bring the state's crop down to around 800,000 bales.

It is estimated by experts that cotton should be around 11 cents in the Fall, and it is being conservatively estimated that about 5 cents of this 11 cents will be profit to the farmer, making cotton at $25 per bale, or $20,00,000 income for Alabama farmers that will be theirs. The government will pay approximately $11,000,000 for the acreage reduction. Add this to the selling price of cotton and it gives you $31,000,000 as an income, and is a great deal more than Alabama farmers have had for their own spending money in several years.

Chilton Farmers Doing Their Bit Toward "New Deal"

That the farmers of Chilton County are doing their bit to help President Roosevelt put over his "New Deal" to the people, was shown in the immediate acceptance of the government's cotton acreage reduction plan.

Chilton was assessed a reduction of 12,000 acres, and reports at the time of this writing showed that the number of acres contracted to be eliminated, far exceeded that amount.

Undoubtedly Chilton County, normally Republican, is gradually awakening to the light that is being shed over this entire nation which is now under Democratic rule. Chilton County is receiving the benefit of the reconstruction program of that great Democratic leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and surely could do no less than join in with the Democrats in putting this far-reaching program over the top.

Chilton County is to be congratulated on accepting the President's cotton acreage reduction plan in such a whole-hearted spirit. The nation is surely well started on the road to recovery. Chilton will reap its share of the benefits.

The Home Town Merchant

Example of the service performed by the home town merchant is not always taken into account when the customer has money to spend, as shown by a recent editorial in the Ontarior Reporter:

"A neighborhood drug store was forced to close its doors because of the depression. The bankrupt owner left this sign on his window: 'Sorry—Customers: You can get stamps at the opposite drug store, change in the corner bank, use phone in quick lunch, hear radio in the florist shop, read the magazines and headlines at the corner news stand and weigh yourself in the garage down the street. Goodbye.'

"Comic—and tragic. And it makes us wonder if we appreciate all the friendly services we get free of charge from our neighbors, the business man. Not only at the drug store, but the department store, the garage, the clothes shop, the filling station, the grocery store—in almost every place of business we avail ourselves of some service that costs us nothing, but costs the business man money, time and trouble without returning him a penny of profit. True, he get our trade (sometimes), and his free services are supposed to earn compensation in good will, but they become so commonplace and varied that they are often abused and unappreciated, we feel sure.

"Do you know that an Ontario druggist has customers who come in for stamps and have them charged, that a grocery store hands out cash to a customer and charges it on her bill, that a filling station has a regular free-air—and water customer who never buys any oil or gas? It's a funny world—and sometimes we consider the other fellow's problem so lightly that we forget he cannot long exist on the income from free services which we take so thoroughly for granted that we forget even a polite 'Thank You'." — Centerville Press.

The Educated Man

In view of much recent discussion of the attributes of an educated man, ten points laid down by Albert Wiggam, the author and lecturer, are interesting. They are as follows:

He keeps his mind open on every question until the evidence is all in.

He always listens to the man who knows.

He never laughs at new ideas.

He cross-examines his day-dreams.

He knows his strong point and plays it.

He knows the value of good habits and how to form them.

He knows when not to think and when to call in an expert to think for him.

You can't sell him magic.

He lives a forward-looking, outward-looking life.

He cultivates a love of the beautiful.

—Darnall's Service.

o-o-o-o

Of great importance to the nation is President Roosevelt's program on the relationship of government and business. Research indicates that cut-throat competition, with the resulting tremendous waste, is a strong influence in prolonging depression, inasmuch as it forces prices down and prevents them from rising. In the past, the anti-trust laws have stood in the way of agreements to offset this. The President's plan is to abrogate the trust laws, permit industries to work together in controlling production and prices, with the government as arbiter. Government would have a strong voice in determining wages, hours of labor, output, price, etc. Business has shown itself ready to cooperate.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Patrick's mother-in-law came to live with him. She was not well, and thru the appeals of Patrick's wife, he was induced to send for a physician. The doctor came and after a thorough examination, he and Pat walked out on the front for a heart to heart talk. "And how is the old lady?" asked Pat. The doctor told him she was a very sick woman, and that she must be hurried away to a warmer climate. Immediately Pat disappeared and in a moment came back with an ax in his hand. He handed it to the doctor saying, "Doctor, you hit her, I just can't do it." The most of us have had disagreeable things on our hands, and we have wanted to dispose of them, but we are not willing to do the job ourselves. "Passing the Buck" is one of our daily jobs. "Here, doctor, you take the ax and hit her—I just can't do it."

The banker had just retired when the siren sounded. He rushed to the phone and asked, "Central, where is the fire?" Central replied, "I think that it is the cotton gin just this side of your home." The banker quietly walked to the rear of his house, consoling himself that it was not a matter to worry him. It was not his property and it was not his fire, but, as he pulled open the back door the flames burst upon him, and then he had a different tale to tell. It was not the cotton gin that was burning—it was his own house. He shouted, "My God, wife, get the children up, our house is on fire." There was wild excitement when he discovered that it was his own house that was on fire. Some folks are so serene and contented over the whiskey question. They know that whiskey is ruining somebody, but it is not hurting their family. The time is coming when it will be your son, your daughter who will be devoured in the greedy maw of rum, and then it will be a different feeling that comes over you. Whiskey may be ruining the other fellow today, but look out, he will be gnawing your heart tomorrow.

My neighbor had a shaggy cur dog that took delight in barking at, and in chasing every passerby. One day I saw a man who walked as though he had something to do, and just as he came in front of this home, the vicious dog ran out and barked and snarled as if to tear him into pieces, but the man was not disturbed and went quietly on his way. Soon another man came along, and the dog made a dash for him. He reached for a rock and hurled it at the snarling dog. The rock went wild, but it set the dog on fire, and he made a dash for the man's leg. He kicked and slammed and curse, and in the scuffle that followed the dog tore his pants and slobbered all over his pants legs. Finally the man and the dog were separated and as they parted they glanced at each other with utter disgust. From this we are to learn that he who kicks at every dog that barks at him will soon have a sprained knee, will have torn breeches and will wear dog slobber the most of the time. Even if carping critics howl at your heel, if you have something that is worth doing, go right ahead and do it. The fool cur will soon howl himself to death.

A noble old Englishman who was every inch a gentleman, was sitting at his desk when a neighbor came in for a business conference. The neighbor was offended because of a business deal and spoke hot words to the man at the desk. The quiet old man tried to explain but the angry man said, "Sir, you are a liar." The Englishman who was master of himself arose and looked the man in the eye and replied, "Sir, that is just your opinion expressed in your ill-breeding, and I refuse to continue a conversation with a man who is so ill-bred as to talk that way to a gentleman in his office. You may go." He took his seat and resumed his work. When a man calls you a liar there is no use to fight about it. His charges are either true or untrue. If the charge is true you know it. If it is untrue you know it and you know him to be the ilar. Why fight when you are truthfully charged? Better acknowledge to the corn and repent. If you are wrongly charged why fight? It is better to pity the fellow who fails to know the truth when he sees it.

PRICES ARE GOING UP

Everyone knows that prices are going up. A penny here, a nickel there, dollars more in the case of higher-priced articles. Things are going to cost still more, too, and we can get more now for our dollar than we will be able to later on.

Washington wants to see millions of men go back to work, and wants no one to work for less than a living wage. Industries are getting together to make these things possible, but as wages go up, prices have to go up, too, of course.

Take the household washer as a familiar example, because it is used in 9,000,000 electrified homes, and in half of all the farm houses. Practically everything that goes into the making of it has been advanced. Makers of the parts and of the finished machine know improved wage scales will help their own employes; give them more buying power. This is going on everywhere and it is designed to help everyone. The factory hand in the washer factory will be able to buy the carpet he wants and the worker in the carpet mill will be able to buy the washer he wants.

As for the farmer his "wages" in the form of higher commodity prices give him better buying power, too.

This explains why washers and other labor-saving equipment probably never again will be as cheap as they are now. But it also explains why such a state of general affairs will be better for all of us.

AGAINST THE REPEAL OF 18TH AMENDMENT

Editor, Chilton County News:

The following reasons against the repeal of the 18th Amendment were taken from the Alabama Baptist and were written by Mr. J. E. Dillard. I will appreciate it if you will publish them in your paper.

REV. J. W. JONES.

Thorsby, Ala.

1. Because I am opposed to the liquor business, it has done more harm and caused more disease, misery and crime than anything I know.
2. Because the 18th Amendment is the best law against the liquor business ever passed.
3. Because no other plan of handling the liquor business is offered in place of the 18th Amendment.
4. Because the prohibition law, while not thoroughly enforced, is probably as well enforced as any other law against crime.
5. Because I well remember the deplorable conditions existing before we had prohibition.
6. Because the liquor business is wrong and I will not vote to make it right.
7. Because I am opposed to the government going into the liquor business.
8. Because I am opposed to trying to balance the budget with blood money.
9. Because I am more interested in boys and girls, fathers and mothers than I am in brewers and distillers, saloon keepers and wine dealers.
10. Because it would be a backward step in an effort to have a sober world.
11. Because the 18th Amendment is the result of the prayers and efforts of good men and women over a period of a hundred years.
12. Because it would take a generation to get as good a law passed as the 18th Amendment.
13. Because the trouble is not with the law but with its enforcement, and study should be given to methods of enforcement and not repeal.
14. Because the repeal of the 18th Amendment would result in hundreds of millions of dollars being spent for liquor instead of food, clothing and other necessities of life.
15. Because the repeal of the 18th Amendment would leave no way of protecting dry states against wet states.
16. Because you can't feed hungry families by encouraging them to drink intoxicating liquor.
17. Because the passing of the 18th Amendment resulted in the closing of 177,790 saloons, 1,247 breweries and 507 distilleries, and its repeal would mean the return of even more deplorable conditions.
18. Because the liquor business is inconsistent with our complex modern civilization and every effort should be put forth to destroy it and not to make it legal and respectable.
19. Because state control of the liquor business has been tried and found to be a failure.
20. Because the repeal of the 18th Amendment would not do away with bootleggers, speakeasies, blind tigers and other illegal methods of manufacturing and selling liquor.
21. Because prohibition at its worst has been better than license ever was at its best.
22. Because the Bible, experience and common sense say that whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap; and I don't want to reap the results of helping to make the liquor business legal again.

NO MORE TAXES OF ANY KIND

Editor, Chilton County News:

I would like a few words in reference to the measures to be voted on the 18th of July. It is inconceivable that a thinking public will go to the polls on July 18th and vote more taxes upon an already tax-ridden people. We can not understand why anyone except the politically minded (and we doubt it being good politics) favoring more taxes of any kind under the present financial conditions.

I will give just a few reason why I will vote for and against the five different measures on the 18th:

No. 1 is the Sparks Amendment. It is a constitutional amendment to cut the salaries of all constitutional officers of the state and counties which can not be cut by the legislature. Do not fail to vote for No. 1. We may expect the political rings to vote against this measure, because they have only the interest of their own crowd at heart. Vote yes.

No. 2 is the income tax levy. The income tax will not yield even one-half enough to pay the interest on the outstanding warrants. Governor Miller told you what it would have yielded in the boom times, but failed to tell you that it would yield very little now. He tells the school teachers, in his effort to get their support, that the schools can not run unless we pass the income tax. If it should pass there will be no returns from it until near the close of the 1933 and 1934 school term. He tells you that the rich will have it to pay as they can not pass it on down to the poor man. Are the rich tobacco companies and the rich oil companies paying the tax he put on them? They are not. Wisconsin drove one hundred of its best industries from the state and kept others from coming in by its state income tax. The same thing will happen to Alabama if we pass the income tax.

Governor Miller has a great deal to say about the justice of the income tax in catching the salaried people who would otherwise pay no tax. That would be only a small per cent of the tax as industry would bear the major part of it. President Roosevelt is planning one of the greatest industrial and social developments the world has ever known and it would be very foolish for us to do anything to hinder a development that will mean so much to the people of this state. It would create jobs for Alabama people, and markets for Alabama farm products. Let's not hinder this development with an income tax. Vote No. on No. 2.

No. 3 is the warrant funding amendment. It is another one of Governor Miller's pet tax measures. Governor Miller and his crowd are going all over the state pleading with us to validate the illegal debts he has made and save the honor of the state. He harps about repudiation of the state's debts. No one is advocating the repudiation of the state's debts. We are going to settle them, but we are going to settle them in our own way and in our own time. We do not trust Governor Miller and his crowd. He has padded the warrant bill by about $7,000,000.00 and that of itself is sufficient reason for us to turn it down. He killed the Goode bill which would have cared for the warrants without any more taxes, and which the people were overwhelmingly for. Now suppose the income amendment does not pass, or if it does pass it should not yield enough to pay interest on the warrants, would the few teachers who are still holding their warrants be any better off? I do not think so as I do not believe the warrants would be wanted any more than they are now. Vote No on No. 3.

No. 4 is an amendment reducing from eight weeks to four weeks, the length of time a constitutional amendment has to be advertised. That is an economy measure not sponsored by Governor Miller. Vote Yes on No. 4.

No. 5 is for repeal of the 18th Amendment. This question has been discussed pro and con for a number of years and if we need any further proof of its utter failure go out along the highways and byways in the small hours of night and watch the bootleg whiskey roll by. Go to the many fishing camps and to the many clubs, and to the parties and public dances and see the whiskey as it flows; and go into the homes of the middle class and see our women and girls daily imbibing the poison bootleg stuff; and go into the numerous mountainous sections of our state where almost everyone is connected in some way with the illegal stuff, and see the furtive looks on the faces of everyone and the squalor and poverty in which all but a few of the leaders are living. We cry out enough. We will do away with the 18th Amendment.

It is a part of President Roosevelt's recovery plan. It will give employment and revenue. We have the whiskey but the racketeers are getting the revenue. The profits of bootleg whiskey have been the means of financing the great crime syndicates and the corrupting of our officials until it has become a national scandal.

When prohibition came I thought the temptation of whiskey would be removed from my boys, but I find it is easier for them to get whiskey now than it was in the old saloon days. There are some who are crying out with holy horror at how terrible it would be to go back to the old time saloon as we knew it before prohibition. In the old pioneer days of the West all that was needed to start a town was a saloon and women, but those conditions were gone, never to return long before prohibition came in, and so have many of the evils of the open saloon here as we knew it before prohibition. It is a reflection upon the intelligence and morals of this generation to say that we will allow the evils of the open saloon to dominate us again when the 18th Amendment is repealed. I say vote for repeal.

On the principle of economy in government I am voting every chance I get against Governor Miller and his crowd.

Plant Disease Control

Plant diseases scatter about the same way as animal diseases, and sometimes plant diseases are carried by small animals. Insects carry more plant diseases than anything else.

Varieties and strain of a variety may differ widely in their susceptibility to disease. Plant breeders and pathologists have been cooperating in searching out and developing resistant varieties and strains of plants. Resistance to wilt in certain strains of flax, cotton, cowpeas, and other crops are good examples of resistant varieties. Markton is an oat practically immune to covered smut. Many other resistant types have been discovered and continued work offers much promise from this means of combating diseases. It is possible that many so-called resistant varieties may be found susceptible to other forms of the causal organism as it is known that there are distinct physiologic forms of many of the disease organisms.

The eradication of bushes of the common barberry in the control of the black stem rust of wheat and of the huckthorn in the control of crown rust of oats are examples of disease control through the eradication of host plants. Alternate hosts have been found in a number of diseases of plants and the eradication of these may offer a feasible means for the control of these diseases.

Certain disease-producing organisms live in the soil and soil treatments are possible which aid in reducing the loss from these. Sulphur is sometimes used at the rate of 300 to 600 pounds per acre in the control of potato scab. Heating the soil in tobacco seedbeds in the spring of the year sometime before the seed are sown, by steam or by dry heat, is a rather common practice to control seedling diseases and kill weed seed.

Many diseases are carried over from season to season on the waste crop residue, or stalks, straw and stubble. The covering of such material by deep plowing, or its destruction by burning, is advocated in cases of infestation with certain diseases.

Continued next week with "Control of Plant Disease" in "Rotation of Crops, Eradication, Clean Seed, Small Grain, Smut and Potato Scab."

THORSBY OBSERVED FOURTH OF JULY IN A SPLENDID MANNER

Varied Program Delights Large Crowd Of People From All Sections Of The County; Bentley's Car Wins First Prize For Best Decorated

True to its tradition for carrying out interesting and well arranged programs, Thorsby celebrated the Fourth of July last week in a most splendid manner, with a big barbecue, speakings, music, songs, a parade and other numbers.

The attractive grounds of the Thorsby Institute and the auditorium of the institute were given over to the program for the day, and decorated stands where barbecue and drinks were sold, dotted the grounds. In the morning a parade was staged through the downtown streets, and prizes were given to the best decorated automobile and the most attractive bicycle. The car belonging to Mr. Nat Bentley, operator of the Thorsby Garage was awarded first prize, while H. L. Collins won the prize for the bicycles.

Mrs. Claude Billingsley delivered the welcome address to the gathering, and was followed by a flag parade staged by several small children. This was followed with the Rev. J.W. Jones leading in prayer. Those taking part in the musical program were Misses Kathryn Foss, Agnes Gerald, and Mr. A. Laurell. This was followed by an address by Mr. Luther E. Little, superintendent of education.

Dr. O. C. Carmichael, president of Alabama College, was the guest speaker for the day, and his address carried many weighty remarks that were enjoyed by all.

A neat sum was realized by the Thorsby Parent-Teachers Association, from the sale of lunches and drinks. The day passed, enjoyed by all taking part and with no mishaps. Randolph and Thorsby baseball teams staged a ball game in the afternoon.

Miss Willie Nell Owens is spending this week with her aunt, Mrs. Jewel Wright, of Bethsalem.

Misses Mildred, Edna and Marie Durbin, Letha Bonnett, Ruth, Willie B Cox, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cox, Messrs. Alvin Traywick, Lonnie Clackley, F. I. Popwell, J. T. Cox and Gladys Merida Grace Popwell attended the singing at Liberty Sunday afternoon.

We are sorry to say that the revival will not start at Pleasant Grove church until the first Sunday in August as the preacher who is going to help can not be here until then, but everyone has a special invitation to be with us that week and help make this revival one of the best that we have ever held at this place.

Thousands of Women Have Taken Cardui on Their Mothers' Advice

It is an impressive fact that many women have said they learned of the value of Cardui from their mothers.

What stronger evidence of her confidence in a medicine could a mother have than that she advises her daughter to take it!

Cardui is given the credit for relieving so many cases of womanly suffering that it is widely and favorably known. Druggists, everywhere, sell it.

If you are weak, run-down, suffering monthly, take Cardui. Take it for a reasonable length of time and try it thoroughly. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of women who have written to say: "Cardui helped me."

Local Boys In Forestry Camps Are Transferred To Bainbridge, Georgia

Lance Franklin Tells of New Home of Tents

So it is eh? Yes, here we are on the banks of Power-Dam Lake, twelve miles from Bainbridge, Ga. It was at Bainbridge that we witnessed the rising of the first Georgia sun n the eastern skies after leaving an Alabama sun sinking behind the western horizon on June 23rd, and of course our new sun rose on us June 24th. It was on the morning of the last mentioned date that a misty atmosphere almost hid the sun from our eyes and of course we had with us 20 days rations and must carry them to our camp site and as it was clouding up immediate shelter must be provided for our supplies, and to put up the supply and store tents a group of boys with the cooks and K. P.'s was carried from Bainbridge out to camp on the first truck load, and put up these tents, while the cooks and K. P.'s prepared our midday meal, while the wood cutters were swinging their axes at full blast to cut enough wood to cook dinner and supper that day and breakfast in the morning.

Yes, cooking and taking care of our supplies was all we did in the morning, but sometime in the afternoon someone must have remembered that we were almost unable to sleep any the night before and started to putting up tents and bunks and that one idea was soon sweeping the camp until every man was accomodated with a place to sleep when our first Georgia sun sank behind the western horizon where the Alabama sun had gone the day before.

Friends, I believe that life in the camps would put an old Grannie in a new state of life so as to make her feel and look as a youth once more with the exception of her gray hair and of course that would remain the same. I say this because if she had the exercise each morning we have and sleep with all four sides of the tent rolled up, plus an open door for a new stream of air laden with that life sustaining gas known as oxygen she would feel well and energetic as in her youth.

A look just now at our divisions in camp will help you to know something about where anyone in camp can be found. First the entire company which is composed of 201 boys is all the division in one, then there are two platoons, 1st and 2nd, and each platoon is divided into two sections each; each section is under a section and subsection foreman, and each is known by his insignia on the left arm. Section foreman is known by 3 little red wheels, each about 3-4 inch in diameter, a subsection foreman by his two little wheels. Now those colors apply only to the 1st platoon, and each boy in the first platoon has one of those little red insignia on the fore part of his hat. The same thing applies to the second platoon with the exception that their color is green.

Another interesting thing that happens in camp is our guards patrolling the company area at night to keep any uninvited visitor away, to watch for fire, and above all to keep the hogs and cows out of our supply tent, for there is no stock law down here and they just swarm in that country, and this, like everything else there, is divided. A chief and two assistant guards, they also have their identification mark, which is a green band around the left arm of the chief and a red band around the assistant guards. Their duty is not only to see that everything is safe, but to see that the company area is kept clean, and if any trouble arises between the boys they are to put forth their best efforts to stop the trouble, and if they fail they report to the officers in the camp.

Other scenes that can be seen in the camp are baseball and volley ball games, boxing, checker and domino games, but the next thing that draws everyone's attention is a couple or more guitars, a fiddle, a mandolin, a banjo and possibly a French harp in full blast on some old song that is familiar and loved by everyone, and of course the instruments are accompanied by the voices of husky American youths which fill the evening breeze with such melody to make anyone forget about getting sick.

Friends, I want to emphasize the one fact that God is not left out of our camp, and Wednesday and Sunday nights a prayer meeting will be found

Listen, I couldn't be tied at home since I have been there a few weeks Bye, bye, until next time.

LIBERTY HILL SINGING SOCIETY MET LAST SUNDAY

The Liberty Hill Singing Society met here in regular session Sunday afternoon, with a very large crowd in attendance. TO VOTERS AND TO MR. PATTILLO

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Ala.

A Letter to voters in general, and Mr. Pattillo in particular.

First of all I wish to thank Mr. J. C. Pattillo for the prominent and especially multiple mention of my name in his recent letter to the paper.

I fully agree with him when he says "The fact is the laborer, merchant, doctor and all consumers are paying the tribute already to the men and corporations of big incomes", and that is just what I am trying to get over to the voters. We don't want to raise the tribute any more.

My friends, in the last few days, have you read about Mr. Mitchell, the banker; or J. P. Morgan, the great financier, how when our great federal government brought him to task, how he admitted scheming them out of hundreds of millions and then laughed in the very face of his investigators and got by with it all?

Here in our own state the governor and his tax-raising bunch have taken the Birmingham News and Mr. Hanson for their text, showing them with an income of around one hundred and fifty thousand dollars per year; and what is the reply? They, Hanson and the News, show that they lost nearly that much last year and more than half that the first half of this year, so you see they are already fixed to pay no income tax.

However, if they could not fix it that way, they could charge one dollar per year more for their paper and one cent more per inch for their advertising space, and you and I, the consumer, would have to pay it.

What I want you to see is that when you add more to the taxes of Mellon or Rockefeller that the price of gas goes up and you pay it. If you add more to the American Tobacco Co., the "little negro" or the poor white boy, who smokes cigarettes, pay it. If you add thirty cents a bushel to manufactured wheat, that $1.50 per barrel is paid by the individual who eats the biscuit and not by the milling company who ground the flour.

There is a tax now, passed recently somewhat similar to an income tax on telephone and telegraph companies. Who pays this? When you pay sixty-five cents to talk to a party in Birmingham for the same time that did cost you fifty cents it seems plain to me that you and not the company pays that fifteen cents difference.

No Sir! Not now, am I ready to vote an income or any other kind of tax. When you get men in charge of states affairs that will support schools and will give the teachers their hard earned money that has already been paid in for them instead of DIVERTING, yes diverting it to high and unused salaries for themselves and such other illegal things, I say then and not till then am I ready to vote income taxes or any other raise in taxes. And I want to again say that when you vote the income tax you will also get a sales tax as soon as they have time to levy it. Probably they will give us the sales tax anyway, but not by my vote.

Well, Mr. Pattillo, I believe you said I would have the voters believe "Our Governor, our legislators, and our other state officials are thieves or crooks at least", and then you add "Will he say they stole the money they owe the teachers".

No, Mr. Pattillo, I don't say they stole the teachers money, I say that you and the other tax payers paid it in for the teachers and the officials took it. I believe when they talk about it, themselves, they say they diverted it. It's like this, Mr. Pattillo, let's say you are working for a big mercantile company and I buy from this company on a credit and get them to finance my hired help on the farm. After a while it is fall of the year (taxpaying time) and I come and pay the money to you to be applied on my account and to pay off all my hired help which has also been charged on your company's books; but instead of crediting my account and paying my help you DIVERT it; that is you pay yourself and all your friends a fat salary, you buy some fine automobiles in the name of the company for your own use, you hire and pay for a lot of unnecessary and unused help just in order to pay off all your obligations; then you come back and tell me that you want me to pay it all over again because you have DIVERTED it instead of paying my hired help or giving me credit for it.

No I didn't say the teachers money was stolen, it was just DIVERTED. However, Mr. Pattillo, in my feeble way of thinking it seems to me, since you have mentioned stealing, that it and this diversion are so close akin that I cannot figure much difference, and so I am going to ask you in your wisdom, are they double first cousins or twin brothers?

And now before we get too far from it, I want to say that I do not criticise all our state officials. I think our representatives in this county and senatorial district are far above the average. I gave special attention to the vote of our Senator and I believe his vote, almost without exception, showed mature deliberation and wise consideration of the matter under discussion.

No sir, I do not stand for the teachers losing one penny of their hard earned salary. They should be paid it with interest and then a bonus should be added for the extra inconvenience caused by the delay in payment of their money. However, the teachers know that this bunch as a whole have not tried to pay them. They have applied the money to their own use. Time and again they have found no trouble to borrow money to pay themselves, their families, political associates and others; while it was utterly impossible for them to borrow a penny for the long overdue salary of the teacher.

I want to thank Mr. Pattillo for his favorable expression against repeal and I want to say to the voter, if you are against repeal come out and vote without fail. If you are not sure that you are against it, ask yourself if liquor will make you or your wife or husband or son or daughter as the case may be; a better individual? Will it make your town, or county, or state a better one to live in? Will it make your churches or schools better? Will it make travel on the highways safer? Will it better mankind in any way? If so, vote for it. Otherwise, it is your duty to yourself, you family, your neighbor, and your country to vote against it.

But listen, Mr. Voter, no matter how you stand on this question come to hear Hon. Horace Wilkinson at the court house, 11 o'clock Saturday, July 15th.

Yours very truly,
V. J. GRAGG.

W. A. GULLEDGE FAVORS AMENDMENTS

To Chilton County Voters:

Every administration since 1907 is responsible for Alabama's debt. This debt is mostly for our school buildings and furniture and for services rendered by our teachers. It is not a question of who made the debt or what it is for, it is Alabama's just debt and must be paid. The State's warrants should be validated by voting for the Warrant Amendment thereby making these warrants negotiable. Vote yes and preserve Alabama's good name.

This debt must be paid and it rests with the voters as to whether they will let those drawing large salaries, professional men charging big fees and holders of tax free securities, pay it or vote down the Income Tax and let the poor wage earners and farmers pay it in the form of a Sales Tax on every article we buy.

The Sales Tax will make poor people poorer while it will not materially affect the wealthy. When the Income Tax has paid Alabama's debt it will then be used to reduce our property taxes.

It is absurd to even think that an Income Tax is a forerunner of a Sales Tax, but the defeat of it makes the Sales Tax a certainty.

Vote yes on the Income Tax and place the tax where it belongs. The Income Tax is not an increase in taxes, but puts a tax on many who are going Scott free at present.

W. A. GULLEDGE,
County Campaign Chairman.

S. L. GIBSON IN FAVOR OF INCOME TAX

Verbena, Ala., July, 10th.

Heaven knows, I wish I had to pay an income tax to the State of Alabama. It is a wonderful State and deserves the full support of every man and woman living within its bounds. I have never been smart enough to make money enough to require the payment of such a worthwhile tax, but there is one thing sure, on July 18th, I shall go to the polls and cast one vote in an effort to compel those more fortunate than I, to return to the State of Alabama a part of their income.

In my opinion, that man or woman in Alabama, who would be subject to an income tax and who votes against this amendment, is a "Thankless Child" who grabs all from his parent-State and returns nothing.

Whatever can be done to pay the school teachers who have labored at a small promised salary, to enlighten the children of our state, I am for it. If men and women of today have any higher ambition than to educate and lift to a high plane of living, the children they have brought into the world, I just cannot imagine what that ambition could be.

Of all the positions or jobs in this nation, especially in the South, the school teacher's job carries with it the greatest responsibility of them all. We inflict upon the school teacher a six-year-old tow-head, often spoiled and in many cases, with bad blood in his veins and expect the teacher to begin moulding this human being toward becoming a president, and yet you can hear many selfish, income and other tax dodgers remark that the teachers are being paid too much money.

Some persons appear to feel they are doing the teacher a great honor to send their child to school, when if the truth is known, they dance a jig of relief when the little whelp is off for the day and under the watchful care of little Miss So and So, who has to sweat blood with the combination of natures mixed up in her room five days a week.

Of all teh men and women who are doing the world's work, the school teacher is the very poorest paid and if there is any doubt about Alabama's paying her teachers everything owed to them, then this once pure State is rapidly beginning to rot and should be ousted from a decent Union of States.

No child on this earth can possibly become truly honorable, truly Godly, or truly worthwhile as a citizen and a preserver of our race unless that child is taught to think when he is very young, and are we willing to have this foundation built for us by hard-working, conscientious school teachers and then be so beastly as to fail to pay the teachers? The school teacher is vastly more important to the life of a nation than the preacher. Teach a child to think and he can see God even without the aid of church or preacher.

The qualified school teacher is a builder of minds. Can anyone name a more responsible calling? There is no higher calling and every man and woman in America should be taxed enough to pay our teachers and pay them well and promptly.

The man or woman who fails to support every issue in the coming election is exactly in line with the poor deluded farmer who refused to plow up a certain percent of his cotton, thereby cutting his own throat and starving his wife and children.

Governor Miller may have made some mistakes (who has not) but how can he accomplish anything for Alabama unless the people who elected him stand by him and hold up his hands.

There are very few greater sins than selfishness. Therefore I would implore every voter in Chilton County and the State to vote a very large Yea on July Eighteenth.

S. L. GIBSON.

F. A. GULLEDGE EXPRESSES ON AMENDMENTS

Verbena, Ala., July 11, 1933.

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

I have been asked by one of the most prominent citizens of Chilton county, to give my views through the Chilton County papers on the Income and other Amendments. I am unalterably and unequivocally in favor of them all, and will so vote on next Tuesday. I do so in what I consider the face of the most meritorious question that has been before the body politic in many years. I entered my endorsement on the Income Tax through the Advertiser more than two years ago, and if you will give me the business, that I may have the profit, I will cheerfully pay the income without question. From the time the United States Income Tax law was passed until times go so hard that I had no income, I paid the income tax most cheerfully. So would I pay a state income tax, cheerfully, if my income warranted it. I paid a poll tax the years I was nineteen, twenty and twenty-one, in Coosa County, under Republican graft, and upon the election of George S. Houston, as governor of Alabama, and the taking charge of the government by the Democrats, my three years of poll tax, to-wit $7.50 was refunded to me. I have never dodged a poll or an ad valorem tax, and know that today I pay at least my part of the taxes imposed by the state and county, city or otherwise. I think the other amendments will take care of themselves, including the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and I cannot be called a toper because I vote for the repeal. Neither am I a tee-totaler, but have lived a sober life, always, yet I am not one of the ones that denies everybody the right to take a dram. I was under the influence of whiskey the time, perceptibly, on February 12th, 1875. Am now eighty-four and I reserve the right, if I could get it, to buy whiskey and use it in moderation when I felt the need of it. On same date of 1875, three Missionary Baptists, one a deacon and one of the best men I ever knew, came to Verbena from Coosa County and when through with our business, bought a half gallon of whiskey, jointly, same to be divided when we got home. It rained and turned cold, caused us to imbibe a little too freely, forcing the other three to apologize to the church, while I was not a member, went Scot free. Now if you get a little whiskey, you have to sneak around like a cur, which I have never done, taking the risk of drinking poison, and ending in your death.

I implore all my friends and other good citizens to consider the above, and ponder them well and go out next Tuesday and help put Alabama on the right track.

I am for Judge Miller, now Governor Miller, stronger every day, for he has fought the fight and kept the faith and on next Tuesday, we are going to crown him with success. Please bear in mind that the income tax only rests on those able to pay it. It will cost the ordinary man nothing, besides that it is just, equitable and will redound to the uplift and advancement of our state.

Yours truly,
F. A. GULLEDGE.

A STATEMENT FROM HON. C. FENN JONES

To The Voters of Chilton County:

A few weeks ago I yielded to the request of some of my friends to offe myself as a candidate for a delegate t the State Convention to be held i Montgomery, Alabama, in connectio with the repeal of the 18th Amendmen to the Constitution of the United State

I do not consider this entirely a part question and have felt inclined to allow my friends and the voters to decide th matter for themselves undisturbed by me, and I still feel that way, but I d desire to say I shall certainly appreciat your vote, whether you are for or agins the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

You understand that all delegates t this Convention are pledged and hono bound to vote according to the way th majority of the people of the Stat vote, that is to say, if the State vote to repeal the Amendment, all delegates regardless of their personal opinio must vote to repeal—should the majority of the voters of the State vot against repeal then all delegates mus vote against repeal.

Therefore, the question at issue i not affected at all by the personnel of the delegates to the Convention, an your choice of the candidates will onl serve to afford one man from Chilto County the honor of attending the Convention, and I am writing especially t assure you that I will greatly appreciat your bestowing upon me this honor. A has been explained in a number of th papers the repeal of the 18th Amendment does not change in any way th prohibition laws of Alabama, but do allow and authorize each state to pass such laws as the individual state ma want on the prohibition question.

Is there anything alarming or fundamentally wrong in that policy of Government?

What right have the people of Alabama to say to the people of Californi that they shall not pass such laws as i best for their interest according to thei own wishes and convictions or to den the same privilege and right to all th other states of the Union? This is th question you are asked to decide o the 18th of this month, and not whethe Alabama shall legalize the sale of whiskey and beer as some people think.

I am perfectly willing for each Stat to govern themselves on this matte and on all other questions of local interest, but if you send me to the Convention, I shall vote the way the majority of the people of Alabama vot whether for or against the repeal of th 18th Amendment.

This being the first time I have eve asked the people to vote for me it ma be interesting to some to know I an asking for a position in which there i no salary, but I shall be grateful fo your vote and pleased to serve you in this instance without pay.

C. FENN JONES.

Tea Honoring Mrs. Frank Gulledge In Verbena.

On Friday afternoon, June 30, at their home in Verbena, Miss Frances Gulledge and Miss Cordelia Gulledge were hostesses at a lovely seated tea, honoring Mrs. Frank Gulledge, a recent bride. Mrs. Gulledge was before her marriage Miss Frances Brown of Maplesville. Twenty-five guests were served at the beautifully appointed tea table, set with Irish lace and silver, and lighted with tall white tapers. The bride's wedding bouquet, a colonial bouquet of pink rose buds and valley lilies, tied with pink tulle, was used as a centerpiece.

Mrs. James B. Fort of Auburn presided at the tea table and was assisted by Miss Evelyn Buford, Miss Fannie Jo Scott, and Miss Evelyn Caffey.

Mrs. W. A. Gulledge assisted her daughters in receiving the guests, while Miss Mary Scott presided at the bride's book, in which each guest wrote her favorite recipe.

The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the use of shaster daisies, pink gladioli and other summer flowers. The honoree was most attractive in pink starched chiffon.

RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish — made only by Carey.

Low Cost...Free Estimate

Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at its last extraordinary session, ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of ninety days from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature at which the amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after the expiration of ninety days from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, the said date being not less than three months from and after the final adjournment of the said session at which the said amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 18th day of July, 1933, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

> ARTICLE XVIII. Section 284. Amendments may be proposed to this constitution by the Legislature in the manner following: The proposed amendments shall be read in the house in which they originate on three several days, and, if upon the third reading three-fifths of all the members elected to that house shall vote in favor thereof, the proposed amendments shall be sent to the other house, in which they shall likewise be read on three several days, and if upon the third reading three-fifths of all the members elected to that house shall vote in favor of the proposed amendments, the legislature shall order an election by the qualified electors of the state upon such proposed amendments, to be held either at the general election next succeeding the session of the legislature at which the amendments are proposed or upon another day appointed by the legislature, not less than three months after the final adjournment of the session of the legislature at which the amendments were proposed. Notice of such election, together with the proposed amendments, shall be given by proclamation of the governor, which shall be published in every county in such manner as the legislature shall direct, for at least four successive weeks next preceding the day appointed for such election. On the day so appointed an election shall be held for the vote of the qualified electors of the state upon the proposed amendments. If such election be held on the day of the general election, the officers of such general election shall open a poll for the vote of the qualified electors upon the proposed amendments; if it be held on a day other than that of a general election, officers for such election shall be appointed; and the election shall be held in all things in accordance with the law governing general elections. In all elections upon such proposed amendments, the votes cast thereat shall be canvassed, tabulated and returns thereof be made to the Secretary of State, and counted, in the same manner as in elections for representatives in the legislature; and if it shall thereupon appear that a majority of the qualified electors who voted at such election upon the proposed amendments voted in favor of the same, such amendments shall be valid to all intents and purposes as parts of this Constitution. The result of such election shall be made known by proclamation of the Governor. Representation in the legislature shall be based upon population, and such basis of representation shall not be changed by constitutional amendments.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 18th day of July, 1933, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 3rd day of May, 1933.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
By The GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama at its last extraordinary session ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held on the first Tuesday after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature at which the amendment was proposed, and

WHEREAS, the said session of the Legislature at which the said amendment was proposed finally adjourned on Friday, April 14, 1933, and the first Tuesday after three months from and after the said final adjournment of the said session of the Legislature is Tuesday, July 18, 1933, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law to be given by a proclamation of the Governor;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 18th day of July, 1933, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

> "Section 213. After the ratification of this Constitution, no new debt shall be created against or incurred by the State, or its authority except to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, and then only by a concurrence of two-thirds of the members of each house of the Legislature, and the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals; provided, the Governor may be authorized to negotiate temporary loans, never to exceed Three Hundred Thousand Dollars, to meet the deficiencies in the Treasury, and until the same is paid no new loan shall be negotiated; (provided, further, that this section shall not be so construed as to prevent the issuance of bonds for the purpose of refunding the existing bonded indebtedness of the State. Provided, further, that this Section shall not be so construed as to prevent the Governor from paying interest at the rate of not exceeding 5% per annum, payable semi-annually from July 1, 1933, on the floating indebtedness of the State at the close of business on September 30, 1932, as shown by outstanding and unpaid warrants drawn on the Treasury, as provided by law, amounting in the aggregate to $16,943,357.12 and items enumerated in an Act of the Legislature number 294, being Senate Bill 272, approved November 9, 1932, all of which are hereby ratified and confirmed.) All warrants and/or instruments issued or to be issued representing such indebtedness shall be a direct obligation of the State, and for the prompt and faithful payment of the principal and interest thereon, the full faith and credit of the State is hereby irrevocably pledged, and such warrants and/or instruments shall be exempt forever from all taxes of every kind. Any Act creating or incurring any new debt against the State, except as herein provided for, shall be absolutely void. To create a sinking fund for the prompt and faithful payment of the floating indebtedness of the State, and interest thereon, the net proceeds of any income tax which may be levied by the Legislature pursuant to law is hereby pledged. To prevent future deficits in the State Treasury, it shall be unlawful from and after the adoption of this amendment for the State Comptroller of the State fo Alabama to draw any warrants or other order for the payment of money belonging to, or administered by, the State of Alabama upon the State Treasury, unless there is in the hands of such Treasurer money appropriated and available for the full payment of the same. In case there is, at the end of any fiscal year, insufficient money in the State Treasury for the payment of all proper claims presented to the State Comptroller for the issuance of warrants, the Comptroller shall issue warrants for that proportion of each such claim which the money available for the payment of all of said claims bears to the whole, and such warrants for such prorated sums shall thereupon be paid by the State Treasurer. At the end of each fiscal year all unpaid appropriations which exceed the amount of money in the State Treasury subject to the payment of the same after the proration above provided for, shall thereupon become null and void to the extent of such excess. Any person violating any of the provisions of this amendment shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine of not exceeding Five Thousand Dollars, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, one or both, at the discretion of the jury trying the same, and the violation of any of the provisions of this amendment shall also be ground for impeachment."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 18th day of July, 1933, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 3rd day of May, 1933.

Get Notice Before Removing Your Cotton

"Do not remove your cotton from production until you receive notification that the Secretary of Agriculture has declared the plan operative and authorized the contraction of acreage."

This was the message sent this week to cotton growers of Alabama who have agreed to cooperate in reducing the cotton surplus by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

He said that the acreage offered must be inspected both before and after the crop is removed by the local committee. "When the Secretary of Agriculture declares the plan operative and authorizes the contraction of acreage, the growers, after being notified, will then proceed to remove the amount offered from production, after which the local committee will again inspect the acreage and certify that the cotton has been removed according to agreement and that the grower is entitled to his rental benefits," he added.

"I feel that it is important to make this announcement for the reason that some growers may proceed to remove their crop before the acreage has been inspected and certified to by the local committee and before receiving notification from the Secretary of Agriculture."

Dr. Duncan also pointed out that it is extremely important that all claims for acre production of cotton be kept at a conservative figure.

"We know of course that many of those who were the first to sign the contracts are among some of our best and most progressive farmers," he said. "Naturally those men use good seed; rotate their crops; fertilize rather heavily, and otherwise use their skill to produce high acre yields. They would be loath to offer this acreage at too great a sacrifice to themselves. However, there are many acres of cotton which we know will not yield so heavily and, in all cases, the grower should play fair with his government."

Now It's Paved To Atlanta, Not A Gap Left

With the pouring on June 30 of the last concrete in the paving of 20 miles of road between Tuskegee and Auburn, a continuous paved highway was at last completed between Montgomery and Washington, and another paved route was provided between the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico.

In making this announcement, R. M. Borwn, resident engineer in charge of the project, said that work is now going forward on the building of shoulders on either side of the paving on this link in the Montgomery-Atlanta Highway, and it will be ready for opening to traffic in about four weeks, cutting out the present detour via Notasulga.

As the last concrete was being poured, he stated, a man from the State Department of Agriculture, whose name he did not know, filled a small bottle with the material, corked it tightly, and volunteered the information before leaving that he intended to send it to President Roosevelt with a letter explaining it was from the final pavement connecting the capital of the nation with the capital of Alabama.

TRAYWICK FAMILY REUNION HELD ON TUESDAY, JULY 4TH

The family of Mr. J. T. Traywick held their annual reunion on Tuesday, July 4th, at the home of Mr. R. G. Culp and family of the Mt. Nebo community. At 9:00 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Traywick and little daughter arrived and from then until 11:00 a.m. was spent in exchange of happy greetings as different members of the family arrived. Then at eleven-thirty o'clock a very delightful table was spread in the shade, near the spring, in the woods not far from the house. The dinner was served picnic fashion with iced tea and lemonade as beverages, and ice cream and cake as dessert.

The afternoon was spent in joyful conversation and happy laughter, with ice cream and lemonade served at intervals.

All members of the family were present except Mr. and Mrs. Leon Brown and three children, Mary Dell, Carolyn and Billy, of Arab, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were absent on account of the illness of two of their children. They were greatly missed by all present. Members of the family who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Traywick, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Traywick and four children, Jim, Robert, Ramon and Sarah, Mr. and Mrs. Hannon Owen and three children, Willie Nell, Carlos and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Culp and five children, Loyd, Carl, Mattie Lee, Burnice and Mary Pearl, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Traywick, Mr. and Mrs. Olen Bice and little son, Winston, Mrs. Jewell Wright and four children, Earl, Herschell, Marie and Dewie Frank, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Traywick and little daughter, Gulma, Mr. Herbert Traywick, Mr. Aaron Traywick and Miss Marzell Traywick.

Other guests outside the family were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Culp, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Culp and daughter, Gertie Mae, Mrs. Dock Broadhead and son, Luther, Mr. Morrie Keen, Miss Louise Cox, and Mr. Johnson Maddox.

This was our seventh reunion, and we all hope to have many more. Everyone voted to have another next year, and we all really do hope that every member of the family can be present.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Picnic A Success

Success spelled the outcome of our Fourth Day celebration. People from all over the county came to help put over the program. It was the largest crowd to come to the Training School in many years, in spite of the fall-like weather.

This day was set aside for school debt day, and it was marvelous to see how the patrons of the school worked to make it a success. Had the sun shown itself, our receipts would have been doubled. It is gratifying to me to think how willingly everybody worked I shall not call any names, because it would take too much space.

Again, it was an opportunity for our people to manifest their ability, to be orderly, law-abiding citizens. Not one minute of trouble was given on that day. It is this type of behavior that will bring us closer to a development of real citizenship.

A Real Loss

As many of you know Russell C. Atkins, assistant principal and director of the Department of Agriculture, was shot and killed last Saturday morning, by a crazed enemy. Prof. Atkins was my teacher and director the greater portion of the time I was at Tuskegee. The student body and faculty looked upon him more or less as a big brother, rather than a big boss. Day after day he was seen converting the entire campus, wearing his khaki shirt and pants and a bix Texas sun hat, somewhat a rare costume for a vice-principal.

To my mind, Atkins was more like Booker T. Washington, in aggressiveness, procedure and ideals than any other man, since the death of the world's greatest Negro educator. He is a reall loss, not only to Tuskegee, but to the Negro race.

Do You Know Lonza Burns?

Well, Lonza is one of those farmers in our community who believes in living at home. He is that type of a fellow who keeps up little noise, yet hard at work at all times. I was over to see him the other day and was impressed with his crop. He has everything growing a fellow needs and plenty of it. Is it not possible for all of us to plant sufficient acreage of the various crops necessary? If we had done that, things would not have been so tight with us. Don't guess at your needs, but figure them out in detail and likewise figure out your acreage needed to produce this amount. That's the only way, folks.

Folks, we can get along without those who drift along from day to day, without ambition or zeal; contenting themselves with minor parts as only cogs in wheels.

MT. NEBO

Our revival begins here next Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Ellisor, of Verbena, will run the revival himself. Everybody come and let's make our revival a soul saving revival.

The cream supper given at the home of Mr. V. C. McKee last Saturday night was a success. We really appreciated the help of those present.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Culp had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Culp and Mrs. Tempie Durbin.

Mr and Mrs. J. M. Culp spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Broadhead, Sr.

Mrs. Mollie Scott and daughter, Era, had as dinner guests Sunday Mrs. Eunice Henley and two children, and Misses Loyd and Mattie Lee Culp.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Smith had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Williams of Sardis community.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelly Gilliland and family spent Sunday with Mr. R. G. Culp and family.

NEW CEDRON

What? Ice cream supper! When? Saturday night, July 15th! Where? New Cedron! We will also have a "Guess Cake" and a cake for the prettiest girl. So all you fellows come and bring a good looking girl. Then if she happens not to be the prettiest girl present, oh well! maybe you're a good guesser. The proceeds will go to the church. Come ! ! ! Who? Why everybody!!!

Misses Rubye and Willadene Collins were the guests of Miss Marie Penton Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. E. E. Edwards and daughter, Lucile, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Charlie Foshee.

Mrs. Oscar Rollison spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. J. L. Penton.

Mr. and Mrs. Duey Hill and little daughter, Irene, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pierce, last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fonza Williams had as their guests the past week end Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Loyd of Billingsley.

Miss Julia Sue Dickinson was the dinner guest of Miss Ruth Lawrence Sunday.

Messrs. Russell and David Langston were the guests of Messrs. Norman and Douglas Lawrence the past week end.

Mrs. Justus Culver is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, this week.

Mr. J. H. Collins was the dinner guest of Mr. J. L. Penton Sunday.

New Cedron second line boys played Samaria at Bethsalem last Tuesday. The scores were: Samaria 5 and New Cedron 6. New Cedron also played Bethsalem that day. The scores were Bethsalem 4, and New Cedron 3. Both of these games were very interesting. Misses Rena, Ressie and Lelia DeVaughn and Delene Owens attended these games.

New Cedron played Samaria here Saturday afternoon. The scores were Samaria 7 and New Cedron 14

A TONIC Laxative

CONSTIPATION, with the annoying symptoms that usually come with it, cuts down organic force and disturbs normal health and well-being. A thorough cleansing of the digestive tract is of great assistance in the removal of sickening constipation symptoms.

When excessive accumulated waste matter disturbs and strains the muscles of the large intestines, rendering them temporarily unable to perform their wave-like evacuating movements, Thedford's Black-Draught is useful in stimulating them to activity, which, again started, should continue regularly until some future disturbance interferes. In this way, Thedford's Black-Draught is one of the TONIC laxatives, tending, as it does, to establish a regular habit of evacuation.

Dark

Streets are dangerous Streets

Dark, dimly lighted streets are an invitation to the holdup man and to accidents. That is why the benefits of good street lighting cannot be reckoned in money alone.

It hampers crime—it reduces accidents—it facilitates traffic movement—it accelerates business—it strengthens property values.

Ally yourself with a movement for "white way" lighting in your city. It is universally conceded that good lighting is a valuable investment in safety and in civic prosperity.

Roosevelt Asks State For Repeal

clear that the platform of the Democratic party adopted last year should be carried out in so far as it lies in our power. The special session of the Congress has already translated into law a great majority of the pledges made.

"One of the pledges of the platform read as follows:

"'We advocate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. To effect such repeal we demand that the Congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to truly representative conventions in the states called to act solely on that proposal.'

"The Congress has acted on this and many of the states are now engaged in holding elections for the conventions proposed.

"Finally, I have made it clear ever since my nomination a year ago that I subscribe to the Democratic platform 100 per cent.

"In view of the fact that I have had so great a number of telegrams similar to yours not only from your state but from Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky and others, I am taking the liberty of giving this message to you and to the press."

President Roosevelt's appeal Saturday was the highlight of the repeal campaign in Alabama and was hailed generally here as indicative that the party leaders and machinery in Alabama backing the repeal fight would be thrown into high gear next week, the final week before the election, July 18.

From state repeal headquarters in Montgomery Saturday came the announcement that Senator John H. Bankhead, who voted for the repeal resolution in Congress, will cast his vote July 18 for repeal.

This information was contained in a letter which he wrote Col. A. M. Tunstall of the States' Rights and Repeal Committee, July 3.

Senator Bankhead's letter expressed a view similar to that voiced by Congressman W. B. Oliver, of the Sixth District, in which he said that he supported repeal because it is a part of the Democratic policy and an integral cog in the plan for national economic recovery.

"The representatives from Alabama, in both House and Senate, favored the submission of the repeal amendment," said Congressman Oliver's recent communication. "Without consulting them, I venture to assert that none of them will say to his constituents that it is wise or advisable to longer retain the eighteenth amendment in the federal constitution."

About 23 per cent of the industry, officials reported, have not signed that agreement. They will be granted hearings this week. If they do not accept, then the government will be ready to demand that they apply for federal licenses to operate. These licenses will require compliance with the agreement, which was made a law by presidential promulgation.

The president's modifications and clarifications of the code left it unchanged as to minimum wages and maximum hours. Nor did they remove the bar against employment of children under 16 or the stipulation that no cotton textile plant may operate its machines more than 80 hours a week.

There is to be a day of full enjoyment promised for all who attend the barbecue at Vermont school building July 15th, 1933. This barbecue is sponsored by the P.-T. A. and all proceeds go on the finishing of the school building. There is only a small sum needed to finish this building and we want to urge the people to come and help us.

We promise a day full of amusement for everyone. Plenty to eat and drink. All lunches sold on depression prices. Remember the date and place, July 15, at Vermont. Following is the program for the day:

9:00-9:30 A.M. Introduction by Mr. Earle Thomas.

9:30-11:00 Speaking and information on the 18th Amendment by Dr. Barton, Rev. B. Lawrence, Dr. Ezell and Judge Reynolds.

11:00-12:00 We are expecting to have Rev. Bentley to deliver us a message.

12:00-1:15 Lunch.

1:15-2:00 Greasy pole climbing, and sack race, and maybe other stunts, as the program committee sees fit to have.

2:00-3:00 Baseball game.

The program might be extended longer if necessary.

Don't forget the date and place, July 15th, at Vermont Junior High school. Everyone is invited and welcomed to come.

ing ad valorem taxes on all property, we commend this income tax amendment to the voters of our County and State.

We realize and believe that the so called "Economy League" is a mere smoke screen by the moneyed interests of the State and nation to defeat paying an equitable, fair and just income tax and thereby carrying their part of the tax burden of the State and nation.

Be it further resolved that we desire to validate instead of repudiate the honest debts of the State of Alabama, most of which are due the school teachers, and we urge that when you go to the polls on July 18, go with the purpose and determination to protect the teachers, schools and children and vote for the validating of our warrants.

Resolved further that we believe that the old warrants are in our judgment just I.O.U.'s. The new warrants in fashion will be like money, they can be used to pay the debts, buy goods and they will maintain the State's honor.

PLANS FINISHED FOR BIG PICNIC

THOUSANDS ARE EXPECTED HERE FRIDAY

Good Program Arranged For Entertainment Of A Big Crowd

Tomorrow is the day for the big county-wide picnic to be held at Boswell's Tourist Camp, about three miles south of Clanton on the Montgomery highway. The program for Friday will begin promptly at 9:30 A.M. with the singing of "America". The crowd is to be welcomed by L. H. Reynolds, Chilton county Judge of Probate, Lee Smith. Mayor of Clanton, and W. M. Wyatt, President of the Clanton Kiwanis Club. Each of the above-named speakers will make a two-minute address.

The principal speakers on the morning program are: Senator John H. Bankhead of Jasper, Alabama and L. N. Duncan, Director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. The chief speaker of the afternoon is to be Congressman W. B. Oliver of the sixth district.

A fiddlers convention is to be held immediately after lunch and prizes are to be given to the best fiddlers. Thruout the program of the day vocal and instrumental numbers will be mixed in to keep things lively and cheerful. The Clanton-Verbena Orchestra is to furnish several numbers throughout the day.

A fashion show is to be given during the course of the day which should prove of interest. Contests for the biggest family and the newest "newly weds" are to be given, and prizes are to be offered.

F. S. (Preacher) Salser, a comedian from Birmingham, who was here last year, will be at the picnic again this year to add to the interest of the program.

The 4-H Club Boys and the Future Farmers of America organizations will have a prominent place on the program of theoccasion. Also, the Home Demonstration agent, Miss Pardue, and the women of the various clubs are to have charge of a part of the program, and, among other things, are to have on display an attractive exhibit, which should prove of interest to all women who attend.

Barbecue, cold drinks and pop corn are to be available to those who wish to buy, and the proceeds are to go to help defray the expenses of the picnic.

Mr. Stapp, Miss Pardue and various clubs and organizations of the county have worked hard to make this a real occasion. It is hoped that everyone will attend and take advantage of this excellent opportunity of entertainment.

Central Singers Resume Operations

The Central Singing Society will resume operations next Sunday afternoon, after a vacation of three months. The meeting will be held at Friendship. the chairman, Prof. O. L. Devaughn, in charge, beginning at two o'clock.

It has been a long time since the society met, so we are sure everyone is eager to hear our bunch together again and do some good singing; this being the case, let's all lend our efforts toward advertising the meeting at Friendship and get a good representative crowd out. Let every church in the society send along a bunch of singers and directors.

There will be a bunch of the Morris-Henson 1934 books on hand to be used and sold to those who want one. Probably there will be some of the Stamps-Baxter books there, too.

Then the next Sunday will be a fifth Sunday and time for the quarterly singing at the court house. Let everybody in the county bear this in mind and let's make this one of the best afternoon singings of the year.

NEGRO CHOIR WILL SING AT COURT HOUSE HERE FRIDAY

Residents of this section will have the privilege of hearing some real negro spirituals on Friday night of this week when Samuel Bryant and his negro choir from the Church of God, near Clanton, will appear in concert.

This takes place at the court house in Clanton at seven-thirty o'clock. There will be no charge for admission, and a small donation from each one present will be asked. The public is cordially invited to hear these songs by this group of negroes.

Five Sent To Kilby From Here Tuesday

Five prisoners were carried to Kilby Prison from this county, as the result of court held here Monday, with Judge F. Loyd Ttate presiding.

ROOSEVELT COTTON PLAN IS A SUCCESS

Consumption Of Cotton Is At Peak With New Record Set

Another successful step in the "new deal" promised the people of the country by the Democratic platform has been made. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced Friday that the cotton acreage reduction plan was a success and that plows would start immediately to plow under a portion of the cotton crop over the 16 cotton producing states.

Cotton Consumption at Peak

Meanwhile, the Census Bureau reported that consumption of cotton by mills during June set a new record, 696,472 bales being spun into cloth and thread by 25,540,504 spindles.

This was more than twice the consumption of mills during June last year, when they used 322,706 bales and when 20,642,966 spindles were active.

It was the highest consumption in any month since records have been kept, beginning in September, 1912. Prior to that, American mills were reported to have been lacking in facilities to consume the record amount of cotton. The highest total consumed in any previous month was in March, 1927—693,081 bales.

As was announced last week by County Agent Stapp, Chilton County went several hundred acres over its assigned quota of 12,000 acres.

When proof of the destruction of the cotton in all the states is forwarded to Washington, checks will be sent out with about $100,000,000 scheduled for distribution in the South during the next six weeks, it was stated.

MAN WANTED IN TEXAS IS CAUGHT HERE BY SHERIFF

Wanted in three different counties in Texas for charges including five for forgery, embezzlement and car theft, J. L. Blackmon was arrested near Jemison by Chilton County officers last week, following a communication from officers in Texas.

Blackmon, who is said to be an ex-convict, left Clanton Monday morning in company with a deputy sheriff and an assistant district attorney for Wacc, Texas.

Cold drinks and refreshments will be served on the grounds, also games and other entertainment will be given during supper hours from 5:30 p.m. until 8 p.m. The 4-H boys are raising money to send boy or boys to World Fair in Chicago sometime in August. Come out and help Jackson Chapel boys make the trip.

MAN NARROWLY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY IN ACCIDENT

Harry Brown, who gave his address as Indianapolis, Ind., narrowly escaped serious injury Monday afternoon, when the car he was driving left the highway about two miles south of Clanton, jumped an embankment, struck a telephone pole and a large road sign.

The car was damaged considerably and was brought to Clanton by a wrecker from Bill's Garage. Mr. Brown stated he was enroute from Tampa, Fla., to his home in Indianapolis. He was not injured seriously. He stated that a bass fiddle which he valued at $300 was in the car and was completely demolished. Mr. Brown left his car here for repairs and proceeded on to his home Monday night.

FARMERS MUST GET OFFICIAL ORDER TO CUT

Stapp Warns Farmers Not To Plow Up Cotton Until Given Notice

Farmers of Chilton County who signed contracts agreeing to reduce their cotton acreage this year, are being warned not to start to plowing up their cotton until they have been given official notice to do so, according to County Agent Stapp.

Mr. Stapp stated that contracts from this county are being forwarded to Washington as fast as possible and official notice must come from Washington before any steps are taken to carry out these contracts. Otherwise, it was pointed out, if a farmer plowed up his cotton before being given notice, there is a possibility that his contract might become lost or otherwise not given the proper investigations, which would result in the farmer possibly losing his cotton.

Up to Tuesday of this week, there were 3,122 farmers of this county who have signed contracts to take out of production 13,012 acres of cotton. Mr. Stapp stated that they expected to begin receiving contracts from Washington during the latter part of this week and orders to comply with the contracts. Contracts are still being accepted, Mr. Stapp stated.

HIGHLIGHTS OF ROOSEVELT'S LIFE IN PICTURES HERE SOON

Remarkable Film At Wadesonian Theatre Next Monday And Tuesday Shows For First Time A President In The Making

Highlights of the public life of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, from the time when he first thought of a career in statecraft to first days in the Presidency are incorporated in a two-reel motion picture subject released by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and produced by International, and to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton on Monday and Tuesday, July 24 and 25.

The purpose of the new screen release is to present a concise, authentic and dramatic record of the man whose accession to the highest office in the country during one of its most critical economic periods has focused international attention on the Washington White House.

Motion picture sequences showing Mr. Roosevelt as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, as Vice-Presidential candidate in 1920 with James M. Cox, as Governor of New York and as President are linked with scenes from the earlier life of the nation's new Chief Executive. Family snapshots, domestic scenes and other human interest material will be found in the new film subject, which aims to erpress the "action" personality of the new President in relation to the various environments and increasing responsibilities against which he has been placed.

Not only does the new release present a novel pictorial and talking picture record of the thirty-second President, but it also shows intimate glimpses of such other public personalities as Alfred E. Smith, Josephus Daniels and the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Producers of the short subject stress the fact that it is a comprehensive yet brief biographical record of Roosevelt's rise to international prominence, with emphasis on factors which appear to have been turning points or motivating forces in bringing him to the White House.

VOTING IS LIGHT AT POLLS TUES.

Named As Delegate Of Rural Carriers

The Alabama Rural Letter Carriers Association met last week in Birmingham at the Tutwiler Hotel and selected R. L. Duffy of Mountain Creek as their delegate-at-large to the national convention which will be held in Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. Duffy has been a rural carrier from the Mountain Creek post office for a number of years and his election to this important place will meet with a great deal of pleasure throughout the county among other rural mail carriers.

RISE IN PRICES HAS BECOME A DECIDED FACT

Clanton Merchants Receiving Notices Of Sharp Upturn In Prices

That prices on clothing, food of all kinds, automobile tires, and many other items, are taking on a great increase, is no longer a rumor but is a fact.

With the advent of higher wages in all lines of industry, the advance in cotton prices, wheat, etc., prices on the manufactured product have also advanced. A representative of the News, calling on several merchants of Clanton found that flour, meat, lard, feed stuffs for stock, clothing, shoes have advanced in price to such an extent that purchases made from merchants who bought before the rise in price is found to be wise.

Hills Store says that they have received notice of advance in price on over one hundred and fifty items carried in their stock, while the A & P Store advises the same thing. Culver's I. G. A. Store is also feeling the rise in prices on items they carry in stock, while The Leader has been continually receiving notices of advancing prices on clothing, etc.

These advancing prices are due to the recent code being adopted by the different industries, giving their employees higher wages, and due to the increase in the price of cotton, wheat, leather and the raw products.

Several of the merchants of Clanton still have on hand a large stock of goods purchased before the recent rise and are still holding the former low price. They advise that as soon as their present stock is disposed of, they will be forced to comply with the new and higher price.

MISS FOSHEE WEDS MR. S.J.M. WEBB AT QUIET CEREMONY

A marriage uniting two prominent families of the county, and which came as a surprise to the people of this section, took place on Wednesday of last week when Miss Eula Foshee became the bride of Mr. S. J. M. Webb at the home of the Rev. B. Lawrence, with the latter reading the vows.

The bride is a sister of Mr. Howard Foshee, former superintendent of education of this county, and is well known in her community, the Littlejohn community, where she is listed as one of the popular residents.

Mr. Webb is one of the county's prominent citizens. Being a well-to-do farmer and a member of the county board of education, he is prominently connected with civic and religious affairs of the countf. He is serving his second term as a member of the county board of education, and is clerk of the Chilton County Baptist Association. Mr. and Mrs. Webb are receiving htarty congratulations and best wishes from their many friends, and the News joins in this well wishing for this couple. They will make their home at the Foshee place in the Littlejohn community.

Mr. Martin attends this meeting not only for his own interest, but in capacity of his office as secretary of the State Funeral Directors Association.

INCOME TAX AMENDMENTS GET VICTORY

Repeal Defeated In County With Decided Victory Over The State

While not all the boxes in the county have been heard from at the time the News goes to press, it is indicated that the income tax and other amendments to the constitution are given a victory in the county, while the vote on repealing the 18th Amendment indicates that it was defeated here

Beat Four, with four boxes, which is Clanton, gave an unofficial margin for the income tax of 39, the vote being 291 for and 247 against. This is a decided change of opinion compared to the vote on the income tax of 1932 which was a total of 519 for the tax and 2137 against it, in the entire county. The unofficial count for Beat Four on the 18th Amendment was [illegible] in favor of repeal and 457 against.

According to reports from the daily press, it is indicated that the repeal of the 18th Amendment was given a victory over the state and that the [illegible] amendments were also given approval by the voters.

Unofficial returns on boxes heard from in this county up to the time the News goes to press, are as follows:

Dief's Cafe Bought By L. P. Easterling

Announcement of the change in ownership of Dief's Cafe was made Tuesday morning when it was known that L. P. (Leonard) Easterling had purchased this place of business from L. E. Diefenderfer.

Dief's Cafe, located just across the street from Dief's Service Station, has grown to be one of the popular eating places in Clanton, since its opening sometime ago. Its neatness and excellent maner of serving short orders and regular meals, is well known and has made many customers.

Connected with Leonard will be his brother, DeWitt. Both these men are experienced cafe operators, having been in this line of business for many years, and being at one time operators of The Dixie Cafe. Each week in the News there will be an invitation to some fortunate couple to dine at Dief's Cafe as guests of the cafe. Watch the News for this invitation. The first one appears this week.

Destroy Fire Traps --- Build Now

The amazing decline in property values has caused many owners to allow homes and places of business to fall into extremely poor condition.

No attitude could be more in error. Buildings in a state of disrepair are wide open invitations to fire. They are a constant menace to the community and the neighborhood. Insurance losses are paid on the basis of today's property values, which in most instances are far below original cost.

It is in the interest of every property-owner to maintain buildings modernized and in good condition, free from accumulations of rubbish.

These things can be done now at the lowest cost in decades. They not only help to eliminate the chance of fire, but give the owner needed improvements at rock-bottom bargain prices—prices which won't be in effect much longer. Best of all, the expenditures made provide needed employment, both in the home community and in industries supplying building materials. They help stimulate purchasing power—the great national need of the moment.

Remember that it's cheaper to keep a building in repair than to put up a new one when it has entirely gone to seed or been destroyed by fire—and remember too that jobs are better and cheaper than charity.

The County-Wide Picnic This Week.

If County Agent Stapp is going to pull a county-wide picnic every year in July, someone suggested that we should make it a county holiday, officially and otherwise. Well, that might be a good suggestion, because that is really what it amounts to.

Tomorrow we hope to see all the people who possibly can, be in attendance at the second county-wide picnic just below Clanton. The News is going to close its doors Friday so that our employees can join in on that picnic.

The New Deal In Alabama

Fifteen thousand new jobs in textile mills have been created in Alabama.

Next Monday 15,000 Alabama cotton mill workers will find brand-new jobs with higher wages and shorter hours.

Thus comes the first direct step of the New Deal into Alabama.

And business had begun moving upward even before the first of the Industrial Recovery codes had been okehed by the Federal Government.

Cotton—the basis of wealth in Alabama—holds its chin high in the air.

Cotton farmers will get more money for their product.

Cotton mill owners will receive more money for the finished product.

Farm labor will receive higher wages.

Textile mill workers will receive higher wages.

More money will be spent with merchants, and shopkeepers.

Up in North Alabama where the well-being of the natives depends on the making and marketing of steel and the digging and selling of coal, unemployed men are going back to work.

The Industrial Recovery codes governing the steel and coal industries have not yet been drawn.

But revival already has begun in those major industries.

Birmingham, one of the most depressed cities in the country, is awakening from a long business siesta.

And up in the Muscle Shoals district business men, farmers, and the unemployed await the beginning of the Federal Government works program.

The New Deal is officially in Alabama.

It means Men at Work!

Important indicator of conditions in general is electric power production. For several months it has shown consistent improvement. During May there was a 4 per cent rise over April, whereas the normal change is about a 2 per cent drop. Steel plants have also shown themselves immune this year to the usual seasonal slump, and July started with no indications of a let-down. Only moderate slackening is forecast for the automobile industry—sales touched the 1,000,000 mark for the first six months of the year, exceeding the most sanguine hopes of producers. Not since 1930 has there been a better half-year showing.

Another major industry which is feeling the stimulus of recovery is shoes. Output has been consistently ahead of last year, and it is believed that May production reached a record for recent months.

Reorganization of the railroads will await exploration of possibilities for operating economies. This is the attitude of Joseph Eastman, Federal Co-ordinator. He has indicated a score of fields where reductions may be obtained. Examples: Joint use of terminals; unnecessary passenger or freight service; waste in repair expense; unduly low charges for warehousing and similar services; waste in use of equipment such as might be eliminated by pooling arrangements; etc. Many of the projected economies have been hitherto impossible because of law and regulatory practices.

So far this year railroad traffic has improved. On several important roads business is 30 to 40 per cent ahead of last year. The railroad equipment industry, completely in the doldrums for years, feels optimistic.

What Has The Democratic Administration Meant?

Newspapers all over the country are giving a great deal of space to the activities of the new and Democratic national administration. They are supporting the administration in every way possible. They are telling of the many things that President Roosevelt and his assistants are doing for the people, for industry and toward bringing the country back to a normal standing, as well as giving immediate relief.

But what about this publicity? Let's delve into some things and see if anything is really being done. Four months have gone by since the Republican party lost its hold in Washington and many of the states, and the Democratic party gained control.

Six months ago, before the Democrats went into office, the price of cotton was down to a level that it was impossible for a farmer to raise cotton and clear a sufficient amount of money to buy his clothes and food. It took all he could get for his cotton to pay the fertilizer bill, if it would even do that.

Six months ago, and longer too, thousands of young men were walking the streets and highways, looking for a job, and many were even looking for a bite to eat. On many of these young men, there were families dependent.

Now, what do we find? The quotation on cotton Saturday was over ten cents per pound, and as long as cotton is at that price a farmer can grow it and make a little money for himself and his family. We are still facing a grave problem of unemployment, but not so grave as it was several months ago. Thousands of young men have been given places in reforestation camps at a salary per month and board. These camps have taken these young men, out of work, given them good solid food, physical examinations, fresh air and plenty of exercise. Their families are receiving a great part of the monthly salary back at home. And all through an act of the Democratic form of government.

While we realize that the people of Chilton County gave their support to President Roosevelt and the Democratic administration, and that they are continuing with this support and cooperation, we are merely trying to show these supporters that they are being given a share of the program inaugurated and being pushed by the Democrats at the helm of our government.

Lest we forget, let us call attention to the fact that textile mill workers have been given a substantial increase in wages, almost twice the amount heretofore received per week.

Highway Work Should Be Pushed

Road building is one of the enterprises that goes far to spread labor and every pending undertaking of this nature should be carried forward with the utmost speed.

A large part of the money spent on highways goes to make up payrolls, the funds reaching not only those actually engaged in road building, but thousands of others who are engaged in producing the materials that enter into construction.

Thus the money goes in large part where it does the most good along the lines of restoring prosperity, and this should be a powerful incentive, aside from the great benefits that flow from completed highways.

While the funds for new road construction are widely distributed, the South comes in for a liberal share, Alabama being allotted $8,370,133; Georgia $10,091,185; Louisiana $5,828,591; Mississippi $6,978,675; North Carolina $9,522,293; South Carolina $5,459,165; Tennessee $8,492,619; Texas $24,244,024 and Virginia $7,416,757.

The prompt expenditure of sums like this will have a highly vitalizing effect and no unnecessary time should be lost in getting every practical job under way.

"The Republican Party Left Him, He Didn't Leave It"

A certain well-known and influential farmer who resides in a county known as a Republican county, and who has been voting the Republican ticket up to the presidential election, was talking with a Democrat about present and past conditions. Here's something along the line they were talking about:

"Come in, Mr. So and So. How are you getting along these days?" asked the Democrat.

"I'm doing fairly good now, thank you. Say, this fellow that you Democrats put up for president is sure making things hum, ain't he?"

"You bet he is. By the way, I understand that you came over and helped us put him in office too. I want to congratulate you on that step. I don't believe you have had any reason for regretting your vote, have you?"

"Not one day. And I'll tell you another thing, and I'm shooting straight too. I've crossed over on your side and intend to stay. I've had enough of this rough road with the Republican party."

"Well, I'm glad to hear you say that. I believe you will find that the Democratic party is really the party for the people now and that our Democratic administration has done something for us."

"Yep, I'm convinced of that all right. I'm not saying I've left the Republican party. The Republican party just went off and left me."

"By the way, Mr. ...., can you tell me anything the Republican party has done for you?"

"No, I can't."

"Has the Republican party ever given you anything to help you get along and make the future look a little brighter for you?"

"No, they haven't given me one thing, and not only that, but I don't believe they ever tried to do anything for us farmers."

"Well, that's not right, Mr. .... You farmers are the backbone of our country. Now, let me ask you some more questions. Has the Democratic party done anything for you?"

"Yes sir. I believe that the price of my cotton this year will be high enough so that I can come out and have a little money to spend. And I believe we are going to get some real relief from our mortgages."

"The Democratic party is trying to do something for you all. So far, it is doing everything it promised to do, so if you fellows will stick with it, we'll come through all right."

"Well, I gotta be going. I'm coming back to see you again sometime, and you can mark me and my family down as Democrats from now on. I've just begun to wake up and see things a little better. Good day."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

One of the best loved Christian physicians in South East Alabama walked out of the hospital and followed me to my car. What he said to me is worth passing on. Said he, "Preacher, we are living in strange times. People are not repenting because of the pressure of these hard times. They want to blame some one for their depleted purses, and they have murder in their hearts toward anyone on whom they can place the blame. I am amazed when I see the wet wave that is sweeping the country. What can we hope for when a civilized people want more whiskey to flow through the channels of business, politics and society? I was called not long since to treat a woman of middle life who had been on a drunk, and she asked me why people were fool enough to drink and I frankly told her that it was because they wanted to kill the sense of right and wrong in their own heart. Some giddy young women may drink because they think it smart, but when a woman of your age drinks it is because yau wanted to do something that your conscience told you not to do, and you drank because you hoped that whiskey would destroy that voice. That woman trembled like a leaf when I told her that." Then he added, "Parson, I am now sixty-six years of age and I tell you frankly that I have never known whiskey to do any man any good, and I have never known any man who drank it or dealt in it for five years. when it did not do him some positive harm." These are not the words of a preacher, but the words of a noted physician. I pressed his hand in mine and said, "God bless you Doctor, you are as true as the truth of God." Certainly nothing can be more strange than for wet politicians to ballyhoo on the falsehood that more Beer and rum will bring more money into the hands of the needy, and then succeed in deceiving the mind of the public. To men who are thinking soberly and in the fear of God, whether they be doctors, bankers, or preachers, the breakers are just ahead of our ship of state. Kink Whiskey is sitting in the saddle, and holding the helm of state, and it won't be long before we are on the crags, if he is not dethroned.

While visiting in a country home the father and I decided to walk out and look over a part of his growing crop. We walked down to the front gate, and after closing it behind us we heard an appealing voice saying, "Papa, please open the gate and let me go wid-oo." His little boy was behind us, and had followed us to the gate without our knowledge. Parents, your children are following you. It matters much as to where you are leading them. Listen, are you leading your children heavenward or hellward. They are saying to you, "Papa, Mama, I is going wid-oo." How terrible to see parents leading their little ones down to darkness and death. How blessed to see parents leading their children to heaven and life.

A visitor went into a factory where bells were being made. He stood in an inquisitive manner, and finally asked, "What are you men making?" He was informed that they were making bells. His second question came, "What does it take to make a bell?" One of the men was equal to the situation and replied, "All that it takes to make a bell is a lot of brass and a long tongue." I have often heard this statement, "She is the belle of the community, and a look at the belle would convince me that all that it took to make a belle was "A lot of brass and a long tongue." To make a real belle, there should be a lot of the real gold of character and a tongue of real silver.

The gospel does not make a man puerile. To accept the gospel is the way to real manhood. When a man is genuinely religious he is far from being a pussillanimous coward. The Christian religion gives a man courage, but it takes the strike of the rattlesnake out of him. It takes the bite of the bulldog out of his nature. It lifts him above the kick of the mule, the butt of the goat and the cut and the curses of the town bully. For a man to "Fight at the drop of a hat" is to be brutish and not courageous. To be a Christian is the correct way to real manhood.

SHAFT TO AMUNDSEN

San Francisco has paid tribute to a great explorer by erecting a tall granite shaft in Golden Gate park in memory of Roal Amundsen, who discovered the South Pole in 1911.

Amundsen was a native of Norway, where he was born in 1872, and became a sailor at 21. In addition to his discovery of the South Pole, he also made two trips to the North Pole, one in an airplane and the other in a dirigible; he discovered the north magnetic pole; was the first to make the northwest passage from Europe to Alaska, and was the third navigator to make the northeast passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In 1928, after Amundsen had announced his retirement from active exploration, Nobile's expedition to the Arctic in a dirigible met with disaster. Amundsen set out by air to rescue Nobile, but perished in the attempt, and was never heard from again.

The San Francisco monument will serve to remind coming generations of one of the most intrepid adventurers the world has ever seen, whose contributions to science were among the most notable that have been derived from polar exploration.

AGRICULTURE

Many fungi and other organisms which are the cause of plant disease attacn only certain plants and soon die out in the soil if other crops are planted on the land or rotation of crops is practiced.

The length of time the disease organisms will live over in the soil in the absence of the crop it attacks has not been determined for many diseases. Soil infection for most diseases is a minor factor after a two-year period in which crops not susceptible to the disease organism are grown. The scab of potatoes and wilt of cotton and of other plants are known to live more than two years in the soil.

Reynolds and Killough determined the percentage of cotton killed by root rot under different cropping systems. They found as an eight-year average that cotton grown continuously had 33.7 per cent of the plants killed, while a three-year rotation of cotton, corn, and oats reduced this loss to 6.7 per cent.

The complete removal and destruction of diseased plants from fields, particularly in the case of those diseases where the trouble is commonly carried from one plant to another, is sometimes necessary in disease control. Many diseases of crops plants have alternate wild hosts on which the disease may carry over during a portion of its life cycle.

The use of clean seed, free of disease is also a very important control measure. The use of disease-free seed is in many cases the most feasible method of controlling disease. It is advocated particularly in the control of rots of corn in which germination tests and observation of the ear and stalk are advocated; also the treatment of seed corn before planting and the treatment of small grain for smut and other seed-borne diseases.

Treating seed corn for the control of seed-borne diseases has been tried extensively, various mercuric and copper compounds being used in liquid and dust forms. Considerable improvement in the compounds sold has been made and no doubt these will continue to be modified as our knowledge of their effect increases.

There are a number of other kinds of smut that attack small grain, but space will not permit me to give them and their control in full details.

Next week's topic will be "Rotation of Crops."

BEES AND OTHER THINGS

There are many people who afraid of bees and will not even ent tain a thought of working with th One man said to me, "I like what th make, but I don't like them." There is a reason for this attitude. It is th lack of the proper knowledge and appreciation of the honey bee. Even t black or German bee is not so bad when properly understood and managed. Let us consider then, the proper manag ment of bees.

First, read all you can get from Government Bee Bulletins and the boo on bee culture entitled ABC and XYZ Medina, Ohio. Also Bee Culture.

Second, get first hand information by studying the bees themselves. Mak up your mind to exercise less temper than the bees do in case they should get mad. By all means avoid quic and careless movements. About thre or four minutes before you open t top gently blow a few puffs of smok in the entrance. This gives the be warning and they fill themselves w honey so they will be prepared for th emergency (not by stinging you) but they are in a much better attitude when they are filled. People are j a little that way. It is said that best way to man's heart is by way his stomach. Well, I do not know about that. Going on—by proper use of smo one will be able to control bees to best advantage. It is said that much smoke is worse than none at This is certainly true. A little, or proper amount, tends to quieten and the bluff on her, but too much infuriates and forces them into confusion.

Let us take proper precautions keep our colonies as strong as we for the fall honey-flow, if there is one The bees will need the greater part of the fall crop for winter stores.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Observations

Crops are beginning to make the farmers feel better since the falling weather started in. Many could be heard murmuring about the dry weather a few weeks ago. Now it is just opposite. Well, it's hard to satisfy everybody, so nature has long since learned to take its course.

The ten or twelve farmers in the sweet potato and corn contests are making a good showing. I hope they will continue until the harvest.

Here It Is Again

Some twelve or fifteen months ago I wrote an article in the local papers on the care of work stock. Due to the fact that farmers are plowing under their cotton and so little has been done toward the production of ample feed stuffs, I am a bit inclined to remind them again: "The Work Stocks' Plea to Its Master." I am fat and fine at this time and I am wondering if you are planning on producing 90 bushels of corn for me this year; you know I am very fond of corn, but I like a change in my grain feed some time. As a little extra, what about a little plot of oats, rye, soybeans, kaffir corn or some other small grain? I can hardly get along without, at least two tons of hay. Most any kind of hay will be pleasingly accepted; Johnson grass, alfalfa, Sudan grass, peanut hay, pea vine hay, vetch or Austrian peas make a fine feed for me. I am sure you can grow some of these crops, because I have seen them grow in Chilton County. Then, too, I am an Alabama guy and I want you to stand by me (I'll make a good crop for you.)

Things didn't go so well with me last year. I was a little bit puny almost all the year. My master bought a box of stock powder for me. Now, you know, I can't make a whole year on stock powder, but I did notice some mighty good directions on the box. Here is what I saw: "Feed in clean trough, free from manure; give ample grain and hay; give clean, fresh water and keep salt in trough at all times; examine teeth once each year; keep feed in good condition; curry and brush daily; keep stock in roomy stable; let stock have access to lot in favorable weather; and give two tablespoons of stock powder a day." Would you be surprised if I told you that my master followed all of these directions? Well, here is what he did: He overlooked all except the last one. Now, I have only horse sense, but I know you can and are going to do more for me this year.

Next to my eating and health comes my pleasure. Please give me a nice place to roll after my day's work is done. If I could spend Sundays and rainy days grazing in a good pasture I'd feel much better. I really get tired in a dry lot with my head over the fence. Just before I close I must offer my prayer:

To thee, my master, I offer my prayer: Feed me, water and care for me and when the day's work is done provide me with shelter, a clean dry bed and stall wide enough to lie down in comfort. Talk to me, your voice often means as much to me as the reins. Pet me sometimes that I may serve you more gladly, and learn to love you. Do not jerk the reins and do not whip me when going up hill. Never strike, beat or kick me when I do not understand what you mean, but give me a chance to understand you. Watch me, if I fail to do your bidding, see if something is not wrong with my harness or feet.

Examine my teeth when I do not eat. I may have an ulcerated tooth and that, you know, is very painful. Do not tie my head in an unnatural position or take away my best defense against flies and mosquitoes by cutting off my tail.

And finally, oh, my master, when my useful strength is gone, do not turn me out to starve or freeze or sell me to some cruel owner to be tortured and starved to death, but do thou, my master, take my life in the kindest way; and your God will reward you here and hereafter. You will not consider me irreverent if I ask this in the name of Him who was born in a stable. Amen.

VOICE VISITS BY TELEPHONE GAINING FAVOR

T. E. Harris
DISTRICT MANAGER
SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Families are fast discovering that the least expensive and most convenient way to visit with out-of-town relatives and friends is by telephone. It is just like being there in person.

Many people say they find a telephone visit once or twice a month keeps family ties alive and warm.

For example, an elderly couple living in Alabama have a married daughter in Nashville, another in Atlanta and a son in New Orleans. It is arranged for the son to call back home the first Sunday of each month, one daughter on the second Sunday and the other on the third.

It is surprising how little these voice visits cost. By using night station-to-station service you can talk 150 miles for about 50c.

If you have sons or daughters living in other cities try this plan. The operator will tell you the rate to any place.

Farmers say that long distance service is a blessing for them, too. They use it to sell their produce. Recently a farmer said a single telephone call made him many times the cost of his telephone service.

TELEPHONE'S MESSAGE

Merchants say that the service enables them to make profitable trades that would be lost if they had to rely on slower methods.

Probably nowhere is telephone service more appreciated and valued than in rural sections. It is depended on for so many things and costs so little in comparison to the advantages it affords.

Would you like to know how the telephone was invented — how the Bell System was organized — how and why it has grown to a world-wide system, and many other interesting things? Write or call the telephone office for the 26-page illustrated book, The Telephone's Message. It will be mailed free.

SICK HEADACHE

Many cases of SICK HEADACHE are due to constipation. If you have headache that is due to constipation, take Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT for refreshing relief.

"I have taken BLACK-DRAUGHT, when needed, for about 15 years," writes Mr. J. W. Cooper, of Longview, Texas. "I first began to use it for sick headache that seemed to come from constipation.

"I would suffer about twenty-four hours with these headaches. I found out that BLACK-DRAUGHT would help me, so that is what I took. I am glad to recommend it to others, for this trouble, for it will give relief."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT is a purely vegetable laxative, preferred by thousands of men and women because it is so effective and economical.

For CHILDREN, get the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Thedford's Black-Draught, in 25¢ & 50¢ bottles.

CARD OF THANKS

As it is impossible to see everyone personally who helped us during our trouble, we wish to take this means to thank each and everyone who so willingly and faithfully helped us during the illness of our wife and mother.

The neighbors and friends have been so good to come and help in every way they could, and we assure everyone who helped in any way that it was highly appreciated, and we will never forget your kindness. We also wish to thank those who visited mother while she was in the hospital and those who sent flowers.

It is indeed a comfort to know we have friends who will stand by in time of sickness and trouble to help and cheer along life's way. Especially do we thank Dr. Arthur Johnson, Dr. David S. Moore, the other doctors and nurses at South Highland Infirmary, and Dr. R. B. McNeil for their faithful services. May the Lord bless each one who helped in any way.

—N. A. Dennis, Doris and Irene.

Marcelle Wilder Has Interesting Letter On Camp

Some Local Boys Of C. C. C. Are Located In Camp Near Brewton, Ala.

Brewton, Ala., July 14, 1933.

Chilton County News, Clanton, Ala.,
Gentlemen:

This acknowledges receipt of your letter of a few days ago, received at Fort McClellan, Alabama, and to thank you for the complimentary subscription to your paper, which certainly is helpful to me and some of my friends who want to know the goings-on in Chilton County.

The writer, through the assistance of Miss Austin and other friends in Chilton County, entered the Civilian Conservation Corps April 29th, 1933, at Fort McClellan, and was enrolled with the 464th Company, the second company to be organized in this work at Fort McClellan.

After remaining there in that Company for approximately 30 days I was transferred to Headquarters Detachment, District "D", serving as electrician under the Post Electrician, which continued until June 28th.

All CCC conditioning was completed shortly before that date and the members of the Headquarters Detachment were released and transferred to Company 2403, at Brewton, Alabama, excepting a small number of clerical men retained for the Headquarters service of the district.

Our camp at Brewton, Alabama, is located on the site of the Escambia County Fair grounds less than one mile from the downtown district. The site is practically level and contains forty acres of land, being bordered partly by Burnt Corn Creek. Quarters are being erected for two years service.

Most of our work these two weeks in camp has been done in building the camp, roads, clearing extra space, building baseball field, etc. We expect to begin work in the forest within probably a week. A detachment of men is surveying the forest to be improved, and when this is done, fire lanes, watch towers, bridges and telephone lines will be erected.

The City of Brewton, Alabama, has made the entire Company of men feel cordially welcome. The American Legion Post No. 79, Brewton, Alabama, has done many things to make our beginning here quite pleasant. July 4th we were honored with a great picnic, dancing and skating. We have been also admitted to baseball games when wearing uniform, and the business houses have been kind in accepting accounts with the men of the Conservation Corps. It is pleasant to be a citizen of Brewton.

The writer extends greetings to Miss Kitty Clyde Austin and her assistants, and William A. Norris, of Thorsby, joins me in thanking you for our subscription to the Chilton County News. Henceforth the mailing address will be "Company 2403, Civilian Conservation Corps, Brewton, Alabama."

With best wishes to the Editor and the new boss, I am,

Yours very truly,
MARCELLE WILDER.

OAK GROVE

Everybody in our community is having plenty of ripe watermelons and peaches.

Brother Nabors filled his regular appointment at this place Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

Miss Willie Mae Glass will conduct Wednesday evening prayer services this week.

Messrs. Grady and Russell Sutley and Mr. D. S. Richards spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay entertained the members of the Intermediate B. Y. P. U. at their home Thursday night.

Friends of Mrs. Grady Lewis were grieved to hear of her death Monday afternoon. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved ones in their sorrow. Mrs. Lewis was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley.

Our singing school is progressing nicely under the management of Mr. Sam Collins.

Everybody remember our revival begins the 5th Sunday. Bro. Nabors will be assisted by Bro. Green.

Quite a number of people from Oak Grove attended the singing at Mt. Pleasant and report a very enjoyable time.

IN MEMORY

On Saturday night, June 17, 1933, the death angel swept through our midst and bore the spirit of our precious wife, mother and friend, Mrs. Mary Anna Patterson, to realms of eternal glory.

She was born near Natchez, Miss., March 5, 1877, the daughter of George William and Mary (Martin) Blackburn. While yet a child, she lost her mother and later her father. She was then brought to Chambers County, Alabama where she was reared by relatives.

On August 1, 1895 she was married to Thomas Franklin Patterson, and to this union were born eight children, six boys and two girls; one girl died at the age of five.

Mrs. Patterson received a hope in Christ early in life and joined the Christian church in 1895. In the year 1900, she, with her husband and children, moved to Chilton county, Alabama where they made their home. On February 9, 1913, she united with the Primitive Baptist church at Bethel, later moving her membership to Zion's Rest church of the same faith and order, to which she remained a staunch and faithful member until death called her home.

Mrs. Patterson had been in declining health for several years, and on April 13, 1933, at Hubbard's Hospital, Montgomery, Alabama, she underwent an operation for something which later proved to be cancer. After treatment of four week's duration she was brought home and nursed by kind and loving hands of the family, relatives and friends. During her illness, her wonderful faith in God, her fortitude and kindness never wavered. We feel that everything in the power of faithful doctors, nurses, relatives and friends was done to stay the hand of death, but God in His tender mercy called, "Come home," and she sweetly obeyed the call.

Her life was a cheerful one of good works with a strong faith in God, which will ever live in the memory of those who knew her. Her husband has lost his dearest earthly friend and companion; the children all that is embraced in the word "Mother." We cannot weep as for one who had no hope, for we have the sweet assurance that with mother, who was unafraid, that "all is well." She sleeps in sweet peaceful rest to suffer no more.

She was laid to rest June 19, at Bethel church amid a large gathering who mourn with the bereaved family. Funeral services were conducted by Elder J. W. Howell, ably assisted by Elder B. F. House and E. B. Tucker of Phoenix City and Clanton, respectively. Martin and Sons were in charge.

Surviving Mrs. Patterson are her husband, T. F. Patterson; six sons, Byron of Jacksonville, Fla., Jesse, Charlie Franklin, Horace, and Dewey, of Verbena; and one daughter, Velma, also of Verbena; and six grandchildren.

MRS. CHARLIE PATTERSON.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. J. T. COOK, JULY 11TH

Funeral services were held at Brooksville Baptist church on Tuesday, July 11th, for Mrs. Paralee Wells Cook, wife of the late J. T. Cook, a prominent citizen of Brooksville, Miss.

Mrs. Cook died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Wilkins, after an illness of twelve hours, caused by burns received from a high-power electric light wire, which she contacted as she stepped from her car Sunday afternoon on returning home from a visit to friends.

Rev. C. O. Estes, her pastor, assisted by Rev. R. D. Pearson, of Macon, and Rev. R. T. Hollingsworth, conducted the services.

The deceased was 76 years of age, having been born March 9, 1857, at Verbena, Ala. When nine years old she was converted, the Rev. Jas. A. Mullins baptizing her at Chestnut Creek Baptist church, Coopers, Ala. For nearly three score years she was a devoted and loyal Baptist, giving most generously of her time and her means towards the support of Kingdom work.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

Mr. Raymond C. Smith, Local Correspondent for Chilton County, with headquarters at Clanton, Alabama, recently received a communication from W. L. Pryor, Agent of the Land Bank Commissioner, which will prove interesting to the farmers of this county. Mr. Smith was recently appointed Local Correspondent for this territory by Agent W. L. Pryor and will handle applications for Commissioner's loans. According to the Agent's statement, during the first six weeks after the passage of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act the twelve Agents stationed in the twelve Federal Land Banks received 24,000 requests for loans aggregating $63,500,000.00. The average loan made during the first six weeks was for $2,360.00. The maximum loan which can be made by the Commissioner's Agent is $5,000.00 to any one individual and his loan, when added to all prior liens against the property may not exceed three-fourths of the appraised value of the property.

The Agent states that many applicants are in debt for more than the appraised value of their assets and that many farmers, when they are sure that they can get a cash loan from the Commissioner for a certain amount, are successful in getting their creditors to scale down the amount of their loans.

FAMILY PICNIC AND 4TH OF JULY CELEBRATION

The 4th of July was a cloudy day, though a bright day to J. B. Deason and family who live near Maplesville. All his children were present except two boys who are traveling. At an early hour his daughters, Mrs. Etta Shirley and family of Lomax, Mrs. Mary Maddox and family of New Salem community arrived. Then his his neighbors began arriving to help celebrate the day. Ice cream, cakes and lemonade were served with social enjoyment. At the noon hour a most wonderful dinner was served to thirty happy guests. In the afternoon cakes, cream and lemonade were enjoyed again, with games played. As the day was closing a bountiful supper was served to both noon and afternoon guests, and all departed home with a glad heart and joyful at the thought of all being home again and everyone well.

The invited home guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Deramus and their daughter, Miss Allie Deramus, of Western Texas. All reported a grand time, hoping all will meet again next fourth of July.

TELLS HOW SHE TOOK 7 INS. OFF HIPS 7 INS OFF WAST

In 40 days by taking Kruschen Salts, Mrs. Helga Blaugh of New York City reduced 26½ lbs.—took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7½ inches off waist. She writes: "I haven't gone hungry a moment—I feel fine and look 10 yrs. younger."

To get rid of double chins, bulging hips, ugly rolls of fat on waist and upper arms SAFELY and without discomfort—at the same time build up glorious health and acquire a clear skin, bright eyes, energy and vivaciousness—to look younger and feel it—take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

One jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle at any drugstore the world over. Make sure you get Kruschen because it's SAFE. Money back if not joyfully satisfied. adv.

VETERAN DRIVER GIVES TIPS ON SAFE TOURING

Goodyear Test Car Pilot With 1,500,000 Mile Record Shows Twelve Ways To Avoid Trouble

With the arrival of vacation season, the curve of automobile travel and gasoline consumption has started a steady climb.

More drivers will be on the road and there are likely to be more traffic accidents but motorists can escape many mishaps if they follow the suggestions of J. H. Greenleaf, veteran test car driver for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., who, during the past 15 years, has driven more than 1,500,000 miles. Driver of one of the fleet of cars on which Goodyear tires are tested, Greenleaf has operated a car under every possible condition and has probably encountered as many difficult situations on the road as any driver in the world.

"Good brakes, properly adjusted, are the most important part of an automobile from a safety standpoint," Greenleaf declared. "Mechanically speaking, good treads on tires come next, but the most danger in traveling is caused by the human element.

"Every driver should indicate his intention of making a turn at least 100 feet before turning, as omission of this simple precaution helps cause accidents. More accidents, I believe, are caused by passing other cars on curves or near the tops of hills than from any other cause. Many accidents also result from drivers not getting enough rest and falling asleep at the steering wheel," he concluded.

Based on his years of experience, Greenleaf has formulated the following "rules for driving" which he follows religiously and which he recommends to motorists everywhere:

1. Have good brakes at all times.
2. Signal intention of making a turn 100 feet before making.
3. Never pass a car on a curve or near the top of a hill.
4. Stay o ninside of center line on curves and hills.
5. Be alert at intersections. Slow up even if you have the right-of-way.
6. When approaching car has blinding lights, slow up and hug your side of road.
7. Allow yourself freedom of movement. It is taking a chance to drive with four in the front seat.
8. See that your tires have treads that will grip the road should you have to stop quickly or drive on wet, slippery pavements
9. Never jam on brakes as one may lock and cause your car to turn over.
10. Get a good sleep before starting on a long drive. If you get "dopey" or sleepy while driving, stop and rest, if only for 15 minutes.
11. Always give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt.
12. To make good time drive steadily and not too fast.

The Lightest way round is the Safest way home

YOU CAN name your city's busiest streets by naming its best lighted streets. Fear of the unseen dangers that may lurk in the shadows on poorly lighted streets sends night traffic of both autos and pedestrians to brighter thoroughfares.

It is universally conceded that good lighting promptly pays its own cost in prevention of crime and street accidents, in enhanced real estate values, in accelerated business.

Ally yourself with a movement for "white way" lighting in your city. It will prove a valuable safeguard and a real business builder.

Of Interest To Ex-Service Men

In a communication received by Grover A. Bice of Thorsby, commander-elect of the local post of the American Legion, from Hon. Hunter T. Burnett, it was learned that Mr. Burnett will be in Clanton on Friday of this week, with Congressman W. B. Oliver. Following is an excerpt from Mr. Burnett's letter:

"Mr. Oliver will have something very interesting to say to the people of your County and I know all the Veterans will want to hear him.

"Believe that this will be a good time for me to be there also when so many of the fellows will be in town. Please notify the veterans that I will bring claim blanks and further information that will be of some help to them. Have a number of cases from Chilton County that am going to review today and will have some definite information for those fellows.

"I assume that your Post does the same as ours. That is that the present Commander holds office until after the Convention. I took the liberty to write him a letter, copy enclosed, asking that he get together with you and have all the Veterans there to meet me. Will appreciate this help."

Yours in comradeship,
HUNTER T. BURNETT,
Representing Cong. W. B. Oliver in Veterans Affairs.

URGES CITIZENS TO WORK WITH HOME AGENTS

Jemison, Ala., July 18, 1933.
Editor, Chilton County News:

Congratulations to our County Agent, Mr. C. E. Stapp, vocational teacehrs, J. P. Montgomery, Earl Thomas and those who worked with them in putting over the cotton acreage reduction program. They worked unceasingly to put the program before the farmers. But it took the wholehearted cooperation of the farmers to carry it out. All of them working together put our county over the top sixth in the State. Congratulations to the farmers, too.

Our County farm agent, home demonstration agent and vocational teachers have a great program to work on now. The Federal Government has made and is making so many plans to restore prosperity to our country, that we will need now more than ever their leadership and guidance.

Citizens of Chilton county, we, who are not farmers, let's unite our efforts with the farmers and co-operate with our leaders in bringing a "New Deal" to our county.

MRS. A. C. WELLS.

FARMERS MEETING HAS BEEN POSTPONED TO AUGUST 29TH

County Agent Stapp advises the News that Farmers Week which is held in Auburn each year, and which was set for July 25, 26 and 27, has been postponed until August 29, 30 and 31. This was found necessary due to all forces being engaged in the program of the cotton acreage cut.

Ann Ross Gives Lovely Birthday Party.

Last Wednesday afternoon at the beautiful home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Ross, Miss Ann Ross was the charming young hostess to a number of her friends at a lovely birthday party commemorating her tenth birthday. All the afternoon was spent in many enjoyable games and contests and at the conclusion refreshments were served by Misses Helen Roberts and Elizabeth Williams, and the beautiful birthday cake was cut. Rainbow colors added a touch of beauty along with containers of pretty flowers to the home. Many lovely and attractive gifts were bestowed upon the young hostess by her delighted guests. Those enjoying this wonderful event were little Misses Helen Parrish, Olive Rainer Elmore. Lump Pitts, Lillian Smith, Sara Nell Sessions, Mae Aniece Polk, Mary Frances Atkinson, Annie Cordelia and Frances Smith, Peggy Page, Theda Wyatt, Blanche Timmerman, Billy Johnson, Sara Elizabeth Venable, Grace Ezell and Nell Rockett.

Miss Olive Rainer Elmore Hostess To Young Girls Club.

On Monday afternoon of this week little Miss Olive Rainer Elmore was the young hostess to the Prosperity Club at the attractive home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Elmore. Games and other amusements were enjoyed by the following: Peggy Page, Theda Wyatt, Nell Rockett, Lump Pitts, Ann Ross, Sara Elizabeth Venable, Mary Jo Sanford, Deanie Hollis, Billy Johnson and others.

There will be a Home Coming day at Old Rocky Mount on the last Sunday of this month, July 30. Everyone is urged to come. Bring a full basket and enjoy the day.

EVERY FIBER EVERY CORD EVERY PLY IS BLOWOUT PROTECTED BY Gum-Dipping

BLOWOUTS are caused by frictional heat generated in the fibers of the cotton cords in a tire. Firestone is the only tire built with every cotton fiber saturated and coated with pure rubber—to prevent destructive heat. This is one of the reasons why Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the 500 mile Indianapolis Race for 14 consecutive years—the world's most severe blowout test.

Rubber has gone up 242%, cotton 115%—substantial tire price increases must follow. We will give you an attractive allowance for your old tires on new Firestone High Speed Tires.

STOCKS GO UP WHILE WHEAT SHOWS GAINS

Market Opens Bouyantly On Monday; Buying Showing Up Heavy

The stock market opened bouyantly at noon Monday with numerous issues up $1 to around $6 a share. Most of the leaders were supported by buying orders of 1,000 to 6,000 shares. Among the gainers were Union Pacific, up $3.25 at $114.75; Western Union, up $4 at $60; Westinghouse, up $2.37 at $42.87; N. Y. Central, up $$2.62 at $41.87; Consolidated Gas, up $3 at $54; Celanese; up $6.25 at $32.75, and Bethelehem Steel, up $2.50 at $41.87.

Others in the advancing class included U. S. Industrial Alcohol, up $4.50 at $51; American Can, up $4.25 at $87.75; Standard Brands, up $2.12 at $26; DuPont, up $3.25 at $70.75; General Motors, up $2.37 at $27; Illinois Central, up $1 at $40.50; National Distillers, up $4.57 at $72.87; International Harvester, up $2.50 at $34.50; Borden, up $1 at $31.50; United Aircraft, up $2 at $32.50, and Columbian Carbon, up $2.12 at $50.

Grains at Chicago were unchanged to 3 cents a bushel higher while Winnipeg wheat was also up about 3 cents. Cotton rallied $1 to around $1.25 a bale while rubber and sugar futures were firmer. The former sold 11-4 to 1½ cents a pound above Saturday's puotations.

The noon opening on the New York Stock Exchange, which shortened the trading period to three hours from five, found brokerage houses fairly well caught up with the huge volume of clerical work that had accumulated from last week's heavy trading. Staffs of employes had worked Saturday, all day Sunday, and Monday morning and were ready for the further large volumes which many in the financial district felt might be experienced for a few days.

The exchange, in deciding last Saturday to curtail operations, as a means of reducing the clerical burden, said it would follow this shorter schedule "until further notice."

The rally that burst upon the market when trading opened at 12 noon was a continuation of the late advance in Saturday's market. Brokers reported a substantial volume of buying orders over the week-end, many of which came from "odd-lot" traders. Considerable short covering also appeared.

Cotton was the only major market to swing into activity Monday at the traditional opening hour of 10 a. m. All security markets deferred their start ergency rule adopted by the New York until noon, in accordance with the em- Stock Exchange Saturday.

Initial prices on the cotton exchange were about$1.25 a bale above the closing of Saturday, marking an extension of the rally in progress when trading ended that day. At these levels futures showed a recovery of about $5 a bale from last week's lows.

4-H Club Camp Is Postponed Here

The county 4-H Club camp which was scheduled to be held July 27, 28 and 29, has been postponed indefinitely, according to Clifford Manning, county president.

This was found necessary due to the busy condition of the county agent's office, it was stated, and the fact that some of the club members will leave for Chicago to attend the World's Fair about August 7th. As many boys who are members of the 4-H Clubs or the F. F. A. are wanted to go to Chicago as possible. Those who are planning to go should write to Clifford Manning, Maplesville, Ala.

DETERMINED TO SEE NEW CARS — MAN BREAKS IN

Many persons visited the show rooms of Polk Brothers Motor Co., last Saturday to view the new Chryslers and Plymouth automobiles, but somebody failed to get there in time to attend the opening before the place closed for the night.

Determined not to be out done, and to see these new automobiles, this person proceeded to take out a window pane, go in, take his time about inspecting the new cars and just as casually, open another window and leave. Polk Brothers express their regrets that they closed for the night before their visitor had time to see the display of Chrysler and Plymouths.

W. L. Popwell To Fill Vacancy In Council

Action of the city council at their last meeting selected W. L. (Fate) Popwell to fill the vacancy of Reedie Taylor as a member of the council, who recently moved to LaFayette, Ala., where he has entered the dry goods business.

Mr. Popwell was a candidate for member of the city council in the last city election, but was defeated. His selection, it was stated, was made due to his being the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes. He has served as city councilman before.

PERMITS TO START PLOWS TO BE ISSUED

Inspection Of Cotton Fields Expected To Be Completed Today

The cotton acreage of Chilton County this year will be reduced over thirteen thousand acres when plows will start plowing up part of the fleecy crop this week, in order that farmers of this county can carry out their pledge to do their share in the President's recovery program.

County Agent Stapp stated Monday that they expected to complete the inspection of fields under contract by today. Permits to begin plowing up cotton on completed contracts will probably be issued starting today.

The field inspectors will issue the permits to the growers who are to sign a receipt showing they have received their permit from the government to start plowing.

There will be approximately 13,120 acres of cotton to go under the plows in this county, according to Mr. Stapp. Chilton County was the sixth county in the state to reach its quota of 12,000 acres, and county agent Stapp and his efficient corps of workers are being congratulated on their prompt work.

Cotton growers of Chilton County have shown their willingness to support the program of the national government in its efforts toward recovery and are to be commended.

PRESIDENT IS PLEASED WITH COOPERATION

Radio Address Last Monday Night Outlines His Recovery Program

On Monday night of this week President Roosevelt went direct to the American people with his program. At 8:30 o'clock, local time, he was on the air in a nation-wide radio hook-up. His address was, as usual short and to the point, but it covered well the workings of a vast undertaking. It dealt with two phases of the national plan for bringing back to the American people prosperity.

First he explained the basic principles underlying the farm situation and the importance of increasing the purchasing power of this immense part of our population. He frankly stated that some of the means used to bring about increased farmer income was experimental, but that so far, he was glad to state that the plan showed every indication of success. He expressed gratification at the wonderful cooperation which had been shown.

Another phase of this great national program discussed was the Industrial Recovery Act, by which higher wages and re-employment of millions of idle

LOCAL RURAL CARRIERS ATTEND STATE MEETING

Those rural letter carriers of Chilton County who attended the state convention of rural letter carriers in Birmingham recently were G. F. Harris, G. C. Harris and B. J. Sessions of Clanton; Q. C. Meroney and G. H. Caffee of Verbena; E. F. Culver and R. L. Duffy of Mt. Creek.

Mr. Duffy, who was elected to be a delegate-at-large to the convention in Des Moines, Iowa, stated that after attending the national convention he and his family expected to motor to Chicago to attend the World's Fair.

IT TAKES A BIG ORDER TO FEED THE BOYS AT THE CONSERVATION CAMP

Chilton Boys Receive High Ratings In Camp

By Lance Franklin
Of Pleasant Grove, Jemison

Ladies and Gentlemen: You are now listening to Station S. C. C. (Spring Creek Company) from Decatur county, Georgia, with Lance L. Franklin at the microphone and our big subject will be "The Chilton County Boys as Members of the C. C. C." and the first one you will hear about is Mr. T. Lloyd Connell, who upon joining this organization was third cook with the $30 a month allowance remaining as it was when he entered, but you can't hold a good man down and, at the end of the third week in this position, he was promoted to 2nd cook which meant $36 per month, but let a man do his best and you will see him rise, so it is in this case. Mr. Connell showed a great interest in his work and put forth such efforts to do his work in a satisfactory way until today he wears the crown of the kitchen which is earned only by the 1st cooks, and now Mr. Connell is a 1st cook, which gives him a $45 salary per month, and everything for his kitchen duties such as uniforms, caps, etc., are furnished and launderied free. The kitchen force under Mr. Connell are two cooks, 2nd cook, E. V. Ervin; 3rd cook, Floyd Williams, with 7 K. P.'s also at his command for such duties as he may direct them to do.

From the very beginning the company of 222 men made Mr. Connell the idol of the kitchen, his neatness of appearance and his routine for preparing a meal sent him straight ahead at full blast until today as I have already told you he is the highest paid man in camp.

Mr. Connell is on duty from 12:00 o'clock in day until 12:00 o'clock next day, and is relieved by another shift for the same length of time that he is on duty.

The "Chilton County Spirit" is higher in the boys from Cooper, Ala., that is, the boys in the C. C. C. than any other part of Chilton county represented here, as you will see from the record of Mr. Connell who rates the highest of Chilton county's representatives, and as can be seen by the record of Mr. Samuel Morris, also from Cooper.

Now to show you what a responsibility a 1st cook has, you can judge for yourself what kind of a man Mr. Connell has been since joining the C. C. C. and what kind of a record he must have made in this short period of time when I present to you his menu for breakfast, dinner and supper, Saturday, July

JOSEPHUS JACKSON PAYS VISIT TO HIS OLD HAUNTS IN AND AROUND COUNTY

"Hits been a long time since I was in Clanton, or even in Chilton county," said Josephus, as he was talking with one of his old time friends in Clanton the other day. "I've jest been noticing the dif'rence in the looks of the stores up and down the streets, or has they started calling 'em av'noos, yet?

"I was attracted yestiddy to that Elmore's five cent store and jest wandered in it. Didn't want to buy nothing, but jest wanted to see what was on its innards. But you know, them l'l gals in that store jest near bout made me buy something before I got out o' there. I knowed Virgil Elmore when he was a young feller round here, and when he went off to the war and come back. I allus did figure he was going to mount to something.

"Say, I never thought lil ole Clanton would ever get so big they would have them light signals, or what ever you call 'em, out there in the street, and I hear you got two of 'em in town. I been standing out on the streets a few afternoons lately and jest noticin' the young boys and gals runnin' round and figgered that they are young uns of the kids I used to know here, way back yonder. I saw one lil rascal that I bet belongs to Earl Gowan. He looked like a chip off the ole block all right.

"Saw Fenn Jones standing down on the corner and what is he supposed to be doin' now. I see that he ai't in his ole stand at the hardware store no more. Looked to me like he might be a congressman or something off on vacation. I been taking a deal of delight in these here concreted streets you got here now. I can recollect back when a fellow was doing good to drive thru the mud in the streets with a hoss and buggy. I stopped in Clanton for a minute or two jest afore they was a figgering on fixing up the streets and heard about it, but to tell you the truth I didn't ever figger it would be done. That was when Benton Atkinson was mayor of the town and was stirring things round a bit.

"By the way, I don't ever hear or see much of Atkinson these days. I reckon he is sort of sticking to his lawyering these days. You know I allus said he was a cracker jack good one. I jest had to get over and chin a mite with my ole frien' Bill Sartor. I guess he will allus be in the mercantile business. Well, Bill is a good merchant. I didn't get to see him, cause that pritty gal in his store said he wasn't in then. Who is that lil gal, annyway?

"Seems like there ain't no feelin' of this here depression on in Clanton seein' as how folks round here has nearly all got new autiemobiles: I don't believe I've seen a hoss since I been in town. I been dropping round to see some of my ole friends, and they tell me they gone to Chicago. Gosh amighty, back in the ole days here, if a fellow went to Chicago it was the talk of the town, but nowadays you just run up there and back.

"I went round and visited in some of the stores in Clanton, and that good ole friendly smell ain't in them no more like it used to be. You know what I mean, it allus smelled like coffee and sugar and feed and things. Now everything smells clean like. An' I hate to say it but that ole friendly way of telling a fellow howdy ain't in the stores no more. I walked in one and a young fellow stood up behind the counter and bellowed at me "Somethin?" which I didn't exactly like. Hit kind of skeered me at first, and then in another place another young sprout said "Yes sir" and I thought somebody had axed him a question, maybe. I may be sort of ole fashioned, but I don't like that way of making a fellow feel welcome.

"You got two of them big grocery stores here I see now. I'm speaking of that Hill's store and the A & P, and by the way I see that Cleve Armstrong is running the A & P. I knew Cleve when he was a young fellow running a store here. He ain't changed much, has he? The old Pinckard store looked familiar to me all right, when I looked at it. I see them Jones boys has got a right smart of a hardware store there now. That makes two hardware stores in Clanton now, don't hit? With Rockett running Jones' place up close to the courthouse.

"Well, I 'spose I gotta be gettin' on out and see if the folks has got supper fixed. You know I ain't doin' much these days, except sitting round gossipin', eatin" and sleepin'. I'll drap round and chin with you agin some time."

All of the old songs will be given and several other numbers of dancing and whatnot will be presented to try to please all who attend.

Mrs. Irby Deramus is in charge and this alone assures the audience an evening of pleasure.

A small admission fee will be charged and all proceeds will go towards painting the Verbena Parsonage.

PAY ROLL AT LOCAL MILL IS INCREASED

President's Recovery Progr'm Touches Deep Into The Southern States

For the first time in many years a national program is having its effect deep in the Southern states, as is shown by the effect of tht recent Industrial Recovery Act on cotton mills and other industries in the south, and the south is already feeling the benefits of this program.

Information from the local unit of the Alabama Mills where many persons are employed, states that the pay roll of the mill has been increased approximately thirty-five to forty per cent. This increase in wages took effect on July 17th.

While the wages have been greatly increased, there has been no addition to the number of employees at the mill, it was stated. At present the mill is working two shifts, each working eight hours per day, thus giving the employees a higher wage with fewer working hours and time for more rest and recreation.

Lumbermen of this section have been awaiting instructions in regard to the part they are to play in this recovery program, which is destined to affect all industries and business.

LOCAL PILOTS PAY HONOR TO NEW OFFICERS

Kiwanians Meet With Pilot Club Here Last Tuesday Night

Members of the Clanton Pilot Club had as their guests last Tuesday night members of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton at a most enjoyable dinner at the Methodist church when the former entertained honoring recently elected Pilot International officials, Mrs. Margaret Ormond, International president, and Miss Harriet McSwean, International secretary, both from Selma.

Long tables were arranged in the basement of the church which is the regular meeting place of the Pilot Club. Place cards, designating the position of Pilots and Kiwanians were at the plates. A delicious menu was prepared and served by the ladies of the church.

Mrs. Gertrude Calloway, president of the Clanton Pilot Club, gave a brief outline of work done by the local club and also of objectives of the year. Mrs. Ormond was introduced by Mrs. Calloway, and spoke of the purpose and aims of Pilot. Mrs. Calloway also introduced Miss MsSwean who touched on the importance of working together. Other speakers were Dr. S. J. Ezell, and John Hollis of the Kiwanis Club. Mrs. Samuel Martin gave a very entertaining reading and a solo was rendered by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Several songs depicting Kiwanis and Pilot were sung by those present with Miss Mary Ellis, Kiwanis pianist, at the piano.

CEMETERY CLEANING AT MACEDONIA NEXT FRIDAY

THOUSANDS TAKE PART IN COUNTY PICNIC

Many More People Enjoy Picnic This Year Than Last Year

By Dan Smith

Approximately five thousand people gathered at Popwell's Woods south of Clanton on Friday of last week to attend the second county-wide picnic directed by County Agent C. E. Stapp. A splendid and wonderful program was planned and carried out and it was carried over the entire picnic grounds by large microphones. Benches were placed for the convenience of those present.

Drink stands, operated by members of the 4-H club of the county, and barbecue stands serving other eats provided refreshments for the crowd

The program opened about 9:30 in the morning with a vocal solo by Hon. Percy Pitts. Invocation was then led by the Rev. S. J. Ezell, following this was the welcome addresses by Judge L. H. Reynolds and W. M. Wyatt, president of the Kiwanis club of Clanton. The response was spoken by Mr. Howard Roper of Jemison

At this point the largest family was asked to come up on the platform, but since there was none to answer this contest was dropped. Next a prize was awarded to the couple present who had been married the longest and this was won by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Chambers, who won it last year, having been married 65 years. Present also were Mr and Mrs. Andrew Dennis, who lacked only one month of tying with Mr and Mrs. Chambers.

A few musical numbers were offered by the Clanton-Verbena Orchestra. Coming upon the platform amidst an uproar and burst of applause was F. S. (Preacher) Salser, the master of entertainers. Salser, a member of the Birmingham Police force, is remembered by those who were there last year as the spice of the day. For several minutes he spread mirth and fun with his jokes and sayings, and entertained the crowd with his harmonica playing.

Miss Ruth Pardue, Home Demonstration Agent for Chilton County, took the platform and discussed splendidly the work that the Women's Clubs of Chilton had done during their brief, but progressive existence and outlined briefly their plans for the future. She called attention to the exhibit of the Women's Club which occupied a platform on the grounds. Several interesting articles of clothing and many fine examples of the master canning taught by Miss Pardue were on exhibit. Miss Pardue also called upon the stage, Miss Aniece Stapp and Mrs. R. W. Barnett, who were dressed in attractive costumes, made from cloth from the local mill.

Following Miss Pardue's talk, Hon. Percy Pitts offered as a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. Pitts, "Old Man

Will Sing Here Sunday Afternoon

There will be a union singing at the court house in Clanton next Sunday afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. This will be the usual fifth Sunday singing and all societies of the county will take part, or at least they are invited and expected to do so. The new books will be used and the singing will continue for about two hours. Everybody who sings or likes singing is invited to be present.

W. W. BISHOP RECEIVES SNAKE BITE ON FINGER

W. W. Bishop, operator of the Sinclair Service Station in Clanton will have cause to remember what a water moccasin looks like, and how it feels to be bitten by the reptile.

While Mr. Bishop, who is also a mechanic, was doing a little work for Dr. Parrish on a water pump, a water moccasin was also visiting the pump and apparently resented the presence of Mr. Bishop, biting him on the left hand. The snake made his get-away immediately after biting Mr. Bishop, who came right to town and received treatment. Later Dr. Parrish caught the snake near the pump. The snake measured about two and one-half feet long. Aside from becoming slightly ill for awhile Mr. Bishop suffered no ill effects from the bite, attributed to his presence of mind to bind his finger and get to a doctor.

A "Trade At Home" Habit

The age-old slogan of "Trade At Home" will continue to be a slogan as long as civilization exists, no doubt. By saying "trade at home" one has in mind the support of home concerns in preference to mail-order houses and those places of business located out of the home community.

With persons residing in a county or town, making every purchase possible from their home merchants and patronizing home places of business, there is a small way of determining exactly just how far-reaching toward good, is their purchases. A check-up would show a person that a purchase made at a store goes a great distance in doing good not only toward the merchant but also to the community in which the merchant and the purchaser live.

People of Chilton County should develop a habit and a loyalty to trade with their local business men when possible. But, there are two sides to this matter and the other side has to do with the merchant or the business man. These two should make it a point to see that they make it as easy as possible for anyone to trade with them. That would include quite a bit. There is a matter of prices, quantity and quality, but even at that, there is a certain consideration a purchaser must make in behalf of the home merchant. That of sticking to his community and help building it.

Codes In The Making

The President of the United States gives evidence of his belief that there should be more speed in the program of recovery. He has created Administrators, a Cabinet Recovery Board, committees, and organizations to speed matters along. The affairs of hundreds of industries, and millions of workmen are involved in optimistic plans that approach the ideas of self-government of industries, fair trade practices, distribution of employment, reemployment and decent wages. These are among the goals of the New Deal.

Child labor is being ruled out of the cotton industry, shipbuilders suggest a 40-hour week, the electrical code provides for a 36-hour week, and the oil code is regarded as the model for other industries. Those are a few of the highlights in the early manipulations of the codes.

Executives in industries, labor leaders, financiers and trade associations find their codes difficult to agree upon. The soft coal industry appears, as usual, with its disputes over working conditions and wages; manufacturers of the National Manufacturers Association type are hardly apt to subscribe to fair treatment for labor, since this organization has been the foe of progressive steps along that line—including the child labor amendment—for a generation. The United States Chamber of Commerce and the American Federation of Labor appear favorably in support of the White House program.

But anyone who thinks the Nation can be whipped into wartime conditions in a "jiffy", as was done during the war, has another think coming. There are conflicting interests in every industry. Some of them produce goods and products of excellent quality for which they have always received large prices. Others are the price-cutters, and chains, that are not so particular about quality. One group employs labor on fair terms; the other exploits human beings and hires them as cheaply as possible. Some industries have plenty of capital, others are practically "broke." In such industires there are groups as far apart as Baptists and Unitarians.

To get together on a code is going to be impossible with many of them. That's why the powers given by Congress to the President are certain to be invoked for the control of many industries. Minimum wages and maximum working hours and fair trade practices cannot be obtained in some industries except with a club. There is no doubt but what there is a "big stick" in the White House. It will likely be used.

The Other Half

Many automobile drivers who think they know all about the right-of-way law understand only the half of it. In answer to the question, "Who has the right-of-way?" the average driver would quickly reply, "The man on the right." The answer is partially correct but isn't complete.

The best statutes on the subject say; "The car on the right has the right-of-way provided it enters the intersection first, but if the car on the left happens to be first into the intersection, the car on the right must yield."

Maxwell Halsey, Traffic Engineer of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, say the best way to eliminate confusion on this point is for all cars to slow down when approaching intersections. "In This way drivers will be able to guage each other's distance and obey the law with greater convenience.

"The driver of a car approaching from the right has no justification to suppose that all traffic must stop to permit him to cross. This attitude has produced a high toll of accidents. More than twice as many accidents occur at intersections as between intersections. Last year, 2,430 persons were killed and 184,750 injured in 146,500 accidents resulting from misunderstandings over the right-of-way."

State laws should be clarified in order to coincide with common sense and the free flow of traffic. If this is done, another bad hazzard will be eliminated. Meanwhile, motorists, slow down at intersections.

Realization And Leadership

When men of high standing and broad vision go into new programs and projects, investigate them and then place on them their endorsement and support, it is something for the average man or woman to stop and consider.

At the county-wide picnic last Friday, Congressman Oliver of this district, who is serving his district efficiently and well and who is well able to say which is good or bad, spoke to the people of the county of the great work being done by President Roosevelt, who is being termed the "Democratic man of the hour."

Mr. Oliver touched on the Industrial Recovery Act and the request for repeal of the 18th Amendment, two of President Roosevelt's movements to bring this country back to its proper standing. In a telegram from prominent citizens of Tuscaloosa to Mr. Oliver, they urged him to stand by the President and his program. In a reply to this telegram, Mr. Oliver said he was with the President one hundred per cent.

Mr. Oliver's realization of the importance of standing by the "Democratic man of the hour" and his program is an example worthy of the consideration of every man and woman—stand by President Roosevelt and the Democratic Party, a combination that is bringing this country out of grief and chaos.

Destroy Mosquitoes

This is the season of the year when malaria is most prevalent. There are a number of cases in Clanton now. As almost everyone knows, this disease is particularly spread by mosquitoes. The time is ripe for citizens of Clanton to make a drive to exterminate mosquitoes. These insects do not usually travel far from their breeding place, and in most cases it will be found that their are stagnant pools of water nearby when they become noticeable.

Small cans, old tire casings, buckets, open and unused wells—any place where water is allowed to stagnate—even though it be in small quantities is a breeding place for these pests and disease carriers. Look about your premises and destroy their breeding places—for your own sake, and your neighbors.

The New Agricultural Era

It would be an interesting thing if a farmer of thirty years ago could be suddenly transported to the Chicago World's Fair and shown the model exhibit of electricity at work in agriculture.

As the saying goes, his eyes would pop out. He would see chickens treated with ultra violet rays, and their hours of rest and work controlled by light. Cows in a scientifically built lactery are automatically washed and then milked by sanitary efficient electric equpment. Electric cooling and bottling equipment has superseded old hand methods, silo within a silo stores both ensilage and dry feed and reduces fire hazards. Two small structures store grain which is transported by electric conveyor systems.

In the fields of this farm, he would see still more startling things. Even the tractor, thought up-to-date a short time ago, has been dispensed with, its place taken by an electric cable plough which makes its way about the field carrying its own self-winding cable. There are no power poles to interfere with work or mar the farm's appearance—all the distributional lines are underground.

As a matter of fact, the farmer of thirty years ago wouldn't be the only one to start with unbelieving eyes at the exhibit. Today's average farm is still wasteful and inefficient, exacting a maximum of hard labor for a minimum of result. The exhibit at the World's Fair shows what the farm of the future will be like in a really "new agricultural era."

Those Ascending Prices

The administration's efforts to prevent price increases at a rate out of proportion to the increased incomes of the people, is wholly constructive and cooperation in this matter is wise.

It is manifest that if price advances become more rapid than is consistent with the earnings of the people, buying will be restricted, and this is exactly the thing that should not be permitted to come about.

The exercise of buying power is an essential factor in the recovery movement and it should be encouraged in every way possible and not be discouraged at any point.

True, many manufacturers and dealers have been operating practically without profit and they are entitled to make something that their own position may be strengthened, bu wisdom suggests a middle ground in which both the buyer and seller are given proper consideration.

Conditions are improving at a rate that is most gratifying and nothing should be done to disturb this happy situation, and undue advances certainly would do this.

"Ship By Rail"

The Chamber of Commerce of St. Johnsville, N. Y., has adopted a plan for rehabilitating the railroads which is unique in its common-sense simplicity. The plan can be expressed in three one-syllable words: "Ship by rail."

As the St. Johnsville News & Observer points out, the people of this community have no quarrel with other forms of transport. But they know something about the railroads. They know that in normal times they are the greatest single employer and purchaser of supplies of all kinds. They know that scores of related industries depend on the railroads for all or part of their income. They know that the rails are major taxpayers. They know they have led in industrial and social developments in all parts of the country, ever since the last spike was driven that connected the East with the West. They know that billions of dollars of life insurance, savings bank and private citizens' earnings are ivested in railroad bonds. They kow that subsidized competition, and one sided regulation, have deprived the rails of much of their business and forced them near to bankruptcy.

The attitude of mind of the Johnsville people is of vast importance. They are to be congratulated—they know an industry whose existence is in the public interest, when they see one.

o-o-o-o

Tax changes, reciprocal tariffs, bankruptcy revision, veterans benefits, war debts—here are a few of the principal economic-social subjects that will be thrashed out. It is an open secret that Mr. Roosevelt is not through with his program—he got much out of the last Congress, and he wil lask much from the next. He will doubtless have introduced a sweeping, revolutionary banking bill, which will eliminate state and private banks. Another prospective proposal of vast importance is a transportation act to bring railroads, highway carriers, barge-lines and air vehicles under centralized regulation. Again, it is believed that the securities bill, drastic as it is, will be made still more rigid and fool-proof.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

My attention was directed to a man who was sitting near me on the grand stand watching the game of ball that was being played on the diamond before ns. This man never shouted his approval at a single play that was made, but from start to finish he growled his criticisms and fussed and fumed abot the "bum ball" that was being played. A home run was knocked by the star man on the team but this old grouch frowned and said "That would have been a much better ball if he had sent it over the left-fielder, rather than over the right-fielder." Too many people in this world do nothing much but criticise. They criticise the way other people play the game of life, but they do no playing themselves. When a pesky man or woman refuses to "play ball" and then stands around the diamond and howls criticism into the face of those who are playing the game, we feel like they should be driven over the fence. When we learn to "play ball' more and criticise less, then the score of life will be on the increase.

When I was a lad I was the mill boy at our home. Two bushels of corn would be placed on the back of the old family horse and I would ride away to the grist mill to have it ground into meal. One Saturday morning the horse that had been so reliable became unruly as other horses ran up behind him and he threw the boy and the corn from his back. I caught my horse and led him up to my sack of corn and then I strained every muscle in my body trying to lift two bushels of corn to his back. Finally I gave up, seeing that the burden was too heavy, and I fell down across the sack and cried like a babe. Just then I looked up and I saw a strong negro man sitting on his mule. He said to me "Sonnie, what is the matter I told him and then he rolled from his mule and picking up the corn in his strong arms he said, "Laddie, dry dem tears, Uncle Wash will put your corn on the back of that old horse." And he did. Many a time in my life have I been thrown from the saddle with a load too heavy for me to put back in place, but Jesus has never failed to come along just when I needed him most and lifted my burden and placed me thereon. He says to me and to you; "Laddie, dry those tears, Jesus will help you", and he does.

Suppose that a Scientist should have the skill to cross the spider and the butterfly, and thus create an insect with two natures. The spider nature would want to hide out in dark corners, while the butterfly nature would want to fly up into the beautiful and live among the flowers. The two natures in the created insect would tear it to pieces one pulling downward into the dark, while the other pulled upward into the sunlight. The very thing seems to have been accomplished in the nature of man We have two elements of life; one that drags us down, the other that lifts us upward. Which are you going to do, let the human drag the Divine nature down into darkness, or let the Divine nature lift the human up into the light?

Two negro boys were passing my study window on wheels. One said to the other: "Do you know why Rastus was fired at Mr. Brown's store?" The other did not know of the news and asked why. Then I heard this reason: "Rastus, he was as hollow as a bee gum and ate up nearly everything in dat store." The boys were gone, but I kept thinking. Many a church member has been given a place in God's store; a place where they should serve the needs of the world, but they have turned into consumers, rather than sellers. No clerk can hold a job very long when he consumes the stock, and no church member can long remain in favor with God when he does nothing but devour God's supplies. What about you as a clerk in God's store? Are you eating up God's supplies and giving out but little for the needs of the world? When we cease to devour God's supplies for our own satisfaction, then God's business will prosper.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County.
Circuit Court In Equity. No. 1070.
July 12th, 1933.
F. A. Shanks, Complainant, vs. Hill J. Foshee, et al, Defendants.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Lawrence F. Gerald, solicitor for complainant, that the Defendant Mary Perkins is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post-office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that, in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years: and that the defendant Emma Etta Smitherman is a non-resident, and is a resident of Dallas, State of Texas, her address there being 5508 Willis Street, and further, that, in the belief of affiant, the defendant is a minor over fourteen years of age but under twenty-one years of age:

It is therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in the Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, State of Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring them the said Mary Perkins and Emma Etta Smitherman to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 15th day of August, 1933, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against them.

Done at office in Clanton, this 12 day of July, 1933.

A short time ago the rules and regulations of procedure under the new Federal Securities Act (designed to protect American Investors against worthless stock issues, dishonest and misleading investment claims) were made public. Restrictions are strict, definite, decisive. Underwriters must file with the Federal Trade Commission full particulars before they can sell new securities. Statements will be studied by Commission accountants; thereafter the Commission may either permit the sale or cause the securities to be withdrawn. Registration statements will be open to public inspection and copies will be furnished at moderate cost to interested parties.

Any sales prospectus issued by the security sellers must likewise be filed. It will be studied with a view to determining whether it omits any information necessary to decide the value of the offering, whether it is misleading, not sufficiently clear, etc. In case radio broadcasts are to be used in promotion these, too, must be given Commission approval. A large amount of technical information will be required by the Commission when registration is made .It includes: Names and addresses of all persons owning more than ten per cent of any class stock of the security issue; remuneration exceeding $25,000 paid by the stock-issuer during the past year and to director officer; the estimated net proceeds to be derived from the security. Commission costs will be borne by a registration fee of one-hundredth of one per cent of the maximum aggregate price at which the securities are proposed to be offered.

Thus, the new bill is more sweeping in its requirements than any similar measure we have ever known. The strictest state "blue sky" law pales by comparison. What effect so drastic a law will have on legitimate promotions where there is room for honest difference of opinion in making statements and reports, remains to be seen.

As the always vivid Frank Kent said in the Baltimore Sun, the extraordinary thing of the moment is that recovery has come before the recovery program has gotten started. None of the three billion public works dollars have been spent. The first agreement under the Industrial Control Act has just been signed, and has not yet had time to produce results. The vast farm plan is still in the prospective stage. Yet business is looking up—all kinds of businesses, in all parts of the country. The psychological effect of bills designed to aid recovery unquestionably were a factor in getting wheels in motion.

Domestic prices recently reached the highest level in close to two years. Current upward movement has been the best sustained in more than a decade. In 66 business days the Dow Jones average of 40 corporation bonds rose 14.33 to 87.86. Particular business items of interest follow:

Postal Receipts: Reports from 50 cities show improvement of 13.55 per cent in June as compared with previous June.

Bank Deposits: Substantial gains made in second quarter.

Power Production: Is making steady and sharp advances.

Car Loadings: About 25 per cent better than last year at this time.

Railroad Earnings: Expenses are down and gross revenue up, presaging greatly improved net income showings.

Steel: At highest point since April, 1931. exceeding 50 per cent of capacity.

Wholesale Prices: Steady advances registered week by week. Recent gains included farm products, fuel, lighting, metals, building materials, household goods, etc.

Stock of Goods: Stock of finished goods in hands of distributors are still low, and active demand will be reflected in restocking.

Employment - Payrolls: Showed moderate increases recently. More aggressive advances expected in near future.

FARM YOUTH PROGRESS

Rural boys and girls are far outstripping their parents in the study of improved practices in farm and home work, according to a recent announcement by the Department of Agriculture, which shows that more demonstrations had been conducted by young people's clubs than by those of adult membership.

Considerably more than half a million farm boys and girls now participate in these demonstrations, which include the raising of various crops, animal husbandry, handling of poultry, food preparation, designing and making of clothing, home improvement and beautification, and in fact every phase of rural life.

Instruction in these activities, imparted by farm and home demonstration agents, serves to aid these boys and girls in improving rural farm and home practices, thereby fitting them t become efficient farmers and homemakers, besides teaching them the fundamentals of public-spirited, useful citizenship.

While the enrollment and results obtained in club work are gratifying, considering the circumstances under which this effort has been put forth, the Department points out that only about one rural boy and girl in twenty has the benefit of this training at present.

Here is a field for constructive achievement which should interest all who have a regard for the importance of improving the conditions of rural living.

RELIEF MOBILIZATION

While it is hoped that the unemployment situation may be less acute next winter, relief workers know that there will be a tremendous demand for food, clothing and shelter among the poor for many months to come.

Plans for continuing relief work will be laid at a rally of civic and welfare leaders, to be held in Washington in September. It is expected to conduct an intensive mobilization effort between October 29 and November 19, when the public will be called upon to give liberally for the support of local community chests, but no national fund will be raised.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war and head of relief mobilization last year, again has been called to service as chairman of the 1933 mobilization, the object of which is thus stated "Its sole purpose is to coordinate social service organizations and to present t the public the necessity of the human services which must be supported a this critical time."

As heretofore, women will play an important part in this mobilization, and women's committees will be formed in every community supporting welfare services.

Through the unselfish labors of many thousands of volunteer social workers both men and women, sufficient funds have been raised in the past to reduce actual suffering to a minimum during the depression. This work must go on if the distress which still faces millions of our people is to be avoided.

IN MEMORY OF JOHNNIE CULP

Who departed this life July 23, 1928
Five years have passed away
Since last I saw your face,
Since last I held you in my arms
And felt your fond embrace.

But God, our all-wise Father,
He knows just what to do,
And in His heavenly mansions
He had a place for you.

'Twas sad indeed to say farewell,
And lay your body in the tomb;
This wounded, bleeding heart of mi
Will never cease to mourn.

But what a happy meeting
Some future day will be
When in His heavenly mansions
God has a place for me.

There we'll sing and shout His praise
And play on the golden harp.
There Jesus reigns King Supreme,
And we'll never, never part.

Dear Darling, how we miss you,
Words cannot express.
Yet in our humble hearts we feel
That you've gone to a land of rest.

BEES AND OTHER THINGS

Since our organization of the Chilton County Bee Association I find a growing interest in Bee Culture. All with whom I have talked have expressed a desire to cooperate and get the best results. Let us think this week about the marketing of honey.

There is a better demand for comb honey i.e. section honey. The chemical honey and other artificial honey sold on the market for extracted honey has lessened the demand for extracted honey. When the bee keeper understands the difference in expense of producing comb honey as compared with that of extracted honey, he will not be willing to give all of his time and colonies to the production of comb honey. In the first place it requires about eight to ten and sometimes as high as fifteen pounds of honey for the bees to eat while they are making one pound of wax or comb. We see at once that we can not afford to give all the apiary to comb honey production. Then I think it would be much to our advantage to honey" for this term is incorrect.) It produce extracted honey (not "strained is true that a man having four or five colonies can not afford to buy an extractor, but several can buy one together.

Since the market demands a good bit of honey we should produce some, but when people find out our problem and know we are producing good extracted honey, they will buy some of each. They must be educated as to our situation.

Among other things, it is my privilege to enjoy some very good revivals this season. God's word will have its effect when preached in its purity and power. When I have more time I will try to give my subject justice.

Brooks-Roper Ceremony Quietly Solemnized.

The marriagfe of Miss Esther Brooks and Henry Arthur Roper was quietly solemnized in the study of the Highlands Methodist Church at 8.30 o'clock in the evening, July 15. Only a few intimate friends were present, the impressive ring ceremony being read by Dr. J. S. French.

The bride was lovely in heavy white crepe with white taffeta jacket made on princess lines. Her flowers were a combination of sweetheart roses, gypsophelia and maidenhair fern.

Her only attendant, Miss Beatrice Jenkins, was attired in a gray ensemble wearing a corsage of sweetpeas and forgetmenots. William Morgan attended the groom as best man.

IN ANSWER TO A LADY'S LETTER

A lady writes to say that she does not understand why an 8-cylinder car does not cost more to run than a car with fewer cylinders. She refers to my statement that our Ford V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gas than any car we have made.

The use of 8-cylinders does not mean the addition of two or four extra fuel consumers. It is not, for example, a 4-cylinder engine multiplied by two. Our 8-cylinder engine takes the fuel supply of an ordinary 4-cylinder engine and divides it eight ways. And why?

By reducing four larger explosions into eight smaller ones, we get engine smoothness and quietness. Eight-cylinders indicate the way the gas is used, not the amount. It is just the difference between going upstairs in four long jumps or in eight ordinary steps.

Two things use up gas—bad engine design and useless car weight. Besides having an engine that gets a high percentage of power out of the fuel, the Ford V-8 has a light, strong body and chassis so that no power is wasted in moving excess weight.

The only extravagance about the new Ford V-8 engine is in the building of it. The extravagance is ours—the economy is yours.

The whole question of car economy needs clearing up. An economical car gives economy all round. Price, operation, upkeep, all play their part. If what you save on gas you lose elsewhere, that is not economy.

As to upkeep, our dealers say that in recent years the improved quality of Ford cars has cut down their repair business 50 per cent.

As to price with quality,—judge for yourself.

As to economy, here is the record of a stock car three weeks out of shop in Oklahoma:

On a run of 10,054 miles at the rate of 1,000 miles a day—the Ford V-8 gave 18.8 miles per gallon of gas. Not a drop of water was added to the radiator. The oil was changed once in 1,000 miles.

That should answer a lot of questions.

ODA WILKINS DIED AT HER HOME NEAR BILLINGSLEY

o

Oda Wilkins, age 16, died at her home near Billingsley July 11, 1933, at ten o'clock, following a brief illness. Her death came as a great shock to her many friends throughout the community. She had been declining in health all the Summer, but her condition was not known to be so serious until Monday night before she died. She was taken worse and lived only a short while.

Oda has a host of friends and loved ones to share their sympathy with her bereaved family, 'cause she was loved and admired by all who knew her. She has been a faithful member of the Indian Grave B. Y. P. U. for several years and will be greatly missed in her community. She was always willing and ready to do what she could for the Lord.

The remains of this lovely girl were laid to rest in the Indian Grave cemetery Wednesday afternoon with Rev. A. S. Bentley officiating and Martin & Sons in charge, leaving a host of friends and relatives to mourn her death.

She has passed from earth to glory,
Like a flower to the sod.
To awake in joy and beauty
In the Kingdom of our God.
She has gone and left us desolate,
But she is so glad and free.
All our tears would turn to smiles
If her rapture we could see.
Oh! How good and brave and tender
She was ever, day by day.
All the sorrow that she gave us,
Was because she went away.
For her soul that we so cherished,
Now has found a fairer clime
Where the hand of God forever
Stays the ravages of time.
Earth has lost a friend and loved one,
But in Paradise we know
Lives another saint forever—
While the endless ages flow.
So let's think of her with gladness,
With unselfishness and say,
Heaven now is dearer and sweeter
Just because she went away.

THE HONEYBEE

By Walter M. Johnson, Jemison

Since the recent meeting of the beekeepers of Chilton County in the apiary of Mr. G. G. Williams, I find here and there an increased interest in beekeeping. I have met with several inquiries as to best beekeeping methods for the "beginner" who desires to combine this phase of agriculture with his or her regular occupation, that is, beekeeping for pleasure and profit.

Now that I may reach more of my friends contemplating an adventure into beekeeping than I would be able to reach by personal conversation, I beg leave of our County papers for space through which I may speak to all interested in this subject. Having engaged in beekeeping for over twenty-five years, almost exclusively, perhaps I may be able to offer a bit of safe counsel in this respect.

For a beginner, usually his first problem is deciding upon the particular kind of honeybee best adapted to his demands. There are several races of the honeybee with varying characteristics of habit as well as physical appearance. Both of these are of importance to any beekeeper. Some of the races are, namely, the "black" or German bee, the Carnolian, the Caucasian, the Italian and Cyprian. These are the races commonly found in different sections of the United States, yet there are other races to be found in European and Asiatis countries.

Let us now discuss a few of the habits of each of those named. The German bee or the "little black bee" probably most numerous in the South where beemen are less interested. This particular bee is smaller than either of the other races, less vigorous and certainly more inclined to fight than the others. Their readiness for anger renders them a disagreeable bee for the apiarist despite all of their good honey-gathering qualities. Immediately upon opening the hive the black bees seem to become confused, rushing here and there over the tops of the frames, then becoming furious often driving away their keeper.

As for the Carnolian, we find them resembling the black bee except for size. They possess a gentleness of disposition like to Italian. They are good honey-gatherers, depositing but little propolis (wax for sealing). However, their chief fault lies in their being such excessive swarmers, a great disadvantage to any beeman.

The Caucasian bee also resembles the black bee in appearance, though this is said to be the gentlest bee of all races. Yet they have not proved themselves an equal with the Carnolian or black bee for honey-gathering qualities. Offsetting most of his good qualities, the Caucasian is that of propolizing or gumming up the frames so badly.

The Cyprian bee is practically discarded by beemen in this country. Their extreme viciousness makes them very undesirable.

Now for the Italian. They may be divided into two distinct classes: the three-banded and the golden. Practically the only difference is that the latter are most yellowish in color. Perhaps this race of the honeybee, in view of all its good qualities, is most adapted to Southern beekeeping than any other. They are a larger bee in size than the others, most gentle of all, excepting the Caucasian, as hardy as any and perhaps more prolific. Another desirable feature is that this bee is not extreme propolizers. I have experimented personally with each of the above named bee. I commend the Italian bee to all.

Farm People Will Gather At Auburn

Leading [illegible] every county [illegible] state will [illegible] the Ala[illegible] Institute Au-gust 29-30 and 31 for Farmer's Week annual outing and short course for farm people.

"Leadership" will be the theme of the meeting this year, according to Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the extension service, and the importance of the development of leaders among farm people will be emphasized. Outstanding farm men and women will be recognized as leaders at appropriate ceremonies.

A program of instruction and recreation is being planned by a committee composed of Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the experiment station, and members of the experiment station and extension service staffs.

During the three-day session the annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation will be held, according to announcement by President J. Litt Edwards. Mrs. M. L. Batson, president of the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, has announced that the annual meeting of that organization will be held at the same time.

Prominent speakers will include Senator John H. Bankhead, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau.

Both of them are expected to speak on the national legislative situation as it pertains to agriculture. O'Neal led the forces of organized agriculture in their successful fight for effective legislation at the last session of Congress and Senator Bankhead piloted the Agricultural Adjustment Act through the Senate.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep appreciation for all the favors, kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our wife, mother and grandmother. We are very grateful for the beautiful flowers and messages of consolation during our bereavement. We desire to express our thanks to Dr. N. S. Johnson, and Dr. V. J. Gragg and the nurse, Mrs. Irene Rasberry, for their faithful service. Our hearts are overwhelmed with the way in which the people showed their love and since there are so many of our kind friends, we find it impossible to send all a personal note of thanks, thus we take this means to thank each and every one who so willingly and faithfully helped us.

—Mr. E. Jones and Family.

Elvie George Slaughter of Shreveport, La., was recently married to Lola Gene Hogg.

"KING KONG" PICTURE COMING TO WADESONIAN THEATRE SOON

Picture With Vivid Imaginings, Fifty-Foot Ape And Battle With Airplanes To Be Shown Here Friday And Saturday, July 28 and 29

There is something new under the sun-arcs, and Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, with their production of "King Kong," have done it!

The producers of "Grass" and "Chang" have soared grandly into the realms of imagination for the super-fantasy, "King Kong," the RKO-Radio Picture featuring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29.

With the late Edgar Wallace, Cooper conceived the extravagantly fantastic idea of bringing the prehistoric age into juxtaposition with the modern age. First an expedition to a jungle island discovers surviving members of the Jurassic Age—the pterodactyl, trachodon, tyrannosaurus, brontosaurus, triceratops and others—ruled over by a giant ape standing more than fifty feet high.

Then the ape is transported to civilization—to New York. Breaking loose, he tears through the streets where people, automobiles, street cars, elevated lines are like so many tin toys beneath one's feet—where even the tallest building in the world is no more difficult to climb than a tree!

The great "King Kong" even reaches into the sky and provides a new menace for airmen. A snatch at a plane pumping machine gun bullets into his tough hide, and it is doomed.

"King Kong" is a terror—the mightiest terror man, either in or out of fiction and of the movies, ever attempted to capture and subdue!

The imagination of the story is something to marvel at, but the visualization of it—its production—is a miracle of modern science. It blends fancy with realism so magically that you question what is fact and what isn't!

There is romance, too, in "King Kong." Bruce Cabot, in love with Fay Wray, finds the monster is his rival. It's a new angle on the Beauty and the Beast theme. The fragile, golden-haired heroine is the first in millions of years to touch a soft, tender spot in the heart of this Beast, and for her he kills giant terrors and wreaks havoc with mankind and its inventions. But his blundering idea of protection of course terrorizes the girl, and thrills the audience as well.

Extravagant with its surprises and action, "King Kong" sweeps one into a new realm of entertainment and leaves one with something to wonder at and talk about.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By
Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

The other day while strolling down Main Street in my own home town with Clyde Roseberry, editor of the Shawnee News and Star, Mr. Roseberry suggested that we drop in and look over what I would call an Electrical show, which was being held by local dealers. We did, and it was worth going miles to see.

We met Ralph Kumler, district manager of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, who knows everything about what electricity can do. He very courteously took us around to look at the various exhibits and he explained the uses of the different time and labor-saving appliances. It was a revelation to me. I never quite fully realized before what electricity is really doing to lighten labor for the housewife and the comforts and conveniences it gives the whole family.

Each local dealer had on display the lines of electrical appliances he had for sale, and for some days before the exhibit ran advertisements in the local newspapers which brought the crowds and buyers also.

I was particularly pleased with an electric range I saw and asked Mr. Kumler, who has the patience of Job, innumerable questions about it. The new electric range is a wonder. I was told how it frees the housewife from the unpleasantness of cooking. Its insulation keeps the heat in the oven—not in the kitchen. It has an electric timer. It is clean and economical and has so many other features that space forbids my telling more, but

I am sold on Electric shows. A show of this kind should be held in every city and town in the country. Every Chamber of Commerce should promote one: It is easy to arrange. Just get together the advertising managers of the local newspapers, the manager of the power company, the dealers in electrical appliances, and they can do the rest; such as arranging for a building, newspaper advertising, entertainment, exhibits, etc. It Not Only Means More Sales, But Is An Education To Everyone Who Attends.

CENTER HILL

We are not quite dead over in this place yet, although most everyone has been working very hard finishing up their crops and getting things in shape to be ready to plow up cotton.

Those from this place attending the singing at Mt. Pleasant all enjoyed the singing and hospitality there very much

Miss Eula Price is spending a few days with friends at Mud Town (Shiloh) attending the revival now in session there.

There was a goodly number met at the home of Mr. B. L. Cobb on last Tuesday night and sang for a while.

Miss Fannie Maude Woodfin of Chattanooga, Tenn., is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Thormbro.

Mrs. J. W. Collum was in bed most of last week with poisoned feet, but is able to be up again.

Our B. Y. P. U. is still in progress. Group No. 1 was in charge of the program Sunday evening.

The revival at this place will begin on Saturday night before the second Sunday of next month.

Mr. W. A. Collum of Clanton is visiting here.

Mrs. Rufus Scott is steadily improving.

Watermelons are sure on the move around here now.

Misses Irene and Olene Miller and Mildred Cobb, Mr. Alton and J. O Cobb and V. Miller all attended preaching services at Mars Hill Sunday night.

We are sorry to know Miss Agnes Scott is still ill at her home, but are glad that she is some better.

Miss Clara Scott is still visiting with friends and relatives in Birmingham.

Center Hill ball team No. 1, won a game from Minooka Saturday afternoon, but team No. 2 lost one to Oak Hill. Each has a game for next Saturday. Team No. 2 plays a double-header on their home diamond.

Miss Helen Anderson who has been visiting for a few weeks is to return to her home in Birmingham Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Janie George is visiting in Montgomery.

Hayes Always Great, Says Lew

—o—

With Senators Jack Never Had A Chance To Find Himself

—o—

(This is the seventh of a series of articles by Lew Fonseca, manager of the White Sox, in which he gives interesting sidelights on various of his players.)

BY LEW FONSECA,
Manager Chicago White Sox.

Jack Hayes has always been a great fielding second baseman. He was in and out of the game so often during the time he was a member of the Washington Senators that he hardly knew himself just what kind of a hitter he was.

I made Hayes my regular second baseman immediately after I obtained him in the trade with Washington last year. He has more than made good. Jack's hitting has continued to improve so much that for a time this season he was over the .300 mark, and right now he isn't so far away.

Hayes and Luke Appling have developed into one of the best double play combinations in the league, which has had much to do with what success my ball club has had this season.

Jack Hayes is a hustler from the time the game starts until the last man is out. He loves the game, and even during the hot Summer days you will find Jack taking the entire infield practice. He has a great pair of hands and is one of the best pivot men on double plays I have ever seen in baseball.

You'll find him always smiling. Nothing seems to bother Jack, and he is continually playing jokes on the rest of the players. He possesses a marvelous sense of humor.

Hayes played baseball and football at the University of Alabama. During the Winter months he plays golf at his home in Clanton, Ala., where they tell me he is the only member of the golf club—a two-hole course. Always has a low score. Nice chap, Jack Hayes.

B'HAM OPEN MARKET IS IN NEW LOCATION

—o—

Birmingham's open air farmers' market which has been an outlet for the produce of truck growers in all parts of Alabama and some neighboring states for more than five years, is in a new location this year. The market has been moved inside a handsome brick building, 150 by 140 feet, at Seventh Avenue and North Twenty-Sixth St., Birmingham, two blocks north of the Terminal Station.

The market, known as the Farmers & Truck Growers Terminal, Inc., will be in a much better position to serve farmers and buyers alike from this building. The farmers may drive their trucks directly into the building, which is enclosed and screened. Their produce will be protected from the heat of the sun and this feature will mean a great saving to them, as truck stuff will keep much longer.

The market was moved because of the desire of the operators to afford this convenience to farmers and because of strict requirements set up by the Birmingham Health Department, which has ruled that this year farmers will not be allowed to sell their produce from trucks parked on open lots or on the streets of Birmingham.

It is planned to operate a part of the former lot at Third Avenue and North Twenty-Fifth Street as a wholesale market, running only during the early morning hours. Farmers wishing to retail their produce then may move a few blocks northeast to the enclosed market. The latter building has concrete floors, brick walls and steel windows. It is the most desirable site in Birmingham for a market of its kind and will not be surpassed for convenience by any market in the South.

Miss Celia Gerald Fetes Charming Visitors.

A brilliant social event of this week was the lovely bridge party given by Miss Celia Gerald at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald, on Tuesday afternoon. This delightful event was in honor of Misses Betty Petree, of Russellville, Frances Ordway of Birmingham and Sara Hollis of Mitchell Dam, who have been the house guests of Miss Gerald the past two weeks and Miss Peggy Mullins of Mobile who is the guest of Miss Helen Moore. Beautiful flowers in pretty containers added a touch of beauty to the already beautiful apartments. After a short series of games which were greatly enjoyed by all those present the charming young hostess treated her guests to a delicious salad plate. The charming young ladies present were Misses Sara Lawrence, Helen Moore, Gertie Will Vinson, Dixie Johnson, Jane Pitts, Ruth Gowan, Eloise Rasberry, Hilda Hart, and the honorees. The high score prize, a pretty handkerchief, was won by Miss Dixie Johnson.

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances, Francis H. Sisson, President of the American Bankers Association, says in an article in Forum Magazine.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

"If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a dwindling trend it may mean a region that is losing ground,—becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically renewed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significances, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks.

City Banks Too

"If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the activities of the securities markets.

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as somehow separate from the lives of our people, casting forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves.

"The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern, of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream can be called the cause of business depression.

"If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other people. These troubles impaired the values of their securities and customers' notes—and rendered some unable, in turn, to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments. Unless these truths are kept continually in mind there is no such thing as approaching an understanding of the banking problem or of properly safeguarding the very heavy stake of the public in that problem."

FARM ACCOUNTING CONTEST LAUNCHED

Bankers Evolve Plan for Stimulating Important Aid to Farm Success

THE Cache county, Utah, bankers recently added a stimulus to banker-farmer cooperative work by launching a farm accounting contest. At a meeting of the Clearing House Association the project was put before the bankers, and methods and plans formulated.

Each bank in the county agreed to enroll a minimum of five farmers in the farm accounting project. The names of the farmers when enrolled will be sent to the Secretary of the Clearing House, and also to the Extension Division of the Utah State Agricultural College. The bankers agree to cooperate and keep in close touch with each farmer they enroll so as to insure the completion of a maximum number. The bank which succeeds at the conclusion of the contest in enrolling the largest number of farmers completing the project will be given a special recognition at the annual meeting.

News

It is with a great deal of pride that the News realizes more and more every week that its columns are read by people of Chilton county because they are interested in the type of news and features carried.

Of course we take pride in the fact that we carry a complete coverage of general county and state news --- thorough in every respect to all individuals and groups regardless of sect or creed; but we believe the most conclusive proof of our reader interest lies in the fact that throughout the county there are wide-awake citizens --- men and women, boys and girls --- who are interested in their communities and who, as an expression of this interest, send us each week News Letters telling of the events and ambitions of their people. We take a very real pride in our community letters. We are interested in the things they tell us, and we know that it is an indication of the regard for the kind of newspaper we are striving to send into every home in Chilton County.

These facts have a practical value to those who have a sales message for the people of this section. Our readers, our live-wire correspondents throughout the county --- by their acts --- proclaim an interest in this newspaper which is more than passing --- and which is indeed gratifying to the publishers.

This spirit of cooperation has grown right on through these recent years of financial depression --- our circulation has materially increased as has the number of communities represented in its columns by Community News Letters. These are facts worthy of careful consideration in placing advertising space orders.

Advertisements must be read to accomplish their aim. We believe the columns of the News offer a reader interest which will assure them careful consideration, because our readers have indicated an outstanding and unusual spirit of interest and cooperation toward this newspaper --- not alone in words, but in their daily activities as well.

STEEL ALONE IS NOT ENOUGH!

—neither strong enough, nor safe enough, nor quiet enough for the body of a quality car like

CHEVROLET

Why is it that every 12-cylinder and 16-cylinder car in America has bodies of steel reinforced by hardwood? Why is it that every make of car selling for over $4000 uses bodies of exactly the same type? Why? For the same reason that Chevrolet uses it exclusively. Because every test and every experiment have definitely proved: STEEL ALONE IS NOT ENOUGH!

The trouble with steel alone is that it stands just so much shock and punishment. Steel alone is also inclined to rumble and rattle. BUT—when you put the two together—a heavy, staunch steel body over tough, solid hardwood —then the hardwood reinforces the steel—and vice versa! And the result: the strongest, safest type of body, such as Fisher builds for Chevrolet.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

On Thursday afternoon, July 20th, Mrs. W. J. Duke and Miss Myrtice Smith were joint hostesses at the former's home in honor of Mrs. Gertie Jones, a bride of recent date. The living room was attractively decorated. Several games and contests were enjoyed. After the bride was presented with the many presents refreshments were served to the ladies present, among whom were: Mesdames J. L. Smith, J. F. Thornton, Reedie Patterson, Cora Thornton, W. R. Smith and W. J. Duke. Misses Gladys Wilson, Ora Devaughn, Hersie Ree Jones, Velma Jones, Arrelia Mims, Lelia McDaniel and Myrtice Smith.

Alabama Prepares Its Road Program

In order to get work started as soon as possible on the new road construction program to be financed with the approximately $12,000,000 of Federal funds allocated to Alabama, State authorities will not wait for completion of the detailed program, but will submit an incomplete program to the U S. Bureau of Public Roads for approval within the next week or ten days.

This announcement was made Monday by Gov. Miller following a conference with State Highway Director L. G. Smith. The incomplete program, the Governor said, will include approximately 75 per cent of the counties in which projects will be located. Work on preparation of the complete program will be continued to the earliest possible conclusion.

Throughout the day Monday delegations of citizens from various sections of Alabama continued to call on Gov. Miller and Highway Director Smith, to ask inclusion in the prospective road building plans of needed projects in which they are interested.

Former Senator J. Thomas Heflin and Judge Al Driver asked for paving of the road extending through Chambers and Randolph Counties, from Anniston to Opelika, via Wedowee, Roanoke and LaFayette. This road is on the Federal aid system.

Mayor John G. Barton of Jasper, and Norman Gunn presented a request for paving work inside city limits there, and a similar request was filed on behalf of the town of Waverly in Tallapoosa County. Another request was for the paving of certain unpaved gaps in highways traversing Lamar County.

How Black-Draught Holds its Popularity

A LAXATIVE made from highly approved, medicinal plants—yet about the least expensive laxative you can find: Thedford's Black-Draught.

There's no expensive container for you to buy when you ask your dealer for Black-Draught. And its light weight has saved freight bills in your favor. Black-Draught is right with you in economy. It brings prompt, refreshing relief to sufferers from constipation troubles.

Don't put up with sick headache sluggishness, gas, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, distress after meals, when due to constipation, but take Thedford's Black-Draught.

CHEVROLET PRODUCTION EXCEEDING LAST YEAR

Detroit. Mich., July 18—With only 15 days more than one half of the year, production of new Chevrolet cars and trucks equalled the full twelve months' production of 1932, when car number 394,005 came off the assembly line at Flint. Mich., it was announced by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of Chevrolet Motor Company.

By July 1 production so far this year had already reached the 358,741 mark, leaving only 35,264 to be completed and pass the twelve-month total of 1932. The rapid rate of manufacturing at the company's twenty plants is attested to by the fact that these 35,264 units—more than the July total of last year were completed in only 15 working days.

On the basis of present schedules, July production this year will compare favorably with that of May and will be the best July since 1929. July production this year will be approximately 2½ times the production of July, 1932. Mr. Knudsen also pointed out that production in every month of this year, with the exception of March, surpassed production in the same months of 1932. March production, although retarded by the national bank holidays, fell short of March 1932 production by only 226 [illegible]

Early in the year an output of 450,000 cars was fixed for 1933. But so great was the demand for new Chevrolets that this figure was revised upwards to well over 500,000 units. And by the end of July about 75 per cent of this objective will have been attained.

It was also noted by Mr. Knudsen that the production this year, already equal to that of 1932, is an outstanding performance because of the great volume annually turned out by Chevrolet, and that his company's operations have a far-reaching influence in promulgating prosperity to hundreds of thousands of people, directly and indirectly.

In this connection, Mr. Knudsen stated that employment totals had ascended from 32,922 for the week ending January 7, of this year, to 40,643 for the week ending Saturday, July 8.

Present production is closely following retail sales.

First Canning Demonstration Success

The first canning demonstration for the Training School community last Saturday, went over in a big way. It was early when the people started appearing with their vegetables, from all directions. Nearly two hundred quarts of vegetables and fruits were canned.

It was marvelous to see how Miss Ruth Pardue, Home Demonstration Agent, took the demonstration in hand and worked it to perfection. It wasn't long before she had acquainted the entire group to the task before them and they were working with ease. I trust that this is the beginning of a new and perpetual movement. Surely, I shall do all I can to have these canning drives each year.

I take this opportunity in thanking Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, Miss Pardue and others who have made this blessing a reality. We have long since needed such an enterprise in our community.

Ball Ground Scraped Again

To make it possible for us to have a good play ground for our picnic next Saturday Mr. Ward scraped our ball diamond the other day. We haven't been able to sod our ground, as yet, and for that reason innumerable rocks soon emerge to the surface, making it unfit for activities. It is through the courtesy of Mr. Ward and Commissioner Duke that the scraping of our ground is made possible. If we would have the favor and best wishes of our white friends, it is our purpose to show our appreciation for what we get, and ask for what we want. Here is hoping that the people residing in Commissioner Duke's district will feel proud of him at the end of the term of office.

Corn Crops Improving

I was out in the Morning Star community the other day and was very pleased to note the progress those folks are making with their corn crops. I want to commend Bud Barbour, Julian Wilson and Lee Cleckley for their good crops in general. Many of those folks over there are in the contest, and if they don't win, somebody is going to make lots of corn.

Vetch and Peas This Fall

A number of farmers have told me that they would like very much to plant winter legumes, but they don't have the money in time. Now the fact that you are getting a little cash for plowing under your cotton offers a splendid opportunity for you to put in your order for peas or vetch now. I know you are going to say, "I need this and that," this is a business proposition that is for your welfare and requires a sacrifice. Those farmers who have started this practice, there is no stopping them. There is Anthony Holifield who sowed only a few acres last year. The results are so amazing this year until he states that around forty or fifty acres will be sown in legumes this fall. Now folks, we need more folks like Holifield, who will come up, give you their hand and not "back-slide." What about taking advantage of this opportunity folks? I'll see.

It Takes More Than Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, or Laxative Pills To Arouse a Sluggish Liver

They Give Only Temporary Relief From Constipation and Biliousness, Because They Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile.

Bile is nature's laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills remove the cause of this condition in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative at all.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two generally recognized substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances.

Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

Rotation Of Crops

In any section newly brought under cultivation there is a tendency for farmers to grow one crop largely to the exclusion of all others. This crop is the one which is adapted to transportation facilities, climatic conditions, money value, or other peculiarities of the section. It is usually the highest value crop that can be grown extensively and its growth continues until the profitableness of the crop is less pronounced, perhaps because of low yields. In some sections fertility depletion or the disturbed balance of plant nutrients is the factor influencing the change; diseases and insects also are common factors. Weeds, soil erosion, and physical conditions may also make a change of crops desirable. An example of this change is the cycle of flax, wheat and corn, and their general cropping in sections of the corn belt in which each crop has had its turn as the major crop grown.

Meitz reports that both on soils used for centuries and on relatively new soils the annual average yields of the different crops does not show a gradual decline as many would suppose, but rather a gradual increase. He also states that while virgin soils rapidly decline in yielding ability for a time they soon reach a stationary state at a rather low yield level, and that then with the use of better cultural methods, the rotation of crops, the use of crop wastes; manures and commercial fertilizer, the average yields are gradually increased.

The need of a change from the one-crop system was formerly supposed to be due to waste products thrown off into the soil by the roots of growing plants. These waste products were supposedly injurious only to the crop by which they were produced, so that a change of crop was necessary in order to avoid the harmful effects of this "sewage." While the benefits which result from rotation of crops have been difinitely shown by many experiments, continued through a series of years, the theory of crop wastes is no longer generally held.

Next week's topic: "Birds as an aid to Agriculture."

CENTRAL SINGING SOCIETY

The Central singing society met at Friendship last Sunday afternoon and had an hour of good singing. Not many were present, supposedly because they were afraid their figure would be disfigured by the threatening summer showers. Baptists are not supposed to be afraid of water, but maybe they dislike to be sprinkled. It is hoped that our people will rally to our society and let's make it an interesting affair.

The next meeting of the society will be held at Chestnut Creek, Coopers, the first Sunday afternoon in August.

GINNERS ADOPT $7.50 CHARGE FOR GINNING

Storrs Says "Unreasonable" And That $5.00 Is Also Too High

Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, has asked that all commissioners of agriculture of the cotton producing states join him in fighting the national cotton ginners code "which seeks to establish a price on ginning and wrapping of about $7.50 per bale."

Commissioner Storrs declares the price "absolutely unreasonable" and makes the following statement:

"I am squarely behind Pres. Roosevelt's Recovery Program, a part of which is forming codes of fair practice. I have taken an active part in assisting Alabama dairymen in writing their code because its prices and practices are fair to all parties. For the same reason I am assisting the bee keepers in writing a code covering the bee producing states.

"On Wed. I attended the meeting of the Alabama ginners association at Montgomery and when I found that they endorsed the National Ginners code which seeks to establish a price on ginning and wrapping of about $7.50 per bale I withdrew from the meeting and gave notice that I would file objections to the adoption of the code.

"I have written Harry D. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture of Louisiana, who is President of the Southern Commissioners Association, requesting him to bring the code to the attention of the Commissioners of the cotton states and ask them to meet me in Washington and join in the protest.

"The Alabama ginners adopted the tentative code written by the national conference of ginners and ginners association executives in Memphis, Tenn., July 7th, covering all the cotton states. The code seeks to establish a cost of $5.63 for ginning. To this is to be added the cost of bagging and ties and about 10 per cent profit making the total cost from $7.13 to $7.83 per bale depending on the price of bagging and ties. The code has already been adopted by several other states and will be submitted to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Administrator of the National Recovery Act in Washington within a few days with a request for early consideration.

"Later in the Alabama ginners meeting they passed a motion fixing $5.00 as the price to be charged until such time as the code is approved and the prices fixed.

"The price sought in the code is absolutely unreasonable and the temporary price fixed by Alabama ginners at $5.00 is too high a price with 12c cotton. When cotton was 40c and all other commodities at highest prices ever known $5.00 was the price of ginning and wrapping and everybody made money including the ginners.

"Everybody in the cotton belt interested in the price of ginning should write to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Administrator of the National Recovery Act in Washington."

TWO BIRTHDAYS

Two men of widely different types, each of whom has been prominent in the world's news for a long time, will reach important milestones in their life journey this month. Benito Mussolini will be 50 years old on July 29, and Henry Ford will be 70 on July 30. Both rose from humble beginnings.

In early life Mussolini worked as a common laborer, but managed to obtain a fair education. He fought as a corporal in the World War until he was wounded in February, 1917. In 1919 he founded the Fascisti to suppress Bolshevism, and by 1922 it had 4,000,000 members. It demanded that Mussolini head the government and he was made premier by the king on October 30, 1922, since which time he has been Italy's dictator. His rule has been stern, but on the whole beneficial to the country.

Henry Ford had only a common school education and began as a machinist's helper, later becoming chief engineer of one of Edison's companies. He was a pioneer in the automobile field and employed more than 100,000 persons at the height of production before the depression, at which time he was reputed to be worth a billion dollars or more.

There is a world of inspiration in a study of these two men, who by their own efforts have risen from obscurity to commanding places in their respective spheres of action.

Miss Elsie Goold of Hull, Eng., has been declared insane since she tries to kiss every man she meets.

Since Emil Holm of Centralia, Wash., saved the life of his cow by feeding her warmed home brew, she has become an inveterate drinker.

John Cullan, 56, of Newark, N. J., told police he had a dog which was starving to death while he was in jail, so they let him out long enough to feed it.

Mrs. P. V. Gerton of St. Paul had her cook arrested for bombarding her with pancakes.

After being warned to make his wife stop talking, James Barrs of Chicago explained: "I have no control over her."

George Dalgreen of Duluth, who was found under a bed in a suburban home and arrested, said he "was looking for a former sweetheart."

After being arrested for bigamy, James L. Robb of Glasgow pleaded that he had forgotten his first marriage.

men are sought. This too, is something new to citizens of this country, but President Roosevelt expressed his pleasure at the responsive spirit which employers and industrial leaders from every section of the country have indicated by telegrams sent pledging their support to the plan. Wages must be increased that a greater purchasing power may be developed in America, he explained, and shorter hours of work must be established so that idle men may have jobs to support their families. He declared that America must not be asked or allowed to face another winter without employment and a fair wage.

Codes of fair practice in similar industries were shown to be necessary so that the increase in wages and commodity prices would not work a hardship on some, while others would be given an opportunity to take advantage of the increased prices without doing their part to increase purchasing power. The blanket code, which every employer, big or little will be asked to sign, is a means of bringing into effect benefits on a solid front of American industry.

Beginning today, codes of agreement with the government for shorter hours per week and a higher scale of wages will be submitted to all employers for voluntary signature. A great national campaign is being put on to acquaint the public with details of the plan and the ends sought. A badge of honor will be presented to everyone who signs this agreement, and the buying public will be urged to give special consideration to those business houses displaying this badge.

Mr. Roosevelt appealed to the patriotism of citizens to cooperate in this grave emergency. He expressed his utmost confidence in the people of this country to come out of the slough of depression which we have been passing through and concluded by declaring that this program could be and would be put over and victory attained if the American people wanted to.

Plows Now Active Slashing Surplus

Plows are now busy on many Alabama farms slashing the cotton surplus. A change in regulations made last week cut through a great mass of red tape and enabled farmers to begin early this week curtailing their production.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, state administrator of the agricultural adjustment act, relayed to county agents a telegram from Washington which authorized them to issue permits to retire their cotton.

The telegram stated that the secretary of agriculture has authorized the acceptance of all producer contracts which are approved by the county agent and county committee.

Dr. Duncan emphasized that in no instance should producers begin destruction of their crop until their application has been approved by the county agent and county committee and a permit issued by the county agent.

He also said that farmers should be very careful to actually remove from production the exact acreage given in their contracts, and that special care should be taken to entirely destroy the crop.

Growers in Alabama offered to retire approximately 850,000 acres. This retirement will remove production by close to 300,000 bales. Production in all the Southern states will be curtailed 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bales it is expected.

Alabama farmers will be paid approximately $10,000,000 for cutting their acreage and it is estimated that the cotton left standing will be worth $2,262,000 more than the entire crop would have been worth had no reduction been made.

Farmers are warned not to take their cotton out of production until their contract has been approved by the county agent and county committee and they have received a permit from the county agent.

Now we will present Mr. Samuel Morris, another Chilton county representative from Cooper, also, who was the first man that was picked out for special duty and was assigned the position as the company mail orderly which he held until July 7th, and then was promoted to assistant supply agent, which position he held down with perfection and showed a great interest which enabled him to receive a promotion as the head supply agent of the Foresters Supply Dept., and as his conduct and ability to perform every duty yet intrusted to him he is expecting to be made the inspector of the truck force which is constituted of six trucks. His duties will begin August 1st, which will entitle him to a bigger salary. The duties he will assume here will be to see that all trucks will be oiled at regular intervals, that no truck will leave camp without a sufficient supply of gasoline to make the round trip, that all tires are in perfect order, that all brakes are in shape in case of an emergency halt, and that all steering gear is in working order.

Mr. Morris has won confidence of the whole company just as Mr. T. Lloyd Connell has done, and has been selected as one of the "honor men" from the company, which is given only to those who win it in an honest way, of the same was Mr. Morris awarded his. Of course he has remained a $30 a month man all the while. Within a few days he will be a higher salaried man. Here is the letter presented to him by Captain Ross:

470th Company Civilian Conservation Corps, R.F.D., Brinson, Georgia
"Spring Creek Camp"
July 2, 1933.

"Mr. W. T. Morris,
Coopers, Ala.

"My dear Mr. Morris,

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to report that your son, has been designated "Honor Man" for last week by the officers. This selection is based on attention to duty, initiative and general value to the Company. I wish that we had more men like him. He is sober, honest and quick to learn.

"Samuel has made an excellent mail orderly, his work has been satisfactory in every particular. His promotion is blocked in his present assignment however because he is unable to use a typewriter, I am therefore placing him in the supply department for a few weeks, so that he can learn that angle, after which he will be sent into the woods where he will have a better chance to secure a higher rating.

"Trusting that I shall have the pleasure of seeing you again soon, I am Very truly yours,
D. M. N. Ross, Capt. Inf., Supervisor."

Friends, it gives me great pleasure to break this news to you of our Chilton county boys and to know that I am numbered with them as far as being the same county's, even though I remain a $30 a month man, I am hoping for something else before leaving this C. C. C. Now, come on folks, give these two boys a big hand, and next week I'll tell you more about our Chilton county boys.

Folks, this camp life is something great. You see we are situated on the shore of Power Dam lake which covers 2300 acres, and affords swimming, boating and fishing of all the species of fish that could be thought of, but above all it affords you the opportunity to watch for alligators, or at least it does for me.

Some of the activities of our camp life are boxing, baseball, foot races and on each Wednesday night prayer meeting, and each week a camp-fire party, which affords a scene of a bonfire and the boys all circled around it. Stories are told, music by the company's band of which are some of our Chilton county boys.

But folks, this is home, sweet home to us because each boy almost has a son or a father, even though they may be the same age. For instance, Mr. Earl Hassler is the son of Mr. Clarence West, both of Birmingham and both red headed. Lance Franklin is the son of Mr. Chester Allen of Anniston, Ala. So there it goes, all of mothers must be dead. Now, there aren't any women in camp is the only reason I suppose why we don't have mothers here.

Well, you talk about working in the woods, I can talk now or I think I can by the number of stumps we have dug from the 30-foot fire-break we were working on last week.

Just one thing before I go, Mr. Edgar Rickard of Thorsby requested that it be made known that he is in the C.C.C. not in the R.F.C. as appeared sometime back. Of course he said that was all right this time.

And each and every one of the Chilton county boys want to express their thanks to their friends and relatives who have been so kind as to write them.

Well, as I have told you from time unto time, you can't run anyone of us away from here, and we'll see you next week in the Chilton County News.

COUNTY PICNIC

River". Mr. Pitts also spoke a few words, lauding C. E. Stapp in his efforts toward the county, congratulating him on the fact that Chilton was the sixth county in the state to reach their quota in the cotton acreage cut program.

County Agent Stapp spoke several minutes on the value of planning and building the community, urging co-operation by every community toward a new deal. He urged every single person to be loyal to his community and reminded them that "It is not the community but you."

At this point several distinguished guests were recognized and introduced. Among them were Mayor W. A. Gunter of Montgomery; L. N. Duncan, head of the Agricultural Extension Work in Alabama; Emmett Sizemore, Farm Agent for this district, and Sie Ashcraft, vice-president of the Alabama Farm Bureau.

Following this Representative W. B. Oliver of this district, who, along with Senator John H. Bankhead, was the principal speaker of the day, delivered his inspirational address. Oliver urged small independent farms and not large plantations. Told the people to cooperate in their communities with their county, state and national officers. He praised President Roosevelt, giving him the qualities of Lincoln, Wilson, Washington and other great presidents. Reminding them of the twelve millions of dollars to be spent in Alabama and not to be paid back he showed and proved to these present that their representatives in Washington and the government were behind Alabama. Oliver told the people that they should be congratulated on having as their county agent a man like C. E. Stapp. At the close of his message, Stapp recalled the fact that last year at the picnic Oliver had stated that he hoped to see a Home Demonstration Agent in Chilton soon. Oliver then said that he would arrange it so that some member of the Girls' Club in Chilton and other counties could go to the capital and meet President and Mrs. Roosevelt personally.

Here a vocal duet was rendered by Misses Hilda Hart and Maralyn Hardy, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Ellis.

On account of having to leave unexpectedly Senator Bankhead spoke in the morning instead of the afternoon as formerly planned. Some of the main points of his speech were: "Your Representatives and Senator are working together for your benefit. Oliver is one of the best Representatives in the entire House. Cotton is important to the South because it is the only large returning stream of money. Since the World War the price of industrial products have gone up while those of farm products are going down. The farmers of this country should organize and demand a set price instead of asking, 'What will you give me.' " He said that the average consumption this year would only be about 13,000,000 bales which would only take care of the carryover of last year, therefore leaving this year's crop for next year. The Senator also called attention to the fact that this year's crop was a 11.6% increase over the previous year and the fertilizer consumption was an increase of 50%. He continued his speech by stating the President's disappointment at the lack of cooperation in the cotton acreage plan. He was beginning to discuss plans for the raising of less cotton in the South when he was called away.

The fiddlers' contest, which came immediately after dinner, was the next part of the program. A great deal of interest was shown in this as the people crowded around the platform. The judges were Messrs. George Guy, Fonza Vinson and "Preacher" Cox. The contestants in order that they appeared were: Ine Howell, A. A. Vance, Buck Culp, Dalton Cooper, Lexy Mims. At this point little Miss Mary Elizabeth Wiggins, 5-year-old popular juvenile radio star of Birmingham rendered two songs. Little Miss Wiggins, through her broadcasts over the radio contributed over a hundred dollars to the storm sufferers in this county. The next fiddlers were Archie Deloach, Arthur Coker, Joe Terron and Steele Jones. The first prize, two dollars, was won by Ine Howell and the second prize was won by Dewey Blalock.

The Boys' Event was the next feature of the program. The speakers on this feature were Marvin Durbin, Clifford Manning and Oliver Manning. Marvin Durbin, one of the three boys in Alabama who hold a National Farmer's Key in the F. F. A. spoke on the history and purposes of the Future Farmers of America. Clifford Manning, president of the 4-H Clubs of Chilton County, told of the work done by the clubs and their program for the next year which includes the annual camp on the river, the county-wide exhibit to be held in Clanton soon and the sending of several of their members to the World's Fair in Chicago. The presidents of each club were called upon the platform to say a few words. Those appearing were: Dan Owen, Popwell Chapter Club; Casey Cummings, Isabella Club; Carl Sanders, Jackson Chapel Club; Frank Brown, Maplesville Club; Jack Wise, Cooper Club; Leonard Eiland, Enterprise Club. The next speaker was Oliver Manning, who was named as the second best all around farmer at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who said a few words on the value of country life and what opportunities were offered now to the farm boy.

Mr. Sie Ashcraft, director of the Agriculture Extension Work in Alabama, was the last speaker, centering his talk around the cotton problems and how to meet them.

The program was closed by County Agent Stapp who urged everybody to come back next year and publicly thanked all those who helped in any way for their services.

Music was furnished throughout the day by the Clanton-Verbena Orchestra, Lloyd Howard, accordionist, and several fiddlers and guitar players.

Gragg Thanks The Voters Of County

Editor, Chilton County News:

Dear Sir:—Please allow me space in your paper to thank the voters of Chilton County for the pleasing vote cast for me in the recent election.

It is very gratifying to one to receive a respectable majority like this when one knows his opponent to be one of the best and most respected citizens of the county.

However, I am not egotistical over this, because I realize that, in a great measure, it was the principle involved, and not the man, that resulted in the outcome of our recent election in this county.

Again I want to thank each and every voter who cast his ballot for me and say that, while we lost in the state, old Chilton stands out firmly for principle.

Yours truly,
V. J. GRAGG.

How many street lamps will one LIFE pay for?

NO MATTER how careful the motorist, how cautious the pedestrian, accidents are bound to happen on poorly lighted streets. For even the most careful motorist, night driving is a risk — made doubly dangerous when darkness takes the wheel down shadowy, improperly lighted streets. ¶ That is why well-lighted thoroughfares repay their cost many times over in prevention of many avoidable traffic accidents. One less accident, one less fatality alone, is surely worth the price of proper street lighting. ¶ White ways are safe ways. Ally yourself with the movement for more white way lighting in your city and thus ally yourself with a movement for SAFETY FIRST!

CHILTON BACKING NRA PROGRAM

Plan To Organize Merchants Association

UNITED STATES IS GOING BACK TO WORK FAST

Half Million Men Going Back To Jobs After Many Idle Years

Half a million men are going back to work as the immediate result of the national recovery act of the Democratic national administration, according to an article by the United Press of Sunday.

Pay checks that the workers will take home to their families will remove approximately 2,000,000 persons from the relief rolls.

Although the recovery code has just been launched and the sign of the blue eagle insignia still is unfamiliar, the widespread effects already can be counted in concrete statistics showing unemployed men again finding jobs.

The survey showed that reemployment, primary goal of the nation-wide recovery program, is an actuality and the totals disclosed Saturday promised to be doubled and trebled as the movement spread.

Here is the way the nation is going back to work:

Detroit—60,000 men are expected to find new jobs in the motor industry alone. Already 30,000 have been given employment.

Chicago—In three days approximately 50,000 new jobs have been created.

Columbus, Ohio—New jobs are expected for 5,000; pay increases for 10,-

Women Are Busy In Canning Fruits

On July 5th, there were twenty-two canning centers for women of this county in operation, according to Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, and a great deal of splendid work has been done. In these twenty-two centers there were twenty certified leaders in charge and two non-certified leaders.

During this work, there have been ~~983 No. 2 tins and 2326 No. 3 tins filled~~ with beans, soup mixtures, tomatoes, etc., according to Miss Pardue. This work was done during the month by 361 people who attended the centers. In addition to this food there were 30 quarts of beef canned for two families. Several beeves will be canned this fall.

FATE MADDOX NOW WITH HAYES CHEVROLET CO.

This week the Hayes Chevrolet Co., local Chevrolet dealers, are announcing the addition to their efficient corps of service men, Fate Maddox, and that they are doing this to comply with the wishes of the national recovery program.

Mr. Maddox, a well known and liked automobile mechanic, will find his many friends congratulating him on becoming connected with Hayes Chevrolet Co. Mr. Maddox is considered one of the most experienced mechanics in this section.

DESTRUCTION OF COTTON IS TO BE ASSURED

Letter Mailed To Growers Warning About Cotton Not Being Dead

In a letter to farmers and growers of cotton over the county, County Agent Stapp issues a warning that all cotton that is plowed under according to the government contracts, must be completely destroyed so that it will not produce any opening bolls. Following are excerpts from the letter:

To All Cotton Farmers Whose Contracts Have Been Accepted:

"I have sent to you a notice in which I advised you that I had accepted your contract for a certain number of acres. Keep that notice of acceptance for your reference.

"I am writing now to call your attention to the importance of completely destroying at the earliest possible date all cotton that you contracted to destroy. While there is a season in the ground is the best time to destroy the cotton.

"The inspectors will be instructed to see you next week and make a report. If the inspectors reports shows that you have completely destroyed the acres of cotton that you received notice to destroy, then I will recommend immediate settlement with you.

Caution

"Let me suggest that you not leave your cotton to be destroyed so that it might open. Should it be allowed to remain in the field or taken to the barn

PLOWS BUSY TURNING IN 'WHITE GOLD'

Inspectors Will Visit Fields Next Week To See If Contracts Okeh

Plows are busy and have been busy over Chilton county for several days, plowing under acre after acre of cotton the South's "White Gold", according to County Agent Stapp.

There was a total of 3144 contracts in the county in the destruction of cotton and cooperating with President Roosevelt's cotton acreage reduction plan. Of these 3144 contracts there were only 25 that were not acceptable, and this was due to them being under the hundred pound yield limit, according to Mr. Stapp.

It is planned to complete all contracts this week, and up to Tuesday of this week more than three thousand contracts had been sent to Washington and returned with approval. In many communities over the county it is reported that ninety per cent of the acres in the contracts, have been plowed under.

Mr. Stapp stated that growers have through this week to prepare for the field inspectors. Next week the inspectors are to go into the fields and see if growers have fulfilled their contracts, and if a favorable report is made, Mr. Stapp stated that he expected to give immediate payment to the growers.

M. LANDE RETURNS FROM MARKET WITH NEWS FOR CUST'M'RS

Mr. Maurice Lande, manager of The Leader, returned this week from a trip to the markets in Chicago and St. Louis. While away he purchased Fall merchandise for his store and promises his many friends and customers the finest selection of goods he has ever carried.

ADOPTION OF NRA CODE IS EVIDENT HERE

Merchants Pledge Support Of Recovery Program With Signatures

Places of business in every line in Chilton county are falling in line and pledging their support to the ational recovery act. Pledges were received by every employer this week and hundreds have already been signed.

Those places of business that are cooperating with the President and asking for the cooperation of everyone are displaying in the windows the large sign of the "blue eagle." Following are names of firms who signed the pledges up to the time the News goes to press this week:

C. E. Stapp, W. H. Sartor, Clanton Motor Car Co., Polk Brothers Motor Co., J. R. Hardy, West End, Clanton Cash Store, Union-Banner, Tom Kemp, Hills, Hayes Chevrolet Co., V. J. Elmores 5c, 10c & $1.00 Stores, Upchurchs, Farmers Hardware.

FIREMEN TO PLAY LAY AND MITCHELL DAM TEAM HERE

The firemen of Clanton, at their regular meeting last Wednesday night, discussed plans for providing additional funds for their activities. Various plans for raising money were dscussed. It was decided to arrange a baseball game between the firemen and Mitchell Dam-Lock 12 teams combined. This game is to be played in Clanton in the near future. A negro minstrel was discussed, but no definite announcements are as yet available in regard to this.

Miss Alma Allen and Mrs. Parker Taylor will leave Monday for a motor trip to Myrtle Beach, S. C., where they will spend several days with Mrs. Clyde King, who is Mrs. Taylor's sister.

EDITORIAL

The "New Deal" Promised By Democratic Party Reaches Chilton County

From the smallest hamlet and village to the largest city of the United States, the "New Deal" promised the harrassed people of this nation by the Democratic party and its "man of the hour", is being felt in no small degree.

Reports are pouring into the nation's capital of the whole-hearted support being given the recovery program of President Roosevelt, and of the rapidly moving tide of better times that is spreading over the country. Thousands upon thousands of men and women are being put back in jobs while thousands of others are receiving higher wages and shorter working hours. Markets are steadily rising. Daily press reports stated Tuesday that thirteen thousand miners in Alabama alone have received a raise in wages.

These are the reports that have been coming to the people of Chilton County during the past few months. These reports were coming mostly from industries that are not seen in this county, and now they cease to be reports. They have become facts.

Mainly, Chilton County is interested in the price of cotton and other farm products. The program of the Democratic national administration to bring recovery to the nation has reached Chilton County. The price of cotton is above a level that has not been seen in several years, and experts say it will remain at that level or go even higher. This price is not based on speculation. It is based on the fact that the cotton crop this year will be short by the offer of the government in its acreage reduction plan. Beginning Monday of this week employees in almost every line of business in Chilton County are receiving notices that their working hours have been reduced with no cut in salaries, and hundreds are receiving increase in salaries, while many business firms in the county are putting on more employees.

All this will tend to bring to the farmers of this county, and other sections as well, better prices for their farm products. They will be given a chance to make for themselves, a living wage for their labors. This newspaper wishes to be listed as urging the people who buy farm products to pay the highest prices possible and by doing this, be a great help in causing this recovery program to spread faster.

The program for recovery and for relief for a stricken people, promised by the Democratic administration, has truly reached Chilton County.

STATE ENDEAVORING TO MEET ALL INDEBTEDNESS SOON

Warrant Commission May Endeavor To Secure Funds To Refinance Indebtedness Included In New Warrant Act, Is Report

In a letter to all county and city school superintendents of education from Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintendent, one of which was received by Luther E. Little, there is some information regarding action of the Warrant Commission of the state on paying indebtedness. Following is an excerpt of the letter:

"It is rumored that the Warrant Commission will endeavor to secure funds with which to refinance all indebtedness of the State, which is included in the Warrant Act Amendment, and that, in case this is impossible, new interest bearing warrants containing a definite maturity date will be issued in lieu of the warrants now held by the various city and county boards of education, institutions of higher learning and others.

"I have been informed that the Warrant Commission will not meet until after an official count has been made of the election returns, which count will be made by the State Canvassing Board on August 2. This Department will endeavor to keep in touch with the members of the Warrant Commission and will notify you as soon as definite information is available."

CLAY FITTS SIGNS LARGEST COTTON ACREAGE CONTRACT

It became known this week that the cotton grower of this county who signed the cotton acreage contract for the largest number of acres was Clay Fitts, who resides on Montevallo, Route 2.

Mr. Fitts originally had a crop estimated at eighty acres and his contract called for forty to be destroyed.

H. S. Lee, who resides on Route 6, was among the visitors to Clanton Tuesday. While in town, Mr. Lee was a caller at the News office.

A Yale professor who has great confidence in ambitious youth, says: "The boy who is determined to go to the devil will in all probability accomplish his purpose."

Opening Dates Of Schools Are Set

Superintendent of education Luther E. Little has announced the opening dates for all schools in the county, according to a statement given the News this week.

Mr. Little stated that accredited schools will open on September 4th, and all other schools in the county will open on October 3rd. A teachers' institute will be held in Clanton on Monday, October 2nd.

VETERANS REPRESENTATIVE TO BE HERE AUGUST 7TH

Hunter T. Burnett, representing Congressman W. B. Oliver in Veteran's Affairs, will be in Clanton Monday, August 7th, for the purpose of aiding veterans in their claims. All veterans are urged to be here and see Mr. Burnett in person.

WILL INCLUDE MERCHANTS OF ENTIRE COUNTY

Membership Committees Are Appointed To Work Each Town

A spirit of cooperation is felt among Chilton County merchants and a move is on foot and making headway toward the organization of a retail merchants association.

At a meeting of merchants and business men from all over the county at the courthouse in Clanton Monday night, steps were taken to get this association to moving and to make it a county organization. This movement was suggested by G. C. Armstrong, manager of the A & P store in Clanton and unanimously endorsed.

The election of officers for the association and the appointment of committees to solicit membership was held Monday night. V. J. Elmore, operator of the five and ten cent store, was elected president; C. C. Conway of Jemison, 1st vice-president; W. A. Gulledge, Verbena, 2nd vice-president and Dewey Rockett of Clanton, secretary and treasurer.

The committees for the various towns in the county are as follows. Thorsby, S. M. Pate and Varney E. Wyatt; Jemison, Mr. Langston and Dr. McNeill; Maplesville, J. P. Payne and Hill Foshee; Verbena, H. T. Williams and W. A. Gulledge; Coopers, H. J. Taylor;

OLIVER SPOKE TO GROUP AT HIGH SCHOOL

Congressman Entertained By Local Democratic Committee

In their efforts to aid in any manner possible the recovery program of President Roosevelt and to bring to the people of Chilton County information of the broad visioned and far-reaching actions of the national Democratic administration, the Democratic Executive Committee of Chilton County had as its guest on Wednesday night of last week, Congressman W. B. Oliver of this district.

Congressman Oliver was entertained at a supper at the Wilson Hotel with members of the executive committee. A long table arranged in banquet style was lined with members who had a

ALL-DAY SINGING SCHEDULED AT FREEMAN SCHOOL SOON

The News has been requested to announce that there will be an all-day singing at the Freeman school house on Sunday, August 6th. The old books will be used. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone. Bring the Sacred Harp and Christian Harmony books, and lunch.

WADESONIAN HAS SPLENDID PROGRAM FOR NEXT WEEK

The program of pictures to be shown at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton for the coming week, indicates some extra good pictures. Especially the pictures "Melody Cruise" and "Big Brain."

Also in the program of the theatre as published in the News this week, appear many names of persons who are to receive free tickets to the theatre for the week.

It is estimated that only 40 per cent of persons have bath tubs. But perhaps the other 60 per cent have no urge to sing.

NEW WORKING HOURS PUT IN EFFECT HERE

Merchants Over County Will Probably Join Clanton In Recovery Act

In order to lend immediate and whole hearted cooperation to the national administration in putting into practice the far-reaching changes involved in the Industrial Recovery Act, merchants and business men of Chilton county met in Clanton and prepared a program of opening and closing hours, complying with the wishes of the government in shorter working hours, higher wages, etc

The preliminary meeting was held last Friday night with V. J. Elmore as temporary chairman and Claudie Pipes as temporary secretary. At that time committees for the various kinds of business in Clanton were appointed to map out proposed hours.

These recommendations were submitted at a meeting of merchants and business men from over the county Monday night and it was decided to dispose of thes recommendations and

POLK BROTHERS COMPLYING WITH RECOVERY PROGRAM

Cooperating with the President and his national recovery program, Polk Brothers Motor Co., local dealers for Chrysler and Plymouth cars, have shortened the working hours of thier employees and added another mechanic.

The new employee at Polk Brothers is none other than Jimmy LeCroy, who is widely known as an experienced automobile mechanic, having had several years experience in this work. The addition of Mr. LeCroy will mean quite a lot to Polk Brothers, as he is not only a good mechanic, but has many friends over the county.

Clanton And The President's Program

On windows of places of business in Clanton will soon be seen large signs with a big blue eagle and the letters "N. R. A. We Are Doing Our Part." When you see one of these posters in a place of business, it signifies that that place of business has joined with President Roosevelt in his drive to aid unemployment and business conditions.

It not only shows that that place of business is lending a cooperative hand, but that it is placing itself in line with thousands upon thousands of other businesses that are backing the President in his program and these places of business deserve the support of every true American. While in larger towns and cities, organizations of various kinds are urging their members and others to trade at all times at stores and other places where these posters are displayed, and apparently mean to pass up those who fail to aid in this national program.

The News extends its congratulations to those business men, and others in Clanton who have joined in and are pushing this program in Clanton. It will no doubt mean truly a "New Deal" for Clanton, not only for the business man, the employer, the employee, but Clanton as a whole.

It might be a little painful for some to begin with, and no doubt some little inconveniences will be felt in conforming with the code, but it will work out and soon become a daily routine for all just as soon as it adjusts itself.

NRA Develops Death Punch For Old Man Depression

Skeptical individuals who hang back are in for the shock of their lives from President Roosevelt's New Deal with the National Recovery Administration. It is already working and working so fast and so successfully that many who now hesitate will soon be jumping onto the front of the band-wagon and leading the cheering.

Friday night over seventy Tuscaloosa grocers agreed to sign the code. The druggists, the furniture dealers, the hardware men, the retail lumbermen, dealers in all phases of the automotive industry and many others have fallen into line.

NRA has gone to the heart of the people and it is being warmed and expanded by that heart. The people believe in the nation's great leader and they know that he is doing something to help, not hurt them.

Public support is the principle factor in making a success of this NRA program and that support is already assured. For example, all the women in the 23 organizations of the Tuscaloosa County Federation of Women's Clubs and the hundreds in the Tuscaloosa City council of Parent-Teacher Associations have pledged unqualified endorsement and action in support of it.

Here is a tremendous force for the good of the cause. The Chamber of Commerce, representing virtually the entire business structure of this community in both firms and individuals, has placed its shoulders to the recovery wheel and is fast organizing the community's business interests in favor of the campaign.

NRA has great and lasting benefits for the whole people. These benefits are already apparent, although hidden temporarily in some instances by other factors, for instance the barbers of Tuscaloosa had been working for starvation wages because of suicidal cut-throat price competition within their own ranks. Tuesday as the New Deal takes hold these barbers unite for higher wages, shorter hours and higher prices. The dry cleaners have done likewise. These changes may seem drastic for a short time but the feeling of change will soon disappear.

Prices have been gaining rapidly for the last three months but wages have not. This NRA plan is to place the wage-earner in a position to buy at the higher prices, and to create new wage-earners who up to now have been earning nothing at all and buying little or nothing.

NRA is workig already in the textile industry with its special code. It resulted in many wage increases equivalent to double or more the former compensation. That huge industry with hundreds of thousands of employes has already adjusted itself to the New Deal.

NRA applies to the big firm and the little firm, the big man and the little man. In the end there will be few, if any, persons in our country unaffected by it. NRA is a snowball gathering size every minute as she rolls along her irresistible way. — Tuscaloosa News.

You Can't Help Getting Bargains

It is an ancient belief that the woman is the bargain-hunter of the family and that man must be dragged reluctantly, if at all, to where goods can be purchased cheaply.

If that is true, the man of the family must be having a good time now, for there is very little else but bargains, at prices unheard of a few years ago.

Those prices won't be with us much longer—economic law doesn't allow "distress" sales to go on forever. Everything from shirts to cement is going to cost more very soon, as higher price and wage levels will be on us before we know it.

It's about the last chance to buy needed household articles, and make property improvements and additions, at depression costs. The chances are that you, the reader of this, have been lax about keeping up your house and grounds, in order to save. But you had better start your building and repair work now if you don't want to dig deep into your pockets in the near future.

Providing jobs and purchasing power is better and cheaper than charity.

Another Step Toward Recovery And Cooperation

The old adage "Competition is the life of trade," seems to have gone by the board and is obsolete. In its stead the News thinks that "Cooperation is the life of trade," should be used.

While "Cooperation" has been a great word and carries a great deal of beneficial meaning and purpose, it is becoming a necessity in Clanton and Chilton County among merchants and business houses. It is not only a necessity but is being wonderfully well worked in on the carrying out of the NRA (National Recovery Administration.)

The News is delighted to see that the business houses of Clanton are getting their heads together, so to speak, and striving to arrange uniform opening and closing hours. While there has bee and possibly still is; some friction to contend with, the News believes that the business men of Clanton will not allow any small matter to cause trouble and hindrance to Clanton and other towns in their efforts to cooperate with the President and his recovery program.

Other towns in Chilton County are showing a splendid spirit of cooperation in working out this program for the county, and are ready to fall in line with a program that will be suitable to the merchants of Clanton.

Here's Hoping

Here's hoping that the proposed retail merchants association of the county will immediately get into harness and go over the top as a success. It is a fine step, and at the meeting Monday night, men of leadership and vision were placed in the executive offices of the proposed association.

With these men at the helm of the association, there is no doubt in the mind of the News that it will be a success. It is going to take the cooperative spirit of all the merchants and their memberships to create an active and worthwhile retail merchants association in this county, and it should be done. There has seldom been times when an organization of this kind was so badly needed in our county. The old saying "In Unity There Is Strength" will ring true in Chilton County. The News urges every merchant to seriously consider this proposed association when the committees on membershp call on them.

Buyers Must Become Accustomed To New Hours Of Business

Maybe your favorite store is not going to open as early in the mornings as it has been accustomed to opening, and maybe it will not be open as late at night as in the past.

This is due to the stores having set a uniform closing and opening schedule, and it may take a few days for the people of the county to become accustomed to the new hours of business. This is not only applying to the places of business but also to banking hours. So watch the paper for the new schedules and not cause yourself any inconvenience, and cooperate with your merchants who are doing their part in the National Recovery program.

Dangers To Be Avoided

Writing in his magazine, The New Outlook, on certain phases of the new Industrial Control Bill, Alfred E. Smith states that he has always advocated governmental supervision of business when public interest demanded it, but that he would be unfavorable to a permanent policy which would tend to make us all civil servants of government.

The Industrial Control Bill was passed as an emergency measure, and has much to recommend it. It is an aggressive attempt to give legitimate business a chance to get on its feet. But, even in a crisis, we should not forget that the principle it represents, if extended and continued after the present period of stress has passed, has dangerous possibilities to personal freedom of action. Under it, individualism can be squeezed out of business. The executive can be made simply the reflection of a Washington Bureau's voice. The field of opportunity for advancement of workers could be narrowed, and awards for initiative and enterprise greatly reduced.

If a nation comes to depend on government to direct all action, its future is in danger. The eras of progress have always been periods in which individualism and freedom of thought and action were encouraged. It is true that as civilization grows more complicated, a broader social control is necessary—but the line must be drawn between a policy which supervises business in the role of umpire, and one which makes government the main player in the game. Undoubtedly the administrators of the new bill have these pit-falls in mind.

The Main Tenet Of Safety

Safety on the highways is principally an attitude of mind.

Better cars and roads won't attain it. Indeed, they tend toward the opposite result. It has long been the experience that when a stretch of poor road is converted into a broad, straight, smooth highway the number of accidents increase—because motorists overestimate the safety factor. They lose the sense of caution that a poor road naturally creates—and the death and injury rate booms.

The same thing is true of automobiles. The manufacturers give us cars with better brakes, surer steering, more perfectly balanced bodies—and we abuse them to the point where the automobile accident rate breaks all records.

The "safety attitude" isn't a particularly difficult one to develop. It is simply to drive as we'd like the car approaching us to drive. Don't cut corners, nor pass on curves or hills, nor drive on the wrong side of the road, nor fight for the right-of-way, nor drive so fast you can not stop in the assured clear distance ahead. Almost every accident, minor or severe, occurs because someone violates these simple rules.

Possibly a better phrase for safe driving would be "courteous driving". Discourtesy on the highway is always the friend of accidents. If you'll make up your mind to drive the way you think the other fellow should drive, the accident rate will be due for a severe beating in the future.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

In my back yard there was a highly valued fruit tree. One day I noticed that it was dying in the top. I made investigation but found nothing wrong. I sprayed the tree thinking that would stop the branches from dying. That did no good. Knowing that something was wrong I took a pick and went down among the roots to investigate. It was there that I found the trouble. The tap root under the ground was being eaten up by worms and insects, and they were causing the tree to die. When our church life is dying on top, when the visible elements of our civilization are in decay, the trouble lies deeper than the things that we can see. Should we dig down into the fundamentals of civilization we would find the gnawing teeth of such things as Sabbath desecration, social corruption and money domination, eating out the very life of our age. The standards and the ideals of our fore-fathers are dying and all because sin is eating up the roots of civilization and Christianity. We are dying on top, but the trouble lies beneath the surface.

A heart-breaking letter came to my desk from "Somewhere in Alabama," and my heart bled with the heart of the writer as I read its contents. It was the age old story in which a devoted husband had been constantly in the company of a charming girl of high school age. At first there was a fatherly helpfulness, then fascination and later office calls and auto rides. Then followed the clash and the threatened smash of a once happy home. My prayers were asked to join in with the prayers of a heart broken mother who had been sinned against, that her little ones might not be forced to face disgrace. O my Lord, when will men learn to circle around their own home with their love and care, and when will women learn to let men alone upon whom they have no earthly claim? Let it be preached everywhere that only a few crimes carry more guilt than the stealing of the affection of man or woman.

A house that was not many furlongs from the parsonage caught on fire and was badly damaged on the inside. The blaze was put out before the window panes were broken, but the damage was so great the occupants had to move out. The heat had hardly subsided before passersby started to destroying the remaining part of the building. Boys gathered on the inside and I could hear the click of air rifles and the crash of broken glass. This continued until every pane in every window had been shot out. A month after the fire I could see passersby leaving the side walk and disappearing in the old house and shortly I would hear something "Go tumbling down." The old house had met with a misfortune and no one was now willing to try and protect. This human nature of ours is a strange thing. Tell me why it is that the most of us will go out of our way to do an injury to something that has already been injured. If we find a bird with a broken wing, we are often inclined to bruise it more or even to kill it dead. We are not satisfied with the black walls of a burned building, we must shoot out the window panes.

A doctor friend of mine in a heart to heart talk with me related this experience out of his own life: "One day a man came to my office and asked for an examination. I could find nothing wrong with him, but I gathered from his mannerism and conversation that he meant to kill himself at two o'clock in the afternoon. I insisted that I must have another conference with him at five o'clock and finally the man consented. He came back to my office at five and I closed the door and immediately went into the mental state of the man. I found that my suspicions of him were true. The man had tried hard and had failed. and he told me that life was not worth living and that he had intended taking his life at two o'clock. I talked to him, I braced him up, I prayed with him and then gave him twenty dollars and told him to go out and face his problems like a man and try again. He did it and now that man is a joy to his family and a noble citizen in his community." Blessed is the man who helps a fellow when he is down and out.

FIGHT ON RACKETEERS

War on racketeers has been declared by the Crusaders, an organization of militant young men between the ages of 21 and 45, and claiming a membership of 1,250,000. This body was first formed to agitate for repeal of national prohibition, and now that it believes this fight is won, racketeering will be the next target.

According to the Crusaders' chief Fred G. Clark, the first battle will be against corruption among officeholders. He recently said: "These political racketeers, including corrupt politicians and self-seeking public officeholders in the Federal, state and municipal governments, must be removed and replaced by honest representatives of the people before racketeering can be wiped out of this country."

He added that nothing can accomplish this but a powerful organization of patriotic Americans, who by force of numbers can eliminate the grafters from public office.

The Crusaders contend that rackets can be broken up by responsible government, and that responsible government can be secured by the courageous efforts of an alert, independent and unselfish minority.

Of the female workers in Japan's factories, more than one-fifth are girls under 16.

Mrs. Sarah Haughton of Myrtle Point, Ore., gave a tramp a sandwich 24 years ago, and recently received from him two $1 bills and a letter of appreciation.

Letters To The Editor

STAND BY YOUR PRESIDENT

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you be so kind as to give me a small space for a short chat with my old farmer friends? Now, dear farmers, what have we done; and still are doing?

It appears to me that we have produced so much wheat and cotton that we are responsible for the nakedness and hunger that our nation has been cursed with the past two or three years. It does seem to me that we farmers should have sense enough to regulate the acreage of wheat and cotton so that the production thereof would prove a blessing to all. I walked out in the field Monday morning and my good tenant, Jimmie Cotton, had two mules hitched to a steel turner and believe me he was turning under our cotton. I looked at him for a moment with my farmer's eye and thoughts and temptations appeared that were not pleasant.

So I just closed that eye and opened the other and I saw things from a different angle. I saw that we were producing too large a surplus which has caused the money changers to gobble up everything that we farmers produce for the market.

President Roosevelt told the people of the United States that the money changers had to stop getting something for nothing, and I believe what he said because the money changers have done more howling since Roosevelt has been President than they have done in the past fifty years.

God said they would howl. My dear old farmers, we will have to stop trying to produce so much cotton and produce more of the things we have to have for home consumption.

We must quit going to the merchant and buying his stuff and to the fillling station man and asking him for credit for his gasoline to haul farm products to the market and get nothing for it, and come home and say to the merchant and gas man: Well, I just couldn't sell my produce and you will have to wait on me awhile for your money.

Let's stand by our President and back him up to the limit, and since we old farmers have to have a guardian I think President Roosevelt is the man. He is the only President I ever knew that has made the money changers howl so much and that is good evidence that he is the best friend the old farmer has ever had.

In conclusion let me ask that we old farmers educate both our minds and hearts.

Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

Economic Highlights

Happenings that affect the dinner pails, dividend checks and tax bills of every individual. National and international problems inseparable from local welfare:

For a good many months we've been talking about recovery. At first, that talk principally represented optimism Then some actual signs of recovery began to appear. The indexes took on a more cheerful tone. Now there's no longer any question about it. Recovery is here. There's hardly an industry that isn't feeling new blood in its veins these days.

A recent New York Times' survey is a good example. It is based on six of the most trustworthy barometers—automobile production, steel mill activity, lumber production, electric power output, freight car loadings and cotton forwardings. On March 18 the combined index stood at 60.0. On July 1 it had reached 97.3—a gain of better than 50 per cent.

Here are some reports, mostly based on Department of Commerce findings:

Commodity Prices—There has been a continued upward movement.

Employment— Improvement marked and widespread. During June more than 500,000 persons found work in manufacturing and 16 non-manufacturing industries, irrespective of agriculture, railroads and other fields.

Finance—Until very recently stock prices moved constantly up. The recession that followed is of no particular importance; it is principally the result of profitaking in a speculators' market

Construction—In the first half of June contracts represented the highest activity since fall. Most pronounced gain was in nonresidential construction.

Transportation—Railroad carloadings are much better than last year at this time, and improvement has been sustained.

Automobiles—It is customary for a seasonal decline to appear in June This year there was an increase instead In May passenger car output was 56 per cent above the monthly average for the year.

Chemical Industries—Customarily experience a seasonal drop in June; this year the drop has not occurred, and prices have risen.

Foodstuffs—Activity greater. Payrolls in all groups, with the exception of flour milling, higher. Wholesale food prices advancing.

Lumber—Continued improvement of the last few months during May and early June. Western pine output recently touched the comparatively high level of 36.7 per cent of capacity.

Steel—There has been continued contrasseasonal improvement. In the latter part of June activity reached 50 per cent of capacity, the highest in two years, and has advanced since. A year ago rate was about 16 per cent of capacity.

Textiles—Production increased sharply in May and continued into June, with consequent gains in both employment totals and payrolls. Prices rising.

Paper—Sharing in the general industrial gain. In June, for the first time since February, 1930, shipments of newsprint exceeded those of the coresopnding month of the preceding year.

Wool—Rising prices accompany increased output. Prospective wool clip is affected by bad weather in Australia and Western United States.

Silk—Deliveries increasing since first of the year, now close to normal.

Silver—Recently touched 38 1-4 cents, highest price since May, 1930.

One of the most important factors in the present trend is the way seasonal influences are being overridden. A hundred industries are showing improvement at a time when a summer almost invariably occurs. Another excellent sign is the continued decline in the number of business failures—a field in which some of the blackest marks of depression have been registered the past few years.

There have been few more sweeping proclamations made than when President Roosevelt approved the proposal designed to bring all industries into wage-sharing and work-sharing circles. It represents an effort to avoid great increases in production and price levels without proportionate gains in wages, employment, purchasing power. The Administration has been frankly worried for fear that will occur again.

Progress is being made with the trade codes. Some of importance which have recently been filed include:

Steel—40-hour week, minimum pay ranging from $10 in South to $16 in North.

Electric Goods—36-hour week at $12.60 up.

Wool Textiles—40-hour week, with wages ranging from $13 up.

Lumber—40 to 48-hour week, depending on branch of industry. Minimum wage from $10.80 to $18.

Oil—40 hours; $16 per week in the South, $18.80 in the North.

Mrs. Harriet Boyden of Bath, Eng., had a polished oak coffin lined with pink silk made for her pet dog.

"BEEKEEPING EQUIPMENT"

By Walter M. Johnson

Last week I attempted to inform my friends beginning beekeeping as to the principal races of the honeybee, their qualities and habits. This week I should like to discuss the matter of equipment for a beginner. May I state here that I shall compose my letters each time in accord with the various inquiries made of me in logical sequence. I shall appreciate my beekeeping friends and readers' suggestions as to how I may make these articles most helpful and attractive.

First. there is the question relating to the "hive" or dwelling place of the honeybee. I regret to learn that some people seem to regard this matter as of little importance. It is rather of tremendous importance, just as much so as proper housing conditions for stock and poultry. If one prefers to keep bees for comb honey for either home consumption or market, it is well worth his time to invest a small sum in box sections (usually 4¼ x 4¼ x 1 7-8 inches, beeway style) for both convenience and appearance. The average price of these sections is about a cent a piece. An eight-frame super will hold 24 sections while a ten-frame super holds 32. In the way of parentheses, I will venture to say that I find most honey purchasers prefer sectioned honey for table use. However, if one prefers to go in for "extracted" honey thereby saving his combs for further use in hive or for beeswax, by all means insist upon "movable frames" for the salable honey even though you don't care to use such frames in the brood chamber of the hive. I find it far wiser in every way to use "movable frames" in both supers and brood chambers for producing extracted honey. Let me say here that in order to be putting out pure "extracted" honey, it is necessary to secure an extracting machine, otherwise it is "strained" honey. When extracted instead of strained there is the sanitary advantage. Some people, however, have it that the two kinds are exactly the same thing. This is not the case. We beemen would market more of our product if this distinction could be known to all. If one feels unable to buy an extractor, why not secure the use of and owner's service in aiding you?

Besides getting the "movable frame" hives so one may handle his bees with more convenience, without waste of honey caused from prying slats and braces, agonizing and drowning the bees, let me suggest that a good veil is always necvessary, but not gloves. Among other appliances may be named the hive tool, beebrush, hammer, nails and good smoker which should be carried from hive to hive during the time one works his hives.

I do not wish to be considered as advertising for any concern, but I will state that there are several worthwhile books and magazines devoted exclusively to beekeeping. hey will interest most any beeman. There are also several concerns handling a complete line of beekeeping equipment. I shall gladly furnish any interested beekeeper with information regarding where either of the above named may be procured, if he will see or write me. No doubt our County Farm Agent can and will gladly assist beginning beekeepers in securing such information as he desires. There are several very useful and attractive bulletins furnished by our Government Agricultural Departments on the subject of beekeeping.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our grateful appreciation for the assistance and kindness received from so many friends and neighbors of New Salem community during the recent illness and death of our dear girl, Ruth Kate Maddox. We especially thank Dr. Napoleon Johnson and Spiggner Funeral Home manager for their kindness and words of sympathy, also the doctors and nurses of South Highlands Hospital. We are grateful for the many flowers that were given by her friends.

BLACKMON FAMILY REUNION

On Sunday, July 30th, the Blackmon family held a reunion at the home of Mrs. Genie Dawson, Mt. Creek, Ala. The reunion was held in honor of the mother, Mrs. L. R. Blackmon. All of her children were present except one. Those present were: Mrs. Genie Dawson, Mt. Creek; Mr. Lucien Blackmon, Tallassee; Mr. W. A. Blackmon, Birmingham; Mr. Lamar Blackmon, Clanton; Mr. L. C. Blackmon, Clanton; Mrs. J. P. Gardner, Montgomery; Mrs. Wilburn Ward, Clanton; Mrs. B. B. Scott, Verbena; Mrs. J. B. Gardner, Verbena. Mr. T. L. Blackmon of Florida was not present.

Each family brought a basket of food which was spread in the shade of large trees. Plenty of food, lemonade and good watermelons were enjoyed by all. Grace was asked by Mr. Reese Colley.

Some of the mother's grandchildren and great-grandchildren were there. Some of her relatives from Wetumpka met with them. About fifty-three friends and relatives joined in the friendly get-together. Everyone left with a happy, yet sad, heart—happy at meeting and sad when parting. The mother wishes to thank all the friends and relatives for taking part and I'm sure everyone thanks Mrs. Genie Dawson for the enjoyable time had by all.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

Birds As An Aid To Agriculture

Birds, by reason of their beauty of form and plumage and their attractive songs, have always appealed to man in an esthetic way. In recent years, as a result chiefly of scientific investigation made of their food habits by the Biological Survey, most of them have been shown to be valuable as destroyers of the insect pests of the farm and forest.

Of the greatest interest, perhaps, to the Southern farmer are the birds that destroy the cotton boll weevil, in which class are included 66 species. In summer the birds rendering the best service as weevil destroyers are the quail, orioles, swallows, fly-catcher, and the bull-bat. The quail and orioles seek out the weevils in their hiding places on the cotton plants, while the other birds mentioned capture the insects in the air. In winter a host of birds render valuable service by hunting out and destroying the boll weevils in their hiding places under rubbish, in crevices, in the ground, or in the bark of trees. Among the species most useful at this season in the destruction of weevils may be mentioned the meadow lark or "field lark". The various blackbirds or grackles, the pipit or "titlark", the Carolina wren, the tufted titmouse, the Savannah sparrow, and the killdeer.

As conservators of the forest the various woodpeckers rank very high. Important service in this respect is rendered also by the nuthatcher, wrens, titmice, and creepers.

On the farm and in the orchard a great host of insectivorous birds constantly prey upon the numerous pests which infest the foliage, bark or roots of cultivated crops, and it is doubtless true that without the aid of the birds insects would become so numerous that the raising of crops would be impossible. Careful investigation of the food habits of the hawks and owls, usually iklled on sight without discrimination, has shown that with the exception of three or four species, these much-maligned birds are really friends of the farmer, their food being composed in large part of insects, field mice and rats, snakes, frogs and crawfish. The only bird of prey which habitually destroys poultry or game birds are the Cooper hawk and the sharp-shinned hawk (a blue darter), and the great horned owl. All other hawks and owls are worthy of protection, except in the rare instances when an individual bird acquires a taste for chicken.

Next week I am leaving field crops and am starting a series of topics on poultry. The first will be "The Poultry Industry."

Mrs. J. D. Williams and daughter, Betty Jo, returned home last Saturday from a visit to Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Broadhead were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Culp Sunday.

Alabama Foxes Must Have Health Certifs.

Auburn, Ala.—Sir Reynard must have a health certificate if he wants to be chased in Alabama.

That is the ultimatum of Dr. C. A. Cary, state veterinarian, and the Department of Game and Fisheries at Montgomery has pledged its word to back him up.

"The foxes comes under wild canines, in which class they properly belong," said Dr. Cary.

"I know that a great many foxes, especially those bred in captivity, have a number of diseases that we do not want in this state. I have obtained this information from a number of veterinarians who have charge of fox farms.

"I would like to have these animals come into the state with a health certificate stating they are free of diseases, also free of all parasites, some of which are especially troublesome.

"I am of the opinion that bringing a fox into Alabama without a health certificate by a certified veterinarian of the state of origin, would be a violation of Regulation 67 of the State Livestock Sanitary Department."

Foxes already claiming residence in this state are not affected by the ruling.

Goodyear Will Add To Power Equipment

Akron Tire Company Will Spend Half Million Dollars on New Construction

During the next few months, Goodyear will spend more than a half million dollars in purchase of new power plant equipment and in construction of a new power plant building, representing one of the largest major construction improvements in the Akron area since the depression.

A portion of the present power plant building, back of the general office buildings, is to be torn down and six boilers, some of which have been in service since 1910, will be dismantled.

The building itself, of conventional brick-steel construction, will cost approximately $20,000 and will provide employment for 100 men during the course of erection. Award of the building contract will not be made for at least another month.

The new building will house a single large boiler, capable of generating 300,000 pounds of steam per hour at a pressure of 800 pounds per square inch and a temperature of 740 degrees F. Contract for the boiler, which will cost $250,000, has been awarded to Babcox & Wilcox, Barberton.

Coal will be used as fuel after being pulverized in a ball-type mill. An interesting feature is the fact that all ashes remain in a liquid state in the bottom of the boiler and are drawn off at intervals in much the same manner as the molten metal from a blast furnace. The molten ashes are cooled, solidified and then broken up by action of a water spray, after which they are taken by conveyor cars to be hauled away. About $25,000 will be spent on the ash handling equipment.

Water softening equipment, to remove any scale forming ingredients from water for boiler use, will cost $25,000.

Approximately $30,000 is to be spent on control equipment for synchronizing the amount of water, fuel and air that is fed to the boiler. This synchronization is necessary to get the greatest efficiency from the boiler. Extremely heavy piping will be necessary for use with the boiler and the new turbine, and it is estimated the piping installation will amount to $30,000.

Steam generated by the boiler will be conveyed to a new turbo-generating unit, costing $140,000, contract for which was recently awarded. The unit has a capacity of 10,000 kilowatts, generating at 2,300 volts.

The unit is known as a "high back pressure extraction type turbine" and will exhaust steam into a 100-pound factory steam main, the exhaust steam being utilized for heating, curing, etc. It will also extract steam at 200 pounds pressure to be used to generate electric current on low pressure turbo-generating units already in use.

Addiitonal electrical equipment, including switches, panels, controls, etc., will cost approximately $250,000.

Many other small miscellaneous items will of necessity be purchased during construction. All of the work—construction of the building, erection of the turbine and boiler, and installation of electrical equipment, piping, etc.—is expected to progress simultaneously; and November 1 has been set as the date for the new plant to begin operation.

All of the engineering department work will be handled by Goodyear's own Engineering Department.

INTEREST TO BORROWERS ON FARMERS SEED LOANS

To All Borrowers Who Have Put Up Cotton as Collateral Against Loans Granted By This Office:

You are hereby advised that all persons who have put up cotton as collateral against loans granted by this office are given a right to sell the cotton.

The right to sell this cotton as mentioned in the first paragraph takes the place of any other arrangement about the sale of the cotton of which you may have heard.

Borrowers may sell the cotton whether or not the cotton is sold for enough to completely pay off the loan.

Of course, if the cotton does not bring enough to completely pay off all unpaid balances, including previous loans, the borrowers will still owe the balance. On the other hand, if the cotton is sold for more than enough to pay off unpaid balances and also all costs and expenses against the cotton, then the surplus will be returned

The above relates to cotton put up in any year,—1931 or 1932.

Borrowers may want to know how to go about selling their cotton, and as a quick means, the following procedure is suggested:

Authority to sell should be in writing, signed by the borrower. Any telegram authorizing sale should be confirmed in writing by the borrower.

The Associations, as well as this office, are free to act upon telegrams before the receipt of written confirmation.

In case a borrower put up his cotton as collateral with one or more of the cotton cooperative associations, then in order to sell his cotton he should write or telegraph direct to the Association with which he put up the cotton, telling it to sell.

If a borrower put up cotton as collateral for the year 1931 (or prior years), and sent the warehouse receipts direct to the Memphis office, then in order to sell that cotton he should write or telegraph to the "American Cotton Cooperative Association, New Orleans Louisiana", telling it to sell.

If a borrower put up cotton as collateral for the year 1932 and sent warehouse receipts direct to the Memphis office, then in order to sell that cotton he should write or telegraph direct to this office, telling it to sell.

The change in this program was made to give the farmer the benefit of the rise in cotton price.

Mrs. Hannah Bromley of Leeds, Eng., complained to the police that her husband took a bath every day and beat her whenever she did not have the water hot.

"Curb that impulse," said police to D. C. Christensen of Salt Lake City, Utah, when arrested for smashing a revolving barber pole which had annoyed him.

A few days after a Wisconsin woman lost her false teeth while swimming in Lake Waukesha, she found them in the stomach of a large bullhead fish caught by her husband.

Per Acre Profit To Be Increased

Auburn, Ala.—Soils will be richer and profits per acre greater as the result of big plantings of hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas which are to be made in the state this fall.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and members of his staff, including county agents, are now planning an intensive educational campaign to remind and acquaint farmers with the splendid qualities of these winter legume crops as soil builders.

A large portion of the land being removed from cotton will be planted to winter legumes this fall, it is expected. On the average the turning under of a good crop of vetch or peas increases the yield of a crop of corn by about 20 bushels per acre.

CENTER HILL

We are glad to say that this community is still alive.

Mr. Grady Erwin is the visitor of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Erwin.

Miss Mary Price is visiting her sister.

We were sure glad to hear that they have taken the cast off of little Miss Imogene Cobb's leg, and she is doing fine.

The Center Hill boys team No. 2 won both games Saturday. The games were very interesting.

Little Miss Ardelle Davison and brother are visiting Miss Irene and Olene Miller.

There was a large crowd that attended the singing Saturday night at Mrs. W. C. Erwin's.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowson, children, and Miss Marie Queen were Sunday guests of Mr. Cobb.

We are very sorry to hear that Miss Clara Scott is ill in Birmingham.

The people of Center Hill are enjoying the revival at Oak Grove.

Mr. James Gentry and Mr. Leo Cobb carried Mr. Tom Miller to Perry county Sunday to run a singing school.

Our B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school are still alive.

Mr. Paul and Lewis Webb, William Price and Houston Ray were Sunday dinner guests of Miss Addie and Mr. Leo Collum.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Scott spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Will Scott.

Both of our ball teams are to play games this week. Team No. 2 plays Wednesday afternoon and Team No. 1 Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Scott spent the week end at Providence.

Miss Martha Golden is spending a few days at Mrs. Thornton's before leaving for Texas.

Miss Vonzelle Atkinson and Mr. Jack Lenoir called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collum Sunday afternoon.

Do not forget our revival the second Sunday in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Price spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price.

MINOOKA

The revival at Mud Town has closed. We wish to thank everyone for the good attendance, also Rev. Thrash for directing the singing. Bro. Green will be back in Mud Town Sunday, August 13, to hold another meeting. Everyone has a cordial invitation to attend each service. Services at 10:30 in the morning and 7:30 in the evening.

The C. I. Club met with Margaret Busby Monday afternoon, July 31. The meeting was called to order by president and plans for next meeting were discussed. "Modern Labor-Saving Devices" will be the topic for next meeting. After business meeting a thirty-minute social hour was enjoyed by all, after which delicious refreshments were served to the following: Misses Marie Anderson, Iva Campbell, Lera Bell Martin, Lillian Busby, Eleanor Merrell, Ruth Stockdale, Myrtle Lou Crim, Ethel Busby, Elma Barefield, Armanda Spencer, Mildred Killingsworth, Nora Evelyn and Elizabeth Roberts, Helen Zuiderback, Johnnie Ruth Collum, Evelyn Martin and hostess. Next Monday, August 7, the club will meet with Johnnie Ruth Collum. Each member is urged to attend.

Mr. Carl Glasscock, a star baseball player of "The Cotton Bolls" Troy, Ala. visited his many friends and relatives Friday night. He returned to Troy Saturday morning. His many friends wish him all the success and luck thruout the remaining month of the ball season.

Minooka first nine won the game Saturday evening with Jemison. The score was 5 and 4. The second nine lost to Center Hill, score 6 to 3. Minooka first nine has a double-header on schedule at Minooka August 2, between Pelham and Mt. Secoe.

Mr. Clarence Bray of Calera was a visitor in our community Monday evening.

The community had quite a surprise last Friday evening when they learned that Miss Aileen Crim and Mr. Clarence Barnett were quietly married at the Spring. There was only one present besides the bride and groom and the preacher, Mr. Clinton Barnett, brother of the groom. Their many friends and relatives wish them a very happy and successful married life. The bride and groom are making their home with the groom's father, Mr. R. A. Barnett.

Little Carl Hogan has returned to his home at Birmingport.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Broadhead and daughter, Jessie Lee, and little Peggy Sue Farmer, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderback and family Sunday afternoon.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Sullivan Busby has blood poisoning. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

We were sorry to lose two of our visitors this week, Miss Willa Mae Robinson and Mr. Marshall Glass. Both have returned to their homes after a visit with relatives.

There will be Sunday school at Mud Town next Sunday morning at 10:00 and League Sunday night at 7:30. Everyone is invited to attend.

Our town is suffering from an invasion of rats and housekeepers are finding it hard to persuade them to eat the poison put out for them. James Lorenz Nicholas, famous rat-killer of Atlanta, uses this method: He hides a bit of his poison in each of three kinds of food and puts them all where the rats can get them. He says if only one kind of food is poisoned, the rat may avoid it, but three kinds confuse him. Some kinds recommended are bread, apples, sweet potatoes, beef and cheese.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson and Mr. E. E. Hanson left Tuesday night for Gary, Indiana where they will visit relatives and friends. They also expect to see the Fair sometime during their stay.

DIZZINESS

relieved by Black-Draught

"I decided to take Thedford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Charles E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. It is hard to tell how I feel, but I do not feel good. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rids me of the bile, for I feel better—don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling."

Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

PERSONAL

"I will not be responsible for any member of my family who takes stomach tonics, indigestion remedies, soda, calomel, salts, laxative pills, etc. to try to get rid of indigestion, constipation, bloating, sour stomach, bad breath or headaches. I have told them all to use Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the new liver medicine which makes the liver get busy and furnish enough bile to digest their food and stop constipation. Everybody ought to take Sargon Soft Mass Pills two or three times a month if they want to feel good. All good druggists have them."

MORE SAFETY in the tread

● The safest tread is the one that can stop your car the quickest. Goodyears stop quicker than any other tire. 10% quicker than the second best. Up to 77% quicker than others. Tests on wet pavements prove it. Why not buy the safest tire?

MORE SAFETY in the plies

● Goodyears give you safety in every ply—because every ply is built with patented Supertwist cord—and every ply runs from bead to bead. Ask to see a Supertwist demonstration and see for yourself why it means more safety in every ply.

MORE MILEAGE

● Bus fleets know mileage. And bus fleets using Goodyear Tires report 97% more mileage than they got five years ago. Goodyears for your car have the same improvements that made this extra mileage possible.

Farm Women Enter Speaking Contest

Auburn, Ala.—The first public speaking contest for rural women is to be held here at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, August 29, 30, and 31. The aim of the contest is to stimulate interest in citizenship among rural women of the state.

It will come during Farmers' Week, annual meeting and short course for farm people, and will be a part of the program of the annual meeting of the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs. Mrs. Webb Hurst of Tuskegee, state chairman on citizenship of the Council, is making arrangements for the contest.

Twelve leading farm women representing as many counties have already entered. They are Mrs. W. F. Jeffers, Glencoe, Etowah County; Miss Edna Ruth Scarbrough, Blue Springs, Barbour; Mrs. W. A. Powell, Omega, Bullock; Miss Ruby Vickers, Ashland, Clay; Mrs. H. M. Lane, Auburn, Lee; Mrs. Dexter Parks, Renfro, Talladega; Mrs. F. Tapley, Alexander City, Tallapoosa; Mrs. H. T. Davis, Tuskegee, Macon; Mrs. J. A. Bishop, Brewton, Escambia; Mrs. J. D. Giles, Selma, Rt. 2, Dallas; Mrs. J. W. Rutherford, Franklin, Monroe; and Mrs. Pratt Walker, Ralph, Tuscaloosa.

Four other counties have notified Mrs. Hurst that they will have an entry in the contest though as yet they have not selected a speaker.

Several prizes will be awarded. The first prize will be a gold medal given by the American Farm Bureau Federation. It is expected that Edward A. O'Neal, former Alabamian and now president of the national farmers' organization, will make the presentation.

Each of the women will speak seven minutes and judges will select the winners. As yet, the judges have not been named.

Fate Maddox is back with CHEVROLET and invites his friends to see him at Hayes Chevrolet Co.

FOR FARMERS AND FARM OWNERS

The New Deal Is On

To pay debts and for agricultural purposes you may mortgage your farm lands and obtain money at 5% interest for ten years or more. But the loan may be repaid at any time. For three years only the interest will be required, payable annually.

THERE IS NO STOCK SUBSCRIPTION on loans secured by first mortgages when the amount borrowed is $1300 or less; but this type of loan will not be made for less than $300.

You may borrow up to 75% of THE NORMAL VALUE OF YOUR LAND, either by first or second mortgage, if by second mortgage from $300 to $5,000. However, the total indebtedness secured by the farm must not exceed seventy-five per cent of its value.

The loans described above are made by the Land Bank Commissioner, sponsored by the United States Government.

A fee of $11.00 must be paid to the Local Correspondent when the application is filled and filed; this pays the cost of the application and the appraisal fee. An additional fee of 14 cents should be paid to defray the cost of remitting the appraisal fee (by money order) to the Land Bank Commissioner.

THIS IS A NEW SYSTEM OF MONEY LENDING ON FARM PROPERTY.

There has never been any better farm loan system known to this country. However, every dollar of this money must be repaid, and cannot be borrowed unless it is needed and secured.

The foregoing described loan is NOT made by the Federal Land Banks, but is made by the Land Bank Commissioner. The Federal Land Banks are making loans, but only on first mortgages.—adv.

Farm Club Girls To Visit Auburn

Auburn, Ala.—Leading 4-H club girls will be in Auburn, August 22-26, for the annual short course for 4-H Club Girls. One hundred fifty, representing 44 counties, are expected to attend.

Miss Bess Fleming, specialist in girls' club work, has announced that the program will emphasize instruction in clothing, foods, home improvement, and canning. The girls will compete in health improvement, bread making, and in a dress revue. They will also engage in judging contests in clothing, foods, home improvements and canning.

Five girls will win trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago in December.

CARD OF THANKS

Dear Editor:

Please allow us a space in your paper to partly express our appreciation to the people during the sickness and death of our darling daughter, Oda. Our home is so lonesome without Oda. but for the hope in the resurrection we must say God's will be done and for a short while good-bye to Oda. For we know that it won't be long until we meet again and we can here Oda say Dadda again.

We are not able to put into words our heart-felt thanks to the people for all that they have done for us during sickness, death and after the funeral services.

God saw fit to carry our precious child away, and He was gracious to us by giving the people sympathy and goodness to help us bear the load of grief, for without their help the load would have been much heavier to bear.

God let us keep Oda for a little over sixteen years. She gave a world of sunshine in our home. We thank God for her Christian spirit. We grieve for her absence, but we feel that God carried her to a better home where we can go to her when our race is run.

We want to thank all for the floral offerings and also Mr. Mell Martin & Sons, Dr. Downs and Dr. Hayes for their kindness shown.

Our darling has gone on before us and is beckoning us to follow to a land where we all can join in that great choir to sing God's praises throughout eternity.

Oda was laid to rest in Indian Grave cemetery July 12, 1933.

May God bless each reader.

—R. D. Wilkins and Family.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Garden Contest Begins

The teacher of Agriculture is sponsoring another garden contest which is to end October 20th. There will be two groups, the school boys who live in and around Clanton, and any boys or adults living in the Training School community. The prizes which are to be given will not be disclosed at present, but it is certain that some handsome tokens will be offered. You who are interested, it is your purpose to manure your garden plots heavily and thoroughly pulverize your soil, These two steps are very necessary for success in fall gardens.

The following is a list of a few vegetables suggested for planting: Cabbage, collards, Irish potatoes, turnips, mustard, tender greens, rutabagas spinach radish, carrots, beets, lima or span beans, parsley and onions. More information will be given in a later issue.

Local Rising Star Society Celebrates

The local Rising Star Society held its first annual turn-out last Sunday. Rev N. C. Shepard preached the anniversary sermon.

It is eagerly hoped that our people will join in to make this organization worthwhile. Such organizations are very helpful to us when patronized. Let's give them a hand.

Cotton For Hay

Many farmers have asked me if cotton will make good hay. Now, this is one time you had better use good judgment. This question has never come up before because this is the first time Southern farmers have agreed to destroy any cotton. Therefore, agriculturists don't have any definite experiments on such a crop. I would suggest that you plow under or absolutely destroy your cotton in some way and plant cowpeas for hay. This will eliminate lots of other trouble that may culminate in carrying out your contracts.

Don't Let It Pass

It has come to me that the R. F. C. folks in and around Clanton aren't accepting the opportunity given them to can vegetables. If ever was a reflection on us, this is, unmistakably a big one. If you don't have the vegetables to can go around and get them from your neighbors. In many cases our white friends will be glad to give us a few beans, tomatoes or something of the kind. Don't sit around and let this opportunity slip. Wake up, folks, and do something for yourself. These vegetables will be greatly needed before six months will have passed. Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, R. F. C. worker, and Miss Ruth Pardue are ready to help you, if you show your appreciation by rallying to the cause. Remember, that "A helping hand is not helping when it helps one to become helpless."

OLIVER SPOKE

round table discussion with Mr. Oliver.

Following this, Mr. Oliver, who was introduced by Mr. W. A. Gulledge of Verbena, spoke in the high school auditorium to a group of people from all sections of the county. He began by telling of the hope of the nation that lay in the hands of the Democratic administration in Washington, and went into the methods that are being used ni bringing about recovery for the entire nation, coming down to the beneficial effects it will have on Chilton County.

He told of the uncanny and most reasonable human feelings that are being demonstrated by President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and spoke of the kindness shown the bonus marchers at the capitol, comparing it with the treatment given these men and women by the former president which ended in a most serious situation.

Mr. Oliver explained several workings of the congress and the part he played in them. Going on to show that the program that is being carried out now is reaching deep inhto the South and to the average working man as well as the large industries.

Following his address Mr. Oliver shook hands with his many friends, who left the high school with a much better understanding of conditions and a better feeling of the future.

set a uniform opening and closing hour.

A uniform hour was finally decided on after quite a bit of deliberation among those present. The newspapers in the county were given the privilege of opening and closing as their work permitted, due to the peculiar arrangements that apply to newspaper work.

Stores that are listed as general merchandise, grocery, shoe shops, furniture, hardware and garages, agreed to open each morning, except Sundays at seven-thirty o'clock, and closing at six o'clock, except Saturdays: On Saturdays, the hours will be: Open at seven-thirty in the morning and close at eight o'clock at night.

The barber shops in Clanton agreed that their hours will be from seven-thirty in the morning until six in the evening except Saturdays when they will open at the same time and close at nine o'clock.

The public must bear in mind these new working hours of these places of business in order that they will not be inconvenienced. These new hours will remain in effect indefinitely. Drug stores, filling stations and cafes had not agreed on definite hours, as several of the cafes and filling stations remain open all night. The new working hours became effective Monday, August 1st. It was also stated that no deliveries will be made from the grocery stores after their closing hours.

News In Brief

The Alabama Dairy League, Inc., is the newest farmers' cooperative in Alabama. It is composed of about 150 members who are wholesale producers selling milk in Birmingham. They produce approximately 90 per cent of all pasteurized milk consumed in Birmingham and approximately 60 per cent of all milk consumed by the Birmingham area.

A new study made by the U. S. Forest Service in the last two years shows 496 million acres of forest land suitable for production of commercial timber, compared with 463 million in 1920—an increase of approximately 33 million acres. If use of lumber continues at its recent rate, the present supply of timber would be exhausted in 30 years, but the Forest Service looks for changes both in the growth of timber and in the use of lumber.

The number of horses on farms has been declining steadily for over 15 years an 'dthe number of mules for about 8 years.

In 1927 there were 29.5 tractors for each 100 farms tabulated, and in 1933 there were 42.2, an increase of 45 per cent. according to the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

The Tenth Alabama Egg Laying Demonstration will begin at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, October 1, 1933. Pens of hens will be entered by 100 poultrymen of Alabama and other states.

Dolomite, or dolomitic limestone, added to complete fertilizers which contain ammonium compounds will prevent them from increasing soil acidity. This is the answer of the United States Department of Agriculture's chemists to the discovery that certain fertilizers increase the acid condition of the soil.

OBJECTS TO PRESENT CLOSING HOURS

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 1, 1933.

Dear Editor:

Will you please allow me a small space in your valuable columns to speak just a word to the people about the action taken last night by the merchants and business men of the County in attempting to co-operate with the President in his plans to bring prosperity back to the Country. First, I will say I presume the ones who had it in charge were doing what they thought best, but I am forced to believe that the very thing that was done would tend to defeat the purpose of the president in his plans. I feel that we made a very great mistake and it really looks foolish to me as I understand the rules laid down I think it the most unreasonable, unjust and uncalled for propositions I ever heard of. In the first place I do not think there is anyone around Clanton who works enough much less too much so why cut out some of the time that we are putting in. As to the eight hour law and the higher wages law I have no objections but I do not think it was ever intended to just work the eight hours and then quit, but rather think it was the purpose to extend the hours worked and put on more help. I presume that most people in this county running a business are doing so for the purpose of making a living for themselves and family. I do not believe the president intended to shut up any kind of business for any length of time. I understand his purpose is to increase business and put more folks to work and increase their wages and for which I have no objection at all and believe it should be done where possible. But I do object to the large corporations who have plenty money and who have always been favored, such as the L. & N. R. R. Co., the Alabama Power Company and others who stay open all the time and a little fellow like myself and some others whom I could name who do their main business in the morning by seven-thirty or eight o'clock and from five o'clock in the P. M. until dark and after and especially at this season of the year. I admit that business like V. J. Elmore's and W. H. Sartor and others are done between the hours above mentioned and of course they cannot object to the proposition except as I see it the project will injure their neighbors and I think they are men who do not wish to do that.

Another thing my friends, we are right up to the cotton season in this County. Doesn't it look foolish for the farmers of this County and adjoining counties to haul their cotton here say some 10 or 15 miles and cannot get it ginned except from seven thirty A. M. to five P. M. or have it ginned at five P. M. and the stores all closed and cotton buyers all gone and the farmer have to go 15 miles back home and come again the next day to sell his cotton and do a little trading. Then I will ask is it fair to close all the other businesses here and permit the ginners and cotton buyers to continue to run and stay open? In fact do you not think the whol matter is in a way unjust to everyon concerned and even to the plan of th President? And really do you no think that it will have a tendency t thwart the plan of the president? I will further say I do not think we shoul promise or pretend to do a thing a not do it, therefore as I see it we hav just imposed a great hardship on som of us merchants and on all the cotto farmers and nothing to be gained by it, nevertheless, I am willing to abide b the majority and am going to do so long as the others do but I think w should work every hour we could and put on more hands and give them a chance.

Yours very truly,
W. H. HAYES.

IN MEMORY OF RUTH

She left us with a smile.
The sweet smile on Ruth's face
Reminds us of Jesus' redeeming grace
There is no one who can fill her place.

Ruth was a sweet girl, a friend to all.
She was the sunshine of her grandparents' home.
Though she is gone we long for her
And hope to meet her on that heavenly shore.

When we call at heaven's golden gates
We will see Ruth patiently waiting.
She will greet us with a smile,
Tho she's been waiting all the while.

She answered God's blessed call—
A thing we have to do, "One and all"
We know she's at rest on Jesus breast
We must do our best until we go to rest.

A FRIEND.

Helped By Cardui

Here's the true story of how Cardui helped Mrs. H. E. Dunaway, of McComb, Miss., as written by herself:

"I was sick and rather discouraged. I was so weak and thin, I was not able to do my work as it should be done. This made me fret a good deal, and did not help my condition.

"I had pains across my back and lower part of my body. My nights were spent in rolling from one side of the bed to the other, hoping I would soon go to sleep. Then when morning would come, I would be just as tired as when I went to bed. A neighbor, seeing how badly I felt, told me to try Cardui. After I had taken one bottle, I was much better. I kept on taking Cardui, and I was stronger and slept much better at night."

NEW OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED IN LOCAL POST

Fine Meeting Held Here On Monday Night With a Good Attendance

The regular monthly meeting of the American Legion was held at the court house in Clanton Monday night. At this meeting the new officers which were elected a month ago were installed as follows: Grover Bice, Commander; Reuben Lowe, vice-commnader, and V. C. McKee, adjutant. The installation of these officers was made by Hunter T. Burnett, Commander of the Farley W. Moody Post at Tuscaloosa.

Mr. Burnett was at the meeting Monday night and was in Clanton until dinner Tuesday representing Congressman W. B. Oliver in Veterans' affairs. Mr. Burnett advised with a great number of ex-service men in the county, giving them instructions as to the procedure that they should follow in filing claims for pensions and allowances under the new Veterans' laws.

The Chilton County unit of the Legion Auxiliary elected officers for the coming year at their meeting Monday night. The following officers were elected: Mrs. W. M. Wyatt, President; Mrs. Kin Vinson, vice-president; Mrs. George Tippett, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Oliver Duke, chaplain.

JELLYFISH FOUND IN WATER AT THE BLUE CREEK CAMP

Chas. Gulledge, owner of the popular Blue Creek Camp, near Verbena, on the Coosa River, reports the finding of a full sized jelly fish in the waters near his camp.

This is most unusual as these water inhabitants do not usually frequent rivers or small streams and are found on the gulf and large bodies of water. The fish has the appearance of a large, dingy mess of jelly-like substance. No eyes or mouth can be seen, nor can any mode of travel be discerned other than a rolling motion of the fish.

One other jelly fish has been reported found recently on waters of the Coosa. Louie Smith reports seeing one recently while out on camp with a group of Boy Scouts.

MAN COMMITS SUICIDE NEAR HERE SUNDAY

Tells Young Wife Of Wishes For Funeral Then Ends Life With Bullet

A few minutes after talking with his bride of four months and making requests regarding his funeral should anything happen to him, Jesse Traywick, age 21, walked to an out house at his home near here and sent a bullet from a .32 calibre automatic through his heart, Sunday night about seven o'clock.

According to information given the News, Traywick, who is well known here, was sitting on the porch of his home, just north of Clanton, discussing with his wife what she would do if anything should happen to him. He is said to have asked that if he died to be buried "in his blue suit" and requested that a .32 calibre Colt automatic pistol be buried with him. He is also said to have asked her what she would do with his insurance money if he should die.

He is said to have left his wife sitting on the porch, walked to a small out house. His wife heard the shot and found him dead, the bullet entering his body at the heart. Coroner J. Mell Martin was notified and after investigation rendered a verdict of suicide.

News of Traywick taking his life shocked his relatives and friends, as they stated they knew of no reason for the act. He was married about four months ago to Miss Lola B. Pressley. He had been employed by the Alabama Mills Co., for about four years, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Traywick of near the Highland community. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock at Highland with Martin & Sons in charge. He is survived by his widow, his mother and father, several brothers and one sister.

Chilton Boy Tells Of Duties In Forest Camp And Disadvantages Of Being On KP Duty

By Lance Franklin

Again I will discuss camp life that you may learn more about what goes on here. We are fortunate enough to have real good Foresters under which we work. We have eight Chevrolet trucks on which we are transferred to and from work each morning and night. Well, now that made me think, we have two Dodges for the kitchen and our food is brought to us on those, as we don't go in for dinner every day. Well, yes, I know it's not any fun to have a bug or a lizard on your food on a picnic but when you have worked real hard all the morning and hear the bugle as it sings out that old "chow call" real strong, as the truck with your chow on it advances, well, I'm telling you it is a sight to see those maddocks, axes, shovels, saws and bush axes as they jump on those boys' shoulders and start toward the chow bus.

All o' you boys at home, or otherwise employed other than the C. C. C. may try to stay pretty and white, but the C. C. C. boys are lots different from that. They work stripped to the belt and rival against each other in who can get more tanned. Of course, to some getting this tan meant a few nights off their backs when sleeping due to the simple fact that their backs were blistered.

Well, friends, our camp is becoming more and more complete each day, for instance, our mess hall is almost complete. Our well is completed with an electric pump to fill the 3016 gallons tank which is attached to the pump. This tank water for the kitchen is supplied. Drinking water and water for our shower baths is taken from this

$200,000.00 WILL BE PAID HERE FOR PLOWED COTTON

Final Inspection Expected To Be Completed Next Week; Cotton Growers Are Urged To Prepare Fields For The Final Inspection

Approximately $200,000 is awaiting cotton growers of Chilton County in payment for acres of cotton plowed up in the government's cotton acreage reduction plan, according to county agent Stapp.

The question as to when checks will begin to arrive in this county was answered by Mr. Stapp, who stated that he was expecting payments to be made on approved contracts and inspections sometime the latter part of the month.

It was further stated that the field inspections have been delayed due to tardiness of proper forms from Washington, and that possibly the latter part of this week or Monday of next week will find the inspections underway. At this time the inspectors will determine whether the specified number of acres in the individual contracts have been destroyed. If approved, Mr. Stapp stated that he would authorize immediate payment for the contracts.

All those who accepted the government cotton plan are being urged to prepare thoroughly for the inspections so as to rush settlement and eliminate any possibility or necessity of a question or re-inspection of fields.

Banks Name New Hours Of Service

Effective last Monday, August 7th, the First National Bank and the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton are using new banking hours according to announcement in the News last week.

Their new hours are from eight-thirty in the morning to three o'clock in the afternoon, instead of four o'clock. The banks will remain open also at the noon hour, instead of closing for one hour as they formerly did. These new hours are in compliance with the President's blanket recovery code.

SIGNERS OF NRA CODE

Last week the News published a partial list of concerns of Clanton who signed the President's NRA Code. This week we are publishing another partial list so far as we are able to secure at the time the News goes to press. However, others will be published next week.

Considerable comment is being aroused concerning the ability of some smaller concerns to comply with the wishes of the NRA, and the fact that there are many places of business in Clanton that are small and not even employing any person other than the proprietor, or employing one helper. The comments from citizens tends to point to requests that consideration being given these smaller places of business and the request, that the public not criticise them without first determining their condition. Following are signers of the code up to the tme the News goes to press: The Dixie Cafe, Matt's Lunch Shoppe, Bradley & Sons, lumber; Mullins & Moore, Alred Drug Co., Broadhead's Market, Service Barber Shop, E. L. Klinner Furniture Co., and Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company.

CHILTON COUNTY HAS SPOT OF BEAUTY AND PRIDE

Blue Creek Camp On Coosa River Is Attracting Many Visitors

CHAS. GULLEDGE

Chilton County has within its boundaries one of the most complete, sanitary and convenient fishing and outing places ever opened in this section.

Located only five and one-half miles from the paved Birmingham-Montgomery highway, on Coosa River, the Blue Creek Camp, owned and operated by Charlie Gulledge, is fast becoming known for its beauty, restfulness and convenience. Good roads lead off the highway in two places to this beautiful spot on the Coosa.

On visiting Blue Creek Camp, one is presented with a view that is seldom equalled. The camp itself presents a sight that tells one immediately that the owner is extremely particular about the grounds and will see that his guests are comfortable and well taken care of.

Blue Creek Camp is under the personal supervision at all times of Mr. Gulledge who is known far and wide for his interest in whatever he undertakes, and his arrangement of his camp bears out the statement of his friends that "whatever Charlie handles, is handled right."

Mr. Gulledge stated to a representative of this newspaper that anyone visiting his camp at any time, can be assured of the utmost in pleasant surroundings, and that they cater to those who wish to spend several days, or one day in a clean, quiet and convenient place. And too, Mr. Gulledge pointed out the excellent supply of fresh water and the fine fishing grounds.

Another item Mr. Gulledge is proud of is the cabins at Blue Creek Camp. They are neatly arranged and well furnished for comfort, and at all times he has boats for his guests as well as an excellent dining room and good cooks. Their chicken is unexcelled.

To truly appreciate Blue Creek Camp one would have to visit it and be shown around, a pleasure that Mr. Gulledge takes upon himself. Even the most particular person would be pleased with the treatment there. There doesn't seem to be anything Mr. Gulledge has left undone for his guests. A bed of worms for fishing bait is provided for those wishing them. Truly, Blue Creek Camp is worthy of the pride of Chilton County and the Coosa.

Dragging Brake Bar Caused Mishap Two Miles North Of Verbena Saturday

Derailed by a dragging brake-bar on one car, 13 cars in the center of the L. and N. Railroad's fast freight train No. 73, southbound, jumped the track, about two miles above Verbena Saturday at 2:06 p.m. and piled up along the right-of-way. None of the train crew was injured. Conductor Tom Lowe was in charge of No. 73 which was being pulled by Engineer Frank Oden.

Between 30 and 40 hoboes, riding on the long string of cars, leaped from their places of concealment when the crash occurred, and, taking to their heels, disappeared in the nearby woods. It was feared, however, that several others might have been buried beneath the coal contained in several of the wrecked cars.

In the smash-up, forty lengths of rails were torn from the ties on each side of the track, which was strewn with debris from the wrecked cars, some of which were loaded with merchandise, and others with coal and steel railroad rails. The rails were coming in handy in replacing the track.

As soon as possible after the accident the wrecking crew from Montgomery reached the scene. Another from Birmingham was also ordered out and arrived there at about 7 p.m.

The fact that the derailment had been caused by a dragging brakebar was established, it was stated, when investigation showed where it had deeply scored the ties for a distance of fully half a mile before the cars left the track.

Just 14 years ago almost to the day, it was recalled, there was a train wreck at exactly the same spot and several persons lost thier lives. The track there had just recently been renewed and the road-bed put in perfect repair, it was stated.

Large crowds of spectators visited the scene of the wreck during the afternoon, and an airplane also appeared and remained some time in the vicinity, apparently for the purpose of taking aerial photographs.

OPINION OF PUBLIC WILL BEAR WEIGHT

Administrator Believes That Code Signers Will Find Favor In Public

Another two weeks from Thursday was given the drive of President Roosevelt's recovery act, according to press reports, by Hugh S. Johnson recovery administrator, before sanctioning pressure on business and industry to comply with the blanket wage and employment agreement

It has been rumored that a complete check-up will be made to determine who is rightfully displaying the sign of the Blue Eagle and of those who are not displaying the emblem. In commenting on the matter, Mr. Johnson stated that it would take several days for many concerns to finally adjust themselves to the code and due to this, more time is being given.

The sign of the Blue Eagle is fast spreading, according to press reports, and by the end of the two weeks period it is believed that all who are under these requirements will have complied with the wishes of the President.

Judging from the remarks of Mr. Johnson, public opinion will be a great factor in the enforcing of signing and complying with the code. Movements have been put over by organizations over the country, and members are pledging themselves to trade only at stores and other places where the sign of the "blue eagle" is posted, showing that these places of business are doing their part toward recovery and are complying with the code of the President

Gov. And Mrs. Miller Are Guests Of Honor At Old Time Square Dance At Blue Creek Camp

Tripping fantastic steps kept time to old fashioned music from fiddles and guitars on Wednesday night of last week when a real old fashioned square dance was given as a Verbena civic benefit at Blue Creek Camp, near Verbena, on the Coosa.

As guests of honor at this affair were Gov. and Mrs. B. M. Miller, who had with them the Governor's private secretary, Hon. D. H. Turner. Mrs. Turner and Col. W. P. Shirley, also of Montgomery.

Ten old time fiddlers, guitar players and "set callers" were on hand, and with the strains of music of by-gone days, the moon seemed to take delight in shedding light over the beautiful camp. A crowd of approximately two hundred persons were present and those who did not take part in the affair were interested spectators. Two radio entertainers, the Misses Rainer of Verbena, rendered several vocal numbers with Miss Lila Sheppard, a talented pianist as accompanist.

Before attending the dance, Gov. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Turner and Col. Shirley were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Gibson in Verbena. Quoting Governor Miller, everyone found truth in his words, "We enjoyed every moment spent with the Verbena, Clanton people and those from elsewhere."

The Motorists Who Take Chances

You see them on streets and highways every day—motorists who take chances.

You see them turning corners at high speeds. Or stealing another car's right of way. Or passing on hills and curves. Or driving on the wrong side of the road. Or cutting in and out of thick traffic. Or coming roaring into intersections and road junctions without looking to either side. Or operating at speeds which are obviously higher than are safe under driving conditions of the moment. And, every once in a while, you see such a motorist cause an accident. Perhaps there is little damage done. Or perhaps a life is lost and valuable property is needlessly destroyed.

The reckless motorist comprises ten per cent or less of the driving population. But he causes ninety per cent of the accidents. If the reckless drivers simply injured each other it wouldn't be particularly important to the rest of us. But they seldom do that—they maim and kill the careful, the competent, the prudent. And you never know who's going to be next.

This year about thirty thousand people are going to be killed because someone was careless, reckless, discourteous. Not one of a thousand of those deaths is really due to an unavoidable accident—an occurrence which is almost as rare as the dod. They can all be prevented. And they will be when there is a concerted public drive against those who make places of carnage out of public highways.

Revival!

A Crimson hue tinted the dull heavens over toward the western horizon Wednesday night—a bright flare leaping madly as from nowhere. It played hop-scotch with low-hanging rain clouds as they drifted lazily past. Then it vanished only to bob up again after a few seconds' lull.

People in many sections of Birmingham smiled. For it was not their belief the world was coming to an end as they used to do years ago when bright lights flashed across the heavens.

Instead, they knew human power was behind those flashes, manly brawn, men with sinewy arms—sweating and liking it, for the earned bread they were to break—probably the first earned bread in months.

The furnaces were in operation again. But as for that matter they had beeing going for many days. But this night seemed to have brought the men, whose muscles had almost become flabby during idle months, into a "happy trance." They were all wearing broad, happy smiles; stopping only long enough now and then to "catch" a breath; some were humming a merry tune while others were bobbing their heads in acknowledgments to his fellow worker's hymn; but always performing their duties flawlessly.

Why? Oh, tomorrow's payday. Oh!

Yes, Thursday they would get their little brown envelope, but many agreed they would look like a parcel post package. And would 'Mamma' be happy? Baby would get those new shoes, Sonny could purchase that baseball bat before the season expired.

Merchants, also, would join in the rejoicing. They have been striving along through these months—many "taking care" of "old" customers till times got better. But now they are looking forward to one of the largest payroll distributions in more than three years. The steel mills are operating nearer normal now than at any time during that period.

The merchants have played a big part, during the depressing months. And when President Roosevelt launched his recovery program they were the first to step up to the plate and smack the old ball over the fence. They are all batting more than .500, with the season just opened.

But now their time has come again and they will be happy. The employer will be happy, for he, too, enjoys paying more if his revenues warrant such action. The laborer will be happy, for he enjoys spending money he earns. President Roosevelt will be happy, for he enjoys seeing the people spend money.—By K. C. Harville in Birmingham News.

A Landing Field In Clanton? Why, The Idea!

Who ever heard of any use of a landing field for airplanes in or near Clanton. The idea seems absurd. No one around here has any use for such a field.

Those are possibly the sentiments expressed by many who might hear that a movement is being pushed to secure an emergency landing field for Clanton. But those sentiments are altogether wrong and unfounded.

With Clanton situated about half way between anywhere and directly in several airplane routes, an emergency landing field would be a great asset to this community. Not only could Clantonians boast of the fact that we have a landing field, but invitations could be extended to aviators to stop and visit in Clanton when passing by. Not only those, but Clanton would be finding a warm spot in many an aviator's heart if he should find that an emergency field is nearby that he could use if necessary.

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton and Dr. V. J. Gragg, who is a Kiwanian, are making some headway toward this achievement. Who knows, if we get a landing field some of our citizens may become more air-minded. We have most everything else. Now we need a landing field.

A Credit Bureau For Chilton County

Some talk is being heard in town for the establishing of a credit rating bureau with headquarters in Clanton and to serve neighboring towns as well.

There are several types of credit bureaus, and there is a type that would be suitable for this section. Some would wonder, perhaps, just what is the purpose of a credit bureau. To make a long story short, it is to protect merchants and other creditors from bad charge accounts and will have a great deal to do with accounts being paid promptly. For a small membership fee, there seems to be no reason why a credit bureau should not be established in Clanton and function properly. There is certainly many reasons why one should be formed. This could be taken up with the proposed organization of the retail merchants association of the county at its next meeting, or sooner.

A study of the credit bureau which is in operation in Selma will give one a good insight into the work and benefits to business of such a system.

Where Is Your Blue Eagle?

Soon after the tide was sweeping Chilton County for signers of the President's blanket recovery code, the watchword of consumers was "Where is your blue eagle?"

This sentence will become even more effective as the consumers sign their pledge cards promising cooperation by patronizing and supporting employers and workers who are members of NRA.

The nation was told several days ago by the President that "public opinion" would enforce the NRA. The President was right and it is showing up fast that all stores in this section who are not displaying the NRA Blue Eagle are finding themselves trying to explain "WHY". Patent excuses will not be accepted long.

Our President has said, "There are adequate penalties in the law, but I am now asking the cooperation that comes from opinion and from conscience. These are the only instruments we shall use in this great summer offensive against unemployment. But we shall use them to the limit to protect the willing from the laggard and to make this plan succeed."

There is nothing uncertain about the situation. It is absolutely clear and every consumer, whether farmer, business man or housewife, has a perfect right to ask "Where is your Blue Eagle?"

o-o-o-o

What Is The NRA?

All over this section and all over the entire United States, there are signs and posters in store windows and other places with a blue eagle and these words: "We Do Our Part" and the letters NRA.

Whenever you see one of these blue eagles, it means that that place of business has signed an agreement with the National Recovery Administration in regard to shorter working hours and higher wages for employees.

Give these places of business your support. They deserve it. They are not backing this NRA for their own benefit alone, but for your benefit, and doing their part to bring recovery. Do your part by patronizing these places of business. It is becoming a nation-wide custom.

Caution Pays Big Dividends

The safety principle is largely a state of mind and is highly important in the ordinary affairs of life as well as upon public highways and in other places where danger lurks.

Those who have learned the virtues of care are most likely to avoid trouble, whether in driving a car or driving a bargain.

It is merely an application of the wise though ancient idea that it is best to look before leaping.

Those who cultivate the habit are those who not only avoid accidents in most instances, but who fare best in all the relations of life.

The careful worker is the one who does the best and most satisfactory job, and usually is the one who lasts longest on the job and draws the largest pay.

The careful business man is the one who succeeds best and erects the most permanent structure, and as it goes through all the relations of life.

Care means watching for possible mistakes and taking steps to avoid them, and this is about the only secret there is to success, aside from diligence and purpose.

Thus the principle of safety, which if properly applied upon public highways would greatly minimize the loss of life and the injury to person, is a vital factor in individual success. It is a spirit infinitely worth while and its cultivation pays dividends of the most satisfactory nature.

Join The Anti-Fire Army

The greatest tragedy of fire is seldom seen. It doesn't lie in destroyed homes and industries and farms—tragic as these are. It is in their results—in the long chain of misfortunes that follow every fire, great or small.

It is in lost jobs and opportunities—things you can't measure in dollars and cents. It is in destroyed purchasing power—something you can't see in the smoldering embers. It is in higher insurance rates, which are an unnecessary burden on every resident of the community.

For the indirect costs of fire are always infinitely greater than the direct costs. If we destroy half a billion dollars a year directly, we destroy twice or thrice that indirectly. Those are the costs that no insurance policy can cover. Insurance, vital as it is, must necessarily deal with the concrete, the tangible—there is no form of protection that will compensate for the intangible values that are still more important.

During the past three years the tragedy of fire has become even more intense than it was before. During those years there has been a crying need for jobs, payrolls, operating industries. And fire was always their enemy. It robbed the nation of thousands of jobs. It destroyed immeasurable opportunities. It stole the livelihood of families. It was the friend of hard times, the enemy of recovery.

It is never too late to enlist in a good cause. There is a growing army which is determined to stamp out the causes of fire, so far as that is possible. Its duties are not onerous—they consist simply of inspecting one's property, of constantly keeping at it to make sure that hazards are eliminated and do not reappear. You, as an individual and a member of society, are needed in that army.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I saw a man for several years and during that time I never saw him when he was not exquisitely dressed. Every garment worn by him was the latest in style and every thing blended in harmony. I ventured to ask, "Tell me how it is that you are able to dress so perfectly?" His reply gave out the secret of the whole matter. Said he, "Why sir, I devote all of my thinking and expenditures to my dressing." To dress in style was his fad and he made it a success. We have seen many a woman who looked like a doll all the time. She devoted her whole mind to her dressing. Dressing is the whole mind and measure of many men and women. The reason why so many people do other things so poorly is because they fail to put their "Whole Mind" on the thing to be done. It takes the whole mind for anything to be well done.

"Our church is going down," said one of the members, "and we will paint her on the outside and she will thrive again." The pipe organ refused to give out harmony and one of the members suggested that the pipes be repainted and the instrument would sing. On the farm the pump gave out impure water and a visitor suggested that the pump be painted white and the water would be pure. Paint will not make a thriving church, it will not put music into a pipe organ and neither will it make pure the water in a pump. Yet, this is the very thing that society is advocating. Guild the exterior and society will be all right. As long as the hearts of man and women are impure, it matters not how much culture and refinement, society will not be any better. We had better do some cleaning up and cleaning out, in the hearts of people, and stop so much of this outside painting. The trouble in society is not an external matter, it is an internal trouble.

I was strolling through Central Park in New York City, and came to a tremendous pile of rocks all covered over with honeysuckle vines. The mound before me was a thing of beauty and the very air was filled with sweetness coming from the uplifted crags. I was told that when the engineers were laying out the land for the park that they were greatly puzzled to know what to do with that awful pile of rocks. They finally fell upon the plan of setting out honeysuckle vines all around the tremendous boulders. They changed the place from an unsightly location to one of the most beautiful spots in the park. The most of us have unsightly places and dispositions in our character, and it behooves us to devote to these our special thought and care. We can change our ugly character elements into dispositions filled with beauty and sweetness. If you know of an ugly place in the garden of your soul, better do some special work at that point and transform it into a place of beauty and sweetness.

In my home town there was a large department store. One day they advertised men's ready-to-wear goods, the next day they advertised hardware, the next groceries and so on all during the week. I would like to ask, "Is your heart a department store?" On Monday you advertise the grouches, Tuesday you advertise selfishness, Wednesday you advertise indifference, Thursday you advertise snobbishness, Friday you advertise pleasure, Saturday you advertise dishonesty and Sunday you advertise songs and prayers. That is the soul trade that is going on in the hearts of many. Why not make the soul a beautiful, flourishing fruit tree? One that blooms in beauty, grows in an upward direction and produces only one kind of fruit. Blessed is the man who produces the fruit of righteousness three hundred and sixty-five days every year.

"Yes," she replied, passing the scissors back into his hand. "Then stick out your tongue," replied the minister as he made preparations to cut.

WHAT OF HEALTH FADS?

The subject of how to live long is always of interest, which perhaps accounts for the eagerness of the average mortal to seize upon various methods which are recommended for promoting health and longevity, such as doing daily exercise to radio music and the like.

However, there are many who are skeptical regarding the real benefits of strenuous physical activity. One of these wrote a letter to the Cleveland Press, pointing out that Walter Camp, famed athlete and originator of the "daily dozen," died at 65, while he, the writer, had never taken any kind of exercise to speak of and was still in excellent health, although a great-grandfather. He added that "the longest-lived people are the physically lazy but mentally alert."

Commenting on the letter, William Feather, a well known editor, declares that several years ago he adopted a vigorous health program, including vegetarianism, cold baths and the daily dozen, with this result:

"Acute indigestion led to the abandonment of vegetarianism on doctor's orders. Another doctor recommended discontinuance of cold baths. The daily dozen are still pursued, but faith in them has been shaken by the untimely death of their inventor."

Still, we may find many who swear by the health fads and feel that their lives have been saved thereby. As the proverb has it, "What is food for some is black poison to others."

Letters To The Editor

THE NRA PROGRAM

Editor, Chilton County News:

I notice a majority of the business houses of Clanton are advertising that they are cooperating with President Roosevelt's recovery program; but I am afraid that in their eagerness to get the Blue Eagle as well as the golden eagle, they have entirely lost sight of the major principle of the NRA which is to give more wages and more employment, thereby creating more buying power. They seem to be very much interested in shortening their working hours for their own convenience and to the inconvenience of the public. I agree with Mr. Hayes' statement in the News last week was not to shorten the working hours, except for the purpose of creating more jobs for the unemployed, and that no one around Clanton was hurting himself working too hard. I am nearly sixty years old and I have known only a few people who worked themselves to death and they did not live in Chilton county. Now I hope that the business people in Clanton that are boosting the Blue Eagle and NRA cooperation will come out openly and let the people know just how much new help they have hired, and how much they have raised the wages of the old help, and also state how much they have boosted prices of their commodities and services. The NRA officials have hinted that it is the duty of the public to boycott those places that do not have the Blue Eagle. The public is going to be slow to give preference to those places that have the Blue Eagle until sure that those places are actually creating new buying power by increased wages and employment, and the public is also going to be slow to boycott those who do not have the Blue Eagle until it is sure that those places could cooperate without undue hardship to themselves. We feel that there are some who can hardly carry on as it is and for them to add on any more expense until there is more improvement in business might mean the closing of their doors.

The business people of Clanton must also remember that their trade is mostly with farmers whose buying power will not improve until this year's cotton crop is marketed, if then, and that they should do their best to hold prices down, and by so doing, keep anyone from being justified in trading with Sears Roebuck or some other Buck.

Now, in conclusion, let me appeal to the public to withhold judgment until we see who is really entitled to the Blue Eagle, and to learn those who are really not in a position to cooperate, but are in sympathy with the plan, and will cooperate as soon as conditions are such that they can do so without too great a hardship.

AGRICULTURE

By Clifford Manning

Starting A Series of Topics on Poultry The First, "The Poultry Industry"

From time immemorial, fowls have entered closely into human life, and in a variety of ways. They have made important contributions to the food supply of many nations and their feathers have served for the warmth and comfort of mankind. The pugnacious character of the wild cock led to the development of the sport of cockfighting which frequently had a remarkable influence on civilizations of bygone day

From the aesthetic standpoint, various human races the world over have busily occupied themselves in evolving plumage colorations in bewildering variety and have also produced changes in feather structure and body type that demonstrate the relative plasticity of the original stock.

What man has accomplished within recent years by breeding from selected variants has been shown by his success in developing the large number o breeds and varieties of fowl known t us today. In these and in other ways because of their small size as compared with many other domestic animals an because of their adaptibility to a wid variety of climatic conditions, fowl have entered into the interests of mor human beings than any other animal.

The development of the poultry industry to its present state has bee brought about largely by the deman for poultry products in the human di and by the relative economy in the pr duction of these products in compariso with other animal food products. I people had never acquired a taste f the eggs and flesh of the wild fowl there probably would have been n poultry industry as we know it toda It is well to bear in mind, therefor that the importance of an industry mu be judged from the standpoint of th consumption as well as the productio of its products.

Charming Visitors Feted At Several Events.

Miss Dorothy Bush and Jack Bush of Cincinnati, Miss Sammy Johnson of Atworth, O., Bobby and Jack Courtney, Washington, who were the guests of Miss Mary Courtney Jones last Wednesday, were the guests of honor at a series of delightful social events on that day.

The first of this series of lovely and delightful events was a picnic and swimming party given jointly by Mrs. J. Watts Moore, Mrs. L. F. Gerald and Mrs. Sam Powers at Lay Dam. The beautiful lawn of the Powers home made a delightful spot for games and a picnic lunch. After an enjoyable swim picnic lunch was served to the guests. The guest list included Misses Helen Moore, Peggy Mullins, Mary Courtney Jones, Ova Lee McCutcheon, Dixie Johnson, Nell Neighbors, Gladys Martin, Gertiwill Vinson, and the honorees, Misses Dorothy Bush and Sammy Johnson and Jack Bush and Jack and Bobby Courtney. Also present were Joe Moore, John Ezell, Hal Broadhead, Lawrence Gerald, Jr., Grady Reynolds, Jr., Morgan Reynolds, Jesse Frank Foshee, Herbert Neighbors and Milton Diefenderfer. The chaperones were Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. Phillip Horn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bush of Cincinnati, and Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Woodson.

The second in this delightful series of social functions was a lovely garden tea from 7 to 8 P.M. last Wednesday, given by Mrs. Hugh Jones in the beautiful garden at her home. Colorful Japanese lanterns cast their soft glow over the garden and aided by numerous pot flowers gave the garden a touch of enchantment. The guests were served from tables in the garden by the hostess and her aides. Delicious ices, cakes, sandwiches and tea composed the refreshments. Enjoying this wonderful event were Misses Dixie Johnson, Peggy Mullins, Helen Moore, Mary Courtney Jones, Nell Neighbors, Gertiwill Vinson, Ova Lee McCutcheon, Ruth Gowan and others. Present also were Dan Smith, Joe Moore, Hal Broadhead, John Ezell, Joe Hall Johnson, Jesse Frank Foshee, Herbert Neighbors, Phillip Nelson, D. H. Wylder, Milton Diefenderfer, Sidney Reynolds, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Morgan Reynolds, Cecil Jones, Alec Hayes, Lawrence Gerald, Jr., and others.

Concluding this delightful social whirl was the evening dance given by Miss Dixie Johnson at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Napoleon Johnson, last Wednesday evening. The guests, with the sweet memory of the swimming party and lovely tea lingering in their mind climaxed the social whirl of that day with this gayful dance which was a perfect end of a perfect day. Those present at the dance were Misses Helen Moore, Peggy Mullins, Mary Courtney Jones, Ruth Gowan, Gertiwill Vinson, Gladys Martin, Pauline Pool, Berniece Wade, and the guests of honor, Misses Dorothy Bush and Sammy Johnson and Jack Bush. The young men present were Morgan Reynolds, Dan Smith, Grady Reynolds, Jr., Lawrence Gerald, Jr., Joe Moore, Phillip Nelson, Cecil Jones, Alec Hayes, Sidney Reynolds, Hal Broadhead, Herbert Neighbors, Jesse Frank Foshee and others.

WALLACE GETTING FACTS ON COTTON

Agriculture Secretary Sees Extension Of Acreage Cut Into 1934

Greenville, Miss.—Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture, who says the government probably will extend its cotton production control program through 1934, is getting a first hand glimpse of the operation of this year's curtailment plan.

En route here Monday from Jackson, he visited the Estill plantation of the Delta and Pine Land Company, headed by Oscar Johnston, adjustment administrator, and saw cotton actually being destroyed. He expressed great interest in the delta cotton country.

Tuesday he planned to visit the delta experiment station at Stoneville and watch operation of the new federal gin built there for research purposes. He was named chief speaker at a Delta Day celebration there and officials expected some 10,000 persons.

Secretary Wallace conferred Monday with farm leaders at Jackson and talked of control of the cotton crop next year. He said it had not been determined whether the same acreage reduction program followed this year would be used in 1934.

Oats And Legumes To Replace Cotton

Auburn, Ala.—Use of the opportunity afforded by the cotton reduction program to enrich soils and add to feed supplies is being urged by Director L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

He is suggesting that the acreage from which cotton is removed be planted to hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas or oats this fall. The vetch and peas will add nitrogen and humus to the soil and oats is a splendid feed crop for fall planting, he said.

Dr. Duncan is particularly anxious for Alabama to break all former records in soil building by the winter legume route. This state is the leader in the nation in the growing of vetch and winter peas which gather nitrogen from the air and store it in the soil, thereby increasing the per acre yield of crops of cotton and corn which follow. By planting these legumes hundreds of Alabama farmers are making their business more profitable.

Many farmers have already planted cowpeas, corn, or other crops on the acres from which cotton was removed. But this land will still be a splendid place to plant winter legumes this fall.

On the average a good crop of vetch or winter peas will increase the yield of the crop of corn following by about 20 bushels per acre.

The planting of oats is being urged by Dr. Duncan as a means of increasing feed supplies which are expected to be none too ample during the next crop season.

How All the People Played a Part In Building Nation's Credit Structure

Banker Describes the Way Loans and Securities of Banks Are Based on the Hopes and Plans of All Classes—Values Dependent on Public's Ability to Meet Obligations

By FRANCIS H. SISSON,
President American Bankers Association in The Forum

F. H. SISSON

CREDIT may be informally described as future hopes, plans and good intentions converted into present purchasing power. The farmer, the manufacturer, the merchant, the home buyer, the purchaser of household goods, the investor and the speculator all borrow at times. They plan to repay with the earnings of their crops, proceeds of the sales of their goods, incomes from their wages and salaries or profits from the resales of their securities at enhanced market values, each as the case may be.

The greater part of these various forms of credit is obtained by the borrowers directly or indirectly through the expansion of the loans and investments of the banks. It is this which creates the notes, securities and mortgages in the portfolios of the banks. The banks are able to extend these loans because a great many people deposit money with them.

Even under the best conditions the plans of a small percentage of borrowers go wrong through mistakes, hard luck or dishonesty, and the judgment of the banker in such cases is proved by the after event to have been at fault. The losses caused under such conditions are ordinarily fully met by funds set aside out of the earnings of the banks for just this purpose and do not affect the money of the depositors, who seldom hear anything about such losses.

In the vast majority of cases and in the overwhelming volume of business involved the confidence of the bankers in their customers and the confidence of the customers in their own ability to carry out their plans and obligations to successful conclusions are wholly justified. This is the normal economic situation and it constitutes the conditions under which the use of credit adds to public welfare and progress.

The Faith of the Banks

Such was the structure of hopes, good intentions and common confidence in one another that existed among all classes of the nation's community life when the series of economic shocks began to shake the nation's social fabric in 1929. The people had deposited billions of dollars with the banks because they had confidence in them. The banks had loaned large volumes of these deposits on farm and home mortgages and on notes of manufacturers, business men and finance concerns, and had invested in the standard securities of the nation's corporations, state and local government units and the national government itself, because they had confidence in the citizenship and business condition of the nation.

Their mortgage and other loans to owners of farms aggregated $6,500,000,000. Loans on urban real estate were $4,000,000,000. Loans to individuals secured by U. S. Government, municipal and corporate securities totalled $11,000,000,000. Loans to industrial and commercial enterprises in connection with the production and distribution of the nation's infinite varities of goods amounted to almost $19,500,000,000. Investments in Federal, State and municipal bonds were almost $6,000,000,000, and in various kinds of railroad and corporate securities $11,000,000,000. These made total loans and investments of $58,000,000,000.

This great credit structure was built while the country was at peace, while the farms and factories were productive, while the nation and the world provided great active markets for their outputs, while the earnings of all kinds of enterprise were large, while the working people of the nation were fully employed, while wages and salaries were steady and generous, while prices of commodities were strong and while the minds of the people were dominated by faith in the future and confidence in one another.

Great Changes Came to the Nation

Then suddenly, almost as if the sun itself had lost part of its vitality, everything changed. Foreign markets failed and disappeared. Industry slackened. A rapid drop in all kinds of commodity values set in. The earnings of business fell. Unemployment developed. Wages and salaries went down. Domestic markets shrank. Fear became general. The securities markets became panic-ridden as the prices of stocks and bonds withered to fractions of their former values. It was the greatest disintegration of human plans, economic conditions and worldly values that history had ever witnessed.

These destructive changes cut right through the qualities and values of the loans and investments, the notes and securities in the banks. Business men and manufacturers could not repay their notes to the banks as due. Many governmental units and corporations defaulted the payments on their bonds. Property underlying real estate mortgages became worth less than the face of the mortgages. The market values of standard securities became less than the banks had paid for them as investments or accepted them at as collateral for customers' loans.

This meant, in fine, that the ability of borrowers to carry out the future hopes, plans and good intentions that I have denned above as the basis of credit, had become impaired to a far greater extent than had ever before occurred in the nation's history. The resulting losses could not be absorbed by the banks alone out of the normally ample funds that had been set aside against the expectancy of a certain inevitable percentage of human plans gone wrong.

Banks Showed All Reasonable Care

It was in loans and investments, whose values thus became so unforeseeably impaired, that the banks, in all confidence, in all good faith, in all humanly reasonable care and good judgment had entrusted the billions of dollars of deposits which their customers had entrusted to them.

Those loans and investments were, under all normal conditions, as good as gold itself. Indeed, if the banks instead had filled their vaults with gold bars, and then some unknown cosmic ray had transmuted them into lead, the results would have been scarcely more startling than the depreciation that was caused in the assets of the banks by the unforeseeable economic forces which permeated and debased them.

The inevitable result was that, when the banks urgently needed the money they had entrusted to those assets, so that they could meet the unreasoning demands of their depositors, they could not get it back.

It was not that our banking system and methods were of themselves weak or reprehensible, apart from the rest of the life of the nation, as has so much been made to appear.

It was not that our banks were permeated with incompetency or dishonesty or with lower standards of business ethics than were the other forms of human activity with which their own fate and activities were inextricably interwoven, as, it almost seemed at times, there was a concerted national conspiracy to lead our people to believe.

The great fact of American banking is that it shared fully in the plans and hopes and hazards of the American people,—and when those plans went wrong, the banks carried their share of the burden and suffered their share of the misfortune.

A PREHISTORIC MONSTER

After being buried for ages in the fossil beds of northeastern Utah, the largest skeleton ever discovered on land now stands in the Carnegie Museum at Pittsburgh a striking example of the monsters which roamed the earth during the Age of Reptiles, many millions of years ago.

This skeleton is that of a Brontosaurus, of the dinosaur order of reptiles, 100 feet long and 20 feet high. In life the animal weighed perhaps 20 tons. Alongside of it an elephant would seem as small relatively as a dog beside a horse.

The fossil bed from which it was taken is the most extensive deposit of dinosaurian and other reptilian remains ever discovered. It was found in 1919, and the site is under the protection of the National Park Service. More than 200 tons of bones and other material of scientific value have been removed for study and exhibition, with very little duplication of specimens.

According to a statement by the Park Service, it is the belief of scientists that these prehistoric animals were originally imbedded n a sand bar in some ancient river. This sand turned to sandstone and was covered by thousands of feet of other strata of rocks, the whole later having been forced into an upright position by a great volcanic upheaval, which left the fossil bed exposed on a mountain top.

Through the patient labors of scientists who are continually exploring among such records preserved in the rocks, as well as among the ruins of ancient civilization, salient facts in the world's history which were totally unknown a few years ago are being brought to light.

Acreage Cutting Offset By Yield

A Government estimate of a 12,314,000 bale cotton crop for this year added difficulty today to plans of farm administration officials to whittle down the surplus.

The official estimate by the crop reporting board was well above most private reports, which had forecast a crop of less than 12,000,000 bales, but in view of the orderly market decline officials took comfort from the indicated result of the acreage reduction campaign.

This was disclosed in the crop reporting board's estimate that 4,247,000 bales which would have gone to the gins have been or will be plowed under because of the administration's acreage slash efforts.

MARINE CORPS ANNOUNCES VACANCIES

During the month of September there will be a few openings for young men in the United States Marine Corps, provided they have the necessary qualifications, mental and moral, and can pass the rigid physical examination required of all men enlisted in this branch of the service.

Any young man graduated from high school, who is interested, should write Lieut. Col. H. W. Stone, Officer in Charge, U. S. Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Municipal Auditorium, Macon, Ga., who will furnish full information regarding the service and the duties of a Marine, ashore, afloat and in the air, in this, and in foreign countries. The rigid requirements for enlistment also will be explained in detail, for this branch of the military and Naval service is recognized here and abroad as one of the finest in the world, and is the most difficult to enter due to its high educational, moral and physical standards.

We're Making History

—o—

These are stirring times. The greatest nation in the world is putting across a new national economic and social policy. Cooperation on the largest scale ever yet attempted is supplanting uncontrolled competition. We recognize that what is being done is experimental, but it is an experiment with more people in accord with it and trying to make it a success than any experiment that has been tried in our time.

We have seen the Russian revolution overturn the whole history of government, but that was forced upon the vast majority by a minority which had the advantage of the army with it. We have seen Mussolini and his fascisti gain control of Italy and completely reorganize the economic and social life of that nation. Again, that was a movement which had no great popular support behind it at the start.

Here in America the overwhelming majority of the people voted the present administration into power and even among those who did not vote there is a growing element which approves the program Washington has embarked upon. A great many think that there might have been found some better way to pull ourselves out of the economic bog, but they are all interested in any method which promises success.

After all, it is certainly an intolerable state of affairs if the wealthiest nation in the world, with the largest natural resources and food enough to feed half the world can find no way to keep the people from starving in the midst of plenty. And if the present experiment succeeds it will prove, among other things, that the American people are not as foolish as some have thought us.

If we get back to permanent general prosperity because of what has been initiated at Washington this year, we shall have made history and this year, 1933, will go down into the textbooks of the future as the date when the United States turned its old system upside down.—Hartselle Enterprise.

80,250 CARS, AND TRUCKS BY CHEVROLET IN JULY

—o—

The largest July production since 1929, nearly trebling the output for the corresponding month last year, was achieved by Chevrolet when the company built 80,250 new cars and trucks in the month just ended, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced today.

This compared with 32,281 built last July ad with 81,562 in June of this year, which was the highest production month since early 1931, Mr. Knudsen stated. The current July was the fourth largest July in the 21-year history of the company.

Not since 1920 has July production come as close to June as this year, Mr. Knudsen said, attesting to much-less-than-seasonal slack, now being experienced by the company.

While some seasonal let-up is bound to be felt in August, Mr. Knudsen said he hoped that the sustained high level of retail sales would enable his company again to effect a reduction in the normal average decline from July into the coming month.

For the first seven months this year this company produced more than 438,000 new cars and trucks as compared with 394,000 for the full twelve months of 1932, the Chevrolet executive stated.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

There will be services at the Thorsby Baptist church both morning and evening next Sunday.

—o—

Mrs. Webb Parrish, nee Miss Leora Goodgame, who has been ill for a number of months underwent a very serious operation last Saturday at St. Vincent's hospital. The doctors hesitated in operating for some time, but her health continually became weaker instead of stronger, so an operation was necessary. After the operation she became so weak that a blood transfusion was given her. One of her relatives in Birmingham furnished the blood and in case a second transfusion would have been necessary, one of the Thorsby boys would have gone. We are now happy to write that she regained strength by putting up a strong fight, from the first blood transfusion, and is now slowly on the road to recovery.

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change.

We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

JACKSON CHAPEL

We had two wonderful sermons Sunday and Sunday night by Rev. Robert Bean. We also had a good singing and we want to thank the people and the Jemison Quartet for helping us out.

The singing was called to order by V. G. Smith, acting chairman. The following directors sang two songs each: Harry Parker, Miss Loudelia Clackler, E. L. Glasscock, T. E. Wyatt, Mrs. James Gillespie, A. H. Glasscock, L. F. Clackler, Mrs. L. F. Clackler, Joe Painter. The Jemison Quartet sang a song between every two directors. Organists were Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Clackler, Miss Lettie Mae Weldon, Mrs. James Gillespie. We were dismissed by A. H. Glasscock.

Next Sunday we will start a revival at this place. Rev. Tom Daniel will preach at eleven o'clock. Then at 8:00 p.m. Rev. J. H. Huckabee of Roperville, Ga., will preach. He will be the one who will run the meeting. Bro. Huckabee is a young man, and they say he surely can preach. So, everybody come out to hear him.

Mr. Johnnie Minor, who has been teaching singing school here, informs us that he regrets he was unable to be with us Sunday, but that it was unavoidable.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

As Good As I Have Seen

I was up about Lomax the other day, stepping off some cotton which is to be taken out of production. While up there I went through Richard Turpin's vetch corn, and let me tell you, he has some corn! I wish many of you could go over and see that corn. Those living near the County Training School may drop by Otto McKinney's to see his vetch corn. He wrote to Ben Brown, offering him the library for the community and he in turn conferred the honor upon the principal of the County Training School. Mr. Headley is a native of Chilton county, and is giving the library in memory of his father, Mr. Ran Headley. He states in his letter: "I am giving this library to your people in memory of my father, Mr. Ran Headley (F. M.) in token of his friendship for his good negro neighbors." Just these words should encourage the negroes of Chilton county to go forward and at all times be neighborly to their fellowmen, regardless of race or creed, for sooner or later they will be rewarded. Mr. Headley's donation is as good an example as is necessary to cite. It further makes us believe more strongly in these words: "All good things come to those who labor and wait."

PATES CHAPEL

Our revival closed the past week on Friday morning with a great success. Nine joined to be baptized and three by letter, which we were very glad to have. The pastors were welcomed in every home and have an invitation back any time.

Our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. are progressing fine we are glad to report. May God be with each and everyone who is trying to work in any way that will lead young people to Christ.

Mrs. Vasteen Hayes of Loxley has been visiting her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Rube Williams, and her husband's folks, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes, of this community.

The people of Pates Chapel are grateful to our pastors through the past week for their wonderful messages brought to us by Rev. J. Robert Bean the assistant to Rev. M. Lockhart.

Mrs. M. Lockhart and children spent Thursday night and Friday in this community the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elora Champion and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Hayes spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Sally [illegible] and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hayes and children.

A goodly number attended the singing at Freeman school house Sunday.

Miss Zemma Hayes and brother, Pink, left Monday to spend a while with friends and relatives of Loxley.

Next Saturday [illegible] at 2:30 the W. M. U. will meet at the church [illegible] Everybody who is interested come.

We are glad to report that we have one coat of paint on our church, and are hoping to have the second before long. Many thanks to those who were helpers in this work.

Everybody remember the third Sunday evening in this month is our regular singing evening. Everybody who is interested has an invitation.

And remember, every first Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching times, Rev. M. Lockhart, the pastor.

*Based on the latest retail registration figures from R. L. Polk & Company (all states for five full months). Since January first Chevrolet has sold in excess of 370,000 passenger cars and trucks.

People have come to expect Chevrolet to lead the world in automobile sales. But this year Chevrolet has done even more than that. According to the latest available figures, Chevrolet alone has sold almost as many cars this year as all the rest of the low-price field combined!

When a car looms above its field like that, there can't be any argument about it. It must be an all-round better buy. And that's exactly what Chevrolet offers you. Fisher bodies, with the new ventilation system and the strongest and quietest body construction of the day—solid steel over a sturdy hardwood frame.* A valve-in-head six engine, unapproached for economy . . . Cushion-Balanced to blot out vibration . . . full of snap and vigor—altogether the most efficient engine in the low-price field.

Then there's Syncro-Mesh with Silent Second, the Starterator, Simplified Free Wheeling, the Octane Selector, long, parallel-mounted springs—more advancements than we have space to describe. And Chevrolet prices are as low as $445. Don't guess—buy from the leader. Get a car that has been proved sound and dependable by more owners than any other automobile you can buy.

Story In Rhyme

Now friends be still and listen to me. I will tell you a story as true as can be. It's better than the story of Daniel or Ruth. Though it seems fishy, it is every bit the truth. Just listen right good and I'll tell you the tale. How old Jonah, the prophet, got caught by a big whale. The whale caught poor Jonah and bless your soul it not only caught him it swallowed him whole. A part of this story is awfully sad. It's about a big city that went to the bad. When the Lord saw the people with such wicked ways He said: "I can't stand them but forty more days." Then he said to Jonah, you go and cry to that wicked city and tell them that I give them but forty more days to get humbled down, and if they don't do it, I will tear up the town. When he heard the Lord speaking old Jonah said No, I'm a true hardshell Baptist so I won't go. Those Ninevah people are nothing to me. Then I am against foreign missions you see. So he went down to Joppah and there in great haste boarded a ship for a different place.

The Lord looked down on the ship and said, "Old Jonah is fixing to run off from me." So He set the wind blowing with squeaks and squeals. The sea got rowdy and kicked up its heels. Old Jonah confessed that it was caused by his sin so the crew threw him off and the whale took him in. The whale said to Jonah, "Old fellow, don't fret; I'm sent down here to take you in out of the wet. You are going to be punished right much for your sin." Then he opened his mouth and poor Jonah went in. 'Twas the funniest sight, boys, you've ever seen, to see Jonah ride off in his new submarine. Then Nineveh's people did not repent for the message of warning to them was missent. On a bed of green sea weed the whale tried to rest. He said I'll sleep while my food digests. But he got mighty restless and sorely afraid for he mumbled inside as the old prophet prayed. So you see how God's letter to Nineveh lays in the dead letter office for three nights and days. The prophet was shut in as tight as a lock. All things will be opened as sure as you knock. On the third day the old fish rose from his bed with his stomach tore up and a pain in his head. He said, I must get to the air mighty quick for that filthy old sinner s making me sick.

So he winked his big eye and wiggled his tail, and pulled for the shore to deliver his mail. When he came to the shore he looked all around, then vomited Jonah clean out on the ground. Old Jonah thanked God for his mercy and grace, then turned around to the whale and made a face, and said, "After three nights and days you have found that a good man, old sucker, you can not keep down." The old prophet stretched forth with a yawn and a sigh and sat down in the sun for his clothing to dry. He thought how much better his preaching would be, since from Whale Seminary he had a degree. After resting himself and drying well in the sun, he started for Nineveh almost in a run. He said, "I must hurry and try not to sin, for I am sure I don't want to be swallowed again." He arrived at the city about a week late, and began his preaching by the time he entered the gate, till whole population repented and prayed and the great hand of justice and vengeance had stayed.

When you disobey mamma, boys, remember the tale and when you run off from home remember the whale. There are varmints to get you on sea and on land, and a boy can be swallowed lots easier than a man.

Local Youth Is In St. Louis On Trip

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7—(Special to News)—Arriving here this morning are 30 American and Canadian college students, winners of business Fellowships awarded by the Danforth Foundation and Purina Mills, manufacturers of Checkerboard feeds and cereals. Among these honor men is Oliver O. Manning, of Maplesville, Ala., a student of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who with 29 other members of the group will begin an intensive two weeks study of big business in its relation to agriculture.

Their observations will take them first to Purina Mills' Experimental Farm near St. Louis where they will devote a week to studying the various experiments on the feeding of dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine, calves, dogs, foxes and poultry that are now in progress. Friday they are to return to the offices and mills in the city for a week's instruction in Purina's research, manufacturing, and sales promotion methods. The program during this time will also include trips to the grain exchanges, large printing and engraving plants, stock yards, and packing houses.

Following their stay in St. Louis the entire delegation will spend two weeks at the American Youth Foundation Camp on the shores of Lake Michigan, near Shelby, Mich., where they will engage in a strenuous course of leadership activities under the direction of prominent business and social authorities.

Danforth Fellowships covering this varied course of training are awarded each year to outstanding junior class students in agricultural colleges. The awards are made to boys whose character, agricultural experience and interests indicate that they are best qualified for the training.

Veterans Will Be Given Benefit Of Doubt By Special Review Boards

Washington, Aug. 6—Special boards of review being set up to pass upon war veterans' presumptive service disability cases were directed today by Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, not to "allow their personal feelings to intrude."

The orders, prepared and issued under direction of President Roosevelt, repeated the instructions to "resolve all reasonable doubts in favor of the veteran, the burden of proof in such cases being on the Government."

"It is to be remembered that the majority of claimants are disabled persons who are seeking benefits of law to which they believe themselves entitled," Hines said in issuing the voluminous instructions to the newly appointed boards in New York City, Eastern New York, Massachusetts and Illinois.

"In the exercise of their functions the members of the special boards must not allow their personal feelings to intrude; an antagonistic, critical or even abusive attitude on the part of the claimant should not in any instance influence the board members in the handling of the case."

The boards were directed to determine on all available evidence the question of whether service connection shall be granted "notwithstanding the evidence may not clearly demonstrate the existence of the disease or any specific clinical findings within the terms of or period described. . . .

"In any case where in view of the peculiar circumstances and in the exercise of sound judgment it is determined that the veteran is entitled to service connection an affirmative determination may be made even though literal adherence to such principles would prevent the granting of service connection."

Hines further instructed the board members to "view the claim in the light of the circumstances under which the veteran served in the armed forces during the World War, giving particular consideration to service in the American Expeditionary Forces in the zone of hostilities."

He warned them not to "indulge in speculative theory" in reaching their conclusion, but added:

"The boards will, however, give due consideration to lay evidence as well as medical evidence of record, bearing in mind that the evidence should be viewed in the light of the facts set forth rather than the conclusions stated and that the weight to be given the evidence must depend largely upon the knowledge and capacity of the individual giving the testimony concerning the subject or fact about which he testifies.

"A claimant is not required to establish the service origin of a condition either to a mathematical or moral certainty. The claimant is required in all cases to adduce such evidence as would when considered with all evidence adduced to the contrary, create in a fair and impartial mind the belief that his claim is well grounded, but the claim is not to be denied because there is room for a lingering doubt as to whether some of his statements and those of his witnesses are true where the same have not been impeached or contradicted."

MRS. F. K. SEWELL DIED AT HER HOME TUESDAY, AUG. 1

The Death Angel visited the home of Mr. F. K. Sewell Tuesday, August 1, just as the noon hour approached and took away the spirit of his wife, Mrs. Hattie (Pierce) Sewell. She was thirty-seven years of age. For the past six years she had been a member of Bethsalem Baptist church.

She leaves a husband, one son, her father, and a number of brothers and sisters.

Dear husband and son, we know it is hard for you to understand just why God saw fit to take her away and break up that happy little home of yours, but remember, He has a purpose in everything. He knows what is best. Look to God for consolation. Some day, you will see His reason for this. May each of you prepare to meet her where there will be no more separation. May God bless each of you.

HOURS OF OFFICE OF COUNTY AGENT CHANGED

It was stated last week that the hours during which the office of the county agent would be open would be from 8 a.m. until five p.m.

Mr. Stapp has requested the News to state that these hours have been changed and in the future the office will open as early as six o'clock and remain open until late in the afternoon. While these hours are lengthy, all employees of the office are working only eight hours per day, according to the requirements of NRA.

FIGHT BEING MADE ON HIGH GINNING RATE

Ginners Are Warned No Code Has Been Approved And About High Rates

Seth P. Storrs, Commissioner of Agriculture, has in his possession written evidence that ginners in Southeast Alabama are charging as high as $8.05 per bale for ginning cotton. The Commissioner has sent the following telegram to General Hugh S. Johnson, in charge of the National Recovery Act and to Secretary Henry A. Wallace, of the U. S. Department of Agrculture:

"Ginners in South Alabama have met and fixed and are charging minimum price of six dollars ranging up to eight for ginning cotton. This action is in violation of Sherman Act and contrary to Spirit of NRA. Please investigate at once and take most vigorous action. Highest price ever charged for ginning in Alabama was five dollars when cotton sold for forty cents pound and seed sixty dollars ton. At present time new cotton sells for nine cents and seed for fifteen dollars ton. Splendid spirit of cooperation shown by cotton farmers by destruction of crops should be encouraged by giving him proper protection. Please advise."

In addition Commissioner Storrs is conferring with Federal Judge Kennamer and U. S. District Attorney Chilton. He has also written Solicitor Hubert Farmer at Dothan requesting a Grand Jury investigation of this matter as being in violation of Sections 5212-15 of Alabama Code which prohibits price fixing.

Commissioner Storrs calls attention to the fact that no ginners' code has yet been approved under provisions of National Recovery Act, and that persons have been repeatedly warned against taking any steps toward increasing prices until Codes have been approved.

It is understood that Georgia ginners just across line from Southeast Alabama are charging $4.50 per bale for ginning. Information coming to Commissioner Storrs is to effect that notices are posted at gins in Southeast Alabama stating the price for ginning as minimum of $6.00 per bale and ranging upward according to weight of bale.

AT FOREST CAMP

tank.

Another interesting thing that happens in camp is the "mail rush" each afternoon when the boys get in from those beloved fire break tours, yes, I mean tours. We tour all around the stumps and from one side of the fire break to the other moving trash such as we can without axes, or rakes.

You should see the boys when they all get tucked under their mosquito bars. Now, I'm telling you I hate to come in late and have to tuck that thing down as bad as I did to wash my feet at home. Of course I don't say Captain Ross has as hard a time keeping me under my mosquito bar as Mamma does making me wash my feet at night because if he catches ye out from under it, it sure means K. P. the following Sunday, and I'm telling you that is a pill to swallow when on Sunday afternoon visitors are here by the dozens, and maybe one of those good looking janes will walk by blank and there you are on K. P. washing dishes maybe, firing the stoves, washing off the tables and maybe just any way you will slip out of socket and a cook will yell to the last notch, "Come here, K. P.!"

Friends, I must go to bed, for I am really sleepy, and next Sunday I'll tell you all about the number of things that must be washed in the kitchen and more about our boys from Chilton county. Closed with love to old Alabama.

L. B. BROADHEAD CELEBRATED 74TH BIRTHDAY LAST SUNDAY

The children, grandchildren and a few friends of L. B. Broadhead spent the day with him Sunday honoring him on his 74th birthday. The gifts, including a suit given by children, were presented at the lunch hour by the two sons, W. F. and J. H. Broadhead. A short talk was made by W. F., stating purpose of the occasion and expressing the appreciation of the one in whose honor it was given.

A bountiful birthday cake baked by Mrs. J. J. Hayes, barbecue dinner with everything that goes with it (cake, ice cream, etc.) was served in the yard under the oak shade trees. In the afternoon lemonade, watermelons and peaches were enjoyed.

L. B. Broadhead and all his children visited Robert Hayes, who has been suffering with rheumatism for many years, for a short while Sunday afternoon.

All of the children were present except Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Goff of North Carolina who were unable to attend because of their ill health. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Malone and family, Azile, Yvonne and Joe Max, of Selma; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Broadhead and family, Dorothy, Sister and Peggy, of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Adams of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Broadhead and daughter, Patty Jeanne, of Clanton; Miss Cleo Broadhead, Jack Goff and Sherwood Crosby of Clanton; J. L. Lambert and Miss Myrtle Broadhead. Thurman Keltner and Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Pennington of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Broadhead, Laverta Lee, Wilda Lane, Olga and Fay of Maplesville; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hayes and family, Susie Mae, Monroe, Edward and Toots, of Maplesville; Mrs. John Culp and family, Alton, Mary Lois, Naomi Dee and Jesse A., of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. Evans of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Sims and two children; Mr. Henry Hayes; Kyser Trott, Mrs. Thomas Klinner and daughter, all of Maplesville.

GIRL, TWO BOYS KILLED IN WRECK NEAR WET'PKA

Cars Collide Head-On At Curve On Road Near Lake Jordan Camp

Two young men and a 21-year-old girl were killed when the automobiles in which they were riding were in collision near Holtville, nine miles north of Wetumpka, about 6:45 a.m. Sunday.

The dead are: Shelly B. Boykin, Jr., 17, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Boykin, Sr., 106 Park Place, Oak Park. Richard Bertholet Lemann, 21, the son of Dr. and Mrs. I. I. Lemann of New Orleans. Miss Louise Ard, 21, the daughter of Mrs. Mary Ella Ard, of Geneva, Ala.

Duffie Waites, 23, of 214 Catoma Street, who was the driver of one of the cars, was seriously injured. However, attendants at Fitts Hill Hospital, where he was taken immediately after the accident, said late Sunday night his condition was "as good as could be expected."

Berto H. Johnson, Jr., 636 South Perry Street, received cuts and bruises, but was taken to his home when it was determined that he was suffering only from shock and that he was not badly hurt.

Were Attending House-Party

Young Boykin, Lemann, his brother, Paul Lemann, and Johnson were guests at a week end house-party at the Summer camp of Warren Reese, Jr., Montgomery attorney. The camp is on Lake Jordan, within two miles of the scene of the fatal accident.

Waites and Miss Ard were returning to Montgomery after having spent the night at the cottage of friends near the Lake Region Club, which also is on Lake Jordan, within a short distance of the Reese camp.

If several of the boys at the Reese camp had not smoked all their cigarets, or if a roadside store and filling station where Waites and Miss Ard stopped shortly before the wreck had had any sandwiches, the two automobiles would not have met at the dangerous curve a mile and a half south of Holtville, and the tragedy probably never would have occurred.

Richard and Paul Lemann arrived in Montgomery Saturday en route to Cincinnati, where they were to join a group of relatives today for a trip to Chicago. They stopped here to visit their close

TO THE DELINQUENT TAX-PAYERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

"I have gone to quite a bit of extra trouble and expense in trying to help the tax-payers of the county. Probably there isn't another collector in the state that is attempting what I am. Reference is made here to the time allowed for payment of taxes. You have been given every day that could possibly be given under the law, and unless you were familiar with the workings of my office you could not fully appreciate what I have undertaken for your benefit.

"The time in which taxes can be paid without the payment of extra costs has almost expired, and this is one more appeal for you to make a special effort to meet your obligations by September 1. This office will be forced to advertise asking for a decree of sale around September 15. If you want to save advertising costs, your remittance will have to be in my office before the list of delinquents is turned over to the newspaper. Your earnest cooperation is solicited in this matter."

W. G. CULP, Tax Collector.

HOWARD COLLEGE TOUR VISITS CLANTON TUESDAY

Tour number four of Howard College's second annual Goodwill Tour of the State, under direction of Dr. John Xan and Prof. G. V. Irone, visited Clanton Tuesday and contacted a number of Howard alumni, students of last year, prospective students and other friends of the College.

The second Goodwill Tour of the Baptist educational institution, located in Birmingham, toured the State in seven divisions under the supervsion of Howard faculty members and President T. V. Neal. The purpose of the tour was to contact alumni, friends of the College and prospective students.

In the meeting held here by members of the tour and the persons contacted expansion made at Howard during the last year and the $65,000 building program now under construction on the campus was discussed together with other plans for building which are included in President Neal's 10-year program.

The party which visited Clanton included the following persons: Dr. John Xan and Prof. Geo. V. Irons, Miss Frances Blair, Miss Mary Barnhart, Robert Ansley.

CONCERT AT POPLAR SPRINGS FRIDAY NIGHT OF THIS WEEK

As the closing exercises of the singing school taught by Prof. W. M. Devaughn, there will be a musical concert at Poplar Springs church on Friday night of this week, beginning at eight o'clock.

The program will consist of choruses, quartets, duets, solos, etc., as well as some comical selections. A violin, guitar and horn will be used to assist the piano in accompaniment.

An admission of 10c and 15c will be charged. Half the proceeds will go to the church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

CHILTON TO BE REMOVED FROM FEDERAL OFFICE

T. D. Samford Of Opelika Slated For District Attorney

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—Arthur B. Chilton, United States attorney for the Middle District of Alabama, is to be relieved of that office at an early date, probably Sept. 1, according to well founded rumors in Washington Saturday, which, however, lacked official confirmation.

When Chilton quits the office, which he has held since the Fall of 1930, he will be succeeded in all probability by Col. T. D. Samford of Opelika, prominent in Democratic politics of the State for many years. Col. Samford was recommended for the appointment by Senators Hugo L. Black and John H. Bankhead several months ago.

The two Alabama Senators sought last April to have Chilton removed as district attorney for Middle Alabama, and the subject was taken under consideration by Atty. Gen. Homer Cummings. Chilton bolted the Democratic ticket in 1928 and in 1930 campaigned for Tom Heflin against Senator Bankhead in the senatorial campaign. He was named district attorney at Heflin's request by the Hoover administration.

It is reported a letter asking Chilton's resignation either has been sent or will go forward within a few days.

SAMFORD TO GET FEDERAL JOB

Washington, Aug. 14.—Official confirmation was obtained today at the Department of Justice of reports that a request has been made for the resignation of Arthur Chilton as United States attorney for middle Alabama. He will be succeeded by Col. T. D. Samford, of Opelika.

The ousting of Chilton is attributed mainly to the influence of Senator John H. Bankhead, although Senator Hugo Black and several members of the House delegation from Alabama also had requested the dismissal of Chilton.

Chilton bolted the Democratic ticket in 1928 and in 1930 he campaigned for Tom Heflin against Senator Bankhead.

Special Program At Baptist Church Sun.

In the absence of Dr. Ezell, there will be a special service at the Clanton Baptist church next Sunday morning. The services will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Norman O'Neal, and a Youths Cooperative Conquest program will be given.

The program includes special music, and three very inspirational talks, topics of which are "The Church That Jesus Built," "Great Missions," and "Foreign Missions." Among the speakers are Miss Avoleen Webb and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend this program.

NRA SUCCESS SAYS JOHNSON IN STATEMENT

Violation Of Code Puts A Person In Grave Spot, He Says

St. Louis, Aug. 13.—Straight speaking Gen. Hugh S. Johnson flew into the middlewest today with a plea for the President's re-employment program and explained that its success depended upon cooperation of the "people in each town" and, in the last analysis, upon the women.

"Already the ranks of the idle are thinning," he said.

To the quoted assertion of skeptics that "there are blue eagles everywhere, but the employers that show them are cheating," the national recovery administrator assured a crowd of 15,000 persons that action against the "unimportant chiseling fringe," will come later.

Gen. Johnson flew here from Washington in an army plane, and soon after the close of his address, made at the open air municipal theater in Forest Park, started the return trip East.

The sweltering crowd which gathered to hear Gen. Johnson, Gov. Guy B. Park, of Missouri, and other dignitaries, applauded vigorously. Frequently the Blue Eagle Guide For R. F. C. Men

Effective immediately, the approximately 100,000 beneficiaries of Federal relief funds in Alabama will be required to purchase all supplies from stores and organizations displaying the Blue Eagle of the National Relief Association.

This was announced Monday by Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration, upon receipt of instructions from Harry L. Hopkins, Federal administrator.

The telegram from Mr. Hopkins follows:

"On and after this date, you are advised that purchases of supplies with Federal relief funds shall be made only with stores that have complied with all the provisions of, and applicable to the approved code, or if there be no approved code of fair competition for such stores, then with the provisions of the President's reemployment agreement.

"The same regulation applies to all orders given to relief cases. Please send a copy of this rule and regulations to all local sub-divisions that are expending relief funds."

Mr. Holt said a check for $790,000 for relief work had been received from the Federal administration, leaving to the State $750.000 from the present authorized appropriation.

IMPORTANCE OF PLANTING PEAS & VETCH

Demonstrations All Over The County Illustrate Fine Work Of Legumes

Have you seen the difference in the crops following Vetch or Peas and those not following Vetch or Peas?

County Agent Stapp states that there are splendid demonstrations in nearly every community showing the value of Vetch and Austrian Peas and he is urging all farmers who have outstanding demonstrations to take their neighbors to see them.

Mr. Stapp started out a few years ago on a program of getting every farmer in Chilton County to plant 5 acres of Vetch or Austrian Peas per mule. We have seen the plantings increase from less than 10,000 lbs. of Vetch and Pea seed in 1927 to 150.000 lbs. in 1932. That is an increase of more than 15 to 1, but Mr. Stapp states that Chilton County should plant near 400,000 lbs. of Vetch and Peas this Fall. He states that it will take 300,000 lbs. of Vetch or 400,000 of Austrian Peas to plant the acres in Chilton County where cotton has been taken out of production.

Mr. Stapp feels that every farmer in

Former Chilton Man Is Killed Recently

News of the sudden and tragic death of Harvey Moore, former citizen of Clanton, will be a shock to his many friends in this section. He is the son of P. M. Moore, former sheriff of this county, and was widely known.

He was killed in a sawmill accident at a plant of the Long Bell Lumber Co., in Longview, Washington, several days ago. He was born and raised in this county, and has several relatives here. He left here twenty years ago and made hs home in Louisiana for a while with the lumber company, later being transferred to Longview. During this period he has visited here several times.

He is survived by his widow, two children, Jimmie and Billie Elizabeth, three sisters, Mrs. Bama Cox and Mrs. Frank Foshee of Clanton, and Mrs. J. W. Letcher of Plantersville. Two brothers, Ed Moore of Plantersville, and Tobe Moore of Missouri. His stepmother, Mrs. P. M. Moore, of Clanton. One half-brother, David Moore, of Clanton, and two half-sisters Miss Frances Moore of Clanton, and Mrs. John Moon.

Funeral services were held last Saturday in Longview. The body was sent to Portland, Wash., for cremation, and will later be brought to the South in the near future for final burial.

"BOB" ALRED BACK ON JOB FOLLOWING RECENT INJURIES

HIGHWAY PLANS READY; TO COST TWELVE MILLION

Detail Program Offered Listing Paving, Surfacing Projects Over State

Alabama's $12,000,000 road construction program which for two months or more has been the subject of discussion at the State Highway Department with delegations from all sections of the State appearing to urge consideration of projects, Monday was filed with the United States District Bureau of Public Roads.

The detailed program listing paving and surfacing projects in 75 per cent or more of the counties of the State will be examined by the District Bureau before being sent to Washington with recommendations. It is expected that virtually every county in the State will share in some way in the road improvement projects, although the preliminary list submitted sometime ago and approved by the Washington bureau, named only 55 counties. These, however, it was made clear at the time, were subject to alterations.

The local Bureau of Public Roads will probably send Alabama's program to Washington this week and if the program is acceptable to the Washington bureau approval is expected to follow within a week to 10 days. In this event work on the projects may begin at an early date.

Disposition Of Cash

The program is that authorized under the National Recovery Act by which it is provided that half of the money shall be expended on the Federal aid system in the State, 25 per cent for extension of the Federal aid system into and through municipalities, and 25 per cent on secondary and feeder roads.

The projects on which paving and surfacing is proposed will not be released by the local Bureau of Public Roads, this being considered a matter for the discretion of the State Highway Department. At the State Highway

COMMITTEES NAMED TO PUSH NRA IN COUNTY

M. A. Gore Named Chairman Of County; Others Are Urged To Act

A committee function for Chilton County in behalf of the NRA has been announced. M. A. Gore, merchant of Clanton has been appointed as county chairman of the NRA by Judge S. F. Hobbs, state chairman of the National Recovery Administration

Judge Hobbs has requested Mr. Gore to immediately set up his county organization and push the work of signing every person affected by the blanket code throughout the county

In forming his county committee, Mr. Gore announces the following assistants to aid him in this work: Dewey Rockett, chairman of Beat 4. G. C. Armstrong has been drafted as in charge of the department of Man Power. County Agent C. E. Stapp is in charge of the Speakers Department or in the Department of spoken propaganda. W. M. Wyatt and Billy Smith are in charge of the Department of Publicity.

These men are fully authorized to act in any way they deem necessary to push and enforce the program of the National Recovery Administration in Beat 4. Their job is not a job of a day. In commenting on this, Mr. Gore stated:

This is a big job requiring lots of thought and labor and came without my bidding or asking. It is a patriotic service which we can't fail to perform. We realize there are better men who might have been selected for the place, but we have no choice when the call to duty comes

We ask the sympathetic and loyal cooperation and assistance of every man, woman and child in the County in the war against depression. We must do our part. It is to be a campaign of education, organization and cooperation to make the National Recovery Project effective and a success

Chairmen of each Beat in the county have been named and drafted to serve. These chairmen, whose names follow, are to go ahead, push the organization in their respective Beats, as has been done in Beat Four, according to Mr. Gore, and as soon as they have completed their Beat organization, they are to advise the County Chairman. Speed is important

Following is the list of the Beat Chairmen as named by the County Chairman:

Beat 1, C. B. Cox; Beat 2, C. C. Conway; Beat 3, S. J. Sexton; Beat 4, Dewey Rockett and Harmon Broadhead; Beat 5, W. A. Gulledge; Beat 6, C. L. Wilkins; Beat 7, Hill Foshee; Beat 8, T. D. Parnell; Beat 9, G. F. Harper; Beat 10, Harrison Smith; Beat 11, W. M. Cleckler; Beat 12, P. R. Robinson; Beat 13, W. G. Shaw; Beat 14, L. G. Posey; Beat 15, E. J. Caldwell; Beat 16, J. Monroe Parrish

Following is the letter from Judge Hobbs to Mr. Gore, setting out just what is to be done in this county:

LAW OFFICES OF
SAMUEL F. HOBBS
Selma, Ala., August 5, 1933.

Hon. M. A. Gore, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Friend:

The National Recovery Administration is seeking your aid as a volunteer worker in the capacity of Chairman of the State Committee for your county.

The duties of this office are first, to organize your county by having a Beat Chairman appointed by yourself in every Beat; second, to see to it through your county committee thus formed, that every town and city in your county is organized under the city plan; and third, to popularize in every way possible, the movement for National Recovery.

Speed is of the utmost importance.

ERNEST MOORE IS NOW IN CHARGE OF SHELL STATION

The many friends of Ernest Moore are welcoming him to Clanton where he has taken over the operation of the Shell Service Station, which is located on the Birmingham highway.

Mr. Moore is extending a cordial invitation to the public to visit his new place of business. He has been in the filling station business for some time and as he states it he is "no new hand in the game" of washing, polishing and greasing automobiles. He is well known in this section and wishes to tell his friends over the county that they can get real service at his place.

"Just Tell Me The Rules"

Bruce Barton, nationally known writer, writing in The Red Book recently, headed his timely statement with "Just Tell Me The Rules." He goes on and tells of a question he confronts a citizen with regarding the NRA. The reply he received was that it was socialism. He later asked a big business man what he thought of the NRA. This reply was something like this, "I've been playing the game a long time. It is not being played now like my grandfather played it, and I'm still willing to take a chance. Just tell me the rules."

We are truly not playing the same game in business and industry that our grandfathers played. Or maybe it is the same game but with different rules. How well that sounded when the big business man said "* * * just tell me the rules." A splendid spirit of cooperation, and certainly he had realized several years ago that if it was the same game of his grandfather, there were new rules.

Another story comes from Piedmont, Ala., where it is said that town is air-tight on patriotism. When the Blue Eagle began to spread its wings over the town and merchants had signed the code, several traveling salesmen were in town and "they ran into more trouble than an armless man in a mosquito epidemic." They did not have the sign of the Blue Eagle on their automobiles and could not present credentials that their companies were operating under the code. One salesman is said to have called up his boss over long distance and said, "Hurry up and bring me a Blue Eagle, for I can't get an order without the proof, and say, don't forget to plaster up your car with eagles, for this man's town is an eagle town all over."

Quoting the Piedmont Journal: "All of which constitutes a magnificent monument to the patriotism of Piedmont. There's only one question asked, and that is, what does the President want done? That ascertained, the thing is practically done then. We have had only one business man unpatriotic enough to hold out on the program, and he has already been given 'the works' and has enlisted under the eagle."

Then comes the story of the height of patriotism from a newspaper. This particular newspaper came out last week with its front page on the back with the statement "To show that we are with the President, we would print our front page on the back, and the back page on the front, if he wanted it that way."

Disappointing Cotton Report

The recent census report showing indications of a 1933 cotton crop much in excess of what had been expected, emphasizes the necessity of taking adequate measures to prevent the planting of an abnormally large crop during the coming year.

Efforts to reduce the 1933 crop were the most drastic and determined ever undertaken in the history of the industry, yet in spite of the apparent success of the reduction movement, the indicated yield is far in excess of earlier estimates.

This situation proves the extreme difficulty of accomplishing the desired end and proves that measures even more drastic than those adopted this year will be necessary if the 1934 crop is not to become a menace to the price structure.

The present difficulty lies in the fact that the estimated production per acre is much in excess of the per acre production in 1932, and there is something highly suggestive in this situation. Obviously the South can produce a cotton crop of ample proportions upon approximately two-thirds of the land formerly used for the purpose. This being true, the use of more land is a sheer waste.

As a matter of course, the next census report may change the whole complexion of the situation. Many elements may enter to affect the output, but as matters stand the indications are that 1933 will witness a much larger crop than was expected and this imposes a weighty obligation with respect to the crop which is to follow.

The farmers of the South are now meeting to consider the coming year and clearly the recent census report gives a positive indication of the course that should be adopted.

There Ought To Be A Law . . .

We often wonder, and especially at election time, if any of our readers, or readers of any newspaper ever realize just how much trouble and work is gone to give proper election returns. Any person following the actions and footsteps of a newspaper reporter who is assigned the job of securing election returns, would go home after the election and go to bed. Following is an editorial from the Clarke County Democrat that expresses our sentiments:

"While the editor was in attendance at the meeting of the Alabama Press Association in Tuscaloosa last month a bunch of the fellows were swapping ideas and Glenn Stanley, of The Greenville Advocate, made a suggestion which particularly appeals to us. His idea is that the Alabama election laws should be so changed as to require that an extra certificate of results be furnished to every box, such certificate to be filled out immediately after the count is completed and pasted on the outside of the ballot box.

"Probably no one realizes so keenly as the newspaper people just how difficult it is to secure accurately the results of an election until after the official count is made. While the proposed law would be most beneficial to the newspaper brethren, it would in turn enable them to convey to their readers quickly and accurately the results of all elections immediately after the count is completed."

The Home Paper

He is getting on toward 80, and he's wobbly in the knees, and he's kinder lost his hearing and the stairway makes him wheeze, but he drops in every Friday and he puts his old cane down while he hunts the weekly paper from his old home town.

Then he sits down in the corner and we hear him read aloud as the colonel used to do for the corner drug store crowd; and sometimes we hear him chuckle, but more oft we hear him say: "Well, I see Aunt Mary Jenkins and Bob Jones have passed away."

He will scan that home-town weekly from the first page to the last, from the write up on the social to the editor's red hot blast. He will read about a wedding and he'll comment on the bride: "Lord I used to court her grandma on a Sunday buggy ride."

He hasn't seen the old-town since 'way back in 95, but the little country weekly keeps his memories alive, and he knows what Bill is doing and he mourns the loss of Jim—for the town that he was raised in will always be home to him.—Dudley Glass in The Atlanta Georgian.

Opportunity Is Knocking

The saying that it's never too late to mend, doesn't apply to physical property.

In these days, every community has its share of homes and business buildings which have been allowed to depreciate to the point where they are ready for the wrecking crew. Their degeneration may be laid to the door of false economy. While a dollar was "saved" temporarily, many dollars were lost because of it.

There are hundreds of thousands of properties which can still be put in good condition at a moderate cost, but which will be gone beyond redemption if work is put off much longer. Today we can still get in on bargain prices for most supplies and commodities—tomorrow will tell a different story. The wholesale price level has been sky-rocketing, and now the retail level is beginning to follow. You don't have to take anyone's word for it that this is the time to build and repair—the cold and unprejudiced statistical tables tell you that, and they permit of no argument.

Build now, improve now—provide jobs and purchasing power—remember that investment and employment are cheaper than charity, and that they make charity unnecessary.

Good Boys And Bad Fathers

Accused of shackling his 14-year-old son to a bed with cord, wire and a padlock because he earned only 40 cents shining shoes Sunday, Giuseppe Palo, 46, a street sweeper, was held in $1,000 bail today in Flatbush Court for hearing August 15 on an assault charge.

Neighbors called police yesterday when they heard the boy groaning in the Palo flat 252 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn. The boy said he had been trussed for more than eight hours.

Palo acknowledged that he tied the boy because he did not bring home at least $1, police said. He said his wife was ill and he had to care for their eight children.—New York World-Telegram.

When the old man dies and goes wherever he is likely to go, what sort of inscription will this son cause to be written upon his tombstone?

We know a good many fathers who would do well to reflect upon the sentiment which their sons and daughters will wish to include in the inscriptions upon their tombstones.—Montgomery Advertiser.

The Never-Ending War

The American public has a war to fight every year. That war is against the accident menace—in industry, the home, on the highways and elsewhere.

This is not an empty parallel. Automobile accidents alone actually cost more lives than war. They create as much suffering. They are even comparable to war in the economic waste they entail.

On a number of fronts this war has been successful. In the industrial field, tremendous progress in accident prevention has been made. The roster of important industries which operate for months at a stretch without a single mishap of importance, is constantly growing. The life and health of workers in every producing field has never been better guarded—because management has been tireless in instilling the doctrine of safety-first into its employes.

That is also true of children of school age. Thousands of young lives have been saved through courses on caution and accident prevention.

The great failure has been in the field of the automobile. Most years have seen decisive advances in the number of deaths and injuries over the last. Reductions, the few times they have occurred, have been small. The reckless and inconsiderate driver has scored victory after victory. The result is that our public streets and highways have become places of carnage.

The never-ending war against accident must be fought with increasing vigor if it is to succeed. The dangerous driver is Public Enemy Number 1. He should be given the treatment he deserves.

This Week's Tragedy

During the coming week a ghastly tragedy will occur. Two hundred or more lives will be destroyed. Property valued at about $8,000,000 will be reduced to ashes. Because of it, businesses will close, men will lose their jobs, taxes will increase.

You won't hear much about it—because it won't happen all at once. It will be divided among a thousand communities, a thousand different kinds of property. The destruction of a great factory or a portable garage will all contribute to it.

The world remembers the great fires—the Iriquois theatre, the Cleveland hospital, the little school at Collinsville. What the world does not realize is that these fires are no worse than those that take place every week in this so-called civilized world, and which, by cumulative action, even exceed these single disasters in loss of life and property. Many years can pass without the occurrence of a fire as horrible as that in the Iriquois theatre—but each year witnesses the destruction of ten thousand lives and half a billion dollars in property values.

If we look on fire in the mass, we will come close to gaining some idea of the unnecessary menace it is. Billions of dollars have been spent in seeking to prevent it—and while these efforts have borne good fruit, public indifference has prevented the success that should be achieved. It is time for a "Fire Prevention Year."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

Doctor George Stuart said, "The way to test a man's sanity is to put him into a large tank where there is a flowing faucet. If the man walks around that flowing stream and shows no sense of danger and lets it pour until he drowns, that man is crazy. If the man looks at the faucet and looks about him and then turns off the stream, he is sane." We must say that a like test among the people of our day, will prove that a lot of folks are crazy. We have a stream of whiskey flowing into our social and political life that is threatening our very existence as a nation, and yet a multitude of voters are standing about the flowing stream saying by their ballot and by their influence, "Open the faucet wider and make the stream bigger." When shall we become sane enough to turn off, not only the flow of the whiskey stream, but the flow of every other social and civic evil, that threatens our civilization and our Christianity.

A frend of mine had two bright children. They entered school and the girl studied hard and her report card showed a good grade in every study. The little boy was one of those "Roust-About" rascals that cared nothing for Books and grades, and his report card was a shame. This mother wanted to know of me what she could do in order to get that boy interested in his studies. The grades that he was making almost broke the hearts of his devoted parents. Church member, listen to me, when you joined the church, you matriculated in God's school of Christian culture. What about the grades that you are making? Are they pleasing to God, or is He disturbed over the grading that you are making? Some church members are great livers, great believers and great co-workers with God, and they are making good grades, but a vast majority of them are making poor grades. Some are barely making a passing grade; while others are "Flunking Out" day by d ay. All of our churches are crowded full of those "Roust-About Rascals" who are taking but little interest in the church and who care but little for Christian grades.

A Christian worker went to a Christian man and asked that he give a donation toward the Prohibition cause. The man replied, "There are four of us in the family. I do not drink liquor, my wife and children do not drink, and the whiskey problem is not my problem." That day his wife and children went away for a month's vacation. Four weeks from that day there was an awful train wreck on a certain division. The man heard about it and knowing that his wife and children were returning home on that train, he became frantic. He caught the wrecker as it rushed to the place of the disaster. He found the bodies of his family, but they were so mangled that they could only be identified by the clothes that they wore. The railroad authorities made diligent investigation into the disaster and then wrote in the records: "Caused by a drunk engineer." You say "The whiskey business is no affair of mine." Just wait. Whiskey is no respecter of persons or families. This monster will kill the guilty and the good alike.

A thrush built her nest in the fig bush in my back yard. The mother bird almost became a pet as we helped her to feed her young. One day we saw an old cat as she waited in the flowers by the side of the house. The mother bird saw her also, and she lifted her voice in protest and also in warning. On hearing their mother's voice, the little birds lowered their heads in the nest and tucked themselves out of sight. That bird was looking out for her young and at the sight of danger she never failed to cry aloud. If human mothers would show a like concern for their young, many of them would be preserved to life and purity who have been lost to the ways of wickedness. We have seen mothers scream in fright when their children were in physical danger, and then we have seen the same mothers revel in delight as their children were in moral danger. It tickles some mothers silly when they have popular children. Listen to me, "If you have a popular child, you had better look out, the tiger of sin may get that child." A true mother will use the sense of the thrush, and cry aloud every time there is danger in sight.

Profits! Industry has been going along for three and one-half years practically without them. This month there has been a turn. Companies which have been running constantly in the red are furnishing a market for black ink. Investors who have become used to going without dividends are looking forward to the reappearance of quarterly or semi-annual checks.

Here is how improved business is reflected in the balance sheets of some specific large companies:

Chrysler Corporation—In the June quarter, net equaled $1.80 a share, totaling $2,310,000. This is within 23 per cent of the company's record, achieved in the booming third quarter of 1928.

U. S. Steel—Twelve months ago it reported an operating loss of more than $3,000,000. In the last three months it had a profit of $4,880,000.

General Motors—Last year it had second-quarter profits of 7c a share; this year it reported a net of 90c per share.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol—Profits in first half of 1932 came to $32,000; same period in 1933, $229,000.

All businesses haven't had an equally happy quarter or half-year. But the general trend of profits is definitely upward. Most important of all is sharp improvement in the earnings of small businesses whose fortunes don't constitute headline news. They represent the bulk of American capital investment, and their position is a great deal more solid than it was even a month or two ago.

There is a black spot in the industrial outlook—retail trade, which is still in an extremely depressed state. Best fact of all is that the upturn has been in progress for four months without a setback. The most stable barometers—car loadings, electric power, steel output—indicate continued improvement. During June there was an 18 per cent increase in man-hours worked in manufacturing plants, as compared with May. Wage totals showed a 10 per cent jump, while cost of living went up less than one per cent. So far, purchasing power is advancing much more rapidly than prices. Welfare agencies in most cities report that requests for relief are well below former levels. A remarkable feature of recovery is that improvement has been largely apparent in heavy industries. According to the Federal Reserve Board, this is the first time that a pick-up has not been almost wholly confined to industries producing non-durable goods.

The Administration has one major worry now—the poor results of the farm bill. The mortgage situation is more tense than it was, and it is apparent that present legislation is either misdirected or inadequate. All observers forecast that the act will be given a thorough overhauling when Congress meets again.

A few months ago the most talked-about subject of them all was inflation. Then it practically dropped out of the day's news. The President had been given the powers he wanted, and nothing drastic happened. It looked as if they wouldn't be used after all.

Now inflation is preparing to take its place in the headlines again. The Administration's desire for a "managed dollar" has not abated; it was simply shelved for a time while other and more pressing matters were being handled. A managed dollar is one which, in terms of buying power, does not deviate in value; it will buy as many eggs, automobiles, suits of clothes and what-not one year as the next. Our present kind of dollar is constantly deviating. Where its buying power, on the basis of a fixed normal, was sixty or seventy cents at the height of the boom, it rose to $1.50 at the low in commodity prices we reached last summer and fall.

The President has two courses open in inflating the currency. Most obvious course is to lower the gold content of each dollar. Then by varying it from time to time, the dollar will theoretically possess a constant value, and will be immune to important variations. Another course is to order the Federal Reserve to buy large blocks of government securities in the open market, thus expanding the Federal credit. This would not create a stable dollar; it would, however, be tremendously helpful in providing a market for new Treasury securities.

Opponents of inflation say that the managed dollar is a golden dream which is impossible of realization, and point to the disastrous effects of extreme inflation in Germany and elsewhere. Administration spokesmen say that miscarriage of a plan doesn't necessarily mean the plan is wrong. The public, confused by technicalities, is simply in a waiting mood.

Alabama's First Capital

During a recent visit to Selma the writer had the pleasure of visiting Alabama's First State Capital. It was at Cahaba, a few miles south of Selma at the junction of the Cahaba river and the Alabama river.

Students of Alabama history will recall that Alabama's territorial government was formed at St. Stephens, a small town on the Tombigbee river in Washington county. At that time this was the largest town in the territory. In organizing the State government Huntsville was designated as the temporary capital and William Wyatt Bibb, an ancestor of former Governor Bibb Graves, was inaugurated as Governor.

At the first meeting of the Legislature after the State was admitted to the Union in 1819, Cahaba was selected as the seat of government. Under the direction of Governor Bibb a town was laid out at the designated place, a State House with other public buildings, was erected. In a short time these public buildings were surrounded by a flourishing village. But scarcely had th State officials become settled in their new homes when, in 1826, the wh village was flooded by the overflow from the two rivers. The water ros to such height that all buildings wer flooded and the village was cut off from the outside world. Thousands acres of land surrounding the State Capital were covered with water.

About this time the Legislature convened and the members had difficulty in reaching the State House. When it did convene it voted to move the seat of government from Cahaba to Tuscaloosa where it remained until 1846 when, by vote of the people it was moved to Montgomery.

Cahaba was for a time the leading shipping point on the Alabama river but the recurrence of floods from time to time caused it to be abandoned and at present there are only a few houses standing to mark the site of Alabama's first State Capital.

The old State House, built of brick made by slaves, is still standing. It has been well preserved and is occupied as a dwelling.

One other of these old historic buildings is being occupied by the negroes as a church. It is also built of brick.

The broad streets laid out by the engineers employed by Governor Bibb are no longer visible. In their place is the Kirkpatrick pecan orchard, one of the largest groves of this kind in the South.

We are told that the flood-waters st get over this vast territory to a depth of six to twelve feet. The few houses in this area are set on pillars above high-water marks.

What was once the center of political activities in this State is now a vast plantation except along the banks these two rivers which are now dense jungles, suitable for the habitation snakes, bears and other wild animals.

What wonderful changes a century has brought about. Cahaba is no more but Alabama still lives.

—The Southern Democrat, Oneonta.

TAKE TIME TO THINK WHAT THE HARVEST WILL BE

There was a time when God looked down from Heaven and all the people were crooked but one. That was Noah. He did the thing to please God. If Noah had disobeyed God he would have gone on with the rest of the world. How many of us are living to please God or living to please ourselves? Some folks say that boys have to climb Fool's Hill, but I think that lots of parents are climbing it, and they say that boys have to sow wild oats, but I say they don't, for the Devil gets so many while they are out sowing. And I think many of the fathers and mothers are sowing them. I wonder how many have stopped to think what the harvest would be. Wouldn't it be sad to see what some of us would reap. God is calling us every day, and we are trying harder and harder every day to get away from Him. We are taking the Devil's advice in preference to God. And we all sure would hate to reap what we are sowing.

I wonder if we ever stop to think who the world belongs to, who created the heavens and earth. We are just like a traveler passing through this world. We are just passing through this world and stopping here to stay a while—just a little while. And what is in the world is just loaned to us for a while. We own nothing, we don't even belong to ourselves, we belong to God, or the Devil, one or the other. It's ours to choose.

We are as a flower, we are here to bloom and fade and die, and Jesus is gathering is gathering buds every day and full blooming flowers, too; and do we want to live again or not!

Gathering Buds

Jesus has taken a beautiful bud
Out of our garden of love.
Borne it away to the City of God,
Home of the angels above.

(Chorus)

Gathering buds, gathering buds,
Wonderful care will be giv'n
Jesus is gathering day after day,
Buds for the palace of Heav'n.

Full blooming flowers, alone will not do.
Some must be young and ungrown,
So the frail buds, He is gathering, too
Beautiful gems for His throne.

Fathers and mothers, weep not or be sad.
Still on the Saviour rely.
You shall behold them again, and be glad,
Beautiful flowers on high.

Blooming in beauty in Heaven they are,
Blooming for you and for me.
Follow the Lord, tho the city be far
Till our bright blossoms we see.

Maplesville, Ala.

WOOL BRINGS CASH

Bay Minette, Ala.—Wool growers of Baldwin county have shipped 70,000 lbs. of wool which brought them approximately $20,000. It was marketed cooperatively through the Alabama-Florida Wool Growers Association and went to the highest bidder who paid 30½ cents per pound for clear wool and 25½ cents for black wool.

County Agent E. E. Hale reports that growers are well pleased with the price received this year.

Mrs. M. L. White Hostess To Entre Amis Club.

With charming hospitality, typical of a gracious hostess, Mrs. M. L. White entertained the members of the Entre amis Club and several invited guests at her attractive home last Thursday afternoon. After the afternoon was delightfully passed away the charming hostess, in her hospitable way, served her guests with a tempting salad plate. Those members of the club fortunate in being present were Mesdames P. T. Hinkle, John VanDerveer, C. Fenn Jones. N. S. Johnson, John Browder, J. Watts Moore, L. E. Diefenderfer and Hugh Simpson. The invited guests were Mrs. C. O. Lawrence and Mrs. J. R. Mullins.

IN MEMORY

On August 1 Mrs. F. K. Sewell closed her eyes in endless sleep. She suffered only a short while. All that loved ones could do was done, but the death angel beckoned, calling her to the beautiful shores of somewhere. Those who knew her longest, loved her best, for to know her was to love her. She had a smile for everyone.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and one son. Pallbearers were John Silas, O. T. Scott, Charlie Pierce, Newton Strength. Her body was laid to rest in the Bethsalem cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. W. P. Lowery.

Weep not, husband and son, for your loss was heaven's gain.

It was only a few days ago—
We can never forget the day
When came the silent reaper
And took our dear friend away.
We miss her, oh, we miss her!
For our Saviour called her away,
But we are praying to meet her
In a better world some day.
No more on earth we'll see her face,
Her voice we'll hear no more.
But let us live to meet her
On that bright and sunny shore.
We loved our dear friend,
No human tongue can tell.
We said good-bye for a little while,
But we didn't say farewell.
Oh how loving, good and jolly
She was every day by day.
All the sorrow that she gave us
Was when she went away.
She's not dead, just sweetly resting
From her trials and troubles here,
And if we live as she has taught us
We will meet her over there.

—One who loved her, Agnes Mullins.

Owing to an auto wreck Miss Ethel Morgan of Waukegan, Ill., had to walk two miles to church to get married.

George Purlson of Chicago cut off Jennie Aikens' hair with scissors at the movies and had to pay a $50 fine.

PLEASANT VALLEY SINGING SOCIETY MET AUGUST 13TH

The singers of Pleasant Valley community met Sunday, August 13, to organize a singing society. Mr. Marshall Burkhalter was elected chairman and immediately took charge. By his willingness to take the position and work he has shown us his interest in our singing society. It is our society, friends, and not only his, therefore, we must pledge to him our support and help him keep a lively society going here. Does this community not possess as much talent and desire for a singing society as any other of the nearby communities that have them? Prove it by attending.

Singing followed the organization. A number of directors led the music which was enjoyed by everyone. We had with us Mr. O. L. Devaughn, our music teacher of this summer. We were very glad to have him back with us. We were also very glad to have the many visitors from Maple Springs, Eastview, Bethsalem and other places.

Plans were started for a united singing society consisting of Bethsalem, Indian Grave, Pleasant Valley and probably Eastview. We wish to announce that we are unanimously in favor of such an organization, as we feel it would insure continued interest as well as better singing.

Our society meets on the second Sunday in every month. Visitors and helpers from everywhere will receive a very warm welcome.

HOWARD BOOCKHOLDT, Sec'y.

Concord-Billingsley

Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are progressing nicely. There was a good crowd out for both societies Sunday.

Because she flirted on the street Miss Gertrude Reycker of London was arrested, found to be an alien and ordered deported.

PERSONAL

"I will not be responsible for any member of my family who takes stomach tonics, indigestion remedies, soda, calomel, salts, laxative pills, etc., to try to get rid of indigestion, constipation, bloating, sour stomach, bad breath, or headaches. I have told them all to use Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the new liver medicine which makes the liver get busy and furnish enough bile to digest their food and stop constipation. Everybody ought to take Sargon Soft Mass Pills two or three times a month if they want to feel good. All good druggists have them."

LOMAX

The people of this community were saddened very much Monday when the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elzie Blankenship and took from them their beloved infant son

Some of our farmers are wondering why the annual inspection of the cotton that was taken out of production more than two weeks ago has not been made. Such delays are what make the farmers' cooperation so hard to get.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Rush are very glad to welcome them back to their home here. Mr. and Mrs. Rush have been living in Louisiana for the past six months where Mr. Rush has been holding a position there with the government.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crowder have returned from Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smith of Longview and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Towlin of Birmingham were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Killingsworth.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Reese Mullins of Clanton spent a while Thursday with Misses Ruth and Dora Blackmon.

ALRED DRUG COMPANY, Clanton, Ala.

Statement Issued By Gov. B. M. Miller Upon His Return From Conferences, New York, Wash't'n

"The Warrant Commission created under the warrant act is composed of the Governor, Attorney General, and State Comptroller.

"This Commission is given authority either to issue interest bearing warrants and deliver them to holders of the present warrants in exchange, or to sell warrants or other instruments at not less than par and pay the holders of present warrants in cash.

"The day the vote on the amendments was canvassed and the warrant and income tax amendments became part of the Constitution by the Governor's proclamation the warrant commission met again and began to make plans for carrying out its duties under the law. Members of the Commission with John H. Peach, legal adviser to the Governor, decided to go to New York and Washington and to study the question of the sale of interest bearing warrants or bonds.

"W. C. Bowman, president of the First National Bank of Montgomery, went to New York and assisted the members of the commission in making their study.

Chase National Continues Loan

"We met with Charles S. McCain, chairman of the Board of the Chase National Bank and other officers of the bank. We explained to these men what Alabama had done within the past year. They congratulated the State on the adoption of its Budget Law, on placing it in the Constitution, on balancing its budget and on ratifying its current debts and providig the income tax for the payment of its debts. They stated that the amount of the warrants or bonds would be too much for them or for any one institution to take at this time, but they expressed a willingness to carry the warrants owned by them and to cooperate with the State, its bankers and citizens, in properly handling the remaining warrants.

"The Chase National Bank notified the representatives of a large number of financial institutions in New York, which might be interested in purchasing bonds, or warrants of our presence in the City, and invited them to a conference with us. About 25 or 30 institutions were represented at this conference. We discussed with them fully the financial condition of Alabama. Those attending the conference stated that Alabama, in their opinion, was to be congratulated on the adoption of a budget system and on the recent amendments to her Constitution.

No Definite Offer

"They did not make any definite offer for our warrants or bonds; but stated that they believed that the banks and financial interests of Alabama should take the initiative in purchasing the warrants or bonds as was done in Tennessee.

"We went to see the chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington. He explained to us that under the law the Reconstruction Finance Corporation cannot purchase State securities or make loans directly to a State. He said that they were permitted and would be willing to lend to banks or proper institutions with Alabama bonds or warrants as collateral.

"While we were not able to close the matter of selling our warrants definitely, we do not feel discouraged.

"I believe that the patriotic bankers of Alabama will realize their duty and their opportunity to serve the State and to render immediate aid to the school teachers, college professors, merchants, and other creditors of Alabama. I contemplate conferring with the bankers through their association at an early date."

Supt. Little conferred with Gov. Miller Tuesday and learned that a conference of the bankers association had been called to meet in Montgomery next week.

Veterans' Board Named In State

Announcement of the special board of review approved by the President to review veterans' claims in Alabama was made Friday by Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs. They are J. Fred Gurley, Anniston; Joe Starns, Guntersville, and David B. Goode, Mobile.

The alternate members are John D. McQueen, Tuscaloosa; J. D. Samuels, Gadsden, and Alex M. Garber, Birmingham.

The veterans' administration members are Dr. Floyd Webb, rating specialist, medical, and John B. Tague, rating specialist, claims, both of New Orleans.

All three of the regular members of the board and two of the alternates are veterans. The third alternate, Mr. Garber, while not a veteran, has for 14 years been active with the National Guard of the State. J. Fred Gurley, of Anniston, is an insurance man and chairman of the county emergency employment commission, also a member of Calhoun county executive committee of the R. F. C. Joe Starns was a commissioned officer of the 53rd Infantry, Sixth Division, lieutenant governor of Alabama-Mississippi district Civitan International, and is an attorney by profession. Mr. Goode is a Mobile attorney.

All of the alternates, who have been selected to serve at such times as the original members may not be available, are practicing attorneys.

Gen. Hines stated that every effort has been made in the selection of these boards in all states to secure thoroughly representative, non-partisan bodies and the names which have been submitted to the President from the different states are those of citizens outstanding in their own communities as business and professional men, many of them veterans themselves, who have been recommended by such sources as senators and representatives in Congress, governors and representatives of veteran and civic organizations.

Gen. Hines stated further that, in order that entirely fresh viewpoints might be brought to bear in the consideration of the veterans' cases, the veterans' administration members of the boards have been drawn from regional offices outside of the area concerned. For Alabama the veterans' administration members are drawn from the New Orleans regional office.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF COUNTY PASSED AWAY HERE SUNDAY

One of the pioneer residents of Chilton County. Reuben Andrew Aldridge, age 74, passed away at his home in Clanton last Sunday afternoon.

The deceased is widely known in the county, and was born and raised here. He was affiliated with the carpenter trade here for several years and considered a respected citizen by all who knew him.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Methodist church with Mr. R. L. Huffman, pastor of the Church of Christ conducting. Interment followed in the Clanton cemetery. Pallbearers were L. H. Reynolds, E. E. Upchurch, Floyd Aldridge, Eugene Aldridge, Horace Aldridge and Marshall Baker. Martin & Sons were in charge.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, M. A. Aldridge of Anniston, and C. M. Aldridge. Three daughters, Mrs. W. A. Maddox, Mrs. Geo. C. Tutt and Mrs. Ross Mize, all of Birmingham.

THE TELEPHONE IN GOOD AND BAD TIMES

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Some of our customers have expressed surprise that their telephone service has continued to improve, despite the depression and that their telephone friends seem as anxious as ever to satisfy every individual's needs.

This favorable comment is appreciated, but this condition is quite natural when one considers that service comes first with telephone people, and it is their serious obligation to serve the needs of the public just as efficiently in bad times as in good times.

Although the service has become more extensive and complex, there has been a constant improvement, due to scientific inventions, new methods and more skilled workers.

The value of the service has increased constantly and many users tell us they regard it as the cheapest form of service they can buy. Nothing provides so much in added comfort, convenience and protection for so small a cost, they say.

That the quantity and improved quality of the service has not resulted in increased cost is due to new inventions and practices which have been passed on to the user in the form of better service.

Your telephone friends have faced these trying times cheerfully. They have accepted shorter hours and reduced income just as others have done to spread the work among as many people as possible.

Telephone workers are friendly folks. They have your interests at heart and are always glad for you to ask questions about any of the company's policies or practices which you may not understand. Everywhere they are doing their best to fulfill their obligation to render the best possible service at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

Death of Bobby Maurice Williams

On last Thursday morning. August 10th, the snowy white angels made a spiritual flight to Tuscaloosa and bore away the sweet and loving spirit of little Bobby Maurice Williams, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice L. Williams. Up until Bobby was nine months old he was a sweet and good baby, and never gave his parents a minute's worry. Then he was stricken with infantile meningitis of the brain and spinal cord. This dreadful disease paralyzed part of his brain and one of his side. No one knows the hours little Bobby has suffered, not even his own tongue could tell. Bobby bore his miserable pain as well as could, though his mental condition prevented him from realizing his misery and suffering very much.

Bobby was born October 6, 1926, and died August 10, 1933. If he had lived till October he would have been seven years of age. At the age of almost 5 years he became so nervous and restless, and the parents with hope of him getting well, carried him to the insane hospital in Tuscaloosa, where he remained until his death.

When the news of his death reached his father he and Mr. Dock Culver went to bring the body home. Bobby was carried to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Williams, to await the time for the funeral, and she wishes to thank each and everyone who lent or offered to lend a helping hand. Everybody was so kind and nice to help. Little Bobby was as healthy and fine looking as anyone could be, but he never knew what good health and pleasure of life were and we feel that God knew and did the best by carrying him home to heaven where there is joy and pleasure, because he could never get well.

Funeral services were held at Mt. Nebo Friday morning at 11 a.m. with Rev. Harvey Culp officiating. Pallbearers were Messrs. Bill Deason, Clyde Sims, J. D. Williams, Bud Clinner, J. E. Williams and Crawford Williams. Bobby leaves to mourn his loss father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Williams, and two sister, Elizabeth and Marguerite, and a number of friends and relatives.

Yes, we mourn, but the angels of Heaven rejoice because another has come home. Why do we mourn departing relatives or shake at death's alarm? 'Tis but the voice that Jesus send to call them to His arm. His death, in our lives has caused a blot. How his place will be filled, we know not. We regularly went to his relief; often made a sacrifice to do so was his belief. He is done with sacrifice forever, for the dark river he has crossed over. We cherish his memory in our breast, for we know he is forever at rest, and we'll strive to meet him on the other shore where we will never part to meet no more. How I wish there were more of his kind, for I am thankful he is a relative of mine.

MRS. J. D. WILLIAMS.

19 Separate Churches Represented At Eastview Church With A. C. Nelson As Pastor

A few years ago there might have been reason to complain that the churches were antagonistic to one another and held aloof from each other. If this were true in the past, it certainly is not true in Chilton county today.

An example of the beautiful cooperation and Christian fellowship existing among the churches in this county was shown last Sunday night at the Eastview Congregational church, of which Rev. A. C. Nelson is pastor. Doctor William T. Morgan of Birmingham, who is conducting a meeting at this church, asked the members of the different denominations to stand and tell the name of the church of which they were members. Members of two Congregational churches, two Methodist churches and fifteen Baptist churches were present, making a total of nineteen separate churches represented at this one service.

In all probability such an example of Christian brotherliness has seldom, if ever been seen, in any church of any denomination. This stands as a loving monument to the life and labors of the pastor of the Eastview Congregational church. Mr. Nelson has served seven years as pastor of this church and has won the confidence, love and respect of the people of all churches for miles surrounding his church.

Scenes like that witnessed Sunday night foretell a greater day of love, sympathy and cooperation among Christian churches, and indicates that the time may be close at hand when the prayer of the Master that "they all may be one" is to be answered.

Letter On Pastures In Chilton County

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama
Dear Sir:

I have been requested by several citizens of the County to write an article for publication on pastures for stock.

I have been experimenting with pastures for several years and I have come to the conclusion that Chilton County could be made a great stock raising county if the people of the county would spend some time and a little money in preparing pastures for their stock. I would suggest that anyone interested in pasturing stock, when they pass by my pasture near the cotton mill that if convenient they look over said pasture. I have sowed Carpet, Dallas grass and lespedeza which makes a good combination for stock and does well on our land.

I have fifty head of cows and mules on my pasture and eighteen head of sheep all doing well. In fact, the first of April I had several very poor cows and everyone I put in my pasture in April is fat and would make good beef. Mules and horses put in my pasture in July will get fat by fall without any feed whatever. One acre of my pasture land will grow more feed without any expense whatever than one acre of land I cultivated will grow.

Some people think it is costly to make pastures, but it is my experience that it costs very little.

Land that will be expected to make a pasture on next year should be cleared and cleaned in August and September and seed sown from the middle of March to the first of May and if this is done there will not be very many weeds or wild grass in the pasture next year if plenty of stock are kept on the pasture.

I have some pasture that is ten or twelve years old and during this time I have not had to cut a weed or bush where I sowed grass ten or twelve years ago.

I have about ten acres of swamp land I cleared last fall and sowed carpet, dallas grass and lespedeza in April that is a very good pasture this year and I do not expect to ever cut a bush or weed off this ground. It is no objection to pasture land that water overflows as it does not hurt the grass unless water stands and ponds on the land and dries up.

I buy some cattle and in going over our County visiting some of the pastures that cows are kept in I believe that the pastures I have seen that a majority of the growth is bitter weeds and the roughest kind of woods and I cannot understand how that any farmer would expect his cows to do well in such a pasture.

The farmers will clear their land and make the very best preparations they can to raise a crop and even buy high priced fertilizer to raise feed to feed their cattle and horses and then in April turn them in a black jack thicket, brier patch or a bunch of bitter weeds and expect them to get fat and milch cows to give plenty of milk.

The farmers of Chilton County have made wonderful progress in the last few years in the agricultural line, but I believe they are further behind on pasturage than any other agricultural interest.

Remember now is the time to prepare your land for pastures because any kind of bushes, weeds or briers cut during this month and next will not sprout but very little next year.

In conclusion it is my observation that the best of grass and clover for pasturage will do no better in woods, brier patches and weeds than corn and cotton will do.

Respectfully,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

County Agent To Come

On Wednesday after the third Sunday, Mr. Worthy Hughes will be in the Training School community. For some reason he failed to get here the last meeting date, but we are looking for him again. It is very seldom that he misses when he is scheduled to come. He will lecture on "Farm Mortgage Loans," and Federal Land Bank Loans. Those who are interested in redeeming mortgage foreclosures or mortgaged property are urged to be present. This is a splendid opportunity for the little man and should be taken advantage of, but don't start if you don't have the backbone to go all the way through. Lots of us have got the money from Federal Land Banks and now the land belongs to it. So, if you don't mean business stay where you are.

A Good Lesson

I have been trying to convince my folks that it takes a "Big" piece of land to make an acre, but to no avail. Then came the time to plow under, which made it necessary for every man to measure his cotton land. In practically every case the owner or tenant, simply walked across his field and said, "Well, it's about ten acres in this field, because it takes me two days to plow it," and that is as far as he went. Many have agreed to plow under half of their crop, which was estimated to be so many acres, but by the time Uncle Sam gets his contract there will be very little left. One man who agreed to plow under one and one-half acres (half of his crop) found that he actually had one and one-half acres. He will have no cotton to pick this year. I have seen a goodly number of lessons, that I have been advocating, brought out in such manner and hope to see others.

Mass Meeting Thursday

A mass meeting is being called at the County Training School Thursday, 17, for the purpose of perfecting plans whereby every Negro child in the county will have an equal opportunity for a high school training, right here at the Training School. For a long time we have been running one or two busses in certain sections of the county. This practice, we find, is very partial. It is our purpose to so adjust the situation that a child living in the furtherest section will have the same opportunity as one nearby the school. The Negroes are sparsely settled in the county, making it very inconvenient to reach all sections with the limited number of school busses we have. Therefore, it is imperative that some steps be taken to eliminate such maladjustment.

White Friends Are Invited

We shall be pleased to have our White friends to come out to the meeting. It is certain that you will be called upon to help us in this step forward. We feel that we must have your presence in our every major undertaking.

The Poultry Industry

The poultry industry of the United States has had a remarkable development, and a brief review will serve to show the various economic phases of development. By the time of the first settlements edible birds, domestic and wild, were largely classed together as "fowl." The plentifulness of wild fowl in the colonies undoubtedly detracted from the importance of domestic birds. Eggs were appreciated, but were almost entirely a warm-weather product. There was slight commercial aspect to poultry keeping previous to 1825, most frequent mention of poultry products in the newspapers before that time being of feathers for beds and pillows.

Between then and 1860 cheap grain in the inland districts and improved transportation encouraged egg production in the Ohio Valley. In 1839 there were sixteen states with poultry valued at over $1,153,413. Virginia and Pennsylvania had the largest numbers, although Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky were only slightly lower in poultry value than Pennsylvania. Wisconsin and Iowa, the westernmost states listed, had $16,000 worth each.

As the commercial aspect became dominant, poultry keepers saw the importance of increasing production per hen and in developing more economical methods of raising chickens. By 1840 or 1845 increasing attention was given to breeding, to feeding, and to other problems of management and to the introduction of new breeds. Asiatic fowls were first imported in important quantities shortly before 1850. Their popularity led to the first "hen fever" in the fifties, after which a rapid succession of breeds claimed attention. By 1849 when the New England poultry breeders and fanciers held their first poultry show, Cochin-Chinas, Shanghais and Plymouth Rocks had become well known. In 1847 two patents were issued on "methods of incubation," though it was 40 years later that the first practicable incubator was invented.

Next week's topic, "The Value of the Poultry Industry."

Relieves Women's Pains

Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women:

"I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H, Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain unnerved me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day.

"My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time."

Cardui, the purely vegetable medicine which so many women take and recommend, is sold by local druggists.

Ginning Expenses To Be Reasonable

Campaign To Save Farmers Of State About $3,000,000; Protests Heard

Alabama farmers have been saved about $3,000,000 by agreement of ginners of the State to charge reasonable prices for ginning cotton this Fall.

Reports reaching the State Department of Agriculture indicate that most ginners of the State will charge from $3.50 to $4 a bael instead of from $6 to $8 as was being charged by some South Alabama ginners when the season first opened. This saving applied to the Aug. 1 indicated production of 1,143,000 bales shows that the ginning of this crop will cost the farmers about $3,000,000 less than it would have if the high prices had been charged over the State.

One week ago Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, requested that "vigorous action" be taken against South Alabama cotton ginners on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust act in charging a minimum of $6 to $8 a bale for ginning cotton. Since that time farmers in all parts of the State have joined with Commissioner Storrs in protesting the high charges and a large number of ginners have announced that they will charge reasonable prices for ginning. Many ginners have expressed their appreciation to Commissioner Storrs for making the protest.

Senator John H. Bankhead also asked U. S. Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings to direct district attorneys to take action against ginners charging "outrageous and unjustifiable prices." The Henry County Grand Jury has threatened action against ginners if the prices on ginning again rises in that county, according to Circuit Solicitor Hubert Farmer, who has been requested by Commissioner Storrs to have the Grand Jury make the investigation.

Warrants Charge Gadsden Shortage

Gadsden, Ala., Aug. 12.—John Camp, tax collector, his chief clerk, and four members of the Board of Revenue today were served with warrants on indictments charging irregularities in their offices.

Camp and his chief clerk, Howard Cornelius, were served with warrants under an indictment charging them with embezzlements on alleged shortage of more than $20,000 in their accounts.

W. F. Jeffers, chairman, Roe Tinsley and Tom R. Raley, of the Board of Revenue, were served with warrants charging failure to keep records. M. C. Durham, member of the Board, and W. T. Ohumley, former member, also were arrested on warrants charging failure to keep records and selling supplies to the county while holding office.

Two other county officials were indicted by the grand jury which reported Thursday, but their names and the charges against them were withheld pending service of warrants.

Of those arrested, only Cornelius had not posted bond. He was confined in the county jail.

MY IMPRESSION OF THE EXPERIMENT STATION AT AUBURN

By Alton Cobb
Member, Jemison F. F. A. Chapter

A state convention of the Future Farmers of America was recently held at Auburn. Each chapter was represented by two delegates. An experiment station tour was conducted for the F. F. A. boys.

Erosion, an experiment that I saw, was explained fully. The most striking thing was the value of Austrian peas and vetch in preventing erosion.

I was shown an experiment on determining the best simplified laying ration for hens on Alabama farms. No one best ration can suit every farm in Alabama, but depends upon what is available and what price.

I visited an experiment on curing pork, with ice on the farm, in hot weather, with as little cost as possible. This is a very useful experiment. It will enable the farmers to save their meat in the hottest kind of weather.

I was shown an experiment on cotton spacing. This experiment is divided into eighty-eight plots. Results from each plot is made separately. This data will be useful to farmers where obtained.

An experiment of forestry was very convincing. The most important thing about this experiment was showing the value of preventing forest fires. An area that had been burned every five years was scant of growth, but an area that had not been burned had plenty of growth.

I was greatly impressed with the efficiency of the work done at Auburn. These accurate results are made by trained men and much labor and expense, but it is worth it to the farmers.

MY IMPRESSION OF THE EXPERIMENT STATION

By R. C. Veazey
Isabella Chapter, F. F. A.

The Experiment Station at Auburn never occurred to me as being of any importance, other than just a place to go, until I heard the work explained and saw just how each experiment was carried out. Now I know its value to Alabama.

The forests, which have been so badly burned, are being studied and an experiment showing the folly of burning the forest is being carried out.

No poultryman can afford to experiment with his flock and hope to make any profit. On the poultry experimental flock every imaginable feed is tried for its egg producing quality.

I never realized that so much work and time could be spent on an experiment, until I heard the experiment on cotton spacing explained. The actual planting is done by hand—so is the thinning. All this work is done for the farmers' good.

Another thing that impressed me was the summer curing of meat. Some of the meat that was in cure was killed when tht temperature was 103 degrees F. If this experiment proves satisfactory many pounds of meat will be saved which would have otherwise been lost.

An impression that everyone who visits the Experiment Station gets is the authorities and officials are doing their best to benefit all parties concerned. May this be the impression of all.

Processing And Floor Taxes

On account of the widespread misunderstanding concerning the processing and floor taxes on several agricultural commodities imposed by the Agricultural Adjustment Act, it is deemed appropriate to publish the following information:

The Secretary of Agriculture is vested with authority under the Act to proclaim these taxes and put them into effect. These taxes are now in effect upon wheat products and cotton products. Processing taxes affect only those who are engaged in the manufacture or production of articles from a taxable commodity, such as flour from wheat or cloth from cotton.

The floor taxes on these commodities apply to all stocks of taxable articles on hand as of the effective date of the tax. In the case of wheat products the effective date was July 9, 1933. In the case of cotton products the effective date was August 1, 1933. As to goods held in separate retail stocks, the tax applies only to so much of such stocks on hand on the effective date of the tax as are not sold or disposed of within thirty days. In order to determine the quantity of articles subject to taxation, persons engaged in the sale of taxable articles from separate retail stocks should (1) keep a record of all receipts or additions of taxable articles to their stocks during the 30-day period following the effective date and (2) take an inventory of all such articles on hand at the close of the 30-day period. The quantity of any article so inventoried in excess of the receipts or additions to stock during the 30-day period is the quantity upon which tax is due to be paid. In other words, the tax is computed upon the excess of the inventory taken as set out above over the receipts or additions to stock during the 30 days prior to the taking of the inventory. The expression "separate retail stocks" means stocks from which goods are sold exclusively at retail, or to ultimate consumers, but does not include stocks owned by retailers and held in a warehouse.

Retail dealers in wheat products should inventory their stocks as of August 7, 1933, and make return and pay any tax due on or before September 7, 1933. Retail dealers in cotton products should inventory their stocks as of August 1, 1933, and make return and pay any tax that may be due on or before September 30, 1933. But one return of the floor tax on each commodity will be required. After that, of course, the tax is paid by the processor.

The office of the Collector of Internal Revenue at Birmingham has endeavored to compile a list of all persons in the State who may be affected by these taxes and furnish the necessary forms and instructions to such persons. It is realized, however, that this list which was prepared with considerable haste and from limited sources, is incomplete. Any person in the State who may be subject to any of these taxes and who has not received blanks and information on the subject should write the Collector of Internal Revenue, Birmingham, for blanks and information. These requests should contain a statement as to the kind of form needed, that is, whether for reporting tax on wheat or cotton products and whether these products are sold at wholesale or retail.

It is expected that the Secretary of Agriculture will put like taxes into effect at later dates upon corn, pork, tobacco and rice products. These taxes are imposed to provide funds for the administration of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the object of which is to increase prices of farm products.

Interesting Letter On World's Fair Received By Miss Edith Johnson Of Thorsby

Following is a most interesting letter received by Miss Edith Johnson, Thorsby representative for the News, from her sister, Miss Esther Johnson, who has been spending several days in Chicago and attending the World's Fair there. The descripfion of sights at the Fair are so good, the News persuaded Miss Johnson to allow it to be used:

Dear Edith:

Here I am in Chicago and having a big time. I came in a week ago today. Emmie, Steve and I went out to dinner and up on the roof of the Steven's Hotel from where you can get a wonderful view of the World's Fair.

Sunday Steve, Emmie, Mrs. Vogel, Helen Vogel (friends of theirs) and I went to the Art Institute, which now during the Fair is said to have the greatest art collection in the world. We saw the painting "Whistler's Mother" in the original. We all preferred Sir Joshua Reynolds and Gainsborough and saw nothing in modern art except fat, clumsy, vile women, and smeared colors. I decided that modern art was a horrid conception of anything freakish. We all enjoyed some bronze statuary and some replicas and originals of doorways, arches, etc., from famous cathedrals, such as Rheims.

After that visit we went out to the Vogels for dinner. They have a lovely place just outside the city limits. Helen is a composer of music and plays the piano beautifully. She leans to the sweet melodious type.

Emmie has gone to work and I'm waiting for Pearl to call and say what time she's coming to go to the Fair. Emmie puts out a Daily Bulletin for the Stevens and interviews famous people stopping at the Stevens, for publicity in the papers.

Seventh St. on one side of the Stevens has been named "Balbo Ave." since the visit from the Italian fliers. The Outer Drive has been named "Columbus Ave." and the Outer Outer Drive "Cermak Blvd."

It is 10:30 p.m. and I've just come back from the Fair. It is truly a wonderful thing—a magnificent thing at night. The lights making gaily-colored the fountains and casting beams and rays all about turn the place into a veritable fairyland. I've had such a happy day. The guides are so courteous that a happy atmosphere prevails thruout.

Pearl and I started at the south end—at the Travel and Transport Building. There we saw the oldest and the last word in buses, trains, cars, etc. I picked out a Duesenberg car (yes, even over a Plymouth!). It costs only $20,000. There was the world's largest locomotive there and what a baby it was!

From there we worked north—thru the Mayan Temple first. The most interesting thing thtre was a skull of 1400 years ago, showing teeth filled with turquoise.

Next came Indian villages representing five tribes, John Whistler's Army Camp, and the Home Planning Group. Sloane's House of today was a modern house with the old air retained. The Florida Tropical House was most peculiar with bath tubs sunk below the floor and great aquariums along the dining-room walls, taking the place of pictures. Then there was a house built of glass blocks in different colors and showing glass exhibits. The All-Wood house was very different. It had wooden plates, candle holders, etc., on the dining room table and every room a different type of wood. Just outside stood a car in which there was a radio. Well, the last note there was that the garage doors were controlled by the radio in the car.

We passed by the Lincoln Group and Ft. Dearborn because Ft. Dearborn at least, will be permanent and can be seen again perhaps.

The Oriental Village had beautiful shops and a stage show, and the Belgian Village had many shops and restaurants in a typical Belgian setting. This particular village created the desired atmosphere better than any other part of the Fair, to my judgment. In this village we saw some Belgian dances in costume—with wooden shoes, etc.

In the A & P Carnival the Marionette Show was most interesting. There was a marionette of Paderewski and he seemed too real for words. As a record of bits of his composition was played he went through the motions of playing with every movement of head, body, and hands perfectly synchronizing. The two hundred and fifty-foot thermometer does not have mercury in it but Havoline wax-free motor oil.

The Sinclair Dinosaur Exhibit was good. The Frontosaurus (Thunder reptile, named from the noise the earth seemed to make as he walked along) had a forty-ton body. Another animal had front and rear brains—the rear brains, it is supposed, controlled the muscles. These creatures belonged to the Mesozoic Age and lived 75,000,000 years ago.

In the General Exhibits there were all sorts of things. I especially enjoyed seeing the Yank Shirts made by girls sitting at their machine—each doing one particular thing and passing it to the next. There was a display of how silk stockings are made. (I'd like to own that!) In the International Business Machines we walked into a sort of room first where the Multiplier, Tabulating, etc., machines are. I walked up to a man whom I later learned knew Schuett. I asked him to please tell me something about the IBM Exhibit so I could make a report to the Birmingham office. Then I went to see the clocks. There is a master clock that is kept with Elgin Observatory and the two hundred and fifty clocks around the Fair Grounds are hourly automatically set with the master clock. A different boy explained about the clocks and was so nice.

From there we went to the Hall of Science and waited for the lights to be turned on. First a light—searchlight was turned on in the tower of the Hall of Science and it first flashed on the Electric Building, which immediately sent out its many rays, and as the searchlight's ray from the Hall of Science passed over each building, it lit up. There was a lecture before this explaining how the ray from Arcturus was caught and so on at each of the four big observatories. It surely looked like magic.

From there we went to Walgreen's Drug Store and asked for strong Coca Colas. The man fixed them just right and I told him so, so soon he asked, "Would you like a refill?" and Pearl said, "On the house?" and he said "Sure!"

Then we went on Northerly Island, to the Enchanted Isle. There at the Communications Building, I inquired about sending a souvenir call (Bell Telephone) to Birmingham. The guide told me that if I'd get there early in the morning, (The gates open at nine), I'd stand a good chance of its not being crowded. He was so very nice and said he'd see that I got my call thru. He also told us we could go to the Pabst Blue Ribbon Malt Casino where Ben Bernie was broadcasting and just order some beer and see and hear him for almost nothing. After that we decided to call it a day. It was after 10:30.

I came to the Stevens and Emmie was still in her office working. I callen her and she said she was going to see Charlit Agnew about some new publicity for his orchestra and said she thougnt I might like to meet him. Of course I wanted to, so we went into the elegant Boulevard Room where you can dine and dance and listen to them broadcast until they finished and then I met him. His eyes just sparkle and are so alert. He is a small man but very nice looking. I told him we used to enjoy his programs with the Yeast Foamers. He autographed a paikage of matches for me and I got him to autograph one for you, too. Last Wednesday Ripley—believe it or not, was in the Boulevard Room and this Wednesday Borton Holmes—world traveler and lecturer is to be there.

August 1st. 6 P. M.

I've just returned from my sesond visit to the Fair. Well, today I called Birmingham and Howard was in the office. If he had not been, I was going to talk to Schuett or Al. There were some forty or fifty people who listened to our conversation, but I got a kick out of it. Howard was glad I called.

I'm sending you a Postal Telegraph Souvenir. The telegraph companies let you send messages but deliver them to the sender. Pearl sent me a telegram and I sent her one. She said, "Enjoyed doing a Century of Progress with you. Love Pearl." It is a very nice souvtnir. Birmingham is the only city in Alabama that calls can be made to. Pearl and I didn't cover as much ground today. Next we went to the Horticultural Building. Gosh, words fail me here. There were rustic (Old Mill) gardtns, formal gardens, historic gardens, Japanese, French, etc. Every sort of cactus, shrub and flower (orchids and night blooming cereus included) were on display. There were woodland streams, sanctuaries, statuary, deserts, sand dunes, great pools of water lilies, etc. The cleverest thing, however, was the "Swanee River Cabin." It was the most tumbled down rustic cabin with wooden door windows out of which hung a sack of apples drying. There was the red bandana hat lying in the remains of the chair. There was the stump and hatchet with pieces of wood lying around; flowers planted in every sort of can; a straw broom; and an outdoor boiling kettle. Then too, an old pair of overalls hung on the wooden fence. It was typical in every detail and so impressive.

The Egyptian Pavilion was a sort of temple with all sorts of Egyptian rugs, etc.

The Hall of Science was way beyond my comprehension, but everything scientific imaginable can be found there. In the dentistry department were Washington's false teeth. After looking at them, one would think a person would be better off without them. The transparent man was very interesting. It was made in Germany in a year and a half and is the only one in the U. S. now. It demonstrates the construction of the digestive and circulatory systems. A geological time clock told by slides, ticks, arrows, etc., the story of two billion years. There was a huge globe showing the movements of the earth, etc. There was a miniature oil refinery, telescopes—oh, everything, even to boll weevils!

The Jehol (Japanese) Temple was sent to the U. S. in 28,000 pieces. It is an exact replica of the original and the original was built between 1767 and 1771. The roof is of gol dleaf.

The Sky Ride Cars are named Amos, Andy, Ruby Taylor, etc.

The Czechoslovakian, Italian and Swedish Pavilions all contain many things made in those countries. In the Swedish Pavilion there was a miniature reproduction of the Town Hall in Stockholm.

In the Illinois State House were letters and papers written by Abraham Lincoln and replicas of the furniture in his home when he was inaugurated.

Tonight Emmie and I are going to a show if we're able, but we both feel the need of rest.

We saw the last work in drinking fountains today in the Sears Building. All you have to do is bend over and the water begins to spout. There is a mirror over which you bend which serves as an eye and turns on the water.

August 4

I haven't written for a couple of days now. Wednesday I spent the day with Pearl and her folks on the North side. I went on my first "L" ride alone to get there. I called Gary before I left and Eula said Mamma and Ernie would be in that afternoon and that Auntie Hilda and Pete were going to meet them and keep them in Chicago over night. They called me at Pearl's and we all went over there to see them. Gosh, Pearl's Dad didn't let me get a word in edgewise! He kept asking about old friends in Thorsby. It rained that night and Emmie was tied up with "Burton Holmes Night" at the Stevens so I spent the night with Pearl. Yesterday A. M. we went by to take Mamma and Ernie to the Berlins and Swansons, but Mamma was so anxious to get to Gary they checked out early. We called at the Berlins but they weren't home. We rode around then in Evanston and Wilmette and in the afternoon Pearl and I went to the Uptown and saw "College Humor." You know I missed it in Birmingham. I didn't care for it.

Then I came back here and Emmie and I had dinner in the Colchester Room with the lady who was Society Editor of the Chicago Daily News when Emmie was assistant, and her husband. At ten we went to see Marlene Dietrich in "Song of Songs" at the Oriental. We enjoyed it very much and I believe she has reached a new peak in that. Right in front of the theatre I ran into Arnold Edmonds and we had quite a long talk. He wanted me to come to his lesson today, but I'm going to the Fair.

I've just come back from the Loop now and I went there alone. Yes, I shopped at the dime store but they're good ones here.

Emmie just called and said we'd go to the Recreation Room for lunch. This place is a city in itself. It can feed 20,000 people at once and it has its own ice plant, bakery, laundry—oh, every conceivable thing.

5:20 P. M.

I'm back from the Fair again. There's no end to what one can see over there. Today I went through part of the Federal Building with the three fluted towers, representing the different departments of government. The court of State was interesting. Michigan, Florida, California, Georgia, South Dakota, Washington, and Mississippi had very good exhibits. Alabama was not represented. California had great redwood trees to walk through, etc., so you can imagine how elaborate some of them are.

In the Agricultural and Food Building I saw a cotton picker, milker, double row corn picker, Coca Cola plant, miniature Uneeda Bakery, Jack Frost Sugar Refinery, Morton Salt Plant, Atlas Brewing Plant, live stock display, Aunt Jemima display where pancakes are made and served, etc., but the cutest things of all were the kitchens, Dutch, French, Modern, 1869, Colonial, Spanish and English on display by Heinz. The 1869 one reminded me a great deal of some Thorsby kitchens!

1:05 A. M.

We've just come back from dinner, a picture show, William Powell and Ann Harding in "Double Harness" and dancing in the Blvd Room to Charlie Agnew.

Oh yes, Burton Holmes autographed some matches for me and on the back he wrote "Strike me red!" He couldn't have known me for years and put anything more appropriate than some such expression.

Emmie and I had two pictures taken on the roof here (300 feet high) and I do hope they're good. You see the Fair is in the background. The picture Emmie has like it is large.

I've surely enjoyed my week here. Steve and Emmie are going to Kewanee tomorrow for Everett's wedding. They want me to go, but I figure I'd better get back to Gary. Pearl, Mr. Carlson and I are driving to Gary in the morning.

You could only realize the scope of the Fair by seeing it. It is impossible to give any idea of things in writing. I realize, too, that I've given a girl's viewpoint because I haven't even mentioned that General Motors assembled a cat right before your eyes.

I'll write again when I get to Gary.

Love,

ESTHER.

OAK GROVE

We had a fine Sunday school last Sunday, although the attendance was small. Hope to see more out next Sunday.

Most of the singers, and quite a few who are not, attended the singing at Providence Sunday afternoon, which was a decided success. The house was filled and the singing was fine.

Mr. Leonard Pierce returned the latter part of the week after spending several days in Birmingham.

Misses Mattie Lee Thames and Willie Mae Herring spent Saturday night with Misses Dorothy and Lillian Dees.

Mr. Grady Sutley spent Sunday and Monday at home with his family, returning to his work in Birmingham Monday night.

Mrs. William Satterwhite visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sammons, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. D. S. Edwards visited relatives in Bessemer Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. W. I. Lessley visited her uncle, Rev. J. K. T. Daniels, of Lomax Tuesday.

Quite a few of the young people here are attending the revival at Center Hill this week.

Mr. M. Gore and family of Mineral Springs community spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Euell Robinson.

Next Sunday is regular preaching day here. Services will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Horace Nabors. The church will also call a pastor for the coming year. All members are urged to be present.

ENTERPRISE

Miss Pardue met with the ladies of this community Monday, August 14th, and organized a home demonstration club, and officers were elected as follows: Mrs. C. L. Wilkins, President; Mrs. C. B. Stroud, vice-president; Mrs. Clara Boockholdt, secretary; community leaders, Mrs. C. L. Wilkins, Mrs. Leola Billingsley; demonstsation leadess, Mrs. G. C. Weldon, Mrs. A. L. Bearden. Meetings will be held the first Wednesday in every month at two o'clock. The next meeting will be held at the school house September 6th. Everybody is invited to our next meeting.

—Mrs. Eliza Boockholdt, Reporter.

CORINTH-SHADY GROVE SINGING

Dear Editor, please give me space in your good paper to say the Corinth and Shady Grove singing society met at Corinth last Sunday afternoon. A song by the chairman, then a prayer by A. L. Robinson. The directors for the afternoon were Prof. Duff Devaughn, I. D. Huett, Archie Devaughn, J. W. Cagle, A. M. Jones, Herman DuBose, Melton Hughes, Catherine Pratt, Steve Stanley, Rudolph Jones, Archie Jones and Leroy Mims. We had the Verbena Quartet with us and the Frisky Four Quartet, composed of four very young boys. The Corinth Quartet were all present. We can't say how much we appreciate these visitors coming and helping us make this singing one of the best we have held since we organized the society. We always try to appreciate and we want them one and all to know it. The organists for the afternoon were Beatrice Pratt, Luanna Calloway. We were dismissed with prayer by W. A. Calloway.

Now may I ask you all to always remember that you have a hearty welcome to come and be with us every time we meet. The society meets at Shady Grove church next fourth Sunday afternoon, so come and all be with us, and help us make it an afternoon spent in song service.

We are sorry that we didn't have time to go around with the directors, but we hope you won't think hard of us for time didn't permit us to do so. Yours in song service.

ARCHIE JONES, Chairman.

ACTIVITY OF COTTON MILLS HITS RECORD FOR MONTH

New York, Aug. 11—Domestic cotton mill activity in July was the highest on record for that month, the New York Cotton Exchange Service announced today.

During the period cotton mills ran at 117 per cent of the 1922 average rate against 54 per cent in July last year. The previous high record rate for July was 110 per cent in 1927.

"The explanation generally given for the very high rate of cotton mill activity," says the service," is that wholesalers, retailers and consumers, seeing cotton prices rising following the bank holiday, and feeling assured that the bottom had been reached and higher prices inevitable with inflation, the processing tax and higher labor costs in the offing, purchased all kinds of cotton goods freely to replenish stocks."

national recovery administrator was interrupted by hand clapping.

Appeals to Women

In asking the cooperation of the American housewife, he said:

"Women in defense of the support of her home is about as safe for triflers as a lioness at the door of a den full of cubs. When every American housewife understands that the blue eagle on everything that she permits to come into her home is a symbol of its restoration to security, may God have mercy on the man or group of men to attempt to trifle with this bird.

"The job of any woman in this program is a very vital, active and definite one. In the first place she should insist on a display of the blue eagle by every supplier of her home."

"But that is not enough—already, we have heard some boasting of manufacturers. 'We don't need the blue eagle. Our dealers' eagles will cover sales of the goods.'

"Oh ye of little sense. It makes no difference whether it is an automobile or a package of pins—women will ask for the manufacturer's eagle on radiator caps or maker's package and no $30,000,000 corporation will be permitted to cover its omissions behind the self-sacrifice of a $30,000 dealer."

Explaining the progress of the campaign the general asserted that the President's re-employment program is far ahead of schedule.

"We are not trying to get figures. We don't need them just now and neither do you. The blue eagle is a very visible bird. If you want to know how the plan is working in your town, count the stores and factories with eagles up as you go along the street." . . .

"Today, this country is astir from coast to coast. Nothing can stop the movement. Along the line of march are such men as stood on the banks of the Hudson while Fulton's steamboat got up steam and cried 'she'll never run.' We also heard a similar complaint in Washington for a month."

The speaker asserted that violation of the NRA code for any business man "is a sentence of economic death."

"Honor is a better guide for business conduct than Hoyle's book of tupenny rules written in a statute and the scorn of trusting people a more potent force than threats of jail and fines and injunction, which any adroit advocate can avert," he declared.

Speaking with intense effort, his graying head bared to the hot rays of the sun, General Johnson said the re-employment plan "is a heroic remedy and we must all understand it from top to bottom. It is not ballyhoo. It is not boycott. It is not magic. It is just what it seems to be and nothing more. It is a frank dependence of the power and willingness of the American people to act together as one person in an hour of great danger."

"Buy, buy now!" he shouted at those persons with money or income. "Buy everything you need and have so long denied yourself. It is the key to the whole situation."

He explained that retailers, at present prices, must restock at increased costs of 40 to 60 per cent that this offered the "best reason in the world for buying."

Gov. Park, who spoke briefly, asserted it is "the patriotic duty of every citizen to obey his (Roosevelt's) commands. "We must not let up until every willing worker has a job," he said. "Missouri will do her part."

Representatives from nearby states attended the rally. Leaders from Oklahoma, Iowa, Mississippi, Kansas and Kentucky were introduced by the chairman.

friend, Warren Reese, Jr., and proceeded to his camp when they learned at his home that he was spending the week end at the lake.

Boys Going After Cigarets

Shortly after 6 a.m. Sunday several of the boys at the camp compared notes and found a shortage of cigarets, and "Dick" Lemann, Johnson, and young Boykin decided to drive to Anderson's Camp, six or seven miles north, and buy some, stopping at the same time for some breakfast.

Meanwhile, Waites and Miss Ard had left the nearby Lake Region Club and, ready to return to Montgomery, had driven up the road away from Wetumpka and Montgomery for several miles, probably to Anderson's Camp or to find some store that was open. They, too, were seeking breakfast.

Scarcely a mile above the scene of the crash, the young couple stopped at a store at the junction of the road leading to Anderson's Camp and the Wetumpka-Holtville Highway and asked the proprietor, Connie Waites, a relative of Duffie Waites, for some sandwiches.

"If I had had any sandwiches, they would have stayed right here and eaten them." Mr. Waites said after the accident. "Then they never would have met that other car."

But Mr. Waites had no sandwiches, and the couple drove off for Montgomery, probably intending to get breakfast somewhere on the road.

They drove less than a mile before they approached a wide, right-hand curve, a dangerous stretch of highway that has been the scene of numerous fatal and near-fatal accidents in recent years. And just at that time the car bearing the three boys from the Reese camp started around the other end of the curve.

At the sharpest point there is little room for a driver to see ahead. Suddenly the two automobiles, both apparently traveling rapidly, came into each other's view. The two drivers, Waites and Dick Lemann, tried to swerve to their respective sides of the highway to pass each other, but there was not time to change the course of the cars sufficiently to avert a collision.

The two machines met head-on, their left front wheels locking. Both were demolished. A crosspiece in the windshield of the auto driven by Lemann was battered and struck the young New Orleans visitor in the head, and the steering wheel was rammed against his chest. He died instantly.

Boykin, on the rear seat, was badly crushed by the impact and died within a few minutes. Johnson, riding in front with Lemann, was hurled clear of the car and suffered only minor injuries.

In the other automobile, Miss Ard's head was knocked against the windshield when the two machines crashed together and then the force of the crash hurled her into the rear seat, where the back of her head struck the back of the car. She, too, was killed instantly. Waites was thrown forward, his head and shoulder striking the steering wheel with such force that it was shattered, and he also was thrown into the back of the car. It was first believed his skull had been fractured.

Farmers living near the curve where the accident occurred, hearing the impact when the automobiles met, hurried to the wreckage and helped extricate the dead and injured.

D. W. Curlee, his nephew, J. B. Richardson and Sanford Jennings, a neighbor, were the first to reach the demolished cars. Mr. Curlee was the first on the scene. He summoned Richardson, and Jennings arrived within a minute or two. The three removed the accident victims from their automobiles.

Mr. Richardson said Lemann and Miss Ard, their heads and bodies mangled, were dead when they were taken from the debris. Boykin was still alive, Mr. Richardson said, and he and some neighbors put the dying youth in a car and started to Wetumpka with him.

Boykin Died In Car

But just before they reached Wetumpka, according to Mr. Richardson, who held Boykin in his arms on the back seat of the car, the 17-year-old boy died, the third victim of the crash.

Another car brought Waites to Wetumpka and a passing motorist took Johnson to the Reese camp, where he notified Paul Lemann and his companions of the tragedy.

Ambulances from Leak's sped to Wetumpka, one to pick up Waites and bring him to Fitts Hill Hospital there, and the other to continue to the scene of the accident and get Lemann and Miss Ard. Another ambulance later was sent to Wetumpka to return Boykin's body to Montgomery.

Foursquare Revival At The Court House

Sponsored by Foursquare Gospel church, Rev. H. H. Caswell, pastor, Miss Dorothy L. Kunzman, nationally known evangelist, will begin a two weeks revival Sunday, August the 13th, at 7:45 p.m. in the Court House. Miss Kunzman comes from Alhambra, California, and has held meetings in many principal cities in the eastern, western and northern states, and has worked in many of the outstanding churches. She is an interdenominational evangelist, and this campaign will be interdenominational in spirit, and every church in the city and surrounding country is invited and urged to come and join with us in our efforts for God.

Do not miss the splendid opportunity of attending the initial service, get to know this dynamic speaker, and you will not want to miss any service during the time that she is in our town. This is a rare opportunity for Clanton to hear one of the leading girl evangelists of the day. There will be an interesting musical program each evening preceding the message.

Summer Camp For Unity Young People

Camp for Unity Young People, Y. W. A., G. A., S. B., will be August 22, 23, 24 at Dr. Hayes former camp off Lock 12 highway. This is a fine, private place for frolic and fun which we will have galore. Study courses will be held daily with exams. for seals the last period. Let everybody bring a happy heart and desire to make this a great camp.

Each person bring the following:

Fork, spoon, cup, plate, quilt, blanket, pillow, 25c, loaf bread, 4 ears corn, 8 eggs, glass jelly or preserves, ¼-lb. bacon, ½-lb. butter, one live chicken for each two persons, and a small amount of any vegetable as peas, butter beans, Irish potatoes, onions, or tomatoes (not too ripe). Also lunch for the first day.

Meet at Clanton Baptist church on 22nd at 9:30 for further instructions and conveyance together to camp. If you expect to leave before camp 'breaks' bring written permit from parent.

We will be glad to have parents visit during the day and share with us the good things.

We want representatives from every organization in the association and the more the better. Let's have 100.

Will see you next Tuesday arrayed in camp glory.

Church Memorial To Rev. Martin Is Now Underway

Last Monday there were approximately sixty men and boys engaged in work at the Old Bethesda church, in Coosa County, cleaning off the grounds and repairing the building in preparation for the dedicating of this old church to its founder, the Rev. D. S. Martin, deceased.

A splendid dinner was prepared and served to the group working at the church, by the ladies of that section, and much interest is being manifested in the dedication of this church to this prominent minister.

According to J. Mell Martin of Clanton and Silas Martin of Wetumpka, sons of the Rev. Martin, and who have charge of the work, they expect to hold dedication services sometime during the latter part of September, the date to be announced later.

HIGHWAY PLANS

Department officials indicated details of the program will not be released until and if the projects are approved by the United States Bureau of Public Roads in Washington.

While the National Recovery Act provided for an appropriation of $8,370,133 for Alabama the State was able to obtain approximately $12,000,000 by using a part of the National Recovery Act appropriation to match about $3,600,000 in Federal aid funds that had accumulated to the credit of the State.

More For Flood Relief

In addition to the approximate $12,000,000 Alabama also has laid aside in Washington about $1,300,000 appropriated for flood relief work, and available to the State when it is matched by a like amount of State funds. This sum however, cannot be matched by other funds appropriated to the State by the Government.

Alabama is virtually the last State in the local district to submit her road program, but it is expected now, that if the program is approved in Washington that thousands of men will be put to work by Oct. 1 or earlier if possible. One of the causes assigned for delay by the State Highway Department was the number of hearings conducted, nearly every county in the State having sent delegations.

At one time it was estimated that if all the requests made by these delegations were complied with that the program would involve an expenditure of around $100,000,000.

Please begin immediately the selection of your Beat Chairmen and begin to work along the lines indicated. This a call to patriotic service to the nation as great as was ever sounded in Peace time. As General Johnson says, we are at war, and in the war to the bitter end against depression. None of us have the time to spare. We will have to take it. But this investment of time and talent is vital to the success of the National Recovery Project.

The work of our State Committee, of which you and your Beat Chairmen are parts, is not to be confused with the work of the State Recovery Board nor the State Recovery Council. The work of the Board is to enforce the Act, particularly after the Codes have all been adopted and approved. The work of the Council is to iron out those kinks that may develop and give each interested party a hearing and a fair and friendly decision. Our work is organization and propaganda.

Please let me have your acceptance by return mail, and as soon as possible the names of your Beat Chairman.

With kindest regards and thanking you in anticipation of your acceptance and hearty co-operation, I am

Cordially yours,

CHILTON TAKING HOLD OF NRA

Here And There

By Crackie

You wouldn't believe it, but they tell that rabbits in Texas grow to be the size of a large dog.

* * *

Mrs. Dick Bean was a caller at the News office Monday, and she looks as young as she did when she married Dick several years ago.

* * *

Mrs. C. R. Shelby, of near Jemison is just as businessfied as she is attractive. She was in Clanton Monday so we note, and as usual interested in something worthwhile.

Ed Bruce says that he wouldn't even be interested in going to the World's Fair. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce usually take the prizes at fairs for good farm products, and Mr. Bruce possibly thinks that they will stay home this time.

* * *

Preacher Cochran, our affable Methodist pastor, and Prof. Warr made the most of their three days at the World's Fair. There must be some Scotch blood in them, or else they are of the thrifty type.

Miss Dessie Robinson certainly looks well as operator of Dief's Cafe now. Dessie is a splendid cook and gives mighty good service.

* * *

Hon. J. B. Atkinson and Hon. "Buster" Foshee have made quite an attractive addition to their law offices in the person of Miss Immarene Dawson, of Maplesville, as secretary.

* * *

W. I. (Pa Billy) Mullins is becoming a man of means these days with his private office in the New Mullins Building during the cotton season. It opened Monday, under the direction of John Deramus.

We saw J. Monroe Parrish of Route One in town the other day and were impressed by the broad smile he was wearing.

* * *

Something we all have been eagerly waiting many years has come. Upchurch Drug Company is putting on a gigantic sale beginning Friday. We understand everything in the store is on sale. Of course with the exception of Loren Smith and "Sunshine" who have become well known through their connection with this drug store.

Our best and heartiest congratulations to Miss Beverly Hester and Miss Roberta Curry. (May we continue to call you Roberta?) The program of music at the Methodist church Sunday night by these two artists was more than wonderful.

Roberta (yes, we persist in calling you our dear Roberta, regardless) still has that winning smile that tears away barriers to friendship and love. That smile that is coming out whether she wants it to or not.

* * *

J. D. Mullins, of Route 3, made a prosperous appearance in Clanton the other day. We don't see Mr. Mullins often and wish he would come in more.

* * *

We were mighty glad to see W. M. D. O'Neal of Stanton in Clanton Saturday. Mr. O'Neal gives us the impression of a real business man. We gave him a subscription receipt.

* * *

Young J. W. Veazey was in Clanton Saturday and getting ready to market some of that good syrup he has been making.

* * *

J. C. Edwards of Maplesville, Route 2, was a caller at the News office Saturday and indeed a welcome visitor because he left with a receipt for a year's subscription.

Rucker Simms paid Clanton the honor Sunday of the first visit of his bride. Rucker is to be congratulated on such a selection, we are indeed quite sure of that.

Eric Hart is exercising his outstanding ability as an expert bookkeeper now at Clanton Bldg. Supply Co. Eric no doubt feels quite at home there and his friends are glad to see him there, too.

We are delighted to know that Mrs. Clyde Jones was fortunate enough to recover her lost ring recently.

* * *

W. W. Parnell, one of our fine citizens over at Stanton was in Clanton the other day and returned home with a News subscription receipt.

Visitors to Clanton are welcome. We'll be with you again here next week, —by Crackie.

BANKS SHOWING MUCH STRONGER SINCE HOLIDAY

First Post - Panic Report Shows New Strength In Banking Structure

Washington, Aug. 20.—The first report on the condition of the national banking system since the panic and holiday of March disclosed today it had emerged from that troublous period with renewed strength and had a total resources of $20,860,491,000 as of June 30.

This figure, announced by J. F. T. O'Conner, comptroller of the currency, on the basis of the first bank call since last December, compared with total resources at the end of last year of $23,310,974,000.

The December total was reported by 6,016 banks, however, while the June figure represented the assets of 4,902 institutions.

At the end of June, 985 national banks were unlicensed and operating under restrictions or not at all. They had aggregate resources of $1,441,436,000, mak-

HARVESTER CO. HAS NEW PLACE FOR CLANTON

Polk Brothers Take Agency Of Widely Known Farm Machinery, Etc.

The announcement is made this week that Polk Brothers Motor Co., Inc., of Clanton have been named dealers in this section for the products of the International Harvester Co., and McCormick-Deering farming implements.

The International Harvester Company is to be congratulated on securing this local concern to handle their line of farm machinery and tools. On another page in the News this week will be found the official announcement from Polk Brothers in regard to this.

They stated to the News that they will handle a complete line of plows, points, wagons, trucks, and other farm equipment. They also stated they were expecting a carload of wagons in right away.

Polk Brothers Motor Co., will continue to be agents for the Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles in connection with the farming implements. The large building in Clanton is undergoing some arrangements this week to take care of the new line, and they extend an invitation to the people of the county to visit them when in town.

Power Company Raises Payrolls Under NRA Code

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 18.—Alabama Power Company has signed and filed with the Postmaster at Birmingham the NRA code which applies to the electric industry and has received the right to display the NRA emblem, Thomas W. Martin, President, announced today.

Responding to the appeal of President Roosevelt for united effort in putting people back to work and restoring public buying power, Mr. Martin said the Power Company would reemploy a substantial number of its former employees and materially increase its payroll under the terms of the code.

The right to display the NRA emblem granted the Company by the Postmaster at Birmingham covers all cities and towns in Alabama in which the Power Company operates, it was stated.

COTTON CHECKS EXPECTED TO COME IN SOON

1300 Contracts Are Given Approval For Final Settlement

1,300 contracts of cotton growers who plowed up cotton in the government's cotton acreage reduction program in Chilton County, have been given final approval and have been recommended for payment, according to C. E. Stapp, county agent.

It was stated that they will complete the entire program in the county, including all payments, just as fast as possible. Mr. Stapp stated that checks in payment for the plowed cotton can be expected within ten to fifteen days after final inspection of the fields have been made.

The checks will be forwarded from Washington to the county agent who will distribute them.

GINNERS MET IN CLANTON LAST MONDAY

Discussed Charges And Other Matters Pertaining To Their Business

Representatives of the fourteen cotton gins in Chilton County met in Clanton last Monday afternoon to discuss charges and other matters pertaining to their operations.

The meeting was held in the offices of W. I. Mullins in the new Mullins Building, and is the first meeting held in several years. The meeting was held for the purpose of having operators of gins become better acquainted and discussions.

No definite conclusions were reached due to the fact that the ginners code of the NRA has not been made known yet and those attending the meeting will probably operate along the same lines

KIWANIS CLUB TAKING ACTIVE PART IN PLAN

Expecting A Representative Of Dept. Of Commerce To View Sites

Interest in the proposed emergency landing field for airplanes for Clanton is growing, according to those who are responsible for the idea and promotion of the project.

Considerable work has been done and is being done on the matter now, and the Kiwanis Club of Clanton is taking quite a bit of interest in the proposed field. Indications at present are that it will soon become a reality and bring about a realization of a wish of several of the citizens of the county, and plots who make trips by air and by way of Clanton.

Several sites have been inspected by the committee composed of members of the Kiwanis Club, headed by Dr. V. J. Gragg, who took the initial step toward the project.

Owners and pilots of planes in cities in the state have received with pleasure the information that Clanton and the Kiwanis Club propose to prepare such a field. At a recent meeting of the club Hon. H. H. Armstrong, prominent citizen and banker of Selma, and an owner of an airplane, told members of the club that they were making a most progressive step.

It is expected that an engineer from the Department of Commerce will be in this vicinity in the near future to aid in developing the field and selecting a site.

Upchurch Drug Co. Puts On A Big Sale

One of the biggest sales in the history of Clanton will open Friday morning of this week at nine o'clock, when the famed Upchurch Drug Company opens their "Big Opportunity Sale."

Dr. Upchurch, known far and wide as a leading druggist in Alabama stated that the entire stock in his mammoth drug store in Clanton will be on sale for eight days. The store is getting ready to take care of thousands of customers during these eight days of bargains.

This is without a doubt the largest drug sale ever held in this section of the state. Prices have been slashed, say the managers of the sale, and not only that but customers are to receive several free items during the sale. There will be plenty of clerks to take care of the trade. Read their ad on the back page of this issue.

One of the outstanding attractions at this sale is "Waxo" the uncanny mechanical man appearing in the large center window of the drug store. He will appear at regular intervals and is something very out-of-the-ordinary. He talks through a microphone to the people on the outside, and yet you cannot see his lips moving. By all means don't miss seeing "Waxo" when in Clanton during this huge sale. Watch him, he is really good.

More than 1,000 farm people are expected to attend Farmers Week, annual outing and short course, at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, August 29, 30, 31.

Two Of Clanton's Most Famous Artists Thrill Audiences At Kiwanis Club And Church

Clanton has been highly honored during the present several days on having two of her most famous artists and musicians, Miss Beverly Hester and Mrs. Wm. L. Darnell (Roberta Curry), who are here visiting relatives in their home town. Miss Hester has been spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hester, and Mrs. Darnell is visiting her mother, Mrs. Clara Curry.

At the Methodist church last Sunday evening, these two artists appeared in a concert before a large and appreciative audience. Mrs. Darnell, loved by Clanton, rendered several vocal solos, accompanied at the organ by Miss Hester, who also played several solos.

Mrs. Darnell, during the past several years has brought much fame to herself with her voice that thrills her audiences, while in New York and other cities. Miss Hester, who is music instructor at Judson College, recently returned from Chicago where she took part on the Alabama program at the World's Fair.

At the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton last Thursday night, Miss Hester appeared on the program with piano selections. It has been announced that she with Mrs. Darnell will be guests of the club tonight and render several selections, vocal and piano. Members of the club are looking forward to this exceptional treat as their program tonight.

GOLFERS OPEN INVITATION TO PLAYERS

Small Monthly Fee Offered To Those Who Wish To Use Course

Those who are interested in playing golf, or learning to play will find pleasure in an announcement from the Clanton Golf Club following a meeting Monday night.

The small green fee of one dollar per month was adopted as a charge to anyone wishing to receive the courtesies of the club and play on the local links. While the initiation fee of joining the club when it was organized, was $25, this new fee does not carry an initiation charge, accordng to Otto Jones, secretary of the club.

An open invitation to those who wish to use the links is extended by the club. This may be accepted by paying the $1.00 green fee to Mr. Jones who will in turn issue a courtesy card which entitles the owner of the card to play on the local course for one month. It may be renewed each month.

LOCAL WORKERS TO MAKE CHECK IN THIS DISTRICT

Specific Information On How To Secure Blue Eagle Is Given Out

Employers and others in Chilton County are rapidly taking hold of the National Recovery Act and doing what they can to put it over, according to M. A. Gore, county chairman. Mr. Gore appointed several days ago, committees in each Beat in the county to work their sections, explaining the workings and purpose of the NRA and soliciting members who may display the sign of the Blue Eagle.

A complete nation-wide check up on all employers who are displaying the Blue Eagle signs and those who have not yet signed the code, or are operating under a private code, according to information from the office of General Hugh Johnson.

Pilot Club Has An Interesting Program

A very interesting program was given Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the Clanton Pilot Club, which was held at the Baptist church.

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, welfare worker of this county, gave a most interesting report on what the R F C work is doing in the county, and paid a compliment to the Pilot Club for their interest in welfare work as a major point during the year.

Mrs. Sophia Jones who recently returned from the World's Fair told in a very entertaining manner, of her trip, the things she saw at the Fair. Miss Lois Thompson, attractive young lady of Thorsby, appeared on the program, rendering a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Jane Roberts.

COOSA WATERS GET SHIPMENT OF YOUNG FISH

Local Fishermen Take Part In Stocking Waters Here Recently

A shipment of bass and bream from the State Fish Hatchery was liberated in the streams of Chilton County during the last few days. Many local sportsmen were present and assisted, the planting being under the direction of the district game warden and an assistant from the State Hatchery.

One of the considerations in making consignments is the promise by local sportsmen to help protect streams in this vicinity from seining, dynamiting, poisoning and other illegal methods of taking fish.

The fish were received from the State Fish Hatchery at Eastaboga near Anniston, being brought in by truck. In addition to the two hatcheries operated by the State at Eastaboga and Aliceville, the Department of Game and Fisheries has control of Oxford Lake, from which it secures both bass and bream. A total of 750,000 fingerling were produced and distributed last year, these fish going into every county of Alabama, according to a statement by I. T. Quinn, Commissioner of

That Proposed "Code For Housewives"

Those Iowa women who suggested that a working code be fixed up for housewives, so that the lady of the family could get some sort of break in the matter of hours and pay, seem to have started something which might give General Johnson and the NRA crowd the toughest problem they have yet had to tackle.

Fixing up a code for the coal industry may seem difficult; ironing out the complexities of the oil trade may look hard; arranging things for steel and auto manufacturers may appear perplexing—but wait until you try to put the housewife's daily round into a formal code, before you say you have tried something tough!

What do these Iowa ladies suggest? A "day" that begins at 7 in the morning and runs until 7:30 p.m. with four hours off in the afternoon, an allowance of $14 a week for housekeeping money and no work on Sundays; and while that seems fair enough, no one who has ever watched a busy housewife in action will suppose that putting it into practice could be easy.

Many a man has said contemptuously that the trouble with wives is that they don't plan their work properly—they don't use "system" in their daily round. He has said this, that is, until some family emergency has forced him to stay home for a day or two and do mother's work himself.

At the end of that time he is invariably more than ready to go back to his own job and he has no more to say about planning and domestic systems. He has learned that if there is one job on earth that refuses to become cut and dried and formulated it is the housewife's.

How are you going to formulate a code which allows for such every-day mishaps as Junior's getting ashes from the fireplace all over the living room rug, or for the harassing calls of unwelcome house-to-house canvassers who break into the routine and compel "overtime" work, or for the added toil which comes when the neighbor's puppy gets hold of the clothes line and soils a whole string of newly-washed clothes?

These are part and parcel of the housewife's day, and they help to show what a job fixing up a code would be.

The housewife may have it easier than was the case a generation ago—but she still has a conglomeration of tasks that would have the average man talking to himself inside of 48 hours. —Selma Times-Journal.

Price Cutting Printers

Probably no other industry has been afflicted with the price cutters more than has that of printing. Every job printing establishment that endeavors to turn out creditable work and get a reasonable profit thereon is fully familiar with the cut-rate competition that he is up against that comes from fly-by-night solicitors who are working for some two-by-four printer with an obsolete press and the proverbial "shirt-tail full of type," who generally has his shop located in his back yard and pays no taxes, licenses, or anything else that he can escape.

But the day of this form of competition in the printing industry seems to have come to an end with the national recovery program soon to go into operation. On that subject the Montgomery Weekly makes the following timely comment:

"For years the price-cutting job printers have made life miserable for the ones who have tried to maintain a decent living standard. These price cutters always told the buyers that the legitimate operators were highway robbers, and many people believed them. Then the mail order houses sent their advertising and many of the home merchants fell for them to the detriment of home printers.

"Under the recent industrial rehabilitations act, all of this will be reversed. Uncle Sam says for the printers to get a living price. In fact, after the price of printing is agreed upon and OK'd at Washington, the printer who cuts below the established minimum will be subject to a $1000 fine and six months imprisonment in a Federal penitentiary.

"This law is caused by the selfishness, ignorance and bullheadedness of a few fellows who acted the hog and produced printing without making a profit and barring their competitors from even a look in at the business. Now the price cutting men, either home printers or mail order houses, will have an excellent chance to see the inside of a Federal prison, or raise their charge to a legitimate level."

All of which sounds mighty good to those of us who operate job departments and have seen business go here, there and yonder because we could not meet the kind of competition referred to and we did not care to sell our product at a loss.

But there is one question that we are interested in and that we hope the government will also bear in mind when stopping the price cutting in the printing industry. That own competition with private printers in the envelope business. It has been established time after time that the government sells envelopes for less than the cost of production, but in spite of the efforts of printers all over the country the practice has never been stopped. This practice of the government long ago ruined the profitable envelope business, for the printers and it seems to be consistent Uncle Sam should clean up his own industrial activities while straightening out those of everybody else. —Brewton Standard.

Food, Clothing and Work --- Yes But What About Health?

One of the most timely thoughts came forth from a citizen of our county at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club last Thursday night that we have heard in some time. It does not concern politics, it does not concern any civic improvement, but does concern something that is of the most vital importance in our county. It is the matter of the health conditions here.

Our county officials would do well to take note of this timely thought. Not later on, but NOW. Two months will be too late, three months will be still worse. Efforts are being put forth and have been put forth to give people work, furnish them with food and clothing, but not one time has there been mentioned anything about curbing diseases and sickness in the county. Not one step has been taken by officials to see that our people are given the first consideration on this point. You people who live in town possibly do not realize the importance of this. It is the people who are living in the rural sections that we are talking for.

Our suggestion on this would be an all-time health unit for the county. Expensive? No. The expense to the county would barely exceed $3500 per year, according to latest information at the hands of this newspaper. Think of it. This suggestion should not go unheeded by our county officials. We hope for the sake of the people throughout the county that something will be done about this right away.

Printers Are Getting In On "New Deal"

A code of fair competition for the printing industry has been drawn up and approved by the trade. At a meeting of a federation of printers in Montgomery recently, both printing establishments of Clanton were represented and went through the code together.

When this code is finally approved by the government, it will govern the price of printing, wages and hours of the printers, and both plants in Clanton will come under its requirements. It will also tend to raise the price of printing to a certain degree and create a uniform price. It is expected that within a few days that the two printing concerns of Clanton will be operating under this code of fair competition, and a rise in prices on printing will necessarliy take effect as well as a uniformity in price.

Things Will Be Stirring In Politics Next Year

Those who just delight in getting into political scraps, wrangles, arguments, and those who like to sit on the side lines and watch politicians and propaganda, will certainly have a big time in 1934. And 1934 will no doubt be a real history-making year in Alabama, in the way of changes in office holders.

Not only in Alabama but Chilton County will probably become a hot-bed of politics next year. There are about eleven major offices of the county to be filled in elections next year. There is quite a bit of talk going the rounds now as to the possible candidates for the various offices in the county, but so far there are none that have been definitely stated. But of course the better learned politicians have an idea of what might take place and what might not take place in the outcome when the ballots are counted. There is a lot of guessing going on now, too.

The keen observer of political affairs in this county can possibly see a little playing of politics going on now by those who are aspiring to some office, and it might not take very much effort to see this going on. In fact, it is difficult for a politician to do anyone a favor and not be accused of playing politics.

Politics in Chilton County occupy the brightest spot in the limelight of affairs. Even more so than the building of business and civic improvements. Perhaps the reason for this can be explained by saying that those affiliated with the political party now n control in the county are a little uneasy and believe it good business to put politics first, last and always.

However, that is beside the point in this. The point this newspaper is interested in right now, on this subject, is telling the people that next year is a big political year and a tremendous responsibility rests with the voters when election time comes. It is up to the voters to use their influence to better conditions, just as the voters of the United States pulled a "silent revolution" in the election of President Roosevelt and the rejection of former President Hoover. And we dare say that no one who aided in placing Roosevelt in the President's chair has cause to regret it, and only six months have passed since he took over the reins and placed this country under Democratic rule, and we dare say also that if conditions continue to improve as fast in the future as they have during the past six months, this country will remain under a Democratic administration for sometime to come. And those affiliated with the opposition party would be foolish to get their caps set to change it.

Chilton County may remain under Republican control, and it may not, but we give the citizens of this county credit for being able to recognize a good thing when they see it, and a bad thing when it gets to trampling on them, holding them down and preventing progress.

Nevertheless there will be a Democratic ticket and a Republican ticket in the county next year. Voters will have before them two tickets with many names on them, of persons seeking offices. On the Democratic ticket will be candidates for Governor of Alabama. Of course those who vote the straight Republican ticket do not get a voice in state affairs in an election, and that is bad. Every citizen should exercise his or her rights as a qualified voter and have a say-so in state elections. Anyway, we are going to have a very active political year in 1934 and politicians are now scratching their heads over it a bit.

Alabama's Possibilities

Frank Willis Barnett, among whose many duties and pleasures—and he goes in for pleasure in this life—may be included the writing of a weekly column of comment for the rural press of Alabama, a column to which we turn with relative faithfulness week after week, says in a recent article: "If a group of people can prosper, increase and grow strong when their environment furnishes them an abundance of food and other materials for making appliances to supply the other necessities of existence, it seems to us knowing our state as we do, that we of all mankind should have faith in Alabama and go to work in confidence that our labors will in the end be rewarded. We need some of the old pioneer virtues to pull us thru the valley of depression and push us over the hill of plenty."

If Alabamians did their best with what nature has given them they would be 100 per cent better off than they are. —Montgomery Advertiser.

A little girl, five years of age, in a Dothan home came home from Sunday school all alone. When she came before her mother she asked "Where is your brother." The child replied that she did not know. The mother then wanted to know if she were not afraid to come home alone. "Why no, Mother," replied the child. "God sent his angels to keep me safe along the way." That was the faith of a little child and I verily believe that God did surround her pathway with angels to keep her from being hurt. If it were not for God's angels watching over our little ones not many of them would ever grow to be men and women. O angels of God, watch over our little ones.

On entering the room of a sick patient at a hospital I heard one of those kind of oaths that shatter the feelings of the refined. The young man in the bed was full of smiles to see me as I entered, but I could not refrain from saying, "I heard something in this room while I was behind the door facing that hurt me much." The young man on the bed denied using profanity, and then pointed to another young man in the room saying, "That boy was the one who cursed." With my eyes still on the the patient in the bed I said to him, "I want you to tell your friend for me when I leave the room that of all places on earth where profanity is out of place, it is in the hospital. Here is where people are suffering and dying, and where nurses go on tiptoe and where eternity touches earth. Tell him that profanity, such as I heard, is out of place on the back streets to say nothing of its being used where ladies and Christian men can hear." I think that I got a cursing after I left the room, but I could stand it.

I went into the room of a patient at the hospital and remarked to him, "I see that the bed across the hall is vacant this morning." "Yes," replied the man, "and every patient on this floor is glad. The young man in that room was not what he should be. He cursed and his callers cursed and we are glad that he is gone." Then this patient made this sensible remark, "You can tell a rough-neck by the company that he keeps." Here is something that is as true as if it had been found in the Bible, "Birds of a feather, flock together." A lady in a room at the top of the stairway in this same hospital said to me, "I know there must be a Methodist preacher in one of those rooms down the hall for I never saw so many Methodist preachers going in that direction." You can safely judge people by the company they keep.

I saw a poor, shaggy, old dog, trotting along behind a little negro boy. Everywhere the negro went the dog would go. I said to him, "What makes that old dog follow so closely." The boy showed two long rows of white teeth as he replied, "Cause I has her puppies in dis sack." That explained it all. That dog was determined to see where her puppies were being carried. Must I say that the old dog seemingly had more of a motherly spirit than many of our human mothers. There is the "Honk" at the door, and a boy or a girl jumps out at the door of your home, and you see them enter the car. You do not know who is in that car, you do not know where they are going, you do not know what they are going to do, and yet no mother follows to see what is to become of her children. My Lord, when will parents learn to look more carefully after their children?

It is a universal observation that water never flows above its level unless it is pumped up by some outside power. Water can be pumped to the hill-top, but it never flows there of its own accord. I have said the above that I may say this, "No man's religion ever rises higher than it is at home." When you hear a fellow talking higher at church than he is living at home, mark me, he is "Pumping up his talk." Lots of folks talk like angels at church and then speak to their families at home like demons. It takes right living at home to make shouting at church worth while. You can talk high at church when you live high at home.

AGRICULTURE

The Value of the Poultry Industry

The value of the poultry industry may be considered from two aspects: (1) The place of poultry raising in American agriculture, and (2) the monetary value of the poultry industry itself.

Poultry raising occupies an important place in a well-balanced agriculture. According to the census of 1925, poultry was raised on 86.41 per cent of the farms in the United States, and on many farms poultry products were reported to be one of the best paying crops. In 1925 there were 58.52 per cent of the farms of the country keeping dairy cattle and 6.76 per cent keeping sheep. Poultry utilizes enormous quantities of waste products, including grains and meat food, the value of which could hardly be utilized otherwise in as efficient a manner as in the production of eggs and poultry meat. Poultry are foragers and secure a part of their living from grass and other green food and insects. The raising of poultry utilizes labor and is a source of cash returns for practically every month of the year. Furthermore, eggs and poultry meat contribute an essential variety to the diet of the farm home table, and, in addition, dispense with the necessity of providing for the table much meat food that would otherwise have to be purchased.

The estimated value of poultry products increased from $1,117,000,000 in 1925 to $1,181,000,000 in 1926, and it must be remembered that the above valuations do not take into consideration many thousands of urban flocks.

From the standpoint of composition and nutritive value, poultry meat differs very little from other lean meats. It is an efficient protein food, since the proteins contain all the amino-acids needed for the building of body tissues. These proteins are also well assimilated by the human body. Like other meats, poultry is to be depended on for iron and phosphorous, but is low in calcium. The vitamin content probably varies markedly with the feed of the poultry. The tender meat of chicken that is thoroughly cooked is considered especially good for children, because, containing little fat and its fibers being rather loosely held together with connective tissue, and is easily digested.

The dietetic value of eggs has received considerable attention during recent years because of the demonstration of their relative richness in three important vitamins, A, B, and D. Of course, eggs have long since been regarded as an important food product because of their protein content, their ease of digestibility and the fact that they can be prepared in a great variety of appetizing ways.

JUDGE RUTHERFORD LECTURES IN FRONT OF MACHINE GUNS AT PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

Fifty or more persons were arrested on June 4, 1933, for delivering books and booklets, some woman was crowded into cells of jail and had to stand up all night and no water to drink or any other decent treatment on July 29. The editors of papers refused to advertise the lecture and people went over the Plainfield town and delivered hand bills as to time of lecture and seventeen or more were arrested and there were cars that went the street with signs "Come hear the lecture at 3 p.m. the 30 of July." It seems that the Roman Catholics want to rule the world and tell people what to do and what to believe and what not to believe.

Before 3 p.m. the theater had more than 1800 persons in it, and a part of the police force was armed with machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and automatic revolvers and like implements of war; also a patrol wagon at the front and it went away empty. The long lecture is published in the Golden Age, number 363; also a long letter to editors who say that Judge Rutherford has slandered the Pope whose integrity is unquestioned by any reputable character. The Judge denies the many charges and says no man, pope or otherwise, has any authority from God or Christ, to declare any year a holy year. Neither God nor Christ ever created the office of a pope.

Boys In Forestry Camps

By Lance Franklin

Friends, I was viewing our "canvas village" today and found that it was no longer a "canvas village," but a "canvas-wooden" village. The reason for such statement is that we have our mess hall completed. The hall is 120 feet by 20 feet and do we feel big to get to sit at a table again to eat. Well just ask some of the boys here. Other wooden constructions are: canteen, barber shop, and supply tent, all combined in a building 60 feet by 20 feet. Next is the foresters tool room which is about 20 feet by 12 feet, of which Mr. Samuel Morris is the "man." He has charge of all the tools and filling station for the foresters.

Speaking of our "canvas village," it is setting north and south with the mtss hall located at the south end of the company street. The company is sheltered in "canvas mansions," divided into the 1st and 2nd platoon. 1st platoon is constituted of all even numbers, and the 2nd of all uneven numbers. The platoons face each other, running parallel to each other. What a creepy feeling a fellow has when he walks the company street amid the slumbering "canvas town."

Located at the south end are headquarters, medical tent and foresters tents. A few feet further can be seen the foresters tool room, and a truck force of eight Chevrolets, the highest mileage doesn't exceed 400 miles.

Well, folks, I told you that Mr. Samuel Morris was expecting a raise and he got it, too. He is drawing $36 this month instead of the former $30 per month, and I just want to give you a little "look in" on the tools that Samuel is in charge of. Of course he stated that this wasn't half of them yet, looking for a new shipment, possibly this week. Here goes: 36 maddocks, 48 shovels, 24 bush hooks, 12 cross-cut saws, 2 sets tree climbers, 1 grind-stone, 12 1-man saws, 72 pick-maddocks, hatchets, 1 rip saw, hand power, 4 auger bits, 1 screw driver 33", 1 offset screw driver, 6", 24 fire rakes, 48 swatters, 2 fire sprayers in use, 6 machets, 1 small set carpenter tools, 8 pairs pliers, 1 high pressure grease gun, 2 iron wedges, 4 comerlongs, 84 axes.

Well now doesn't that seem like work. If you don't know just ask anybody from Co. 470, Brinson, Ga.

Oh yes, I knew there was something else I wanted to tell about, and it's about the kitchen, here are the things that a poor K. P. has to wash: 8 square boilers, 27 pie pans, 20 bread plate platters, 19 soup bowls, 19 butter bowls, 5 8-gallon boilers, 2 20-gallon boilers, 4 15-gallon boilers, 8 dish pans, 8 baking pans, 10 frying pans, 7 big sippers, 8 quart cups, 6 big taking-up forks, 4 meat cleavers, 3 layel strainers, 20-gallon cabbage boiler, 24 pepper shakers, 24 salt shakers, 23 syrup stanns.

Now do you wonder why a boy frowns when the sentence of 3 or 4 days K. P is posted on the bulletin board to remind him he'll be on K. P. the next day.

A PRIZE JACKASS

Numerous stories are told, some true and some untrue, of the stupidity of government officials "clothed with little brief authority." One which seems to be well authenticated was in press dispatches recently about a federal deputy game warden in Ind

A humane gentleman and bird l named Foster Lewis found a red with a broken leg in his back yard. He had the wounded bird's leg set, c for it and nursed it back to health. After the bird was well it refused to leave its benefactor and persisted in staying about the house.

Then comes the deputy game warden who points out to Mr. Lewis that he is violating the federal migratory bird law by keeping a red bird on his premises. And Mr. Lewis is arrested.

We don't know how the case came out, but if that game warden was not fired and branded as the prize jackass of 1933 he didn't get what was coming to him.

APPENDICITIS AGE 25

The age at which most people develop appendicitis is in their twenties, with a preponderance of cases occuring about the age of 25, according to Dr. Roland M. Harper, who has studied 267 cases treated in a hospital with which he has been in close touch.

While the ages of patients ranged from 6 to 65 years, the average was 25, for either whites or negroes, males or females, in city or country.

Dr. Harper points out that this finding closely agrees with the statistics of hospitals in various parts of the country, and may be taken as a fair average for the entire population.

Appendicitis, he says, is evidently a disease which generally attacks persons in the prime of life, like tuberculosis and typhoid fever. Except in a relatively small percentage of cases, it rarely attacks the very young or those past middle age.

Those over 50 years of age are rarely troubled with appendicitis, but, as there are exceptions, everyone should be alert to detect symptoms of the disease and obtain trtatment promptly.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Billingsley, Ala., July 14, 1933.

To the Officers and Members of the Chilton County Masonic Conference:

We, your committee, beg leave to submit this resolution in memorial of our deceased brethren, F. A. Gibson of Clanton Lodge No. 423, T. J. Henderson of Marbury Lodge No. 534, W.J. Downs of Armand Lodge No. 250, who have departed this life since the last session of this conference.

We are constantly reminded of the brevity of life, the changing seasons, the serf leaf, the fading flower, the departing friend; all remind us that life is but a span that leads from earth to glory, connecting the past and the future, the two great eternities.

Though our friends be dead, yet their influence lives on. Of such are those who build monuments which neither rust, corrode, nor time effaces.

Therefore, be it resolved, that though we miss their genial presence, their sunny smiles and their wise counsel, we can in humble submission bow to the will of God who gives and takes at His pleasure.

Be it further resolved, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to all the bereaved and point them to the Star of Hope, the resurrected Lord who gave this beautiful promise, "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am, there you may be also."

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the County papers for publication, and one sent to the families of the deceased brethren, and one spread upon the Minutes of the Chilton County Masonic Conference.

Respectfully submitted,

—J. D. Griffin, R. L. Duffey, J. L. Smith, Committee.

'Pots Of Gold' Are Hunted By Agents

U. S. Prosecution Of Metal Hoarders Planned By Attorney General

Washington — Gold hoarders of the United States have about reached the end of the rainbow, for the government is going after their hidden pots of gold.

In the Justice Department, legal experts are quietly drawing up the case against gold hoarders. It would not surprise official Washington if warrants for the hoarders were announced by Atty. Gen. Cummings when he returns from his vacation Thursday or Friday.

Before he departed for his vacation, Cummings said prosecution of gold hoarders who continued to defy the government would be started in two or three weeks. The three weeks expire Thursday.

The Treasury and Department of Justice have completed their investigations into a long list of persons who withdrew gold from banks during the March crisis. At last reports, there still were 280 persons holding $845,025 in the metal which they refused to give up, while $27,481,498, not turned in when President Roosevelt ordered it done, had voluntarily been given to the banks after justice agents visited hoarders.

In all, Justice Department agents called on more than 5,000 persons whose names were on the list of those who withdrew gold. That list has been checked and rechecked and finally returned to the Justice Department.

The ground work has been prepared; every hoarder has been informed of the law and of the penalties of up to 10 years in prison or a fine of not more than $10,000 or both.

OBITUARY

Although it is uncommon that parents write the obituary of their deceased, we feel it our duty to write the death of our darling little son, Bobbie, on the morning of August 10th. We hear God as he said, suffer little Bobbie to come unto Me. And within a few minutes time his suffering was ended, which had lasted more than six years; since Bobbie was stricken with that treacherous disease, meningitis, from which he never recoverd, in spite of our every effort to secure medical aid for Bobbie's recovery. He continued at times to have the most terrible agony of pain and suffering that one could seem to endure, and precious little Bobbie came out of his suffering each time with a sweet smile for Daddy and Mother as we stood over him in hopes of giving him relief, and when it became necessary that we take Bobbie to the hospital in hopes of a better chance of medical aid. The doctors and nurses seemed to be cherished over Bobbie's sweet smile and disposition, and we believe did all they could for Bobbie. Oh, how our hearts ache and how grieved we are over the departure of our darling child, but as we see Bobbie in Heaven so happy with no suffering or pain it makes us so happy to know Bobbie is just another beautiful angel, to stand with outstretched arms and help guide us on our heavenly way

Bobbie was laid to rest at Mt. Nebo, August 11th. Rev. Harvey Culp spoke sweet comforting words, while his wife, Mrs. Lela Culp, directed the sweet songs that were sung. Relatives who carried the precious body to its grave were Messrs. C. J. and Otto Chandler, Clyde Sims, J. E. Williams, W. B. Deason and J. D. Williams.

Richer Soils Is Goal Of Program

A plan to make Alabama's soils richer and the profits of her Farmers Week, annual outing and short course for farm people at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, August 29, 30 and 31.

The program on soil building will come Tuesday afternoon and will include addresses by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, on "Winter Legume Program'; Director M. J. Funchess of the Experiment Station on "Experimental Information on Winter Legumes"; Dr. J. S. Wittmeier of Oneonta, president, and M. L, Robinson of Cullman, chairman, Agricultural Committee, Alabama Bankers Association, on "The Banker and the Soil Building Program."

Concerted action by bankers, farmers, and county agents is expected to come from the program with the result that added attention will be given to planting vetch and winter peas and terracing in Alabama. Vetch and winter peas add nitrogen and humus to soil.

In addition to the discussion on soil building, Farmers Week will include a varied program of instruction and recreation. Plans are being made to entertain 1,000 farm men and women, representing all counties of the state. Ten or more leading farm men and ten or more leading farm women are expected from each county.

Annual meetings of the Farm Bureau and Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs will be held during the three days.

An entertainment feature will be a free picture show, Will Rogers in "The State Fair," in which the actor and humorist plays the part of a farmer.

MINOOKA

There will be preaching next Saturday night and Sunday morning at Mud Town by Rev. Green, the pastor.

Sunday school each Sunday morning at ten o'clock; Epworth League Sunday night at 7:30; prayer meeting every Thursday night at 7:30. Everyone is cordially invited to each service.

There will be an ice-cream supper Saturday night, September 2, at the church for the benefit of the church. We want everyone to come and help us out and have a good time.

Quite a number of our people are attending the revival at Providence this week.

Mr. Alton Barefield of Mississippi is visiting his mother, Mrs. John Barefield.

Miss Marie Anderson, who has been visiting in Birmingham, has returned home.

Mrs. R. A. Barnett is visiting her son, Austin, in Union Grove.

Mr. Ira Grant and Mr. Edgar Barnett attended the singing at Mineral Springs last Sunday.

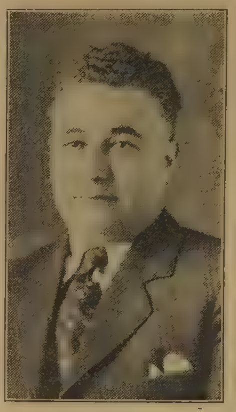
LOCAL MERCHANT ADVISES TO BUY COTTON GOODS NOW

M. Lande Issues A Timely Warning And Tells Of New Taxes



M. LANDE

The time-worn urge "now is the time to buy" and "buy now" were brought out and emphasized this week by Mr. M. Lande, proprietor of The Leader, one of Clanton's large and popular dry goods stores, in a statement to a representative of the News.

Mr. Lande went on to state that beginning on August 31 there are new taxes to be placed on all cotton goods, whether they are in a place of business on the shelves, or on the road to the retailers store. These taxes are called the floor tax and processing tax. In business in Clanton for quite a number of years and being constantly in touch with the markets on dry goods, shoes and clothing, Mr. Lande is in a position to know the facts on such matters and is able to pass them on to his customers.

"Nevertheless," Mr. Lande stated, "the wise buyer will get busy before this tax goes into effect and make purchases of items they need now, or will need in the future. I have taken steps to see that my customers will be taken care of as best possible as I always try to carry as complete a stock as possible the year round, and at present am receiving new Fall goods."

Mr. Lande is classed as one of the most prominent merchants in this section, and his store is doing considerable work now, making arrangements to take care of the large stock of new Fall and Winter clothing. He has recently returned from several of the important clothing markets in Chicago, St. Louis and other places where he is able to personally select the goods he wishes to offer his customers in this section, and take advantage of savings and special offers at the markets. In doing this, he stated, he is able to pass these savings on to his customers.

In this issue of the News there appear an advertisement from The Leader in which they are offering several of the many bargains to be found in their store. Mr. Lande says watch the paper for his advertisements and take advantage of the money-saving values he will offer to the public in the coming months.

MISS ODINE THOMAS BECOMES BRIDE OF REV. LEE GALLMON

The marriage of Miss Gladys Odine Thomas, formerly of Birmingham, to the Rev. Rawdon Lee Gallmon was beautifully solemnized at the Liberty Hill Baptist church, near Clanton, Saturday afternoon, August 19, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The Rev. Homer Carroll read the wedding vows.

Mrs. Harris Hardy and Miss Mary Ellis gave the nuptial music. Mrs. Norman O'Neal, sister of the bride, attending as Matron of honor, was becomingly gowned in blue organdy with hat and accessories to match, and wore a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds. Therman Gallmon, brother of the groom served as best man.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the Rev. Gallmon. The bride was lovely in a gown of white triple sheer crepe with hat and accessories to match, and wore a shoulder corsage of white rosebuds and sweet peas.

Soon after the ceremony Rev. and Mrs. Gallmon left on their bridal trip.

Marie Marks, 17-year-old St. Louis girl, was named "Miss Missouri" in a state-wide bathing beauty contest.

Pleasant Valley

Our revival begins at this place next Saturday. Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby will do the preaching. Everybody has an invitation to attend.

NEGRO LOSES FOOT WHEN JUMPING FROM A TRAIN

Young Simmons, 30-year-old negro, lost his right foot Saturday night when a weak shoe sole gave way as he jumped from a fast moving freight going south at Clanton about 8:45 p.m. His right foot was caught under the moving train and was practically crushed off near the ankle. He was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital by a Spigener ambulance where his leg was amputated a short distance above the ankle.

He had been employed on an extra crew on the L & N road, and said he was intending to go to his home at Wadsworth, Ala.

ENTERPRISE 4-H CLUB NEWS

The Enterprise 4-H club went on a field trip Wednesday, August 16. It may seem late for that, but a better estimate of the crop was made. The club started from Mr. J. B. Boyd's about 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Swimming and lunch were had at Bakers pond.

All the crops are in good condition and a good yield will be had in spite of wet weather and boll weevils. The judges decided the best cotton was that of Clovis Rushing and Leonard Eiland.

Resolutions Of Masonic Conference

At the recent Chilton County Masonic Conference, held in Billingsley, Ala., the following resolutions were adopted:

To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Members of the Chilton County Masonic Conference:

We, your committee on resolutions, make this report:

Be it resolved by the Chilton County Masonic Conference, in session at Billingsley, Alabama, this the 13th day of July, 1933, as follows:

1. That we appreciate to the fullest extent the hospitality and splendid entertainment given the Conference by Century Lodge No. 567;
2. That we extend to the Eastern Star Sisters and the ladies of Billingsley, Alabama, our thanks for the splendid way and manner in which they have provided a most bountiful repast for the Conference;
3. That we appreciate the instructions given by District Lecturer, Robert B. Keith, which has been most helpful to the Conference and to the entire membership. His forcible delivery in giving the instructions has been an inspiration to the entire Conference;
4. The Conference extends to Brother H. A. Harris, Secretary, its sincere thanks for his untiring efforts to make it a success, and for his promptness in attendance thereon.
5. We extend our thanks and appreciation to Brother C. D. Foshee for his enthusiastic work in behalf of the Conference;
6. That the visiting brothers have our sincere thanks for their presence and each of them is hereby extended a welcome to be with us in all our future sessions.

STORRS ADVISES SMALLER CANS FOR SORGHUM SYRUP

Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture, is advising Alabama farmers to pack their sorghum syrup in half-gallon cans instead of gallon cans and "not dump it for less than the opening market price of 40 cents per gallon."

"It has been found that there is a greater demand in Birmingham and other large cities for sorghum syrup in half gallon cans than in larger cans and the consumers are willing to pay more for half gallon cans," he said. "This being true farmers should pack their syrup in half gallon cans if they expect to dispose of it in such way as the market demands."

Commissioner Storrs also advised that the opening market price of syrup in Birmingham was 40 cents per gallon in gallon cans. "I hope that no farmer will dump syrup for less than this opening price," he declared.

Build Up Health and Pains Go Away

WOMEN who suffer from weakness often have many aches and pains which a stronger state of health would prevent.

Women in this condition should take Cardui, a purely vegetable tonic that has been in use for over 50 years.

Take Cardui to improve the general tone of the system in cases of run-down health and "tired nerves." Women have found, in such cases, that Cardui helps them to overcome pains and make the monthly periods easier.

CARDUI is safe and wholesome for women of all ages. Try it!

Penalty of Excess Fat

Although she has lost but 7 lbs. of her overweight, this woman finds that 7 lbs. has made a remarkable difference to her.

Her letter reads: "I am 53 years old and my height is 5 ft. Last year I weighed 154 lbs. I have been taking a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts, making no change in my diet. Now I am less round the hips, and only weigh 147 lbs. dressed. But I feel lighter and can now run upstairs, which before used to make me gasp for breath. Everyone says how well and fit I look."—(Miss) J. H.

Kruschen is an ideal blend of 6 separate salts which help body organs to function properly and maintain a splendid degree of health—it builds up energy and strength while you're reducing to normal weight.

Get Kruschen Salts at any live druggist in the world—a jar lasts 4 weeks and costs not over 85 cents. adv.

Are your 'lighted streets' in partial eclipse?

MOST streets are only partially lighted. The lamps make pools of light which are surrounded by stretches of shadow.

But properly lighted streets are those where there is a continuous light-path instead of occasional light pools — where whole thoroughfares from building to building are one strip of uniform illumination.

Such properly lighted streets—free from dark stretches of shadow are a protection—a valuable safeguard against traffic accidents and holdup men, who find no invitation in streets properly flooded with light.

Ally yourself with a movement for more lighting in your city. It is universally conceded that good lighting pays, by preventing crime and accident, by enhancing real estate values, by accelerating business activities.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. We had a large crowd Sunday.

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a large crowd. The singing was called to order by the chairman, Mr. G. B. Billingsley. Prayer was led by Mr. M. D. Dickey, after which the directors sang one song each. The directors for the afternoon were Messrs. F. I. Popwell, Clint Billingsley, W. J. Cox, Reuben Devaughn, Cornelius Hand, Fonzie Coe, Coy Lockhart, Houston Melton, Herman Culpepper, Soverign Dickey and Misses Lorena Billingsley, Mildred Coe, Ruby Weldon, Myrtle Powell, Agnes Rolland, Gladys Wyatt, Euna Powell, Marylove Parrish, Cathryn Coe and Elizabeth Culp. Organists for the afternoon were Misses Christine Driver, Dessie Wyatt and Prof. F. I. Popwell. We were glad to have the visitors with us and we invite them back. Our singing society meets every third Sunday afternoon, and we invite all the visitors who will to come back and help us.

Our singing school closed here Saturday, with Mr. Emmett Wilson as teacher. We sure do appreciate the work Mr. Wilson did here. We feel like he has done lots of good.

Misses Lucile Powell, Pauline Sisk and Mr. Hughey Carroll were the dinner guests of Mrs. M. D. Dickey Sunday.

Misses Euna Powell and Gladys Wyatt were the guests of Miss Mildred Coe Sunday.

Misses Dessie and Gladys Wyatt were the guests of Miss Lorena Billingsley Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Reese Lockhart were the guests of Mrs. Gertrude Driver Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sisk were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Billingsley Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Rush Baker spent the day in Prattville Sunday.

Miss Gladys Wyatt was the Saturday night guest of her sister, Mrs. M. M. Baker.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR LITTLE MISS COBERN

On last Thursday Mrs. Jeff Cobern of Maplesville, Route 1, celebrated her little daughter, Christine's, seventh birthday with a picnic on Gin Creek near her home. All the children of Mulberry church were invited and a number of grown-ups accompanied the children. There were between forty-six and fifty present.

At nine o'clock the fun began. Miss Glynder Oden assisted Mrs. Cobern with the program of the day. Wading in the pretty, shallow creek was enjoyed first, and last by all. Such fun!! Bean bag, ole witch and other games were played. Many helped to roast weiners, boil kraut, cook eggs and ham. What delicious sandwiches and cakes there were. There was also one large birthday cake.

At noon the children gathered around the table. They said verses honoring Christine and Miss Oden gave an appropriate toast for all to Christine. Then all partook of the feast.

The most entertaining feature of the day, provoking much laughter and glee was the appearance of Ancy and Betsy, two small negro dummy dolls. They were fixed on Carroll and Evelyn Cobern's hands, brother and sister of the honoree. These dolls really knew their antics. Next was a bean bag contest. Many children won balloons. Following this was an amusing game of ball between the older girls present and the small boys. What a battle! The score ending was 6-5 in favor of the girls.

Last was the watermelon cutting. All took part.

"May Christine have many such birthdays" were the expressions of the guests as they departed.

ing a grand total for licensed and unlicensed institutions of $22,301,927,000 or a shrinkage of $999,047,000 in value and 129 in number.

The June 30 resources compared with $22,367,711,000 for 6,150 national banks on June 30, 1932.

At the end of June the licensed national banks had total deposits of $16,774,115,000 a decrease of $1,743,992,000 since December and a drop of $686,798,000 in the year. But the unlicensed banks had deposits of $1,028,347,000.

Deposits of the licensed institutions included demand deposits of $7,894,127,000 and time deposits of $6,216,917,000. The latter figure included savings deposits of $4,281,521,000 and represented 12,023,986 accounts.

The book value of the capital stock of the licensed banks aggregated $1,515,647,000 and represented authorized and paid in capital stock of $1,517,205,000. This figure included $50,973,000 class "A" preferred stock; $2,800,000 class "B" stock, and $1,436,432,000 common stock.

Surplus funds of $940,598,000, net undivided profit of $235,600,000 and reserve for contingencies of $164,7009,000, a total of $1,340,907,000, showed decreases in the six and twelve months of $269,001,000 and $369,958,000 respectively. The authorized and paid in capital stock of the unlicensed banks was $117,878,000.

Money borrowed by the licensed banks amounted to $117,855,000 which was $230,741,000 less than reported in December and $389,035,000 less than in June, 1932. The banks also reported they had increased their holdings of United States Government securities to $4,031,576,000, an advance of $270,690,000 in six months and $678,910,000 in the year.

sibility of securing 100 per cent compliance in each community. Every day until the drive starts should see intense activity in giving information concerning the purposes to be accomplished. Local committees should be enlisting their workers to be thoroughly prepared. They will not fail to induce every consumer as well as employer to sign up and provide themselves with the insignia. Members in charge of speakers' bureaus should provide able men and women to address all special and scheduled meetings." Washington headquarters is extremely anxious to hear without delay from committees which have not responded definitely to appeals for prompt action.

Specific information as to steps that must be taken to receive the Blue Eagle are contained in a statement issued by Gen. Thomas E. Hammond, executive director of the President's reemployment program, as follows:

To all employers not working under codes that have been approved by the President, there are three methods to be pursued:

1. Sign the President's Reemployment Agreement without change or modification and mail it to the nearest district office of the Department of Commerce, the address of which can be obtained from any post office or chamber of commerce; put the provisions of the agreement into operation immediately; sign the certificate of compliance and hand it to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you your Blue Eagle.

2. If your line of business has submitted a code and the NRA has temporarily approved hours and wages to be in effect until the code itself is approved by the President, do as above with this endorsement added to the certificate of compliance: "To the extent of NRA consent as announced, we have complied with the President's agreement by conforming with the substituted provisions of the code submitted for the —— trade or industry." Hand this to your local postmaster, who will post your name on the honor roll and hand you the Blue Eagle.

3. If neither 1 nor 2 applies and you feel you should file a petition for relief, sign the President's Reemployment Agreement and mail it to the district office of the Department of Commerce. If you find you cannot comply with most of its provisions, then prepare a petition to the NRA asking for a stay or postponement of those provisions which would produce an "unavoidable hardship." Submit this petition to a trade association of your industry; or, if none, to your local chamber of commerce or such other organization as can properly vouch for the facts. If officially accepted by one of the above, add the following to the face of your certificate before presenting it to the postmaster: "Except for those interim provisions regarding wages and hours which have been approved by the —— association or organization." Then the postmaster will authorize you to use the Blue Eagle. This last procedure may take some time, and is, of course, subject to reversal when your petition is reviewed by the NRA.

tically every office in the state will have to be filled next year, beginning with governor and going on down the line through that of precinct constable. Every twelve years in this state there comes a landslide of places to be filled and 1934 will be one of the occasions. This is caused by the fact that some of the jobs are for four years and others are for six, and when they happen to expire at the same time there is plenty of voting going on.

In addition to the governor, every other executive office in the state will be voted on next year. Coming on down the line of state jobs, all circuit judges and circuit solicitors must be elected and, as is always the case every two years, all congressmen will also be named. Members of the state legislature are also to be elected in 1934.

Getting closer home to the county places, next year will be the biggest election year that has occurred here in many a moon. A probate judge, circuit clerk, tax collector, tax assessor, two county commissioners, and two members of the county board of education, superintendent of education, and possibly a few others that have been overlooked, must be named in next year's voting, and present indications are that there will be no shortage of candidates.

BUSINESS MEN HEAR SPEAKER EXPLAIN NRA

Representative Of Dept. Of Commerce Visits Clanton Tuesday

Merchants, business men, lumbermen and others met at the court house in Clanton Tuesday afternoon to hear a representative of the United States Department of Commerce, Hon. J. E. Addicks, who is district manager of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and executive secretary of the District Recovery Board of Alabama.

Mr. Addicks opened his statements by telling the gathering of the existing conditions in the country, the origin of the National Recovery Act, and its intentions. Following these remarks, which were thouroughly interesting to those present, Mr. Addicks opened the meeting to all for a discussion of problems of individual employers and those of industries, inviting questions.

There were approximately one hundred business men present from all sections of the county, giving a splendid representation of the business life of the county.

Mr. Addicks was kept busy for sometime following his preliminary remarks, answering questions from various men at the meeting relative to the requirements of codes affecting their particular line of business or work.

CLINICS FOR PREVENTION OF DIPTHERIA TO BE HELD HERE

Schedule Opens Next Week; Tests And Advice To Be By Person From State Department Of Health And Without Charge; Death Rate Is High

A schedule of diptheria control (prevention) clinics to be held in Chilton County during the coming week, has been annouced by the State Department of Health, through Dr. O. L. Chason, who is working in connection with the Rockefeller Foundation.

There will be absolutely no cost whatsoever to anyone for the tests or preventative toxoid that will be given at these clinics, which are to be held for the testing of persons to determine if they are susceptible to diptheria or not, and if so, to administer the toxoid.

The death rate in Chilton County in 1932 was 2.8 per 10,000 population, was fourth (with another county) highest in the State, and highest for any county as far south in the State. The State death rate was .75 per 10,000 (usually given as 7.5 per 100,000.)

Of the cases reported from Chilton County by age during the last five years, approximately 50% were in persons under six years, 34% in perosns from six to eleven years, 9% between twelve and twenty years, 6% between twenty and thirty years, and 1% over thirty years of age.

The preparation of toxoid to be given at the clinics is a new preparation found highly efficient in one dose. This greatly simplifies immunization, and should be a new stimulus to neglectful parents.

The following schedule is announced:

Providence School, Beat 16, Monday, September 4th from 10 A. M. to 12 M.

Thorsby School, Tuesday, September 5th from 9 A. M. to 12 M.

Isabella School, Tuesday, September 5th from 2 P. M. to 4 P. M.

Jemison School, Wednesday, September 6th from 9 A.M. to 12 M.

Smith's School, Wednesday, September 6th from 2 P. M. to 4 P. M.

Clanton Grammar School, Thursday, September 7th from 9 A. M. to 1 P.M.

Mars Hill School, Friday, September 8th, from 2 P. M. to 4 P. M.

EDITORIAL

THE TURN-OVER TO THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IS FAR-REACHING

Outstanding evidence of Republicans in Chilton County turning to the Democratic Party comes to light now and then in various ways and by various actions. This is indeed most pleasing to those who have stood by the Democratic Party and fought to uphold it in this county.

One of the most recent signs of this gradual turn-over to the Democratic Party came last week when one of the former Republican office holders of this county, a man who even up to ninety days ago voted the straight Republican ticket, was given a job with the State of Alabama.

We refer to Mr. A. P. (Fonza) Vinson, who has occupied a bright spot in the Republican Party of this county having held office as a Republican county commissioner for a number of years, being elected on the Republican ticket, and sharing in the distribution of bouquets in county affairs by the Republican Party.

Knowing Mr. Vinson as we believe we do, and knowing that he has faithfully supported the Republican party and voted the Republican ticket, and that he would be holding a Republican office as commissioner now had he not been defeated by another of his party in a recent election, we certainly could not allow his change of mind to go without making some mention of it.

While Mr. Vinson has not made any official notice of his change to the Democratic Party, we take it as conclusive evidence, his acceptance of a Democratic job with the State, being appointed by a Democratic Governor who promised that Democrats and Democrats only would be given State jobs if he was elected. A check-up among the outstanding Democrats of this county disclosed that none had given Mr. Vinson a recommendation to the State, so in view of that, we are inclined to wonder if Mr. Vinson confessed to the State authorities his political mistakes in the past and promised to become a Democrat, support the Democratic Party and abide by its policies.

At any rate, we extend congratulations to Mr. Vinson on his decision to become affiliated with the Democratic Party of Chilton County and his acceptance of a Democratic job with the great Democratic State of Alabama, to show that he had made such a change in politics.

We do not know Mr. Vinson's reasons for his sudden change but we want to assure him that we will be glad to allow him space in this newspaper to make a statement to his friends here, as we believe they will be quite interested in knowing how it feels to change from the Republican party to the Democratic party and receive immediately, blessings of State officials along with a job.

CHICAGO JUDGE SUSTAINS THEN ADMINISTERS NRA

Chicago.—Judge H. M. Fisher upheld the constitutionality of NRA in promptly denying an injunction to La Mode garment factory of this city against striking employees. The court held that the company was operating in violation of the Recovery Act in not fixing minimum wages and maximum hours and also in "not recognizing the existence of a national emergency as set out in the act itself." He ordered cessation of the strike pending acceptance by both sides of a 40-hour week and minimum wage of $12 a week. The evidence showed, and the company admitted, it had been working its employees 52 hours a week "at from $6 to $8.50 per week."

SIX CHILTON PEOPLE HURT IN ACCIDENTS

Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Duffie And Miss Vivian Gray Hurt Near Indianapolis

Six Chilton County people were hurt in automobile accidents during the past few days. Among them were Miss Vivian Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newt Gray of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duffie of Mountain Creek and two children, Lawrence, age 12, and Ruby, age 9.

The accident in which these were injured happened four miles north of Indianapolis, Ind., Monday, according to daily press reports.

Mr. Duffie and his party have been making a motor trip to Des Moines, Iowa through to Chicago and other points. He was elected as a delegate to the national convention of rural letter carriers at Des Moines and had attended this convention. They were en route home when the accident happened.

The press report stated that their automobile was struck by a bus. Information from Miss Gray's parents stated that they were expected to arrive home Wednesday. Reports Wednesday morning stated the accident was not serious, and that Mrs. Duffie was the most painfully hurt.

The sixth person was Miss Virsie Blankenship, of Clanton Route Four who was injured when the automobile in which she was riding overturned in a ditch just south of Thorsby, last Sunday afternoon. She was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital for treatment.

REVIVAL WILL BEGIN SOON AT METH. CHURCH

Pastor To Be Assisted By Pastor From Bessemer; Begins Sept. 3rd

The Rev. R. P. Cochran, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church announces a revival meeting to start Sunday, September 3rd. He is to be assisted by the Rev. Hershel Hommar, of Bessemer, who will work with the young people during the revival. Rev. Cochran will do the preaching.

The services are to begin with special music by various quartets, duets and solos. Congregational singing will also be emphasized. Subjects of the sermons will be given each night for the following night, Rev. Cochran stated.

"We are very anxious to have every Christian in town to cooperate with us during the meeting," Rev. Cochran stated, "and a cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend each service. Clanton needs a revival. Pray that we shall have one."

Services each night beginning at seven forty-five o'clock. Come and bring someone with you.

Highway Links Other Good Roads With Sections North And South

Activities in the interest of the paving of the highway from Clanton to Selma, by way of Maplesville, Stanton and Plantersville are increasing and considerable work has been done toward this matter this week

A meeting, composed of representative citizens of Clanton was held Monday morning at the court house to discuss the matter and map out proper steps to take toward securing Federal funds for the paving of the Selma highway

Recently there were twelve millions of dollars allocated to Alabama by the Federal government for the building of permanent roads, and it was stated Monday through a communication from Congressman W. B. Oliver, that approximately nine millions of this have already been slated, leaving about three million which is to be used on secondary roads and not on Federal aid projects

There are no Federal aid projects in Chilton County that have not been

Verbena Youth Gets Letter From President

'Scooter" Rutland, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Rutland of Verbena, Ala., is only nine year old, but in this historic year of 1933, he may properly be classed as a cotton producer. True, his crop consists of but two short rows. It was three. But that was before he happened to overhear his father and neighbors discussing President Roosevelt's desire that a part of the cotton crop be taken out of production

Dispensing with the delay and formality of a contract or any assurance of compensation, Scooter promptly proceeded to pull up every stalk in one of his three rows, thus winning fame as being Alabama's first cotton farmer to actually take a part of his crop out of production. But that is not all. Just a few days ago Scooter received a letter—a personal letter. Here it is

"White House.

"Dear Scooter:

"I appreciate your loyalty in removing one-third of your cotton. Such influence on your part will help to put over the economy program

"You are a fine lad, and I appreciate your example to your elders.

Spend And Save Now

A recent Dun & Bradstreet report accentuated a fact of the utmost importance.

For a number of months business recovery has continued without recession, and present signs do not indicate that any recession will occur in the near future.

In other words, we are not having a "rise in the depression" now. We are actually throwing off depression. The wise property-owner will do well to think that over. It means that the country is through with bargain prices for commodities and services, that the terrific oversupply of goods and labor isn't going to last much longer. It means higher prices. It means that if we put off fixing our houses and business property or rebuilding the tottering garage for another few months, we are going to pay a lot more for what we get.

Yes, it's time to build, to improve, to repair. It will put money in your pocket, save valuable property from going to pieces—and demonstrate your faith in the maxim that Investment and Employment are Cheaper and Better than Charity.

The Cash Value Of Safety

While the most important phase of the accident problem is obviously the unnecessary toll of deaths and injuries, there is another phase that should not be overlooked—the economic one.

Every accident costs money. Every accident places a burden upon the average pocketbook. And the total of costs for a year runs into many millions. Accident prevention, as a result, pays cash dividends.

In industry it has been the inevitable experience that a low accident rate is accompanied by higher efficiency. When a great many accidents occur in an industry, the morale of workers is seriously impaired. There is a distinct slowing down in their operations. There is discontent—that most potent of all disturbers. And there is very likely a red-ink showing at the end of the month or the quarter.

During the past decade industry has made fine strides in safety. The roster of major businesses which operate for a year at a stretch with hardly an accident of importance is constantly growing. And those are the businesses which we know best—which are most stable, most efficient and most profitable.

In the future, safety can earn its greatest dividends on the highways. We complain because casualty insurance rates go up—and we overlook the fact that they went up because accidents increased in number and severity and the financial drain on insurance companies grew accordingly. Automobile rates, like home and industrial accident rates, are in the hands of the public, which increases or decreases the hazard on which the rate is based.

Every American should resolve to help alleviate tragedy and at the same time fatten his pocketbook by being a safer citizen.

Accuracy In Advertising

When one reflects on the old days of misleading advertisements when anything and everything that might sell a nickel's worth of goods was permitted by most newspapers, it is refreshing to see such an advertisement as appeared in one of the Birmingham newspapers Tuesday over the signature of a large department store of that city.

The store a few days before had advertised a certain brand of motor oil, offering 20 quarts for $2.18 and stating that the oil would ordinarily cost 30c to 35c per quart. Tuesday it ran a correction advertisement in which it stated that the original statement was an inaccuracy and if any purchaser had bought oil on account of it he was urged to return it, though part had been used, for full credit.

With the reputation of the store for fairness and honesty in its business transactions, probably no one who bought the oil would have ever thought anything about the statement contained in the advertisement. But the store itself discovered the inaccuracy and promptly took steps to correct any false impression that it might have left in the minds of its customers.

Years ago the public put little faith in what it saw in advertisements. So many extravagant claims were made by the advertisers as to the value or merit of their goods that the buyers merely took them all with the proverbial grain of salt and really expected to be misled if they did not purchase with both eyes open. In certain instances the government took charge of the situation and passed laws to prevent inaccurate advertising. These cases, however, were confined principally to patent medicines and other items that might affect the health of the public. But it remained for the advertisers themselves and the newspapers to build up high standards of ethics in advertising that have now reached the point where a misleading advertisement is extremely rare. Even then, it is generally the result of a typographical error or an honest mistake on the part of one preparing the copy.

Few advertisers ever deliberately attempt to insert copy in a newspaper that will deceive the public and no reputable newspaper will knowingly accept such copy. The result is that the buying public has come more and more to depend on the advertising columns of newspapers to acquaint itself with the value and quality of its necessities and luxuries. It knows that the old days of deception in advertising is a thing of the past among high-class establishments and decent newspapers, and it also knows that if such a deception unwittingly occurs the advertiser and the newspaper will promptly take steps to correct it, as happened in the recent case in Birmingham.

—Brewton Standard.

Paving The Selma Highway

Of the twelve million dollars given Alabama by the Federal government for highways, only about three million is left for further use by the state.

Now is the time for special emphasis to be placed on the importance of the paving, or hard-surfacing, of the much-traveled and important highway leading from Clanton, to Selma, via Maplesville, Stanton and Plantersville. This road is of no little significance to travelers and citizens of Chilton County. It connects this section and the northern part of the state with a shorter route through to Mobile and other nearby points.

Representative citizens of this county met Monday to discuss the matter and unanimously agreed, with little hesitation, that with approximately three million dollars of this Federal highway money left, serious consideration should be given this particular stretch of road between Clanton and Selma.

These ctizens who met Monday are going on record as pushing this matter. Congressmen and Senators will find a great deal of favor in the eyes of citizens of Chilton and Dallas counties if they render assistance to secure the paving of this highway. A recent communication from our dependable Congressman, Hon. W. B. Oliver, leaves no question as to his interest in getting this road paved if the citizens of this county wish it. Time must not be lost in pointing out to highway officials and others connected, the important part the Selma highway plays in traffic through Alabama.

We hear some unfavorable criticism, usually of an involved nature, of the fact that the consumer must pay the bill for the degree of reemployment that will produce industrial recovery. Occasionally a critic, who perhaps has not become adjusted to very materially changed conditions in our country, will leave the impression that this obvious fact constitutes some sort of unjust discrimination against a particular class of citizens.

Let us consider a moment: Just as many industrialists have come to a realization during the past few weeks that the workers they laid off cannot continue as their customers and that they in fact had been their customers; so also the man from whom we buy foodstuffs, furniture, automobiles, radios, clothing, and anything else of the innumerable products we sorely need to buy, is also a consumer. He likewise must buy his supplies from others. The manufacturer is not only a consumer of raw materials in his plant, but he is a consumer of all that all of us consume away from his plant.

So a little deduction brings us to the realization that when we say the consumer must pay the bill we actually meaen that every American citizen and resident of American territory must carry his share of the increased costs incident to reemployment and business and industrial recovery.

Certainly no class is discriminated against. All are in the same boat.

Another Good Idea

While we were thinking of the splendid season for politicians next year, we also thought of something else that we want to call to the attention of our readers. That is the little matter of subscriptions. Of course you will want to keep in touch with what's going on and get all the propaganda that is going to be sent out, and about the best way to do this is to read your newspaper.

Lay aside enough to pay your subscription to the News when it expires, or maybe it has already expired. You might see about that, too. August is a dull month for business for newspaper and a dollar will look mighty big to us now.

An Ever-Widening Circle

There has been much discussion of how many people will be given work as a consequence of NRA's establishment of a work week of 35 hours in factories and 40 hours in the so-called white-collar pursuits.

The National Industrial Conference Board attempts to give a partial answer. It estimates that 838,000 additional factory workers would be needed to maintain the output as of May of this year, and 841,000 workers in "other pursuits." This is a total of 1,680,000.

The figure does not, of course, make allowances for increased activities which would result in many ways from the return of this number to work. Nor does it include those who are returning to work as a result of the general upturn in business.

Apparently there is no way to make a definite calculation. Higher payrolls bring increased consumption, and increased consumption brings more jobs. The theory is that the recovery process will operate in an ever-widening circle. — Selma Times.

Great Work Well Done

Progress made in public health work during the past twenty years has been remarkable and more than justifies the sums spent in this direction, the outlays being meagre enough in most instances.

Public health work is largely a work of prevention. It expresses the thought that to keep a well person well is infinitely better than to effect a cure after illness has been permitted to develop.

In consequence of the highly intelligent works of prevention that have been carried on, many diseases that once claimed numerous victims have been brought under control, while improved sanitary conditions and increased knowledge concerning care of the physical being, have served to improve the public health and to extend the span of life.

The work has been and is of special importance in its relation to childhood. The health of little ones is more carefully guarded today than ever in the history of the nation, this guardianship touching not only the normal exposure of the child to disease but providing safeguards against the ills due to bad teeth, poor eyesight and similar affections that often escaped observation in former times.

A work so fundamental to human happiness should not be permitted to languish as it is now doing in our state.

"It is significant that the two most regulated and controlled economic activities in this country, the incorporated banks and the railroads, suffered most from the depression."—George E. Sokolsky.

And it won't be a bad idea to get to thinking about your poll tax right now.

The goal is release from the handicaps and terrors which have prevailed all too long. It is a goal toward which all of us are ready to march.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A Georgia man was driving along the highway and came to a narrow bridge across a small river. About the middle of the bridge he met a man driving a calf. The calf balked and would neither pass the traveler's car, or turn around and get off the bridge in front of the car. After much coaxing, pulling and beating, the man declared himself unable to budge the little ox. He suggested that the driver of the car race his engine and toot his horn at the same time and may be that would frighten the little rascal out of his tracks. This was done and the calf leaped the bridge banister and fell into the swollen stream. The farmer stood there looking wishfully after his calf as it went floating away. The traveler observing the sad look of the owner of the calf, opened his mouth in words of apology, said he, "Partner, I beg your pardon for scaring your calf off the bridge. I did not blow my horn until you suggested that I do so." The man replied, "You are correct sir in saying that I told you to blow your horn in the face of my calf, but to be honest, don't you think that you gave a terrible big toot for such a little calf." Doubtless you have heard many a speaker introduced to an audience, and after the speech was over, you have said to yourself, "That was a terrible big toot for such a little calf." There is always keen disappointment when the introduction is so much larger than the speech.

There is much irrigation in the state of Montana. For years there was a great loss of fish life as they went down the irrigation ditches and perished in the meadows and grain fields. To prevent this loss in recent years laws have been passed to force the ditch owners to place a noisy paddle wheel in the mouth of the ditch to frighten back the fish. Likewise has God placed a warning at the mouth of every intake of sin, that He might frighten back those who are inclined to leave the stream that flows toward the throne of God. God make us into noisy paddle wheels that we may frighten sinners from the ways that lead down to death.

I was traveling through a strange section in Alabama and came to the forks of the road. Each fork seemed to be making the right direction, but a doubt as to which road I should travel arose in my mind and I took my doubts to a man who lived nearby. He warned me against taking the left hand road saying, "That road will get you into more trouble than you want as a traveler." That settled it with me and you may know that I took the right hand and played safe. Often we come to the fork of the road in our travels day by day. There are two courses that we could follow. We have doubts as to which course will be better for us to follow. What do you do about your doubts? Do you settle them so that you will be able to play safe? Many people follow their doubts and get into trouble. You have a doubt about going to Sunday baseball, to the Sunday picture shows. You have two roads before you, why not play safe and keep the Sabbath holy unto God? When you have doubts you endanger your soul life when you follow them. Better settle your doubts before you travel in that direction. Would you take your family over a dangerous bridge when you doubted its strength to carry you over? Any man who follows his doubts will have more trouble than he wants along the way of life.

The Persians negotiated for many asses as burden bearers in their army. Going into battle with the Scythians these asses were kept back in the rear of the army. When the Persians engaged in the battle with the Scythian enemy, the excitement and the noise of the struggle, excited the asses behind the tents and they set up a tremendous noise by continual braying. The Scythians heard that noise and not knowing how or why it was produced, they became frightened and retreated. The Persians won the battle by the braying of asses. The most of us have seen victories won, not by valor and courage, but by the braying of asses. It is awful to think that men today are frightened out of their wits because of the braying that is going on behind the battle lines of life. Braying asses bring defeat to many a noble cause.

THE ANGLER'S SAINT

One of the most quaint and lovable characters in history was Izaak Walton, whose fame rests principally upon a notable treatise on fishing, called "The Compleat Angler," published 280 years ago. It has been written of him that "there is hardly a name in our literature even of the first rank, whose immortality is more secure, or whose personality is the subject of a more devoted cult."

This year is a sort of triple anniversary of Walton, as he was born in 1593, 340 year ago; published his most famous book in 1653, 280 years ago; died in 1683, 250 years ago.

It is also said of him that "multitudes who have never put a worm on a hook have been caught and securely held by his picture of and delights of the gentle craft, and by his easy, leisurely transcript of his own simple, peaceable, lovable and amusing character."

In addition to his "Angler," he wrote several charming volumes of biography dealing with the lives of distinguished personal friends, of whom he had many, most of whom were devotees of the piscatorial art.

In contrast with the vast majority of those who have gained lasting fame through war and strife, Walton has lived to charm succeeding generations by his gentleness, kindness and love of nature. He may well be considered the patron saint of fishermen.

When Donald Reamer, three, of Chicago, fell from the rear porch of his four-story house to a concrete walk, his only injury was the loss of several front teeth.

Some one tossed a package in John Lovci's yard at Wichita, Kan., who gingerly investigated and found several stolen bed quilts.

Letters To The Editor

ROOSEVELT IS FULFILLING MANY PROPHECIES

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please permit me to say a few words through your valuable paper. Since hearing our Congressman, Mr. Oliver, I have been moved to write more about the signs of the times. Mr. Oliver went on to say that Franklin D. Roosevelt was a God-sent man. He is not only sent, but was chosen and qualified for the job.

I was sorry to see no more people qut to listen to Mr. Oliver. It's bad to see people so party and creed bound that they refuse to hear the truth.

Well, friends, I wish to call your attention to some prophecy that I wrote about the first of 1932, concerning the Gentile Age. So I have been wondering what would be after the Gentile Age, so I have drawn this conclusion: That it will be justice and a square deal to all. Justice knows no class, party or creed, it will be a law for all. It's true that justice will not suit everybody. It will not suit the extortioner and the oppressor, but the great and notable day of the Lord has come whether we like it or not. It's here and if we don't mind we will be found fighting against it. Well, let's go back and review some of our figures that we made a year ago. We find in Matthew 1 and 1 that Christ was David in a spiritual sense. Also Matthew 22:43, in speaking of David and Babylon in a spiritual sense we find in Matthew 1:17 says, so all the generations from Abraham to David are 14 and from David until the carrying away into Babylon are 14 and from the carrying away into Babylon until Christ are 14. So we see from the birth of Christ, or from David, spiritually speaking until Christ is to reign here on earth are 28 generations. Now we find that 360 days make a prophetic year. We also find that 70 years make a generation. Multiply this 360 by 70 we have 25,200. Then multiply by 28 and we have 705, 600 days, which makes 1960 years. We find by the best authority that this 1960 years expired between the 5 and 10 of November, 1932.

We see that when Jesus was here He did not come to force justice or peace on earth. We find in Matthew 10:34, says think not that I am come to send peace on earth, I come not to send peace, but a sword. But we find that He has come this time to establish justice and peace, and it will be cut short in righteousness.

I think that God has chosen Mr. Roosevelt to lead the battle to victory. This is the army of Gideon, the great battle between righteousness and oppression. I believe that he represents the character mentioned in Revelations 19:11, which says and I saw heaven opened and behold a white horse and he that sat upon him was called faithful and true and in righteousness he doth judge and make war. His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns, and he had a name written that no man knew, but he himself and he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood, and his name is called the word of God and the armies which were in Heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean, and out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword that with it he should smite the nations, and he shall rule them with a rod of iron and he treadeth the winepress of the fierceness and wrath of almighty God and he hath on his vesture and on his thigh a name written king of kings and lord of lords.

Now symbolically speaking a horse means a leader or rather carrying the leader. Crowns mean honor. His vesture dipped in blood means a sacrificing justice or a square deal is the Word of God and the armies that followed him on white horses are people who are advocating the same thing or backing him. This name that no man knew but himself was his secret intention deep down in his heart that he had not revealed to the public. Really, too, he is preaching and acting the gospel for the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to them that believe. It's true that justice will not suit everybody. It won't suit the oppressor and crook. We find in Revelations 14th chapter and 18th verse where the angel was commanded to gather the grapes and to cast them into the great wine press and when it was trod a great quantity of blood came from the press. This, as I understand it, is a symbol of the end of the old system and order of things, or a judgment. This judgment is to tie or chain the hands of the oppressor who has had the right or has been allowed to shed innocent blood. This blood that came from the wine press is innocent blood.. It's not necessary to shoot or cut a man's throat to shed innocent blood. Any class or group of people that oppress or to extortion or to cause people to live hard and to go hungry and to go bare of clothes, and to have to eat the improper food, so as to cause death are guilty of shedding innocent blood; even the person that advocates a system of that kind is guilty of shedding innocent blood.

I hear of some of our good ministers going over the country teaching the people that our president is the beast that rose up out of the earth that had two horns like a lamb and the NRA is his mark. May God have pity on such poor creatures. We find that the mark of the beast or its number started in Solomon's temple. Solomon built a temple for God's people to rest in. He built it according to God's instructions, but that did not satisfy the people. They brought in 666 talents of gold to decorate it yearly. That is the figure head of the mark of the beast, the love of money, which is the root of all evil. We have worn it until we have worn it out and is ready to pass away. We are also nearing to emerge from the second death, but the oppressor and the extortioner and the crook and the rich are nearing the lake of fire which is the final destination of that class. So we have come to the point where John the Baptist was when he was in prison in Matthew 11:3, which says, and said unto him, art thou he that should come or do we look for another. Jesus answered and said unto them, go and shew John again those things which ye do hear and see the lame walk, the lepers are cleaned and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up and the poor have the gospel preached to them, and blessed is he whosoever shall not be offended in me. So that satisfied John.

So what do we hear in answer to this New Deal. The poor laborer is being relieved from 12 long hours to 8 with more pay, the prohibition law being repealed which in my judgment is the most unjust and oppressive law e imposed on a civilization, and there a lot of other good deeds too numerous to mention.

The Breeds of Chickens

During the first half of the seve teenth century several importations domestic fowl were made from En land, various parts of Europe and A Interest in the breeding of poultry increased, and definite attempts were made to develop standards of excellence for the various breeds of chickens that were then being bred. In 1849 the first poultry show was held in America, and this gave an impetus in the development of established standards for the various breeds. In 1874 the first Standard Perfection was printed. Since that ti the Standard, revised periodically, l served as the basis of guidance in bre ing operations in developing ma breeds and varieties. In many respect therefore, the standard-bred poultry industry served as a foundation for th subsequent development of the ind try. Poultry exhibitions have exercised a remarkable influence in maintaining high standards of excellence and in fostering the interests of the indust

The breeds are classified largely fr the standpoint of their origin, emphasis being placed upon the more important characteristics of economic importa in the more popular breeds and upon the unusual characteristics of those breeds and varieties bred largely for pleasure. The situation has devel so that it is now recognized that "sha makes the breed," (shape here indi ing very largely feather contou There is a large grain of truth in th old saying of poultry breeders t "shape makes the breed and color variety."

American Breeds of Chickens

A number of breeds have been veloped in America to meet the mar demand for a bird with a yellow sk clean shanks and adapted to the conditions of the country. All birds be longing to the American class are sp en of as being "clean legged"; that is, they have shanks free from feath They also have yellow shanks and sk except Java, and Jersey Black Gi which have yellow skins but bl shanks. All have red earlobes and brown-shelled eggs and are classed broody.

From the best records available appears that purely barred chicken relatively small size and usually with rose combs were common in many p of the eastern United States as early 1750. Interest in poultry breeding creased and more attention was g to the improvement of these bar chickens until they came to posses fair degree of uniformity in type were more or less the same size. T were recognized under the breed n "Dominique" but their popularity waned. In plumage color the D nique has a generally bluish or sl cast; the feathers in all sections barred with alternate, rather irregular light and dark bars. The markings l the clean-cut effect of the Barred l mouth Rock barring. The comb rose.

TOO LONG, TOO LONG, TOO LONG

Reverend Doctor Charles F. Banning pastor of the Richmond Hill Baptist church, Queens, N. Y., is reported the New York Times as having said Too long the church has stood outsid the door of the laboratory, waiting a few crumbs of faith: too long the church has stood in the market pl holding out its hat for a few pennies without asking how those pennies were gained; too long we ministers have been yes men to science and busin It is time we declared the whole tem is unChristian.

The Church Is Sick

The church today is like a sick patient. It needs to undergo an operat declared Rev. Frederick H. Bone of the Delavan Avenue Baptist church, Buffalo. The church has a fever he furt stated and its voice throughout world has dropped to a whisper. S one should break the news to the pastor that the church is afflicted with lepros and that nothing can cure organiz Christianity. For many years the Catholic organization has taught the people that their dead friends are conscious in a place called purgatory. Surely people who spare 51 minutes of their time each week reading and studying the word of God know that it says all the dead are in the grave (Jno. 5:28) and the dead praise not the Lord, neither any that go down into silence. The dead know not anything, Ps. 115:17; Eles. 9:5-10; and Ezekiel 18:3, says the soul that sinneth it shall die and first Jno. 5:12 says, He that hath the Son hath life and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

The Catholics want us to believe them rather than to believe God's word of truth. The Protestants have ceased to protest. The Catholic hierarchy has spent more than 1500 years in hiding the truth of God's word from the people.

Little Mary Ann Bentley Honored With Lovely Birthday Party.

The beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Upchurch was the scene of delight and gayety from whence came laughter of children at play, on the afternoon of August 17, when their charming little granddaughter, Mary Ann Bentley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bentley, was the darling little hostess to a host of her little playmates at a delightful and gay birthday party on her fourth birthday. The guests arrived at the hour of five and until six o'clock, games, contests and other amusements were enjoyed by all on the beautiful spacious lawn of the Upchurch home. The games were under the direction of Misses Carrie Foshee and Berniece Williams. After the play hour the guests all full of fun and with beaming smiles were called into the attractive dining room where in the center of a beautifully adorned table was a tempting white cake with four burning pink candles in the top. Ice cream was also served to the children. To the great delight of the guests balloons were given each as favors. The adorable little hostess was the delighted recipient of many beautiful gifts. Among the thirty guests enjoying this gayful hour of play were Sue Ann Powers, Tommie Sue Littlejohn, Jean Mullins, Jerry Alred, Frances McSwain, Sallye Gowan, Ina Saxon McCraey, Sarah Dean Smith, Mary Lee Gray, Barbara Burnett, Gwendolyn Atkinson, Ann Callen, Helen Hayes, Simms Higgins, Jack Elmore, Harry Williams, Billy Farrior, George McCain, Jr., Clifford Mullins, Jr., William Crutcheon Ross, Richard Reynolds, Billy Burnett, Pat Wyatt and others.

Former Chilton Man Is Banker In Athens

Purchase by Theodore E. William, Decatur banker, of a substantial stock interest in the Limestone County Bank of Athens was announced this week by the istitution's board of directors. Mr. Williams has bought the stock of J. E. Gray, former vice-president of the bank, who is retiring from the management.

In naming a successor to Mr. Gray, the directors elevated A. B. McWilliams, formerly cashier, to the position of executive vice-president of the bank. Mr. Williams will become cashier, filling the vacancy caused by Mr. McWilliams' promotion. Bruce Nelson will continue as president of the bank, and no changes will be made in the directorate except to add Mr. Williams to the board.

Associated with Mr. Williams in the purchase of Mr. Gray's stock is his brother, the Rev. J. O. Williams, for several years pastor of the First Baptist church of Athens but now continuing his ministry in Kentucky. J. H. Williams, deputy superintendent of banks for Alabama, is also a brother of the new Limestone County Bank official.

Theodore E. Williams, who with his wife will soon move here to reside, began his banking career in 1914 with the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton which he left in 1916 to become cashier of the First State Bank of Clanton. After serving in the World War, with the rank of second lieutenant, Mr. Williams removed to Decatur in 1919 and joined the Morgan County National Bank. He was elected assistant cashier of the Decatur institution in 1930 and its cashier in 1932.

Already widely known and well connected in this county, Mr. Williams and his wife will be given a cordial welcome to Athens.—Limestone Democrat.

Mr. Williams is a brother of Mr. Leonard Williams, local manager for the Alabama Power Company.

Lady Took Cardui And Got Rid of Pain In Her Side

"Last summer, my health was bad, so I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, of Norman, Okla. "My mother had given me Cardui in girlhood, so naturally I turned to it when I felt I needed it. I felt run-down and a general weakness. I had bad, dizzy headaches when everything would seem to dance before my eyes. My right side pained me so much, but since taking Cardui the pain has left me. I have taken several bottles of Cardui and have improved a great deal."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

We Co-operate

IN THE GREAT effort now being made to restore the prosperity of this country, the funeral directing profession and allied industries are doing their part.

The National Funeral Directors' Association, official organization of our calling, is cooperating with the National Recovery Administration by drawing up a code of fair practices whereby it may contribute to re-employment and higher wages. Similarly, the manufacturers of caskets and other funeral merchandise have formulated codes whereby their thousands of workers may have more work and better working conditions.

We are proud to have a part in this great national movement.

State Road Plans Undergo Changes

The partial program of road construction to be financed by federal funds recently allocated to Alabama, which was submitted to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads some time ago was returned by the Bureau early this week with suggested changes, it was learned recently, and has been sent back to the Bureau by Highway Director L. G. Smith who has acceded to some of the changes suggested and furnished additional information concerning others to U. S. District Engineer W. D. Snead.

Mr. Snead has been out of the State on official business throughout the week, but was to return to Montgomery Friday night. Upon his return he was to take the matter up for further consideration an daction, and it was expected the partial program would be forwarded to Washington within a few days for final approval by Bureau of Public Roads officials there.

The incomplete program comprises only projects on the Federal aid highway system, and the extension of Federal aid roads into and through municipalities. It does not include any secondary or feeder projects which are yet to be selected before the highway construction program for the State is completed.

As soon as Alabama's program is approved, Director Smith said, it wil lbe announced.

Labor Day May Set Peak For 1933 Traffic

Goodyear Dealer Warns Motorists To Have Brakes, Battery And Tires Checked

The annual "over Labor Day" automobile trip is expected to approach a new peak this year for American motorists. As a result of NRA activity and its resultant shorter working periods with increased employment, Dief's Service Station, local distributor for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., says that automobile traffic will be the heaviest of the year, over the holiday.

"A few advance precautions on the part of the motorists will contribute much to making their outings pleasant and free from trouble so far as their transportation is concerned," says Mr. Dief.

"Tires should be checked for proper air pressure and doubtful casings should be removed in favor of new, safe tires that will insure trouble-free performance for the holiday trip.

"Our Goodyear service station will inspect and properly inflate tires, check the battery and brakes and perform other services of similar nature.

"Any average automobile that has its tires, battery and brakes in good shape can be depended upon to contribute its share toward a pleasant and safe holiday outing.

"Another thing to be considered," says Dief's Service Station, "is that in the event of rain, tires with reliable traction, such as the Goodyear All-Weather tread, are essential to safe driving. The service men at our station are qualified to give motorists complete information on the important subject of traction," Mr. Dief concluded.

Trench Silos Are Very Inexpensive

Auburn, Ala.,—The age-old practice of storing food in the ground or cellars for people is being extended and hundreds of Alabama farmers are now using the same method to store food for farm animals.

The practice was started a few years ago when county agents began to advocate the use of trench silos for storing sorghum and corn silage. An upright brick or wood silo is often quite expensive, but according to F.W. Burns, extension aumal husbandman of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, a trench silo can be constructed at little or no cost except for labor. The trench silos have been found as satisfactory as upright silos by hundreds of farm owners.

Farmers with as few as five or six cows are finding the trench silo useful and profitable. By using them farmers provide a cheap and succulent feed for dairy cows, and such feed is said to be essential to best results in dairying.

"Take a team, plow, and scraper and open a trench up and down any slope that is convenient to the barn," said Mr. Burns. "When this trench is filled and well rounded up with silage that has been run through the silage cutter, put pine straw, grass, or similar material over the top of the silage; and then drag back enough dirt to cover the silage well.

"One cow will eat about one cubic foot of silage a day and five feet must be eaten daily to prevent spoilage. Therefore, multiply the number of cows to be fed by 5 and divide the result by the depth and you have the necessary width.

Many farmers are constructing trench silos at this time and storing corn and sorghum silage in them.

MISS BERNIECE WILLIAMS AND MR. ARTHUR BROADHEAD WED

The marriage of Miss Berniece Williams to Mr. Arthur Broadhead, both of Clanton, was quietly solemnized Sunday at the Methodist Parsonage in the presence of a few intimate friends, with the Rev. R. P. Cochran performing the ceremony.

The bride is the charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Williams of Clanton, and is listed as one of the most popular young ladies here. She is a member of one of the oldest and most widely known families of the state, other members of which are listed as outstanding citizens.

Mr. Broadhead is the son of J. D. Broadhead, prominent merchant and business man of Clanton, and is considered as one of the popular young men of this place. He had been associated with his father in business here for sometime prior to his accepting a position with the Hill Grocery Co., of Montgomery, which position he now holds.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for Montgomery where they will make their home in the future. They will be greatly missed in Clanton, and their many friends are extending congratulations.

Mrs. Broadhead was the recipient of several social honors during the past week, among them miscellaneous showers at which many useful and pretty gifts were bestowed on her.

CENTER HILL

There are several on the sick list at this writing. Mrs. J. W. Collum has been real sick for the past week, but is slowly recovering at her home. Mrs. V. T. Cobb is worse this week. Hope for her a speedy recovery. Glad to hear that Mrs. Rufus Scott can be up some. She has been in bed for over a year.

Mrs. L. A. McGraw spent part of last week with her grand-daughter, Mrs. B. O. Lowery, and attended the revival at Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Sims have moved to Sylacauga.

Mrs. Louis Gillespie and sons. Snooks and Berney Wayne, of Clanton are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Miss Bessie Glass of Montgomery has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Lloyd Cobb. While here she and Mrs. Cobb and little Peggy Sue Cobb visited their sister, Mrs. Hazel Abston, in Aldrich.

Mrs. W. C. Edwin, Mrs. Louis Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shaw, Miss Lena Armstrong and Mr. Marvin Armstrong viisted Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Cobb Sunday afternoon.

Miss Irene Miller spent Saturday night with Miss Willie Mae Childers.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Erwin are moving to Calera this week.

Several from here and Mars Hill attended the all-day singing over in Bibb county Sunday and report a good singing.

Three More Days Are Left For Sale At Popular Drug Store

"Only three more days and our big Opportunity Sale will close," stated Dr. E. E. Upchurch, of the Upchurch Drug Co., in commenting on the huge sale which has been going on at this store since last Friday.

"We are more than pleased with the response given this sale by the people of this section," Dr. Upchurch stated, "and while thousands of items were bought during the past few days, there are still thousands more."

Last Thursday the Upchurch Drug Co., announced their Opportunity Sale in which practically everything in their huge store was placed on sale. A dozen or more extra clerks were needed Saturday when the store was crowded to the doors and many persons were forced to await their turn to enter the store.

The sale will continue through Saturday. Dr. Upchurch stated, and will positively close Saturday night, having at that time been in progress for eight days. It was under the direction of the Druggist Sales Service of Birmingham.

One of the features of the sale was "Waxo" the mechanical man who attracted crowds to the windows of the drug store during the first days of the sale.

Dr. Upchurch stated that they are selling many items far below cost, but that they must be moved. This sale has been attracting wide attention throughout this section.

The club also had with them their organizer, Miss Newell, of Jemison. We as club members can not express our deep appreciation of Miss Newell and the great work which she has done for each member, as well as the community. The club was called to order by the president, then the club enjoyed the social hour, conducted by Misses Marian Martin and Newell. The president then took charge and the secretary read the minutes of last meeting, and we had roll call. Quite a number of members were absent. After roll call delicious refreshments were served to the fololwing members: Misses Lillian Busby, Iva Campbell, Johnnie Ruth Collum, Armanda Spencer, Elva Barefield, Neva Jane and Urma Ruth Key, Elizabeth Roberts, Myrtle Lou Crim, Marie Anderson, Margaret and Ethel Busby, Eleanor Merrell, Bertha Martin, Margaret Matthews, Frances and Mildred Kililngsworth, Helen Zuiderhoek and Mrs. Donald Williams.

The club had as its visitors Misses Newell, Virginia Price and Gladys Cobb of Jemison, Misses Marian Martin and Virginia Haines of Calera, Miss Vivian Conway of Minooka and Misses Evelileen and Nevileen Hardy of Anniston.

After refreshments were served Miss Newell gave a very interesting talk on achievements of the club. She also gave several suggestions on planning club parties. The club has not decided on its goal for the coming year, but we hope to reach a decision soon. After Miss Newell's talk the club decided to continue its work each Monday afternoon through the coming winter. The club will meet with Lillian Busby next Monday afternoon at four o'clock. All members urged to be present.

Miss Newell, we hope you may be able to meet with us each meeting, now that you have returned to Jemison and we as club members hope that you may always be able to stand up and be proud of Minooka's C. I. Club.

The club regrets that they have so many absentees. We hope that the absentees may find it possible to be with us next meeting. On Monday, August 21, the club met with Misses Neva Jane and Urma Ruth Key. New officers were elected and installed. They are as follows: President, Lillian Busby; vice-president, Elva Barefield; secretary, Bertha Martin; Shelby County scribe, Mrs. Donald Williams; Chilton county scribe, Helen Zuiderhoek. May the new officers have a successful term.

"In Memory" of Mrs. Clarence Ware who passed away at her home late Thursday night. Mrs. Ware was certainly a brave little Christian woman. She was cheerful till the last. Her many friends and relatives feel that she has gone to a better home where peace will reign for aye. No one knows the suffering and the many pains that Mrs. Ware quietly bore. We extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy. May God bless little Billy and Jean Ware.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Robinson and son, James, of Havana, Fla., visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson a few days this week.

Mrs. Joe Sanford and two daughters, Jean and Mary Jo, and Mrs. Felix Macon and little daughter, Betty Jean, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Smith on Friday of last week.

SINGING SOCIETY ORGANIZED AT CHESTNUT CREEK CHURCH

Realizing a paramount need of developing the younger singers of the community, something the larger societies are not meeting, some of the local singers met and organized a society to meet every first and third Sunday afternoons at two o'clock. Mr. Dewey Hughes was elected chairman without opposition. It was also agreed not to interfere with the Central Singing Society, but to cooperate fully with them every other first Sunday afternoon, with them in their meetings here.

We had several visitors with us, and extend to everybody a cordial invitation to meet with us anytime they wish and especially do we invite the singers to meet with us.,

Our next meeting time is next Sunday, September 3rd, and ask everybody to meet with us.

W. W. ALLEN, Secretary.

While I. Francis, of Mills, Cal., was away from home, thieves carried away his windmill and tower.

PATES CHAPEL

Everybody remember the old-time singing convention at Pates Chapel next Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 2 and 3 All singers bring a well-filled basket.

And remember next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching days. New officers and delegates and teachers will be elected next Saturday night. We hope all the members are present.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hayes visited Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hayes.

Miss Lillie Cook who has been working in Birmingham returned home Saturday to spend the week end with her mother, Mrs. Nora Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Sewell of Birmingham visited their mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddox, and son, James.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschell Maddox of Thorsby visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddox Sunday.

Miss Ruby Maddox visited Miss Faye Blow Sunday.

Large Group From Here Go To Auburn

A large number of men and women from Chilton County left early Tuesday morning for Auburn to attend the Farmers' Week which opened Tuesday morning at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute with an address of welcome by Dr. L. N. Duncan, extension service director.

Close to 1,000 men and women, representing all counties, are expected to be in attendance for the three-day session which will come to an end Thursday afternoon and will include annual meetings of the Alabama Farm Bureau and Council of Home Demonstration Clubs.

An address on a national legislative program for agriculture by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will feature Tuesday's session.

Speakers on a special program on soil building with Winter legumes to come Tuesday afternoon will include Dr. J.S. Wittmeir, president, and M. L. Robinson, chairman of the agricultural committee, of the Alabama Bankers' Association.

Our Big Opportunity Sale will end Saturday night. Be here with your tickets at 6 o'clock.—Upchurch Drug Co.

● Prices are marching up. But if you act in time you can still buy Goodyears at prices shown here—and most of them are lower than they were last fall . . . Look at this new 1933 Goodyear Pathfinder. With FULL CENTER TRACTION, 20% thicker non-skid tread, and stouter Supertwist Cord body, it turns in more miles, more blowout protection, more safety, than you could get from any tire costing four times as much a few years ago . . . Now is certainly the time to replace worn, dangerous tires with Pathfinders all around. No one can guarantee how long today's still low prices can last. We have your size. IN MEMORY OF HORACE D. MIMS

Whom God in His never-failing wisdom called to his heavenly home on Wednesday, August 2nd. Horace was killed by a moving train in Lexington, Mo. We were so sad when news reached us that our friend, Horace, was dead. But, dear ones, God just needed one more angel, and seeing none as he wanted but Horace. He called for the best, and is entitled to the best, for He knew then that Horace was too good for this old world, when He had a vacant place in heaven none could fill like Horace.

We know your hearts are broken with a void that will take long years to heal. That vacant place and empty chair can never be filled. Horace was loved by all who knew him. The large crowd and the many beautiful flowers that covered his grave are but a small way in which they could prove their love for him. Though your cries were loud and heart-breaking, they could never compare with the singing and rejoicing of the angels as Horace entered in to be one of their number. Heaven must be a thousand-fold sweeter to you since you have such a bright jewel there.

He was the first to be called from the home of that family, the chain is broken; but ere many years shall come and go you all will be at home up there. Then your heart-aches and pain of sorrow will all be forgotten. That family circle will be united never more to be broken. Just you look to Horace's God for strength to brighten your dark hours and weak bodies, for time will finally heal the pain and make your days seem brighter, your home seem not so lonesome, for we think that God will let Horace be your guardian angel so as for you to feel his presence near you, in your work and in your dreams.

Horace left a father and mother, Mr and Mrs. E. C. Mims, three brothers, Ocie, Alvin and Jack Mims, besides a host of friends to miss him. He was laid to rest Monday at Mt. Nebo with Dr. S. J. Ezell of Clanton conducting the funeral services, and sweeter, more consoling words never fell from human lips as they were uttered over the body of Horace Mims. Mr. Martin was in charge.

Gone But Not Forgotten

We loved him, yes, we loved him,
But angels loved him more:
And they have sweetly called him
To yonder shining shore.
The golden gates were opened,
And a gentle voice said, "Come,"
And with farewells unspoken,
He calmly entered home.
His steps are silent,
His lips are stilled,
Our hearts are aching,
A place is vacant that can't be filled.
Long are the nights, sad are the days
God has taken Horace, we will submit to His ways.
It was just a few days ago—
We can never forget the day—
When came the silent reaper
And took our dear friend away.
Although unable to speak to us
And could not say good-bye
We know his thoughts were with us
When he was called to die.
We miss him, oh, we miss him
For our Saviour has called him away
But we are praying to meet him
In a better world some day.

BETHSALEM

LADIES OF JEMISON MET WITH MISS PARDUE

Miss Pardue met with the ladies of Jemison last Thursday afternoon and organized a Home Demonstration club. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. A. C. Wells; vice-president, Mrs. Zane Turner; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. G. W. Sorrell; reporter, Mrs. J. A. Sims, leaders: 1. Community, Mrs. A. C. Bratton. 2. Demonstrations, Mrs. G. S. Naish. Members are Mrs. F. N. Sims, Mrs. J. P. Montgomery, Mrs. Allee Popwell. The next meeting will be September 28, at the home of Mrs. A. C. Wells.

MRS. J. A. SIMS.

We know he is waiting with our Saviour on high.
He is there ready to greet us where there is no good-bye.
No more on earth we'll see his face.
His voice we'll hear no more,
But let us live to meet him
On that bright and sunny shore.
We loved our dear friend
No human tongue can tell.
We said good-bye for a little while,
But we didn't say farewell.
He has gone and left us desolate,
But he is so glad and free.
All our tears would turn to smiles
If his rapture we could see.
Oh, how loving, good and jolly
He was ever, day by day.
All the sorrow that he gave us
Was because he went away.
He's not dead, just sweetly resting
From his trials and troubles here;
But if we live as God has taught us
We will meet Horace over there.
—Written by a friend, Miss Era Scott.

IN MEMORY

On August 17th Mrs. Wade Spigener closed her eyes in endless sleep. She suffered only a short while. All that loved ones could do was done, but God called her to that beautiful home above.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, five brothers and four sisters, mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Williams. We wish to thank the many friends for beautiful floral offerings.

She was laid to rest in Big Springs cemetery with Brislin Brothers of Selma in charge.

Oh, how we will miss her vacant place, for our Saviour called her away. All the sorrow that she gave us was when she left us, but that sweet thought is that we will meet again.
—A Sister-in-Law, Mrs. Geo. Williams.

Mrs. Constance Hanley of Chicago was driven insane by the fear of the number 13.

Another Interesting Letter From The Boys In The Forestry Camps This Week

By Lance Franklin

Friends, what did Friday, 18th, mean to you all? Nothing, other than the last day of the week you might say, but to the 470th Company of the Civilian Conservation Corps it meant the end of their third month in the camps which were established as a measure to fight the depression, and after these three months of such life we, the C.C.C. boys could hardly be run away from here. This has become "Home, sweet home," to us. Go throw back the front part of our "canvas home" and lie beneath a well-tucked mosquito bar and watch the heavenly bodies as they seem to twinkle and follow your eye sight from their far-away abode, it is then when a thrill comes from those words of God saying that He "placed every one in its correct orbit and named each one" and when on a beautiful moonlight night you do the same thing and watch the clouds, whitish in color, smoothly flying by the moon, these words from the poem "The Highway Man" flash into your mind, "And the moon was ghostly tossed about upon the silvery sea."

At night the sounds that can be heard are of the little electric pump as it groans and grumbles, due to the fact that its doing K. P. work after the fleshly K. P.'s are snoring loudly in their bunks. Next is the continuous thundering of the pouring water thru the "power wheels" over on the dam just beneath the power house itself. And listening to the continuing voice of the harnessed stream sends my mind back to a century ago when the real natives of the North American continent roamed its forests "A happy and care free people," that is, as I understand from various histories. Another is the noise of one of our dog mascots "Hobo" as he scrambles around in the coal bin trying to lay down on something other than a big lump of coal that will hurt his side and give him the appendicitis possibly as 'Hobo" would term it if he could speak. This dog received his name when one of our boys, Mr. Houston Long (Red) brought him from home to Fort McClellan on a freight train. "Hobo" is a bull-dog with pedigreed parents. We have five other mascots, a good size hound, "Lady" by name, another "Boots" a real small bull dog, and when she get a pig out of the garbage can and gets it by the ear she sure makes it tell the news, with "Lady" and "Hobo" running interference to any larger hog that might interfere with Boots' fun. It seems to be a great deal more fun for those two dogs to let "Boots" get her a hog and pull its ears and nose than it does for them to have a dog of their own to worry.

Our third mascot is a silver fox about one-third grown, and of course the boys have learned one thing, that it will bite when handled rough or by one who hasn't been fooling with it. The fox is kept in ts cage by night and stands or lays panting by the tree to which it is tied by a dog collar which it wears.

Last, but not least, are the two deer which were captured by the surveyors. They were about two days old when brought to camp and have been nourished on a bottle until they were taught how to eat from a bowl, then are fed goat's milk and evaporated milk, and are growing fine as could be expected.

The camp was saddened on Saturday, August 19th, when our commanding officer, Captain D. M. N. Ross, departed for the University of Alabama to begin his course of teaching. Captain Ross was loved by everyone in camp and he certainly returned his love to each boy in camp. However, we have Lieutenant Davidson, our new commander, who shows a great interest in the boys and even against the fact that he has been in camp only ten days we have learned to love him a great deal.

When you think we don't have anything to entertain the boys in camp but digging stumps you are mistaken Each Wednesday night is when we have the "Hot time in the old town. I mean camp." We have prayer meeting first, then follows a half-dozen or more boxing bouts. These bouts are generally between the first and second platoon, and the side that wins really "checks" the losing side the limit. Next is music rendered by the company band and the band that might be visiting the camp.

Folks, we certainly have had plenty rain the two months we have been down here, but the funny part about the rain is that the boys have ceased to say "it's raining" again, but instead, "So this is Georgia again."

The following are a few things that a C.C.C. wonders: We wonder if cows still are the source of milk, or bottles and cans. We wonder if there's anything to eat from other than a messkit. We wonder if our mother still washes clothes. We wonder if "spuds" are served three times a day at home. We wonder if chairs still exist or are they a piece of furniture of the past. We wonder how a feather bed would feel, or are they extinct. We wonder if coffee is still made in a coffe pot, or in nothing but 40-gallon quantities. We wonder if biscuits are served by three times a week. We wonder if cornbread is a reality or have we just dreamed about such a thing. We wonder if every time you look sleepy there's a doctor ready to give you a dose of medicine. We wonder if all the shaving mirrors are stuck upon trees at home. We wonder if the folks are awakened by a cock crowing or by a bugle. We wonder if windows still exist or do the folks at home roll up the side of the house for ventilation.

Report Of Postmaster 76 Years Ago

L. C. Taylor of Columbiana found the report that is given below in one of the daily papers and enjoyed it so much himself, that he is passing it on for others to read. He thinks it is about the last word in the making of official reports. The report and its story are as follows:

"Seventy-six years ago this month, Isaiah Johnson, who had just been appointed postmaster at Summon, Ill., followed instructions and mailed his first quarterly report to President Buchanan. It read as fololws:

"Mr. James Buchanan, President of the United States:

"Dear Sir:—Been required by the instructions of the post office to report quarterly, I know herewith foolfil that pleasin duty by reportin as follows. The harvestin has been goin on peerty, and most of the nabors have got their cuttin dun. Wheat is hardly a average crop; on rolan land corn is yallerish, and wont turn out more than ten or fifteen bushels to the aker.

"The health of the community is only tolerable, and cholery has broke out about two and one-half miles from here. There is a powerful awakening on the subject of religion in the falls naborhood, and many soals are bein made to know their sins forgiven. Miss Nancy Smith, a nere naber, had twins day before yesterday. One of them is supposed to be a seven monther a poor scraggly thing and wont live half its day.

Black-Draught

Clears Up Sluggish, Dull Feeling

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time, and find it gives relief for this trouble," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynne, Ark. "I think it is good for spells caused from gas on the stomach. If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught taken three times a day will cause the feeling to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

P. S.—If you have CHILDREN, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Thedford's Black-Draught.

VACANCIES IN REGULAR ARMY IN FOURTH CORPS AREA

On August 21st, the organizations of the Regular Army in the Fourth Corps Area were short 307 of their authorized strength. These vacancies exist in all branches of service except Chemical War Fare Service. Fifteen of the vacancies are in the Air Corps.

There are 175 vacancies at Fort Benning, Georgia, 63 at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, 3 at Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, 7 at Fort Barrancas, Florida, 15 at Maxwell Field, Alabama, 20 at Fort Moultrie, South Carolina, 1 at Augusta Arsenal, Georgia, 12 at Fort McClellan, Alabama, 2 at Fort Screven, Georgia and 9 at Barksdale Field, Louisiana.

Detailed information regarding these vacancies may be obtained at any Army Recruiting Office.

Only a few months ago, all organizations in the Corps Area were at their authorized strength or above it. Employment is evidently improving rapidly since these opportunities for employment and to learn a trade go begging.

As the congregation in the South Side church in Chicago was singing "Lead, Kindly Light," all the lights went out, and candles were used to finish the service.

ROAD PAVING

paved, there being only one, the Birmingham-Montgomery highway, and this group of citizens went on record as requesting officials to seriously consider the Selma highway from Clanton to come within the appropriation on secondary roads.

The importance of this highway to traffic through Alabama was brought out and emphasized. It was pointed out that it will create a shorter route from northern Alabama to Mobile and nearby points, through Selma. This highway also occupies a prominent place in local traffic.

Dallas County officials and citizens are also working to secure appropriation for the paving of the Dallas County end of the highway, it was stated Monday.

Letters, signed by those attending the meeting Monday and drawn up by a committee composed of Hon. J. B. Atkinson, Hon. G. C. Walker, W. M. Wyatt and Billy Smith, were forwarded to Congressman W. B. Oliver, Governor B. M. Miller and Col. Langdon Smith, highway director of Alabama. These letters urged the consideration of this project at the earliest possible moment. Following are copies of the letters:

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 28, 1933.

Hon. B. M. Miller and Mr. Langdon G. Smith,
Montgomery, Alabama.

Gentlemen:

There was a large gathering of representative citizens of Chilton County met in the office of the Judge of Probate today and they are very desirous of securing necessary Federal appropriation to have the road from Clanton to Selma paved.

It was decided at this meeting that we would all sign a joint letter to the Governor and to the Highway Director of the State notifying them of our interest and asking that they use every effort to get this road paved. We feel that it will mean more to the State and to its people than any other similar project and we petition you gentlemen to include this road in the program.

Respectfully submitted,

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 28, 1933.

Hon. W. B. Oliver, M. C.,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Oliver:

Your letter of August 26, to Judge L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Alabama, was submitted to a large gathering of representative citizens of Chilton County on August 28 for consideration, all matters contained in this letter were read and discussed and those present expressed their appreciation of your interest and willingness to cooperate with the people of Chilton County in your effort to help us obtain Federal aid on road projects in Chilton County.

It is our understanding that we have no Federal aid road projects in Chilton County which can be considered in this appropriation but we do have a secondary road from Clanton to Selma which our people are very much interested in and desire and urge your assistance in having it paved and included in the present secondary road appropriation.

We are glad to say to you that the officials of Dallas and Chilton counties and their representative citizens have jointly made application to the Governor and State Highway Department of Alabama to have this road included in the present secondary road appropriation.

We do not know but what the same will be included, but in any event it is our desire and wish that you will look after our interest in this road project in any manner that you might find opportunity to help and will appreciate any suggestion from you in regard to the paving of this road. We are

Yours very truly,

SIDEWALKS GET REPAIRS THIS WEEK IN CLANTON

—o—

Quite a bit of work has been done this week on repairing and improving several spots of sidewalk and curbing in the business section of Clanton.

In front of Elmore's 5c, 10c & $1.00 store, pavement has been put down between the sidewalk and curb, adding much to the appearance of the spot. An improvement has also been made at the corner of the Farmers Hardware Co., with Ed Edwards, mason, in charge of the work.

SCHOOL MEN MEET

counties of Alabama were represented, based its request for a special session upon the findings of a special committee of the Alabama Education Association. This committee made a careful examination into the anticipated revenue for schools from both state and local sources. According to this study, approximately one-half of the money appropriated for education in 1932 would become available during the coming fiscal year. This reduction results, in large measure, from the state-wide reductions in property assessments.

It was shown that this fifty per cent reduction in revenues, as compared with the appropriations, means that a majority of Alabama's school children will have a half year, or less, of schooling during 1933-1934. Five or six counties are planning a five to eight-months term and only two or three at present expect a full term of nine months.

In addition to requesting the Governor to call a special session of the Legislature, the conference also urged him, together with the State Superintendent of Education, to use their influence to secure federal aid for public education. Other important recommendations adopted unanimously recommended "that school boards do not further reduce teachers' salaries as compared with those offered last year"; "that teachers not be asked to teach on credit, or under contracts that are indefinite as to monthly salary, or length of school term." The officials urged that the school term not be determined by reducing teachers' salaries below a living wage, citing the stand of President Roosevelt, as expressed through the National Recovery Act, that employers see that wages and salaries are kept on a level with rising living costs.

test will be made to determine those persons in need of the preventive treatment. This treatment, toxoid which with one dose produces immunity, will be given only to those whom the test has shown are in need of it. While all white persons who request it will be given the test, the service at this time is intended particularly for those who have never had toxoid. Infants and children below school age are in greatest danger from diptheria, but occasionally even adults have the disease, and therefore persons of any age will be admitted to the clinics.

These clinics have the financial support of the Rockefeller Foundation, and will be conducted by Dr. O. L. Chason, formerly of the State Health Department. The service has the approval and endorsement of the Chilton County Board of Health and medical profession.

SCHOOLS OPEN

tion can be given on this opening day.

This term promises to be a very successful school year for we have a splendid faculty, well trained and equipped to do good work. The teachers have pledged themselves to a year of hard work and will spare no energy to give every child the best consideration and advantages possible.

The Grammar School must have the cooperation and support of every citizen of Clanton regardless of the differences he may have with his neighbor. If you have criticisms to make please tell your principal. He will use every effort to see that things are set right. We must all agree that the greatest interest in the world is the education of children—your children.

The local board of trustees has assessed a fee of $2.00 per semester for each child attending school. This money goes to pay the janitor, buy coal, and other necessary supplies. Unless its fees are paid these things cannot be bought.

Under the state law no child can be admitted to the first grade unless it was six years old on or before the first of July of this year.

The following named teachers make up the faculty for the coming year: U. H. Abrams, Principal, Miss Bess Thomas, Mrs. Curry Thomas, Miss Wilnita Campbell, Mrs. Ruth Sessions Martin, Mrs. Barney Burnett, Mrs. Amye Gandy, Miss Sue Morris, Miss Lera Dell Williams, Miss Lucile Sherwood.

Children are requested not to buy books until after Monday afternoon.

It is with a great deal of interest that Chilton County High School opens this year with a brighter prospect than it has for the past two years. Chances are we will have a full year's program without any interruptions.

The faculty is as follows: L. C. Warr, Principal; T. H. Walker, manual arts and director of athletics; J. B. Varnell, science; J. T. Searcy, mathematics; Miss Gladys Smilie, history; Miss Margaret Kendrick, English; Miss Frances Gulledge, English; Miss Sarah Colley, social studies; Miss Bonnie Clyde Griffin, home economics; and Miss Josephine Martin, junior one work.

While we regret to lose the valuable services of Miss Bernice Williams who for the past five years taught mathematics in C. C. H. S. and who now is a head of the mathematics department of the State Secondary Agricultural High School at Syalcauga, we feel we have gained it back in the personality of Mr. J. T. Searcy, A. B., University of Alabama, and who for the past nine years has taught mathematics in Lamar County High School. Mr. and Mrs. Searcy are citizens of Clanton, and we want them to feel welcome.

Superintendent Luther E. Little won such an enviable record in one year's work as history teacher in C. C. H. S. that we hardly felt his place could be filled. We are not sure of it yet. However, we feel we have a very fine teacher for this department. Miss Gladys Smilie comes to us from Hillsboro High School in Tampa, Florida. Miss Smilie has had ten years continued experience as a teacher. Her work has been a success wherever she has taught. Miss Smilie holds an A. B. Degree, University of Alabama.

Miss Frances Gulledge, a native of Chilton County, is an A. B. from Judson, has six years successful experience in the English Department of the Troy High School, Troy, Ala. Miss Gulledge has gained splendid observation in traveling which will add to her success as a teacher. She has visited Europe on two different occasions.

Incidental fees will be $3.00 per semester payable in advance. This certainly is a small amount and should be paid by every child. Expenses have been figured down as close as possible and this amount is sufficient to take care of necessary running expenses.

The school earnestly solicits your most hearty cooperation in making it the most successful in its history.

We've every reason to believe that it is a good idea to sit up and take notice of the Blue Eagles. Here's what a writer in The Ozark Southern Star, has to say about it " * * * by the time NIRA's posse chases Uncle Henry through the Michigan hills, he may decide that he is nothing more than a plain American citizen, just like our Bill Jones. Andrew Mellon is another one of the hold-out boys who is flirting with bad luck. They have yet to learn that since March 4th our political and social structure has undergone quite a change. Washington is now giving orders instead of taking them."

Clanton is being brightened up a bit by the appearance of the attractive teachers.

We are sorry to learn of the theft of the automobile belonging to Mrs. Sophie (J. C.) Jones last Saturday in Birmingham.

* * *

Friends of Miss Lucile Sherwood are regretting that she is confined to a hospital in Montgomery following an appendicitis operation.

We see that Mrs. John Durwood Mullins will open a first and second grade school in the new Mullins Building next Monday.

* * *

A slip of paper handed to us the other day had written on it "We hear that California has a marvelous climate this time of the year. Alabama has one all the year round."

Employees at the News are wondering what to do with their spare time since the News is backing the Blue Eagle and the NRA.

We see that Dief is always improving his service station. He is certainly one progressive-spirited man.

We might state here that the News has several more subscription receipts that can be filled out to someone without any trouble at all.

* * *

Our friend Prof. J. D. Griffin, seems to have forgotten us over here. Nevertheless, we still think of him and want him to come to see us.

We haven't seen L. L. Lauderdale of Route One in Clanton lately. We're wondering what is keeping him at home so much these days.

We were pleased to see Mr. N. H. Harrell, one of our good friends and fine citizens, from Billingsley, in town Tuesday. Mr. Harrell called at the News office and left with a subscription receipt.

We saw R. D. Woodson in town the other day and just imagined how handsome he must have looked in a Captain's uniform in the army.

* * *

Mrs. Luther Little, we must say, certainly fills the place as the wife of an official. Attractive, friendly and otherwise charming.

Miss Corrinne Polk is brightening up the south-east corner of the business section of Clanton with her presence at Polk Brothers Motor Co. That makes it an added pleasure to visit Polk Brothers.

* * *

Our friend W. B. Corley doesn't get into town much these days, but we want him to know we think of him often.

* * *

We haven't seen Bernie Cobb in Clanton lately. Wonder where he is keeping himself these days.

Renfroe Jones is erecting a mighty nice little house out on the Maplesville highway. It will add quite a bit to the appearance of that street.

If we were listing some of the oldest and fine stand-bys in Clanton we would certainly name B. L. Jones.

PRESIDENT SAYS NRA RESPECTS OTHERS RIGHTS

Program Is Definitely Succeeding President Tells Large Gathering

Washington.—President Roosevelt's impromptu homecoming speech to 5,000 of his neighbors at Poughkeepsie has attracted universal attention. His confident statement that "We are difinitely succeeding" in the National Recovery Drive was considered especially significant by the press of Europe. His own countrymen applauded this sentiment and went much further in enthusiastic approval of his plea for a deeper public interest in the form as well as the affairs of government, down to its smallest subdivision.

"You and I know", he said, "that this arousing of people's interest is what has occurred in this year of 1933, and has made itself felt in the National Capital.

WARDEN WARNS LAW VIOLATORS ON BIRD HUNTS

"Tell It To The Judge" If Caught Shooting Over Baited Fields

The month of September heralds the arrival of the open season for hunting doves and has prompted a warning to game law violators from I. T. Quinn, Alabama Commissioner of Game and Fisheries.

"State and federal game wardens will be concentrated in dove shooting areas and all persons found shooting over, or close to baited fields will have to tell it to state and federal judges," said Commissioner Quinn.

Reports have already reached the game and fisheries department of dove shooting out of season and annually cases are docked against persons violating the law by shooting over baited fields.

In every county, except Mobile, Washington and Baldwin, doves may be shot throughout the month of September, the season closing on September 30 to reopen November 20 and continue through January 31. In those three counties the dove season extends from November 1 through January 31.

The law prohibiting the hunting of migratory birds before noon the opening day does not apply to the dove and the bag limit is 18 doves a day.

September also opens the season on sora, rail and gallinule which may be hunted until November 30. The day's bag limit for sora is 25 and 25 in all of other, rails and gallinules, but not more than 15 of any one species other than sora. Sale or offer for sale of all protected birds is strictly forbidden.

Hunting licenses may be purchased from the office of any probate judge in the state or from the commissioner of game and fisheries. The non-resident hunting license is $25 per year, or a non-resident trip hunting license for one week may be obtained for $5.00. The resident hunting license for the state is $3.00 and for the county, $1.00.

AVERAGE MAN'S ELECTRIC BILL HAS BEEN CUT

Revisions Prescribed by Commission To Amount To $336,000 A Year

Electric rates in every home served by the Alabama Power Company were reduced Saturday in an order issued by the Public Service Commission.

Rates for all commercial firms, industrial concerns and cities, are not affected by the order.

The amount of the reduction varies in proportion to the amount of current consumed in each of the approximately 75,000 homes served by the company.

The average residential lighting customer lives in a six room house and uses 25 kilowatt hours a month. Under existing rates his bill has been $2.10. Under the new rate prescribed he will pay $1.61 or a reduction of 23.3 per cent.

It is the great mass of small and moderate users who are the chief beneficiaries of the order, according to the commission, which estimated that the residential revenue of the company would be reduced $336,000 annually as a result.

All Old Rates Abolished

The order abolishes all old rates heretofore prescribed for city residential

LARGE NUMBER GET WORK HERE AS NRA PROGRAM GETS SUPPORT

A Statement

Recognizing those things that are for the advancement of civilization, the betterment of business conditions, fairness to every citizen and recognizing leadership of a man who is striving to bring the country back to its people, and give a square deal to the working class, the Chilton County News is proud and glad that we have signed the President's recovery program which means better wages, shorter working hours and more men at work.

This newspaper is now operating under a code that has been submitted to cover the publisher-printer industry, giving our employees better wages and shorter working hours. The News is in full sympathy with the President's recovery program and will back it to the letter, in every way possible, and is entitled to display the NRA emblem with the Blue Eagle, which signifies we are doing our part.

In view of changes to some extent of the hours employees of the News are working, we respectfully ask our advertisers, correspondents and others who wish to use columns of this newpaper to let us have their copy as early as possible.

Jones Has Splendid Record Of Revivals

The Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby was a recent visitor to Clanton, and while talking to a representative of the News, the latter learned that Rev. Jones had recently completed a seven weeks' revival campaign at six churches, five in this county and one in Shelby county.

Rev. Jones stated that seventy-five new members were brought to these churches during these meetings. This is indeed a splendid record and outstanding work. The Rev. Jones is to be congratulated.

SAMUEL SCOTT GOING OUT OF BUSINESS NEAR FUTURE

Mr. Samuel Scott, for years Clanton's only photographer, announces this week that he is going out of business in the near future. Mr. Scott has probably made pictures of most of the prominent citizens of the county, and their families. His vacancy will be noticed and regretted by Clanton.

CAR BELONGING TO MRS. J. C. JONES STOLEN LAST SUNDAY

A 1932 Chevrolet sedan, deluxe type, with spare tires on side, color black, belonging to Mrs. J. C. Jones of Clanton, was reported stolen from a relative's home in Birmingham last Sunday.

Ice Cream Supper At Cooper On Sat.

The News has been requested to announce that there will be an ice cream supper in Coopers on Saturday night of this week, at the Cooper Mercantile Co. The Verbena String Band will be on hand to furnish music.

Along with the ice cream will be other good eats. Proceeds from this affair will go to the B. Y. P. U. there. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend.

Mrs. E. C. McCrery, formerly Miss Margaret Hester, of New York, is spending several days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hester.

Mrs. B. H. Jones Honored On 74th Birthday

Gathering at the home of Mrs. B. H. Jones, near Clanton last Sunday, a group of relatives honored her on her seventy-fourth birthday.

At the noon hour, delicious barbecue and stew was ready and served to those who gathered to pay honor to this aged lady who is on her way to her 75th year of a fruitful life.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Broadhead and daughter, Patty, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Jones, all of Clanton. Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Jones of Montgomery, Mrs Ludie Lenoir and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Jones of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Swann of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones and family, Mrs. D. W. Jones and family, Mr and Mrs. Robert Springle of Selma, and Mr. Clay Jones of Clanton.

DeMABEL TO OPEN SHOP ON OR ABOUT SEPTEMBER 11TH

In a communication to the News, DeMabel, operator of DeMabel's Beauty and Art Salon, advised that her shop will open on or about September 11th.

She has been in Chicago for sometime attending beauty culture conventions and exhibits, and while there underwent a minor operation.

Power Company Team To Play At Verbena

One of the most interesting baseball games here of the season is scheduled to be played at the high school in Verbena Friday afternoon of this week at three-thirty o'clock.

A team composed of players from Mitchell Dam and Lay Dam will meet the Verbena team. This promises to be a good game, as the Verbena team and the power company team have both been showing up good lately.

Mr. J. R. Martin of Thorsby and daughter, Myradine, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore.

Today Marks Fifty-Ninth Wedding Anniversary of Loved Couple Of Chilton County

Fifty-nine years of happily married and fruitful life together is reached today by one of the county's loved couples, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Foshee, of Clanton.

Fifty-nine years ago today, September 7th, 1874, shortly after eleven o'clock in the morning, Miss Mary Marzell Jones of Swift Creek, Ark., became Mrs. Hugh Foshee, and the bride of a dashing young man who was looking for work, and who had ambition, a strong arm and a willingness to work. Miss Jones became Mrs. Foshee and started life with her young husband with a light heart, love and shining eyes.

Today, September 7th, 1933, Mr. and Mrs. Foshee are at home with pleasant memories of their fifty-nine years of wedded life and receiving the congratulations of their many friends. And the scene, while changed considerably in home life and possessions, still presents the former Miss Jones as a lighthearted, smiling little lady who is loved by all who know her. And the groom a man of extreme neat appearance is carrying his years so that one would easily imagine his determination and ambition of fifty-nine years ago.

The story of their young life, and the years they have lived together happily married is a most interesting one and few persons can visualize the many ups and downs and experiences they had, all of which go to make the story more interesting.

While Mr. Foshee went to Arkansas to find his bride, he is a native of Chilton County, born and raised in the progressive Mulberry community. He went to Arkansas where he found work when a young man.

After the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Foshee moved to Alabama, and that trip is certainly an interesting story, and on October 15th, 1874, they located at Lomax, Ala., where Mr. Foshee secured work as bookkeeper at a saw mill.

They moved to Clanton to make their home in January, 1877, and Mr. Foshee served as clerk of the Circuit Court of this county.

The News joins the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Foshee in extending heartiest congratulations to them on reaching their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary.

TWO CLANTON SCHOOLS OPEN FOR NEW TERM

Large Enrollment Noted On First Day At Both Schools Here

Many school children of all ages trekked back to the school buildings in Clanton Monday morning to begin their work for the new school term, when the Clanton Grammar School and the Chilton County High School opened their doors, with Prof. U. B. Abrams and Prof. L. C. Warr, principals.

Teachers were smilingly greeting their pupils Monday morning in these schools, anticipating a good school term and several teachers are learning the names of their pupils, this being their first term as members of the Clanton faculties.

Prof. Warr and Prof. Abrams stated Monday that they are delighted with the first day of this school term, and expressed beliefs that a bright year is ahead, while Luther E. Little, superintendent of education, appeared well pleased with the start of the two Clanton schools.

Stores selling school supplies were on the go Saturday and Monday, handing out books, tablets, pencils and other paraphenalia used by the pupils, while the streets were thronged with gay young girls and boys who apparently were glad to get back to school after a good vacation.

WAGE INCREASE IS ADDING TO BUYING POWER

Every Citizen Urged To Join In Spirit Of Program All Over The County

The Blue Eagle of the National Recovery Act is bringing about a change in business in Clanton and Chilton County, according to reports of canvassing committees that have worked in Clanton during the past week. The claws of the Blue Eagle are rapidly tearing away signs of any depression and bringing more people back to work, shorter working hours and higher wages.

According to the reports from the canvassing committees, almost one hundred persons have been given regular jobs or placed on part-time employment in the business section of Clanton since the President came forward with the NRA.

The reports which were cards filled out and signed by employers, showed that a great number of business places have already felt the improvement in business and report that the code is helpful, while several reported they have not had time to determine. Not only have a large number of persons been put to work in Clanton, but wages have been increased considerable all over town. Only one employer reported definitely that the code was not helpful.

It is estimated that the increase in the number of employees and the increase in wages will add greatly to the purchasing power of residents of Clanton and nearby, thereby increasing business.

Those in charge of the campaign of the NRA are urging every citizen of the county to lend wholehearted support and bear in mind that where there is the Blue emblem displayed, there is a sacrifice to bring better times.

It has been brought out that those residing in the rural sections do not realize the very important part they are to play in the recovery program. It is the buyer who must demand that his goods come from a store or other place that is displaying the Blue Eagle.

TWIN SCUPPERNONGS

Mr. F. I. Popwell of Fairview community was a very pleasant visitor to the News office Monday of this week, and he brought with him a curiosity which he says is a new one on him. It is a double-barreled, two-in-one, or what would you suggest, scuppernong, patterened somewhat after the Siamese twins, with one stem. Anyway there was complete growth and we don't believe the flavor was impaired.

J. O. CHAMBERS BRINGS IN EXTRA FINE PEARS TO NEWS

The News was certainly glad to see Mr. J. O. Chambers of Maplesville, Route 2, the other day. Mr. Chambers presented the News with four large pears, all weighing five and three quarter pounds.

These were some of the finest pears seen this year and Mr. Chambers is to be congratulated.

R. L. DUFFIE EXPRESSES APPRECIATION FOR INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duffie and two children, and Miss Vivian Gray returned last week from a motor trip to Des Moines, Iowa and Chicago. On the return trip they met with an accident and Mrs. Duffie was badly injured.

Mr. Duffie in telling the News of the accident, stated he wished to express his appreciation for the interest shown by the people here in their welfare when news of the accident was received here. Their car was badly damaged, and Mrs. Duffie was the most seriously injured. The accident happened near Indianapolis, Indiana.

ICE CREAM SUPPER

There will be an ice cream supper at Pleasant Valley church Saturday night, September 9th. Everybody come.

No Spectators --- Everyone Must Play In The NRA Game

The time for "looking on" this National Recovery Campaign as a spectator has officially expired and today everyone in the Tuscaloosa district should be in the game.

If you employ labor, you belong in the ranks of employers under the Blue Eagle. If you work for anyone and buy anything, your place is in the army of folks who have pledged to "Buy Under the Blue Eagle."

There are no side-lines in this game that President Roosevelt is quarterbacking in behalf of the 120 million Americans. If you are not in this campaign as an active participant, be it employer or consumer, you are on the other side.

Any firm or individual who sets himself up in opposition to the NRA program at this time, definitely aligns himself with the forces which have threatened to sink our country in a more permanent and destructive depression.

The NRA program is President Roosevelt's plan to bring a lasting end to this natural enemy of all mankind. It is the only program that offers a definite solution to the combined problems of the industries, the businesses and the farms of our country.

Have you joined in the battle?

The answer is easy. It is, "Yes", or "No."

If you are an employer, have you signed a certificate of compliance, agreeing to conduct your business in accordance with the blanket code or any other properly approved code of fair competition?

If you are a consumer, have you pledged yourself to "Buy Under the Blue Eagle?"

Upon the answers to these two questions, rests the hopes of our president and also our country which has placed its faith in the president. Let no man or woman of this Tuscaloosa district fail to see his or her responsibility at this time. Tuscaloosa News.

Money!

Some day when you are inclined to be a little blue and pessimistic, consider these facts:

Government estimates place Alabama's cotton crop at a million and a quarter bales after deducting plowed acres. At so low a price as eight cents a pound that means $40 a bale or $50,000,000 turned loose in Alabama.

Approximately $10,000,000 is being paid to Alabama farmers by the government as recompense for cotton destroyed.

Alabama's share of the highway money to be spent immediately by the government amounts to approximately $12,000,000.

Relief funds for Alabama are expected to run as high as $3,000,000.

No one can estimate the share of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund that will be spent in Alabama. It is possible, however, that the public works advisory board may succeed in getting favorable consideration of public works projects involving no less than $50,000,000.

If Governor Miller can succeed in financing the state's warrants, approximately $17,000,000 in cash will be put into circulation in Alabama from that source.

The figures on possible new money to be spent in Alabama during the next few months would therefore look like this:

Cotton crop	$ 50,000,000
For destroyed cotton	10,000,000
Highway money	12,000,000
Relief funds	3,000,000
Public works	50,000,000
State warrants	17,000,000
Total	$142,000,000

September Comes

Yesterday on tearing the August leaf from his calendar no doubt the citizen drew a sigh of relief. Do not begrudge him the pleasure. Not many sighs of relief are drawn these days.

Cotton begins to move in August, but we in the cotton belt have never rated August very high. It is September that commands our interest and affection. September is the first of the Fall months, and we of the South love the Fall—indeed who anywhere in the world does not?

September opens our treasure chest. The chest may be full or half empty, but as September arrives to insert the golden key and afford us the first view of the fruits of our year's labor and perhaps a suffering, we are eager, curious, expectant, like little children around a Christmas tree.

Usually by September 15 we in the cotton belt know whether we are to go on being poor, or whether there is to be a pleasant interlude in the drama of our lives. And always we are hopeful. Hope as surely revives in September as it does in the lush days of Spring.

This will be a fateful Fall and Winter.

—Montgomery Advertiser.

We've said for a long time that what the people need, including ourselves, is somebody to tell us what to do and then make us do it.

If a person will listen to those who have been to the Worlds Fair, it wont' be necessary to go.

A lot of people have made a lot of friends during the recent depression.

Get Ready For School

Approximately 30,000,000 children, ranging from near-graduates to kindergarteners, will converge on our streets and highways this September, all approaching central points. Through the summer they have been scattered throughout the length and breadth of the land; now they are to be mobilized, crossing our city thoroughfares or country lanes in long lines going to school or coming home.

It is the solemn duty of every motorist to see to it that these youngsters have a safe passage. By following a few simple rules, he can help cut down the toll of 3,400 children killed and 152,550 injured in 1932. Every motorist should remember to approach a school zone with care; to slow down at all intersections; to watch his speed on curves in the country. Above all, he should look out for the unexpected. Children who meet after two months' separation, become so absorbed that they forget about the danger of dashing into the roadway, darting from behind parked cars, or trying to retrieve a ball from under the fender of a moving vehicle. The motorist must do their thinking for them.

The reduction in motor accidents to children of school age in the United States, is the brightest picture in the safety movement, but there still remains much to be done to further reduce the number of tragedies—90 per cent of which are avoidable. Educators, school authorities and teachers constantly emphasize the dangers of modern traffic conditions, to the children. The one person able to bring about great improvement is the motorist. He should drive at all times as he would if his child were out in that crowd ahead.

More Railroad Legislation

There is already talk of further transportation legislation to be considered when Congress convenes again.

It is an open secret that Mr. Roosevelt's recently passed bill does not go nearly so far as he intends. It is simply a start. It recognizes a fact of the utmost importance—that the railroads are one of our most important industries, that they have suffered extremely from depression, that even in times of prosperity they were perplexed with difficulties, and that their salvation is vital to recovery. Its prncipal purpose is to promote higher railroad efficiency, through consolidation of competing lines, and the elimination of duplicate facilities.

Once this is done, the way will be cleared for attacking the greatest problem of all—unfair competition, much of which stems from government - subsidized carriers. Barges ply the tax-built waterways—creating deficits to be made up by more taxes, and taking business that would otherwise go to the rails. Buses and trucks operate on the publicly-built highways, unregulated by the Federal government, which so stringently controls the railroad industry. And so it goes.

Yes, a start has been made, but much remains to be done. The American public will be watching the future trend of transport legislation with the keenest interest.

"This Is A War

A war on poverty—a war without precedent in history —a civil war, it might be called, to save ourselves from destructive forces within our own Nation. But it is not a war of man against man. It is rather a war of ideas—the cooperative idea against the idea of unrestrained competition—the idea of national welfare against the idea of unrestrained self-seeking—the New Testament against the Old Testament—the Sermon on the Mount against the Mosaic Law—a war to write into political economic law of the Nation the new commandment: Help your neighbor and you help yourself." — From speech by Donald R. Richberg, General Counsel, NRA.

Scottie Sees Nira As We Do

Scottie McKenzie Frazier, Alabama's most appreciated columnist, sees Nira just about as we do. In her column "As We See It" in The Wiregrass Farmer, she says:

"As We See Nira, we think she is a timely visitor so far as corporations and large business enterprises are concerned; but unless she uses wise judgment and a sympathetic understanding when she comes to the small business places in the agricultural districts she will rank along with the boll weevil and other pests.

"If we are not careful in using our very best common sense we may grow hysterical and try to boycott business houses that can not possibly come under the Code. Yet these very business men have done well to 'keep going' during the depression.

"Common sense is the thing needed most in this hour of change and adjustment.

"The small business houses that are discouraged should write to our President. He will listen!"

—Greenville Advocate.

o-o-o-o

What limit in definition can be placed upon this word we hear a dozen times a day—"Recovery"? The answer approximates a picture of conditions that will obtain when success crowns the President's reemployment program.

Recovery as it relates to business is not difficult to comprehend. Under the mighty reign of what we believed was prosperity we loaned seven billions a year abroad to finance our sales of half that sum, and as we stopped lending so we stopped selling, and now we start from taw. So we require business recovery, and it depends upon absorption of about one fourth as many workers as are now employed. Shrewd business executives, small and large, believe that reemployment on that basis will be sound investment; that, with the inevitable increase in buying power, credit will do what it always has done, move along with employment. In that case credit will be available.

But after relief from the horror of the 4 years, it is the recovery of economic security that will count even more with the average man; the recovery of material well-being; a more lasting assurance to the employer, whose old embarrassing problems of cost and distribution will be solved through cooperation; to the worker; to the housewife, of whom in these last perilous years we have lost sight entirely. This sort of recovery it is evident the President has had in mind—recovery of what a man and a woman has a right to call his soul.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

An intelligent man gave to me his reason for voting against the retaining of our prohibition laws in these words: "They are not being enforced." I then asked him this logical question, "Then why not repeal the law against stealing? That law is not being enforced." He then made this reply, "If there were as many people who would break that law as there are people who break the prohibition law, I would be in for repealing it also." I readily informed him that a test would prove that more people will steal in one way or another, than would break the prohibition law. I know that there are honest men and women in the world, but they are not roving our highways in droves. I could mention a race that one of their virtues seems to be that they will steal. How many boys do you know who would not steal a watermelon if it should happen in his path at night? To be honest, How many people would hasten to find the owner, if a purse containing a hundred dollars should be found on the highway? We are not saints on the question of prohibition, ad neither are we on other questions that involve law. Am I not right when I say that less harm will come to the human race to repeal all laws against stealing, than will come when we repeal our prohibition laws. A thief gets our property, but whiskey takes our souls, our happiness and our lives.

One day I had my attention directed toward a mixed brood as they followed an old hen. The unsuspecting hen had served her time on duck eggs, along with her own, and now she had a variety of walkers and divers following at her feet. For several days the hatch had been friendly, but the mother had suspected that something was fixing to go wrong. She observed that there was a difference in gait and feet, but she did not know what it all meant until she started to scratching for worms by the side of the pond. On lifting her head to scan the skies for hawks, the hen saw that her brood had separated —like Methodist and Baptist, and that half of her brood were paddling about in the water. She eyed them closely and called for them to come from the water, but they were too happy to even listen to her call. Neither section of the brood could understand the other, but each seemed satisfied. Each one had gone to the thing that he could best do. In gait and feet there is a mixed brood in almost every family. There is a wide separation in brothers and sisters when each one goes to the thing that he can best do.

On the farm we had an old hen known to us as the "Setting Hen." Setting was her specialty. Any season of the year was good for hatching with this old hen, and she never cared whether she had eggs or door knobs, all she wanted was a job of setting. This she did winter and summer, spring and fall. We would beat her up with broom handles and duck her in cold water, but her zeal for setting was always the same. This old hen had a pale face and a scrawny frame because she did not have time to eat. Since I have left the farm I have founds lots of "Roosters" and quite a few "Hens" of the human kind who seem to be born to "Set". Any time is good for setting with them. They sit winter and summer, spring and fall, and they never do well, for the simple reason that they are "Setters."

I have stood on the shore and watched a school of porpoises at play. They stay under the water the most of the time, but if they are not disturbed they will come to the top to breath every nineteen seconds. How like the porpoise we find a lot of church members. They live the most of their time under the waves of the world, but they come up to the house of God every seven days to catch a breath of spiritual life. Why not live in God's atmosphere so that you can breathe it every day that you live?

A friend of mine had a dog that was a great hunter, and he thought so much of this dog that he would spread a rug for him before the fire, and at night he would house him in a warm place. The dog liked it, but soon the dog was no good. His master made things easy for him and thus spoiled his dog. Many parents ruin their children by making things easy for them.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings that affect the dinner pails, dividend checks and tax bills of every individual. National and international problems inseparable from local welfare.

The Blue Eagle has claws. That is the intimation in recent utterances of Administrator Johnson, aggressive head of national recovery drive. Businesses which display the blue eagle insignia without having signed agreements are in for trouble. So are businesses which fail to keep to the intent, written and implied, of the code. So, according to General Johnson, is anyone withdrawing the blue eagle from his place of business.

The flood of signed agreements continues. Even tho there must be a good deal of readjustment before certain businesses will be abel to make NRA principles work, either under the blue eagle or in a trade code, there is almost unanimous setniment in favor of Administration procedure, with promises to do everything possible to help.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute, in a recent bulletin, offers the interesting possibility that greatest stumbling block in the way of a blanket code may be excessive taxation. High taxes, according to the Institute, are now causing the abnormal and dangerous spread between wages and prices. No matter how patriotic a business man is, he cannot raise wages and increase operating costs without sufficient additional revenue coming in. Hope of the government is that increased revenue will immediately follow the blanket code's operation.

Labor troubles likewise confront the NRA. Main center of disturbance is in Pennsylvania coal fields where state troops have been called out and many mines shut down. A. F. of L. is conducting one of the greatest organization drives in its history; many employers are attempting to stick with the open shop or company union plan. Strikes and lockouts, if they spread, will be a tremendous blow to NRA success; official pleas to labor to cooperate have been made by the government.

Yes, business is still getting better. Here's a glance at a few of its many phases:

Building — Home building showing rapid increase; far ahead of last year.

Lumber—Production up.

Automobiles — Showing consistent gains in recent weeks.

Business Failures—In week ending July 27, were fewest for any full week this year.

Coal—Both soft and anthracite reported recent increases in production.

Copper—Price firm; advance expected shortly.

Employment—Gain for three month ending June placed close to 2,000,000.

Car Loading—Well ahead of previous years; railroad earnings rising.

The Department of Commerce recently announced that steady expansion in industrial activity during July has pushed output to the highest level since the middle of 1930, and to 89 per cent of the 1923-25 average. There followed some indications of a seasonal leveling —which has been avoided so far this year—but there was no sign of an important break.

Large increases have been reported in heavy industries. These businesses are now awaiting public works activity as a major source of revenue and employment in near future. Consumer industries show steady improvement.

Dun and Bradstreet reports that the upward business tide has been but barely affected by the usual summer recession. Excellent sign is the steady appearance of corporation reports indicating fair and good profits; the crop for the previous three years was pretty sad to behold, with many entries in red.

Business revival starts in the east and then spreads westward, precisely as does depression. Pacific coast is the last to feel either; the Atlantic is the first. At present recovery is most potent in the New England territory. Woolen and cotton mills, and shoe manufacturers, are busier than for a long time.

Communities and other public bodies are discovering that public works funds out of the $3,300,000,000 allotted, are not simply to be had for the asking. It has been decided that preference will be given to projects which tend to create other projects. The following stand high on the preference list: Waterworks projects necessary for a community's health and convenience; sewer projects of the same character, and the building of useful bridges, tunnels and highways.

Also considered, is the state of municipal or county finance when the body makes its application. Those with their finances in order will be most favored.

Private, as well as public, bodies may receive self-liquidating loans when the projects are to be devoted to public use, such as tunnels, dry docks, viaducts, canals, markets and hospitals.

EAT AND REDUCE

It isn't necessary to starve one's self in order to reduce weight, declares Dr. Kenyon, a leading woman specialist of New York, who prescribes a liberal diet for her too heavy patients. This is her recommendation for the day's meals:

For breakfast, a serving of fruit, one egg plus the white of another egg, coffee or tea without sugar. For lunch a large serving of lean meat, fish or fowl may be taken, or a small helping of either with a glass of buttermilk or skimmed milk, also any vegetable that grows above the ground. For dinner a liberal portion of lean meat again may be taken with vegetables and fruit, but no bread, using a bread substitute if desired. Before retiring a half cup of orange juice is permissable.

On such a diet Dr. Kenyon asserts that 13 of her women patients reduced about 30 pounds in 13 weeks, while one lost 72 and another lost 74 pounds in about nine months.

We do not guarantee this information, but simply pass it along as it was given to a women's medical society at a recent meeting.

SHILOH

We are glad to say the health of this community is good at the present, and hope it will continue so. We especially want to say that we are glad for the people to know that our B. Y. P. U., Sunday school and prayer meeting are going nicely and we hope it will continue to keep growing. We want to thank the people for attending preaching Saturday and Sunday and for the good attention you gave Brother Lowery while he was teaching the word of God. He sure did bring some good messages both services and we are praying that he will hold out faithfully in his work. Brother Lowery will be our pastor for another year if it is the Lord's will. We also want to thank the people who attended prayer meeting and B. Y. P. U .Sunday night. We had a large crowd and just hope they were as glad to be there as were to see them there. Hope that they will come next Sunday night and bring someone else and make a wonderful prayer meeting. I just want to say that the older people don't realize how glad we young people are to see you coming out and helping us. May God bless everyone that is interested. Prayer will be opened next Sunday night by Mr. James Mullins. We want everybody to come.

The birthday party given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Dobbs Saturday night in honor of their daughter, Essie, and Myra Moore was greatly enjoyed by a number of young people. After several games were played delicious cake and chocolate milk were served. We hope them many more happy birthdays. Miss Moore took up her school at Verbena Monday. We will miss her while she is away.

Mrs. Joe Ray and son, J. E., of Enterprise and O'Neal Silas were the Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. O. L. Ray and children.

Mr. Herbert Traywick was visiting in this community this week end.

Mrs. J. B. Mullins was the Saturday dinner guest of Mr. J. D. Mullins and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Deason and daughter of Georgia were visiting their sister, Mrs. Curtis Popwell, Sunday and Sunday night.

Miss Mattie Love Wilson was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Eloise Keen.

Mr. Vester Bice of Pletcher spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bice.

We wish to say that Rev. T. W. Billingsley will preach here next Sunday at eleven o'clock if not hindered.

Well, let's not forget the services Sunday and Sunday night and everybody who can will go and do what we can for the purpose of serving the Lord. There is a day coming when you won't have the chance. May God bless every reader of this paper.

Oliver Manning Has Completed Honor Trip

A Maplesville boy achieved country-wide recognition this spring when word was given out that Oliver Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning, junior student at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, was selected as one of 30 American and Canadian college agricultural students to receive fellowships calling for four weeks' training in business and agricultural leadership. The thirty young men arrived in St. Louis August 7th and for two weeks were a part of a big business organization—on the inside where they could see "the wheels go 'round". Following this they spent two glorious weeks on the shores of Lake Michigan near Shelby, Michigan, at the American Youth Foundation Camp where in addition to a vacation outing they received leadership training along with other young people from all over the country.

The four weeks' training course was given jointly by the Danforth Foundation and Purina Mills, makers of checkerboard feeds and cereals. Three candidates for the Danforth Foundation fellowships were selected by the dean of the agricultural school and from these officials of the Danforth Foundation selected Oliver Manning as the one whose experience and interests seemed to make him best fitted to receive the training.

Shortly after the arrival of this year's winners in St. Louis, they were taken through the St. Louis plant of the Purina Mills.

Following this, the trainees went thru a regular sales training class where they studied nutrition, manufacturing, merchandising, and distribution of feed and sanitation products for farm animals.

After this the entire group left St. Louis for the American Youth Foundation Camp on the shores of Lake Michigan, near Shelby, Michigan, where they had a two weeks' vacation outing along with a course in leadership training under men who have made outstanding records in the professional field and business world.

Says Newspaper Advs. Are Best

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 10.—Newspaper advertising is first in the recommendations to retailers for printed advertising by the Brown Shoe Company, an announcement today stated.

A. G. White, advertising manager, added that every means of turning increased purchasing power into circulation should be adopted by merchants this Fall. Merchants, he pointed out, have stocked up for the first time in many years, and advertising should be used to tell "Buyers under the new deal" about it.

Backing up this recommendation, the company has sent dealers throughout the United States an advertising service consisting of suggested layouts and advertising copy.

"Opportunities exist today that have not existed since the turn of the century," White said. "We are striding into a market built up to unparalleled capacity, due to long denied needs of the last several months and years. As buying power is restored, it is obvious that buyers will go to the stores which have been called to their attention. The retailer will reach them best through local newspapers."

"Samarang" Shows Strange, Beautiful And Terrible Things

Revealing some of the most picturesque and beautiful photography yet brought to the screen, and unfolding a love story to an accompaniment of thrilling battles between men and beasts on land and in the sea, the B. F. Zeidman production of "Samarang" which will show at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday night, September 8, and on Saturday night at the midnight show as a United Artists release.

"Samarang," laid in the enchanting pearl-diving regions of the Indian Ocean, introduces a native Adonis in the person of Ahmang, the leading man, who seems destined to be a greater favorite than either Weissmuller or Buster Crabbe. Ahmang also brings a touch of Jimmy Cagney to his acting.

Then there is Sai-yu, a beautiful native girl, who fills the leading feminine role—and how she fills it! The heat of Malaysia is not conducive to much wearing of clothes, and Sai-yu believes in personal comfort even when acting in front of a camera for the consumption of audiences north of the equator.

The entire picture was made in Malaysia and Director Ward Wing deserves great credit for the manner in which he handled the native cast. There is a superb musical score by Sam K. Wineland which blends in splendid style with the action of the story.

Strange animals prowl the island fastnesses in "Samarang," and one of the most thrilling highlights of any picture ever made is the undersea battle to the death between an enormous man-killing shark and a giant octopus. This scene, the first ever showing the huge denizens of the deep in mortal combat, was made on the floor of the Indian Ocean and will fairly lift an audience out of its chairs.

The story is warmly romantic, with Ahmang forced to build his own personal fortune before he can hope to win the hand of Sai-yu, daughter of a chief, in marriage. So he wrestles a pearl of great price from the treacherous depths of forbidden waters, but not before there are a number of exciting encounters with cannibals, ferocious animals and the elements. Ahmang's young brother is killed by a shark when the youngster attempts to emulate his famous kinsman and bring a pearl from the depths. However, Ahmang returns and in an underwater scene fraught with excitement disposes of the man-eater that mangled his brother.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the undersea photography for which Stacy Woodard is responsible. Mr Woodard risked his own life in securing the shots of the shark and octopus battle.

Adopt Joint Soil Building Program

Auburn, Ala., Spet. 4—Farmers, bankers, and county agents have entered into a compact to sponsor a joint soil-building program in Alabama this fall. They did so as the result of a session on soil building during farmers' week at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Representing the bankers as speakers were Dr. J. S. Wittmeier, president, and M. L. Robertson, chairman of the Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association. Eugene Turner, prominent Calhoun County farmer, spoke for the producers. Director M. J. Funchess of the Experiment Station, gave a mass of experimental information showing that winter legumes do enrich soils.

"The bankers of Alabama are with you in this program; we underwrite the activities of the Extension Service in this great undertaking 100 per cent," Dr. Wittmeier said.

He continued: "We all know that commercial fertilizer is expensive and will not enrich the soil. Winter legumes grow in winter, gather nitrogen from the air and store it in the soil. They prevent washing of land and leaching of plant food, and they make good winter pastures."

Instances in Cullman County where winter legumes have proved profitable were pointed to by Mr. Robertson. He said that his county spent one million dollars a few years ago for commercial fertilizer, whereas the cost of legumes, which would have done more good, would have scarcely been noticed.

Mr. Turner outlined a plan which was effective last fall in stimulating the planting of winter legumes in his county. He said that farmers, editors, bankers, and others cooperated with County Agent S. R. Doughty with splendid results.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Hall of Clanton Lodge,
No. 423, A. F. & A. M.
To The Worshipful Master, Wardens, and Brethren, Clanton Lodge No. 423:

We, your committee heretofore appointed to draft and present suitable resolutions on the death of Brother James N. Berry beg leave to submit the following:

Brother Berry was born in Fabors, Virginia on Feb. 22nd, 1864 and married Inez Pamela Elam of Petersburg, Virginia in 1885 and to which union was born six children, three of whom survive him; two sons who live in Pennsylvania and one daughter who lives in Birmingham, Ala.

His first wife and companion preceded him to the great beyond in the year 1913 while Brother Berry was located at Lock 12 near Clanton, Ala. and he was remarried some time later to Miss Madie Self of Birmingham to whom was born one daughter, Miss Marjorie Berry, who survives him and lives at Birmingham, Alabama.

Brother Berry was elected to the degrees of masonry in Clanton Lodge No. 423 A. F. &A. M. on Dec. 6th, 1913, and received the degrees in January and March of 1914; and while he was stationed at different parts of the country in the pursuit of his profession he still kept in touch with and maintained his membership in Clanton Lodge.

Brother Berry was a member of the Baptist Faith.

Brother Berry was at the time of his death in the service of the State of Alabama, in the Highway Department and stationed at Camp near Arab, Alabama.

On the 28th day of March, 1933 at Birmingham he heard the summons that carried him to the great and undiscovered country from whose bournes no traveler returns.

Therefore, be it resolved—

First. That this Lodge has lost a faithful member, one whom we admired..

Second. That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family in the loss we have all sustained and humbly point them to the Supreme Ruler, for consolation.

Third. That this preamble and resolutions be spread on the minute book of this Lodge and that a separate page be dedicated to that purpose; and a copy sent the family of our deceased brother also the County papers for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
—W. H. Sartor, J. R. Mullins, J. Watts Moore, Committee.

LARGE CROWD AT CHESTNUT CREEK SINGING LAST SUNDAY

The Local Singing Society met at its regular time the first Sunday, and was attended by a large number of singers as well as listeners. The singing spirit predominated and as a result many stirring songs were rendered.

We were glad to welcome a large number of visiting singers whose help we were appreciative of. Visitors from Clapton, Corinth, Pleasant Valley, Bethsalem and Shady Grove were present.

Owing to the fact that there will be an all-day singing on our next meeting day, the third Sunday in this month at Maple Springs church, it was decided not to meet. All singers are urged to attend this singing.

Our next meeting Sunday will be with the Central Singing Society here on the first Sunday in October. Again we take this means of extending a cordial invitation to all singers to meet with us at any time they wish.

W. W. ALLEN, Secretary.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Hall of Clanton Lodge,
No. 423, A. F. & A. M.
To The Worshipful Master, Wardens And Brethren of Clanton Lodge No. 423:

We, the undersigned committee heretofore appointed to draft and present suitable resolutions on the death of Brother Francis Asberry Gibson beg leave to submit the following:

Brother Gibson was born near Troy, Alabama Dec. 1st, 1855. He was married to Mary Henley in 1883 to which union was born one son; who together with the mother survive him. Brother Gibson also leaves one sister in Tampa, Florida and one brother in California to mourn his going.

Brother Gibson was a minister in the Methodist Protestant church to which he gave faithful service for more than 45 years and we doubt not that he has many stars in a crown awaiting him in that celestial city, in "that house not made with hands eternal in the Heavens."

Brother Gibson affiliated with Clanton Lodge No. 423 Jan. 4th, 1890 from Harrison Lodge No. 426. He was made a Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and exalted to the August degree of Royal Arch Mason in Clanton Chapter No. 116 in the year 1906; he received the Red cross, Malta and Knighted in Clanton Commandery No. 27 Knights Templar on July 12th, 1927—and to all his masonic bodies he was faithful to the end.

On June 29th, 1933 at the home of his son, Joe, he heard the summons of his Lord to "Come up higher" and he quietly and peacefully fell asleep, and in the cemetery at Pleasant Grove church, near his old home in Chilton County, his body was laid to rest with full Masonic honors, a good man and mason has gone to his reward.

Therefore be it resolved—

First. This Lodge has lost a faithful and devoted member, one whom we all loved and admired, and whose example we should strive to emulate.

Second. That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved family and can only point them to that Supreme Architect of the universe, who doeth all things well.

Third. That this preamble and resolutions be spread upon the minute book of this Lodge and a special page be dedicated to that purpose, and a copy be sent to the family of our deceased brother, and a copy furnished the county papers for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
—J. R. Mullins, B. J. Sessions, W. H. Sartor, Committee.
Clanton, Ala., Aug. 15, 1933.

Brief Rural Topics

Farmers, bankers and county agents have joined hands and are advocating the improvement of soils through planting winter legumes.

Prices paid farmers for their products were 72 per cent of the pre-war level on August 15. This was 4 points under the July 15 level but 13 points higher than the level of August 15, 1932. The decline from July 15 to August 15 was associated primarily with the increase in the gold value of the dollar. In terms of foreign gold currencies, the dollar was worth 69.6 cents on July 15 as compared with 74.9 cents a month later.

More than 1,000 Alabama farm men and women attended Farmers Week at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, August 29, 30, and 31. They discussed in detail many of the important problems confronting agriculture.

Alabama farmers' cooperatives have purchased approximately 60 per cent of the available world supply of winter legume seed.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

A large crowd attended the song services at the Congregational Church last Sunday night with Miss Edith Johnson in charge. The program was divided into two parts. The first consisted of the special numbers rendered by the following: Miss Kathryn Lenoir sang a solo, "No Longer Lonely." A duet "My Task" by Misses Kathryn Leonir and Edna Lee Wilder. A trio number "Praise Ye" by Misses Kathryn Foss and Agnes Gerald and Mr. A. N. Laurell; and a solo by Miss Kathryn Foss, "Beside Still Waters." These were all very beautifully rendered and greatly enjoyed by the audience. The second part of the program was given to songs led by five leaders, Mr. Akins Collins, Mr. Hollis Merchant, Miss Agnes Gerald, Mr. Emmett Billingsley and Mr. A. N. Laurell and the audience took much interest in the songs and sang unusually well. The writer wishes to thank those who took part for their kindness in helping the program to be a success.

In Memory

On August 30 the death angel visited the home of Mr. F. C. Collins. He suffered three weeks at his home in Sylacauga and was carried to the infirmary there where he remained for two weeks until our Savior called him away. All the loved ones could do was done, but God called him to that beautiful home above.

He leaves to mourn him, a wife, Beaualh (Smith) Collins; a daughter, Willie B.; two sons, Earl and Floyce, all of Sylacauga; a mother, Mrs. Lula Collins of Thorsby; five brothers, Jim, John and Will of Thorsby, Mon, of Montevallo and Grady, of Siluria.

He was fifty three years of age.

Mr. Collins was laid to rest in Cedar Grove Cemetary near Thorsby, Thursday, August 31.

All the sorrow that he gave us was when he left us, but the sweet thought is that we shall meet again.

We wish to thank the many friends for their loving kindnes and beautiful floral offerings.

Miss Willie B. Collins and mother, Mrs. F. C. Collins of Sylacauga are spending a while with relatives and friends in and around Thorsby this week.

The Ladies Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Martin Peterson this week, Thursday. It has been repuested that the ladies who attend will bring their own cup and plate. Those who have no definite way to go out there may go to the Hardware at 2:15 and those who have cars will come by for you. That means that everyone will have a way and all are invited to attend the meeting.

There will be regular serviecs at the Thorsby Baptist Church both morning and evening next Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Jones completed last week a seven weeks campaign of revival work at various churches during which time seventy-five people joined the church and fifty under Rev. Jones' ministry. Rev. Jones is to be congratulated.

The Thorsby Public School began another school term Monday morning. A short devotional service was had. Considerable change in teachers has been made for this year. They are as follows: Mrs. Claude Billingsley, principal; Miss eJnnye Robinson, Mrs. Claudie Mims, Mrs. Doris Reinhardt, and Mrs. Byrdie McNeil. School will open at 8:15.

The Ladies Sewing circle had their monthly party at the home of Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald Monday night. The members and their husbands were invited to the party. Dominoes and Carum were the games played as a means of amusement.

A young ladies sewing club is being organized for the misses of Thorsby who expect to be ladies of leisure during the winter months. Their first meeting was held last week at the home of Miss Ella Howard and this week they expect to meet with Miss Dorthy Butler. Thursday is the day set for their gathering together to the various homes alphabetically. An invitation is still open for any of the young ladies who wish to join.

REDUCTION IN PROPERTY TAXES BEING ADVOCATED

A reduction in property taxes and efficient and economical expenditure of state and county revenues were advocated by R. J. Goode, farmer, livestock breeder, legislator and member of the State Board of Agriculture, Gastonburg, in an address before Farmers' Week and the Annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation in Auburn.

"The present taxation program is unequitable and is causing thousands who are unable to pay their taxes to lose their homes and land," he declared in advocating that taxes be placed on the basis of "ability to pay."

Mr. Goode did not outline the different types of taxes he favors but the convention, following his address, had the following to say in resolution:

"We are wholeheartedly committed to the principle of taxation on the basis of ability to pay, which in practice means that the greater portion of state and federal expenses of government should come from income, corporation, inheritance, and gift taxes, leaving the general property tax largely for local governmental expenses."

Mr. Goode also advocated a definite agricultural program for the state of Alabama and declared that "farmers should ask the legislature to provide sufficient funds to efficiently and economically operate the experiment station, extension service and vocational agriculture." He gave figures showing that only 2.5 cents out of each $1 spent by the state is going for agricultural work. "In the face of the fact that agriculture creates about 74 per cent of the new wealth created in the state, this amount should not be decreased but should be increased," he said.

A prospective bridegroom of McAllen, Tex., unable to pay Justice G. C. Seawell his fee in a lump sum, turned over $1 each week until the whole amount had been paid.

Letters To The Editor

BEAN DENOUNCES TACTICS USED IN RECENT ELECTION

A few weeks ago I wrote through the papers and stated that I would later denounce some falsehoods that were circulated against me in my candidacy for county superintendent of education. I realize that this may be a little stale now, but I had a reason in waiting. I am not writing this because I believe the public believes any of the falsehoods, but should I remain silent, some might believe them.

In this election my opponent and I had an agreement that we would conduct a clean campaign, and I believe that we both conducted ourselves above criticism, but there were a few who stooped to the basest falsehoods which they themselves knew were absolute falsehoods and without one cintilla of a starting point.

The first thing that I want to mention is that it was circulated in one section of the county that when I was superintendent of education before, that I served only six years and then resigned before my term was out. This was done to make people think that I would resign if elected. The whole matter is an absolute falsehood. I served my full two terms. I served one four year term and then the county board of education appointed me for a two year term. The board made the term only two years for the following several years. Before my last term was out, I notified the board that I would not be an applicant for reappointment, because I was opposed to anyone holding three successive terms under any ordinary circumstances. In the beat where this was circulated the most, I received every vote except one. This shows that the people there had more confidence in me than they did in the one who circulated it.

It was circulated in another part of the county by some filthy mouth that when I was superintendent of education that my books were checked several thousand dollars short. Had the one who started this and those who helped spread it been honest and wanted to be fair minded and respectful citizens, they could have come to the record and found the truth, but I am glad to say that I can and will if necessary make an affidavit that no examiner ever found one cent error in my books during the entire time I was superintendent.

It was talked before the primary and also before the general election that I was instrumental in helping defraud the people out of $16,000 in a canning factory deal. A blacker falsehood was never told. The ones who started it and those who helped spread it did not believe it, and to show the honest people of Chilton County that they did not believe it, I will give any of them or any one else $50 to show one word or even a half of a word proof that I ever had any thing whatsoever to do with helping defraud any one out of one penny. Don't stand around and say that you can prove it; come on with your proof and get your money. It will be ready for you.

Here is the whole truth in the matter: The Peterman Construction Company of Chicago in 1923 came before the Clanton Chamber of Commerce and wanted to construct a canning factory. The Chamber of Commerce advised them to take it up with a farm organization that was in operation in the county. The canning company was started and I was solicited to buy stock. I refused then, because I had little confidence in the project. I advised several farmers who came to me for advice to stay out of it, and I will give any man $50 to prove that I ever asked anyone to buy stock, or ever solicited stock in any manner whatsoever. I was not a member of the farm organization neither did I have anything whatsoever to do with organizing the canning company. After the company had sold about all the stock it could and then lacked some having the amount raised that the Peterman Construction Company required, I, with a few other merchants, bought stock at $100 per share. I did not buy this stock because I had full confidence in it, but I desired to help the farmers to find something besides cotton that they could make a profit on. After there had been about $13,200 paid in to the Peterman Construction Company, and their representative, a Mr. Clay, had left the county, I was elected president of the canning company to serve without pay with four other men as a board of directors for the company. I accepted the presidency of the company without ever seeing the plant, and the first time that I saw the plant and went through it, I realized that about 132 men had each paid a hundred dollars into a fake proposition. I think that the plant could have easily been built for $3000, but I was not then and am not now responsible for that blunder the people made. The one mistake I made was to accept the presidency of the company. I bit just like the other 132 men did and got soaked just like they did. When we started to put the plant into operation, there was not one cent in the treasury. We found that the land upon which the plant was built had never been paid for, and we could not turn a wheel until it was paid for. The Board of Directors mortgaged the plant for $5000 to secure money with which to pay off the land deed, pay the farmers for their tomatoes, pay for the tin cans, and pay the hands and other operation expenses. I was not treasurer and ever saw one dollar. Mr. O. M. Mastin was treasurer and was fully bonded and his books were found correct when audited. We paid the farmers $18.00 per ton cash for their tomatoes. The plant put up an excellent pack, but the tomatoes would not sell for enough to justify the company to pay even as much as $18.00 per ton another year, and the farmers said they could not raise them at eighteen dollars. Therefore there was nothing the Board of Directors could do but let the thing sell under mortgage. It sold according to law, and of course to the highest bidder, and brought about $2100. I want the honest people of Chilton County to think of a plant that cost $14000 (had it all been paid in) after being operated only about one month selling for $2100, and see if you think I soaked the people or did they let the Peterman Construction Company soak them. Too, after the plant sold under a mortgage it lacked over $500 bringing enough to pay off the mortgage, and I and the other four members of the Board of Directors had to put up over another hundred dollars each with which to pay off the mortgage.

The above is a true explanation, and if anyone doubts the truthfulness of any of the statements above relative to the canning factory, I refer you to the other members of the Board of Directors, who are among the most reliable men in Chilton County. The members of this board were Messrs. D. O. Manning, J. P. Lawrence, Jim Gardener, and O. M. Mastin. I also refer you to Mr. Frank Callen, President of the Peoples Savings Bank, who financed the whole project and knows the details of the financial end of it.

If anyone pretends that he believes any of the false statements metnioned in this letter after he has had the absolute facts in the case, he is to be pitied rather than censured. Isn't it remarkable that it took from 1923 until just the day before the primary in May, 1933, ten years, for this wonderfully intelligent propaganda to be thought up!

This is the first time in life that my honesty has been called into question, and I am exceedingly glad that I live in a county where the civilization, intelligence and enlightenment is so high that so very, very few believe one word of the false statements. I have made a diligent inquiry and have found or heard of but eight who pretended to believe any of them.

Very sincerely,
W. T. BEAN.

2 YEAR SLASH IN COTTON IS BEING SOUGHT

Fight To Restrict Number Of Bales At Gin Led By Bankhead

Atlanta, Sept. 5.—Reduction of the nation's cotton crop for the next two years, both on the basis of acreage and of bales ginned, was voted here today by cotton representatives of five States, while a similar meeting in Memphis approved any plan the Federal Government might adopt for reducing the cotton yield.

Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida were represented at the Atlanta meeting, and Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee at the Memphis conference. A third group of cotton states representatives met in Dallas where Cully A. Cobb, cotton production chief, said the reduction program was being worked out at this early date in advance of the 1934 season in order to help prices for the 1933 crop now being picked.

Senator John Bankhead, of Alabama, led the fight here for a reduction thru a restriction of the number of bales a producer could have ginned. He said the purpose of the entire plan would be defeated if it were anchored on an acreage reduction plan, because of the possibility of increasing the yield on the smaller number of acres through more intensive cultivation.

Throughout the morning the conference debated, at times heatedly, the bales versus acreage plan. Advocates of the acreage plan said if the number of bales ginned were controlled, there was still the probability of a surplus of cotton. They contended that there would be a surplus of unginned cotton, and that this surplus would depress the market just as much as if it were ginned and baled.

After adopting Bankhead's substitute for one section of the Government's tentative program, the conference later in the day also adopted the reaminder of the program, calling for a rental payment on the acreage reduction plan, and an acreage restriction provision.

The Government's tentative program, presented to the conference here by J. Phil Campbell, State agricultural extension director, called for an acreage reduction plan which would reduce the land devoted to cotton to about 25,000,000 acres in each of the years 1934 and 1935, or a cut to about 60 per cent of the five-year average acreage.

The Bankhead plan would restrict the crop, through a ban on ginnings from each farm above an allocated amount, to between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 bales.

The Alabama Senator, supported by Congressman M. C. Allgood of the Fifth Alabama District, said if the agricultural adjustment act gives the Secretary no legal means of restricting ginnings, "Gen. Hugh Johnson, the administrator of the NIRA, can do it for cotton, through a ginners' code, as it has been done for the oil industry.

The Atlanta conference named Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, Senator Smith, of South Carolina; Harry Wilson of Louisiana and W. A. Graham of North Carolina, commissioners of agriculture; J. Phil Campbell, of Georgia; U. B. Blalock, of the North Carolina Cotton Co-op; and E. B. Jackson, of Wagener, S. C., a producer, as a committee to go to Washington to urge prompt action on some kind of reduction plan.

George Newman and James Dale of Glasgow committed 21 burglaries while making a 200-mile trip.

For a 25-cent fraud, Miss Rose Firman of London was sentenced to six months in prison.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Everybody is busy picking cotton this week.

The members of this church met last Sunday for the purpose of calling their pastor for the coming year. Rev. W. E. Robinson was called to serve Maple Springs another year. Let's pray for him that he may bring a message to us some day that will cause each and everyone of us to stop, look and listen, and see just where we are and if we are on the wide crooked road to step right off on the narrow but straight road before it is too late.

Our Sunday school was well attended Sunday. The people seem to be more interested in B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school work, which we hope will continue. They also elected Sunday school teachers for another year. They are: For Bible class, Mr. Emmett Wilson; advanced class, Mr. O. L. Devaughn; intermediate class, Mrs. Lester Downs; junior class, Mrs. Alma Wilson; and card class, Mrs. Myrtle Bowles.

Mr. Reuben Devaughn was the Saturday night guest of Mr. Elmer Rolland.

Mr. Arthur Mitchell spent Saturday night with Mr. Arnold Glenn.

Mr. Claud Downs, Jr., spent last week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs, Arnold Glenn, Elsie Glenn, Mamie and Evelyn Downs attended the singing at Chestnut Creek last Sunday afternoon. They reported a good singing.

Miss Lera May Mitchell was the Sunday afternoon guest of Misses Bernice and Marie Devaughn.

Mr. Elmer Rolland and Alton Harris were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Reuben Devaughn.

Mr. Oliver Glenn had as his dinner guest Sunday Mr. Jim Dunlap.

Don't forget the all-day singing here the third Sunday. Everybody is invited, especially singers.

Mrs. Emmett Wilson was visiting relatives in Jemison last week end.

Our B. Y. P. U. was not so well attended Sunday night. Let's not let our B. Y. P. U. fall down. Everybody come next Sunday and bring someone with you. We had several visitors with us Sunday night. They were Miss Gladys Wilson, Mr. Grover Rich, Raymond Gilliland, Jerrell Miller, Henry Sandlin, Herschell and Lamar Hand and others. We invite them back any time.

Everybody come to B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school next Sunday.

PRAISES STEEL BODY AND SHATTER-PROOF GLASSES

Commenting on a recent accident he was in with a new Ford, R. L. Duffie of Mountain Creek, was high in his praise for the all-steel body and the shatter-proof glasses on the new Ford car.

Mr. Duffie stated that he felt had it not been for the strength of the body of the car, serious injury would have befallen he and members of his family and party, when the car overturned.

The car in which the party was riding at the time of the accident has been at Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, from whom it was purchased.

Pleasant Valley

Our revival closed here last Thursday night with twelve additions. Each sermon was enjoyed by a large crowd. We also had a large crowd at Sunday school Sunday morning and B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. We believe our older people are becoming more interested in their young people. We appreciate that and invite them back each Sunday night at seven o'clock.

We have our piano now, but haven't finished paying for it, so we're giving another ice cream supper at the church Saturday night, Sept. 9th. We invite everyone to come and help us out. There will be a singing at this place next Sunday afternoon. Everybody has an invitation to come. A large crowd from here attended the singing at Chestnut Creek Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Huff Burkhalter spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lett.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lett spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams of Indian Grave.

Miss Velma Hathcock was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Maggie Boockholdt.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Another summer gone. Another period of lounging, dreaming and doing-nothing ended. Familiar faces seen on the streets. Boys and girls hurrying here and there. Upchurch's is crowded with youths, all around one counter. The stock of writing paper, pens, pencils; ink, etc. rapidly decrease at Elmore's, Alreds and all other stores. And a certain auto is seen going through town at regular intervals. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, school has opened. On last Monday at 8 o'clock A.M. the doors of C.C.H.S. opened to hundreds of ambitious boys and girls, their gay minds still filled with the thrilling spirit of a summer vacation yet slowly and surely coming back down to earth. And there are our dear teachers ready for another nine (?) months of grueling yet patient coaching and teaching which has already sent many off on the path of life. Without them where would we be? Let's remember that this year.

I see some new faces among our faculty this time. I hope they will like us as well as we are going to like them. Misses Clyde Smilie and Frances Gulledge are the two new feminine members and Mr. J. T. Searcy is the masculine addition. We hope they can fill the shoes of our absent ones, Miss Berniece Williams and Mr. Luther E. Little. Not only in academic way but also possess that quality of friendliness, cooperation and loyalty that Miss Williams and Mr. Little were well known for. We will not forget them, their memories will linger on at C.C.H.S. I am sure that our new teachers will achieve the same respect and honor that the student body had for Miss Williams and Mr. Little, if not more.

* * *

Who is that walking down the driveway? Don't you recognize that beaming smile and that friendly air of personality. That's Mr. Warr, our beloved principal, back again. This is the beginning of his sixth year as the head man here. That really speaks good of him. Don't you worry he merited it. Gee, but it loks familiar to see Mr. Varnell turn the corner at the office and head for the laboratory with that thoughtful look on his face. And there are Miss Colley and that ever welcoming smile of hers, Miss Martin (still Miss) with her notebook in her hand but a smile on her face and ready to help you in any way, and Miss Griffin, the boys' friend, (she teaches girls to cook and does she know her stuff!) standing at their leased places by the radiator. There she is just as she was last year, Miss Kendrick, seated at her desk in the home room of the Juniors, working, always glad to see you. And driving up in a new Chevrolet is none other than Lieut. Horton Walker, our able coach and manual arts instructor. He still has that magnetic personality, all of our eyes are upon him in regards to our football team this year. We were proud of our team last year and especially near the close of the season. Here's hoping he does the first of this season the same as he did at the last of the past year. Come on, let us not wait till the last of the games to show our school spirit, but now! We're with you, coach.

We are really glad to see our last year's teachers back again and we welcome our new teachers with an open hand. Don't forget opinions are often formed at the first meeting.

* * *

Let's look around and see what the summer has done with our students. Helen Moore still retains her dignity and her happy expression. I wonder if Ova Lee misses Hilda. Maybe HE will take Hilda's place. The place looks empty without Tina, who will step into her footsteps, Bill? There goes Mary Courtney, the summer didn't slow her up she's still in a hurry. I knew it, Joe is still like he was last year. Poor teachers, he still wants to argue. Well, you can't blame him if an A is at stake. And the vacation didn't speed John up he is still slow but sure and dependable. Hello Dixie, same smile, same handshake but a little more dignified. Did Old Man Vacation ease Helen Robert's temper? Look for yourself. Why ask me? Good ole Roberta Cochran still there with her ready helping hand and studious mind.

I see some grand old Seniors back with us and they are going to stay as usual. We have several new students, not meaning the "rats". There is Miss Dorothy Waites, seems a very friendly young lady. Make her feel at home here. Speak to all the new students. They are strangers here. Welcome them in.

* * *

Time for class elections. Why wait till the middle of the year?

* * *

You should think quite a bit before casting your vote. Haste makes waste.

Don't forget to remind your parents that the Parent-Teachers association will meet at the high school next Tuesday, September 12, at three o'clock. Tell them that immediately following the business there will be a social. We should be and I hope that we are proud of our P.-T. A. They have done lots for us.

* * *

Remember that it takes money to run a school just as any other business and the money a school gets comes from your tuition. If you want to be warm this winter, if you want good seats, if you want good equipment, just don't forget your tuition.

* * *

Good ole Mack. Faithful and loyal to C.C.H.S. He's back with us again. We couldn't do without Mack. He's the ebony member of the faculty.

Quite a number of last year's graduates are still looking around getting one good look at their dear ole Alma Mater before they are on their way to college and ——— ? Among them are Hilda Hart, Louise Knox, Pearl Vinson and some year-old graduates too, Sallye Mahan, Eloyse Jones. Mary Nell Jones and others.

* * *

It looks like several people have lost their popularity lately. I wonder why and so do they. I wonder if they know that they are better off.

* * *

We miss the Seniors of last year, but we hope that the class of 33-34 with Miss Frances Gulledge as their capable leader can live up to and pass the standards left by the class of 32-33.

* * *

We students are patriotic also. Therefore we will adopt a Student's Code so that we, too, can keep step with Roosevelt's program. Here it is, subject to change (by the faculty of course: Shorter hours, shorter assignments, higher grades and no exams.

* * *

We appoint Joe Moore and John Ezell as directors of this code. They are much in favor of it.

* * *

Looks as if we will really have a large attendance this term. Over three hundred have already enrolled.

* * *

Another one of our graduates made a name for himself and how. Watch next week for more about it. We sure are proud of him.

* * *

I wonder how many schooldays romances lasted throughout the summer. There are ———. Oh well, look for yourself.

How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat — to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

NOTICE

"I will not be responsible for anybody who has indigestion, sour stomach, bloating, constipation or sick headaches if they do not take Sargon Soft Mass Pills and get rid of these troubles. Everybody ought to take them two or three times a month if they want to feel good. All good druggists have them."

CENTRAL SINGING SOCIETY SUSPENDS REGULAR MEET'GS

At the annual meeting of the Central singing society at Concord last Sunday afternoon it was decided to suspend regular weekly meetings at the eight church belonging to the society for the time being. The society is not disbanded by any means, but owing to several things beyond the society's control, it was thought advisable to make this temporary change. The question was voted upon in regular order and carried without a dissenting vote.

Besides suspending the regular meetings, the motion adopted carried the provision that singings be held at the courthouse in Clanton at some regular intervals. The time and frequency of the meetings will be determined later, inasmuch as it is expected to cooperate with the other societies of the county in this venture. The matter will be taken up with the officers of the other societies at the county convention the fourth Sunday in this month.

Dr Gragg Says:

Well, Well! I thought it was "Hard Times". The reason I thought so, was because I could not collect. Everybody passed me up so easy it made my head swim. But I have been getting letters from the fellows that I owed and they told me times were better everywhere and that I had the wrong idea and to just get my mind changed and collect my accounts because I had to "come across" with what I owed.— So now please come one and all you will find me at Lorenza Popwell's old and reliable stand near the courthouse. Please come "right away" because the other fellow says he MUST have his.

AMERICAN WEEKLY OFFERS PRIZES IN CONTESTS

A chance to win an income of $1,000 a year for life and other cash prizes amounting to many thousands of dollars will be offered next Sunday in The American Weekly, magazine distributed with The Atlanta Sunday American and other Hearst Sunday newspapers.

The amount of the first prize is greater than the average annual incomes of entire families in many states in the United States. It will be paid at the rate of $1,000 a year each year the winner lives after the award is made and may amount in all to $50,000 or more if the winner should live that long. The second award is to be $500.00 a year for life and eight other awards will be large sums of cash to be paid annually.

These big gifts of money are to be made simply for an idea, a few words which will be suitable for a slogan or sub-title to be used by The American Weekly, the magazine which goes into more than 5,000,000 American homes every Sunday.

The contest, as it will be outlined in next Sunday's American is one of the simplest ever conducted by a newspaper and the easiest to enter. No subscriptions will be required in order to qualify for a prize, no puzzles to work, word lists to build or anything else tedious or troublesome.

If you want to win $1,000 a year for life, with all the possibilities of travel, education, pleasure, security from worry or unemployment that such an assured income will give, just see next Sunday's Atlanta American for full information about the contest.

The Plymouth Rock chicken is one of the most popular breeds in America, largely because it is a bird of good size, with excellent fleshing properties and good egg-laying abilities. The birds belonging to this breed are rather long bodied, fairly broad, with fairly prominent breats and good depth of body. This breed has single comb. The standard weights, in pounds, are: cock, 9½; hen, 7½; cockerel, 8; pullet, 6.

There are a number of different species of the Plymouth Rock, namely (1) The Barred Plymouth Rock, which seems to have been developed from at least three fairly distinct strains, although Robinson, a leading American authority on the origin of the American breeds varieties, has stated that the Barred Plymouth Rock owes much of its history to the Dominique. (2) The White Plymouth Rock originated as a "sport" from the barred variety. It is quite possible, however, that other strains of White Plymouth Rocks were developed from crosses of White Dorkings and White Cochins, and it is also possible that White Dorkings were crossed with Barred Plymouth Rocks, and then the white color factor extracted from subsequent generations. The plumage color is pure white throughout and should be free from black ticking, brassiness and creaminess. (3) The Buff Plymouth Rock, the plumage color is golden buff in all parts of the surface color, and all sections should be of the same shade. The presence of feathers having a shaft of different color from the rest of the feather and the presence of feathers sprinkled with lighter color are of common occurrence but are undesirable. The undercolor is of little lighter shade than the surface color. (4) Silver Penciled Plymouth Rock owes its feather marking to the Dark Brahma. The plumage of the male consists of a silvery white surface color, extending over the wing bows and back, and the hackle and saddle are silvery white, striped with black, the main tail feathers and sickles, is black. The primaries are black, except for a narrow edging of white on the lower edges of the lower webs, and the secondaries are black, with some white. In the female the surface color is gray, with a penciling of dark gray on each feather, neck are silver white, with a black center, the main tail feathers are black, with the two top feathers showing some penciling. (5) Partridge Plymouth Rock, developed apparently from Partridge Cochin and Brown Leghorns, in color pattern is practically the same as the Silver Penciled Plymouth Rock, except that the white in the Silver Penciled is replaced by red or reddish brown. (6) Columbian Plymouth Rock was developed from crosses between Light Brahmas and White Plymouth Rock. (7) Blue Plymouth Rock was first recognized as a standard variety in 1919. Their color is a slaty blue.

American Breeds of Chickens continued next week with the "Wyandotte" and others.

Farm Women March Under Blue Eagle

Auburn, Ala., Sept. 4—Alabama farm women are marching under the blue eagle.

Their endorsement of President Roosevelt's NRA campaign was given here last week through a resolution adopted by their official organization the Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, during its annual convention held as a part of Farmers Week at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The women endorsed "wholeheartedly the national recovery program in its relation both to agriculture and industry."

They said "We shall give material encouragement to those who come under the blue eagle and enter actively into the campaign to make the recovery program a success."

Hundreds of local home demonstration clubs and county councils in Alabama are now actively cooperating in the work of sponsoring the recovery program under the direction of Mrs Val Taylor of Uniontown, state chairman of the women's NRA activities.

Officers elected by the rural women's organization for the coming year are Mrs. M. L. Batson, Homewood, president; Mrs. Frank Daugherty, Athens, vice president; Mrs. D. S. Robertson, Waverly, secretary; and Mrs. Gordon DeRamus, Booth, treasurer.

The board of directors included, in addition to the officers, the following: Mrs. Chas. Butler, New Hope; Mrs. John Morriss, Alpine; and Mrs. J. D. Giles, Selma.

A & P STORE TO SELL BUTTER IN LINE WITH PROGRAM

Secretary Wallace, concerned over the difficult situation of the dairy farmers upon whom the enormous surplus of butter is especially burdensome, has suggested that retail stores cooperate with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration by moving butter into consumption as quickly as possible, reducing the price of butter to make it attractive to the consumer on the basis of two cents per pound above local wholesale market.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company announces that its cooperation is immediately effective, and that, beginning today, butter will be sold in all its stores throughout the country without profit. For example, if butter is selling at twenty three cents per pound in the wholesale market, A&P has set the retail price of twenty five cents per pound. This two cents only partially covers the retail stores expense. The twenty three cents goes to the dairy farmer.

PLEASANT VALLEY SINGING SOCIETY

We wish to remind the singers of this and surrounding communities that our singing society meets next Sunday afternoon. We have a good instrument now that is ready for use, and we expect to make use of it. ELECTRIC BILL consumers and rural consumers and reclassifies the groups.

City dwellers are classified as those living in communities having a total of 75 or more consumers and a density of 20 customers or more per mile.

Henceforth they will be served under "urban rates" and the rural residents will be served under the classification of "suburban" rates.

In making the "urban" rates the Commission prescribed one scale effective on all bills dated Oct. 1, or afterwards and a second scale that is even lower which shall be available if the customer increases the use of electricity over the corresponding month of last year.

For instance the average six room dweller who uses the average 25 kilowatt hours a month for lighting will pay $1.61 cents under the newly prescribed scale.

However, if this same dweller should increase his consumption of electricity by one kilowatt hour over the electricity consumed during the corresponding month for the preceding year he would be entitled to the "objective" rate, which is still lower.

In other words, suppose Mr. Six Room Dweller in the city used 25 kilowatt hours last October and next October used 26 kilowatt hours. Then he would be entitled to the "objective" scale and his bill would be $1.50 instead of $1.61.

To Stimulate Consumption

The object in offering two scales is to stimulate the consumption of electricity.

In prescribing the two scales, however, the Commission delved considerably into the future and ordered that that "objective" scale should be made to apply three years hence regardless of how little electricity was consumed by the individual home.

This is the first time in the State's history, insofar as is known, that a future rate has been prescribed.

There are still other features of the rate which are entirely new in rate making in this section of the country.

The commission has laid down the rules in its order that the amount of electricity consumed during the year ending Sept. 1 shall be the "base" of the customer's consumption and provides that this base shall be decreased 5 per cent each year for the second and third years, in order to increase the availability of the "objective" rate to those who do not choose to use more current.

We Co-operate

IN THE GREAT effort now being made to restore the prosperity of this country, the funeral directing profession and allied industries are doing their part.

The National Funeral Directors' Association, official organization of our calling, is cooperating with the National Recovery Administration by drawing up a code of fair practices whereby it may contribute to re-employment and higher wages. Similarly, the manufacturers of caskets and other funeral merchandise have formulated codes whereby their thousands of workers may have more work and better working conditions.

We are proud to have a part in this great national movement.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS

NRA RESPECTS OTHERS' RIGHTS

I think it is the first time in our history that the Nation as a whole, regardless of party, has approved drastic changes in the methods and functions of government, without destroying the basic principles. Perhaps I can best illustrate by putting it this way, that we have been extending to our national life the old principle of the local community, the principle that no individual has a right to do things that hurt their neighbors. In the old days when there were only agricultural communities, it was not fair to allow cattle to roam on our neighbors' land. The extension of the idea is recognized as no infringement on the guarantee of personal liberty to the individual. It is no more a restriction to tell a man that he must pay adequate wages than it is to tell him that he must not hire child labor or that he must not maintain a nuisance against his neighbors. The NRA is being accepted by the people with the understanding of what it is all about.

"Through government, the people are extending as a permanent part of American life—not just for 2 years—their insistence that individuals and associations of indivduals shall cease doing many things that have been hurting their neighbors. The neighbors are the people of the United States as a whole. The Government at Washington must think of them in a national sense and not by States. We cannot single out one industry or one section at the expense of others.

"But your responsibility does not stop there. The greater part of government as it affects your daily life and mine is your local government. When I was Governor I used to tell people that we have in this State 13,000 local units of government. You were all interested but you did nothing about it. I told you there were over 950 highway departments in the State of New York; that you lived under eight layers of government, paying taxes in all of them. You and I know this to be an outworn system, built up in the days of the ox cart and unchanged in the days of the automobile. Nothing will be done about it until you make your representatives — on town and county boards and in the legislature—do something about it. And if they won't do it, substitute them. This is not politics, it is straight Duchess County Americanism.

"More men and women are taking a personal interest in the social relations, economic questions, and political problems than ever before. I hope their interest will be extended to the problems of the local government, with the thought that what is good for my neighbor is good for me too."

Answers to Inquiries

Q. I work in a grocery store, that displays the Blue Eagle, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Saturdays; salary $12 per week. Is this in accordance with NRA?

A. If population less than 2,500, you are receiving minimum rate and there is no maximum time. If more than 2,500, census 1930, should be $14.

Q. I employ a boy in my store whom I cannot afford to pay prescribed minimum wage. What must I do to keep him to comply with NRA?

A. Put him on part-time basis at pro rata of minimum for full time. If your town is under 2,500 population, maximum hour provisions do not apply.

Q. I have two employees in my store, and if I add a part-time employee will I lose my exemption from the hour provisions of the President's Agreement?

A. No.

Q. Where a town has a population of less than 2,500 and the trade area is over 2,500 shall the population of the town or that of the trade area be taken in connection with paragraph 4 of the President's Agreement?

A. Population of the town; but if it is in a trade area centering upon a larger town or city, the population of the latter should be taken as basic

Q. I am a storekeeper in a town of 1,500 and employ two clerks. Can I keep open more than 8 hours a day or more than 48 hours a week?

A. Yes. NRA imposes no maximum limit in town of your size.

It was a pleasure to see Mr. E. E. Aldridge in town the other day. Mr. Aldridge was a caller at the News office and we gave him a subscription receipt.

Perhaps it would be fitting to say that it is time several subscriptions are being renewed, and the News has plenty of receipts.

* * *

Mr. R. L. Duffie, our friendly mail carrier from Mt. Creek, was in Clanton Saturday and stated Mrs. Duffie is improving from injuries she received in an automobile accident recently. We are glad to hear that.

* * *

Mrs. J. H. Williams will be found now looking after the millinery and dress departments of "Ben's", one of Clanton's popular dry goods stores.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lakeman of Lay Dam were in Clanton Saturday.

* * *

Mr. W. M. Devaughn who resides on Route 3 was a caller at the News office last Thursday. We were glad to see Mr. Devaughn, as he usually has something interesting to tell. He was given a subscription receipt while in the office.

Buford Lawrence is seen about town these days greeting his many friends with his usual friendly smile. Mr. Lawrence will be principal of the Isabella High School.

Jerome Wilson, who is to be principal of the Stanton Jr., High School, and Mrs. Wilson, were in Clanton Saturday. While in town, Jerome was a pleasant visitor at the News office.

* * *

O. T. Scott, of Route 3, was in Clanton Saturday and the News enjoyed a pleasant visit from him. O. T. recently took for himself a charming young lady for his bride and we extend congratulations to them both.

* * *

We don't see much of James Parrish, who operates that attractive little stucco service station on the highway north of Clanton. He stays right on the job and we can say they make mighty good barbecue sandwiches up there.

* * *

Mr. W. Y. Keel, a progressive farmer and upright citizen of near Verbena, was in Clanton Saturday and a pleasant caller at the News office.

We forgot to mention that Charlie Bell brought in a twin peanut Saturday to the News office. Yes sir, it is something we've never seen before. Two well formed peanuts, stuck together.

* * *

"Uncle George" Willis stopped in the News office the other day for a little chat. He told of a sure way to kill bean beetles, and it was a dandy. "Uncle George" believes he is getting younger every day, and we kind of believe that ourselves. Get him to tell you how to kill bean beetles.

Mr. Adee Scott, of just south of Clanton was in town Saturday. Mr. Scott is doing some film developing and photographic work now.

COTTON CHECKS COMING SAYS COUNTY AGENT

C. E. Stapp Sends And Receives Telegram About Cotton Checks

On Monday, of this week, Mr. Stapp sent the following telegram:

"C. A. Cobb, Cotton Section A. A. A.
U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Washington, D. C.

Taxes of more than six hundred farmers delinquent. They will have to pay extra cost after September fourteenth. They are anxious for their cotton reduction checks to meet delinquent taxes.

C. E. STAPP, County Agent."

In reply, he received the following telegram:

"C. E. Stapp, County Agent,
Clanton, Ala.

Regarding telegram September 11th. Batches of checks to the counties in the cotton belt aggregating many thousands are being mailed out daily. You should begin to receive your quota.

E. A. MILLER, Acting Chief
Cotton Section."

Mr. Stapp is looking for checks to show up at any time and will send them out as soon as he receives them.

Mr. Stapp states that farmers who borrowed money from the Government for 1933 Crop Production, and who are due checks for Cotton Reduction, may call at his office and get release of amount the Government is due them.

W.M.S. PLANNING BIG TIME HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

"Old Destrect Skool" Will Be Presented With Several Other Numbers

MANY ARE GIVEN DIPTHERIA TEST IN THIS COUNTY

Approximately 200 Found Not Immune In Part Of The County

Over eight hundred persons were given the Schick tests to determine susceptibility to diptheria in Chilton county during the past two weeks, according to Dr. O. L. Chason of the Rockefeller Foundation, under which this is made possible, in cooperation with the state health department. The greater part of these persons were school children.

Eight clinics were held in the county for this work of diptheria control. This does not mean that this number of persons were found to be susceptible to diptheria. but means they were given the tests. Approximately 200 out of the 800 were given the toxoid, Dr. Chason stated and commented that he found several cases of the disease in the county with the greater number in that section east of Thorsby.

Dr. Chason stated that he found a high degree of immunities in the county also and that children under school age were more susceptible than others. There were no clinics held in the southern part of the county as Dr. Chason expects to hold clinics there while working out of Autauga county in the near future.

JOBS CREATED FOR THOUSANDS RESULT OF BLUE EAGLE DRIVE

THE OX WITH THE IDEA AND WHAT THE FARMER DID

Washington — National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson illustrated what the Government is doing under the sign of the Blue Eagle with a story of an ox who developed an idea. "Once there was a very poor farmer plowing a field with an ox and a mule," said the general. "In the midst of a furrow the ox got to thinking: 'I don't need to go on pulling together,' so he laid down and chewed his cud. The farmer couldn't budge the ox, so he got into the yoke with the mule. At sundown the mule came home tired. but the ox was rested and talkative. and he asked the mule: 'What did the boss say?' 'Nothing; he just pulled on together with me.' 'Well, didn't he even mention my name?' 'No—oh, yes; he did say something about you, but that was later. A man drove up to the gate just now, and they talked some and mentioned you.' 'Who was that man?' asked the ox. 'That was the butcher.'"

Grand Jury Will Meet Next Week

The Chilton county grand jury will convene next Monday when a wide range of law violations will be investigated. Four homicides will be among the numerous cases to come to the attention of members of the grand jury during this session and scores of burglary; grand and petit larceny and liquor violations will demand attention.

The Fall term of Circuit court is scheduled to convene the latter part of October and early November, according to information from the clerk's office.

Ex-Service Men To Get Jobs With C.C.C.

There will be openings in the Civilian Conservation Corps for several ex-service men from this section within the near future, according to information from the offices of Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, local welfare superintendent, who announced recently that applications for these positions will be accepted at her office during the next few days.

Only ex-service men will be accepted Miss Austin stated, and they must possess the following qualifications: Have an honorable discharge from a period of wartime service: must be out of employment; must have dependents, and must be physically able to do manual labor.

During the next two months it is hoped that several score of ex-service men may be given employment through this method. but Miss Austin stated that the number will be necessarily small from each locality and requests that only those who are sure that they possess the above qualifications apply.

There are forty-nine Chilton Countians doing their part for business recovery in the several reforestation camps in Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

MAPLESVIVLLE P.-T. A. WILL MEET FRIDAY EVENING, 15TH

The Maplesville Parent-Teachers Association will hold its first meeting of the 1933-34 school year Friday evening, September 15th, at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium. County Supt. Luther E. Little, will be the principal speaker. Parents are cordially invited.

Employers Are Backing Drive With Success Being Assured Over U.S.

ESTIMATED 12,000,000 WORKERS UNDER CODE

Washington—Cross-section reports to NRA headquarters reveal the extent to which the Blue Eagle drive is actually putting men and women back to work. Incomplete reports from State and regional committees show that considerably more than 12.000,000 workers are now under NRA codes, apart from those of about 3,000,000 employers who are operating under the President's emergency reemployment agreement pending completion of codes for their respective industries.

One of the first complete reports was

News Giving Tickets To Local Theatre

With each renewal or new subscription to the News, a free ticket will be given to the Wadesonian Theatre. This offer is for a limited time, and many have already taken advantage of the offer.

The Wadesonian Theatre is bringing some big pictures to Clanton now, among them are Al Jolson in "Hallelujah I'm A Bum," Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee," and in "The Kid From Spain."

Of Interest To All County Lumbermen

In a communication received by the News from Mr. F. E. Hudson, lumberman of Cooper, Ala., and NRA committeeman on the lumber industry, he had the following to say that is of interest to all lumbermen of the county:

"If you have not received your blanks for making out request for your quotas for October, also for reporting July cut—would suggest that you write Southern Pine Association, New Orleans, La., immediately, as these should be in by 20th inst."

F. E. HUDSON, Committeeman

PLANNING FOR PICNIC TO BE HELD AT ENTERPRISE SCHOOL

The News has been requested to announce that there will be a big picnic held at the Enterprise Junior High School on Thursday, Sept. 28th, beginning at nine-thirty o'clock in the morning.

Numbers for the entertainment of those attending will be given and suitable for everyone to take part in. Those attending are requested to bring basket lunch.

A & P STORE PUTTING ON A HUGE ONE-CENT SALE

On the back page of the News this week will be found an advertisement from the A & P Store of Clanton. They are announcing another of their popular one-cent sales. G. C. Armstrong, manager of the store, stated that they are certainly offering some bargains in this sale.

KIWANIANS HEAR ADDRESS ON NRA NEEDS AND PROGRAM PLAN

Prominent Visitors From Birmingham Were Guests Of Club Last Thursday; Importance Of United Effort Today Stressed

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton was host on last Thursday night at its regular weekly meeting to four prominent visitors from Birmingham, Dr. Mel F. Jackson, Judge Ben Ray, Hon. J. E. Addicks, Hon. John Ward, Hon. Jim Smith and Hon. L. E. Foster, the latter of the Chamber of Commerce.

The feature of the meeting was an address by Judge Ray who is taking a leading part in the pushing of the program of the National Recovery Act in Birmingham and vicinity. He spoke in no uncertain terms of the great importance of united effort of every citizen to push the purpose of the NRA in every village and community as well as in the cities.

His address was one of the most outstanding heard here on this particular subject, and this was evidenced by the many nods of approval from those hearing him. He minced no words in telling of the condition this country found itself when a check-up was made, and of the great part President Roosevelt is playing in bringing back normal conditions with the assistance and cooperation of indivduals and industry.

Dr. S. J. Ezell, a Kiwanian, also took part on the program with a talk on "Higher Social, Business and Professional Standards Objectives of Kiwanis International."

Tonight when the Kiwanis Club meets again, W. M. Wyatt, president, will address the club on "The Meaning of Constitution Week." A special song will be rendered by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, with Dan Waites a talk on "Citizenship Objective of Kiwanis International." The main address will be given by Kiwanian Pressley Cochran on "The Constitution." Appropriate songs will be on the program also.

BEAUTY REVUE TONIGHT

'MISS CHILTON COUNTY' TO BE PICKED HERE

Will Receive Loving Cup With Possibly Other Honors To Come

Some pretty and charming young lady will be crowned "Miss Chilton County" tonight, when 25 of the county's most beautiful young ladies will take part in a Chilton County Beauty Revue, at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton.

This revue is being sponsored by business concerns of the county, who are cooperating to make it one of the most outstanding beauty revues ever held in this section.

The young lady selected as the winner by the out-of-town judges tonight will receive a beautiful silver loving cup as well as being crowned "Miss Chilton County." The contestants have been going through preliminaries during the first of the week and considerable interest has been aroused over the county.

The winner will also compete in the near future, it was stated, for the honor of "Miss Alabama" in Birmingham, however this event is not difinitely set as yet, due to engagements already on hand there. The out-of-town judges

FOOTBALL GETS UNDERWAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Outlook Bright For Very Strong, Fast Team For Walker

Although there are only five letter men back this year for football, Coach Horton Walker has an optimistic outlook for a first class eleven for C. C. H. S. this year. Twenty-two men in all have reported for practice and the remaining seventeen are fresh material. Though they are a bit green on football tactics they supply the squad with enough heavy men for the line and fast and shifty backfield men to make a first-class team. Coach Walker hopes by rigid training and excellent coaching to build a football team that Clanton and C. C. H. S. will be proud of. The five letter men back this season are, Joe Moore, Jesse Frank Foshee, Emanuel Cooper, James Tiffin and Sidney Reynolds, and since these five are of the cream of last years team there is no doubt that Chilton will near the top if not on top in the ranks of high school teams. Helping quite a lot this year in forming a first-class eleven is the splendid team cooperation and school spirit displayed by the boys.

The schedule of the Tigers this year promises to provide football fans with a season of fast, tight and brilliant games. The schedule is as follows: Sept. 22, Isabella, here, (pending); Sept. 29, Selma, there; Oct. 6, Columbiana, there; Oct. 13, Autauga County, here; Oct. 20, Tallassee, there; Oct. 27, Plantersville, there, (pending); Nov. 3, Bibb County, here; Nov. 10, Montevallo, here; Nov. 17, Holtville, there.

ONE VICTIM OF LIGHTNING

STRIKES BARN IN NEW SALEM SETTLEMENT

Two Others Injured When Bolt Attracted By Wire Fence To Barn

Ellis Y. Yeager, age 23 years, was instantly killed when struck by lightning about 2:45 o'clock last Friday afternoon. Yeager, with two other men, was in the barn of Geo W. Maddox in the New Salem community, Clanton Route 4, when the bolt hit The others, Geo. W. Maddox and Van Deason, were injured, but not seriously.

Reports stated that the men had been doing some repair work on the barn and were all standing in the door when lightning is believed to have struck the tin roof and was attracted from there toward a wire fence attached to the barn. Yeager, being in its path was struck down, and in falling against Mr. Maddox caused him to receive a severe shock.

Dr. N. S. Johnson was summoned and gave treatment to the injured. A Spigener ambulance also answered the call and brought the body of Yeager to Clanton to prepare it for burial. Funeral services were held last Sunday at 11 a.m. at New Salem church

Mr. Yeager is survived by his wife, Mrs. Louise Yeager, of the New Salem community; three brothers, Percy, of Ralph, Ala., Paul, of Pelham, Ala., Henry, of Blockton, Ala.; one sister, Mrs Mabel Easterling of Clanton, and a half-brother, W. T. Miller, of Ralph, Ala.

FLEM HIGGINS PLEASED WITH SALES OF FARM IMPLEMENTS

The splendid sales and many inquiries about farm implements of the International Harvester Co., is most pleasing, according to a statement this week from Flem Higgins, who is connected with Polk Brothers Motor Co., dealers for the famous International and McCormick-Deering farming implements.

"We have everything from a small bolt to a large truck," Mr. Higgins stated, "and our customers are surprised at the small cost of these implements."

Mr Higgins is well known throughout the county. He has had quite a bit of experience in this line.

OLIVER STEELE VISITS IN CLANTON LAST TUESDAY

Clanton received a visit from one of the citizens of [illegible] [illegible], in the person of J. Oliver Steele, [illegible] assistant to the superintendent of education there.

Mr. Steele has a number of friends in Clanton who were glad to see him.

GROUP OF YOUNG MEN SEE "GHOSTS" IN CEMETERY

Four young men of Clanton who selected the city cemetery to play hide and seek, or something—or maybe they were not playing games—last Sunday night had their little playhouse disturbed by something.

While they may not believe in ghosts, it would appear they must have seen a ghost judging from the manner in which they made their exit from the avenues of tombs and slabs, each in a different direction.

However, after the dust had cleared away and running footsteps quickly vanished, the "ghosts" appeared at the scene of the party in the persons of Deputy Louis Gillespie and City Officer Foshee.

HILLS MANAGER CONFINED TO BED ACCOUNT OF ILLNESS

Floyd Phillips, manager of the local Hill Grocery Store, is confined to his home here on account of illness. His many friends miss him and wish him a speedy recovery.

L. R. Caffee, an experienced grocery man, is taking the place of Mr. Phillips during the latters' illness. And of course Joe VanDerveer is still at his usual post with Hill's.

FARMERS HDWE. HAS NOVEL WAGON FOR KIDDIES

One of the most novel coaster wagons, or coasters for youngsters seen in Clanton in some time, is on display at the Farmers Hardware Company here.

It is built very sturdy, with rubber tires, and extreme stream-lines, and it sells at a reasonable price.

REV. WM. E. ROBINSON WILL PREACH AT FRIENDSHIP SUN.

Rev. William Elijah Robinson of Birmingham will preach at Friendship Baptist church, one and one-half miles north of Clanton, the third Sunday night in this month, September 17th. All church members are urged to attend, and the public is cordially invited. Services will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Patrick and Miss Mary Nelle Jones spent last week end in Pensacola, Fla.

We Dislike To Do It, But It Seems Quite Important

As much as we dislike to keep pounding about this trading at home matter, we feel that as long as the present situation exists we must keep at it.

We have been appealing to the buying public, to the ladies who are the great spenders of the American dollar, and to the merchants to encourage buying at home more than they are doing now. Now, we have a little message we want to impart to the public. Each one can have a lot to do about this matter. Real often and at regular intervals, you, no doubt, receive a mail-order house catalog with many items listed in it, and statements asking for your business.

There are few of the home merchants you trade with who mail you a letter or circular and few send you a message through your newspaper. Now, here's the point, you people who trade: Next time you are in a store, tell the merchant that some mail-order house sent you a nice catalog and asked for your business. And ask him why he doesn't do a little advertising so you can keep up with his prices and what he has to sell. Advertising is one of the best methods of encouraging the trade-at-home idea.

Stay On The Farm

W. P. McGuire, editor of the Southside Virginia News, Petersburg, Virginia, has a proposal that deserves wide attention. It is simple and it is important. And the crux of it is: Why not keep farm boys on farms?

In pursuing his proposal, he asks 27 pregnant questions concerning the trend of young men away from the farm and possible ways of reversing its direction. It is certainly obvious that boys who have been reared on farms and have been intimately associated with the craft of agriculture since infancy, are best equipped to make the farmers of tomorrow. And it is equally true that these boys have been marching to the cities in armies, for a great many years, impelled by the hope of making their fortune in a life which they know little or nothing.

In the years following the war, this away-from-the-farm drift added hundreds of thousands of boys to the urban population. And when the depression came, it was an important factor in causing the worst unemployment situation in our history. Most of the boys had never learned any trade especially well—they took any old job they could find, and it was usually of a sort requiring little skill and no training or aptitude. They were the first to be let out when production slowed. They are likely to be the last taken back.

We have appropriated millions for agricultural relief and created great federal organizations to administer it. Certainly it would be worthwhile, as Editor McGuire says, to go to the root of the farm problem and give part of the money and effort to evolving a plan to enable young men to stay on the farm and become self-supporting citizens. Doing this would prevent overpopulation of urban centers, tend to mitigate employment problems and, as Mr. McGuire says, fits in perfectly with the Administration's aim to provide a solid economic foundation for our country.

A Daily Meditation

Gracious Heavenly Father, for this new day, make us humbly grateful. Help us most of all to attend to our OWN business and leave the other fellow's business alone.

As our Great Physician, We beseech THEE, to perform an operation—Remove that destructive germ that infests us all sorely—That fatal germ of SELFISHNESS. We know, Gracious Lord, that Thou can make us immune from this affliction.

And Most Righteous Father, we ask of Thee to bestow upon us a portion of that which makes all men love Thee and their fellowman. FAITH—Faith in Thee, as our Blessed Master; Faith in our fellowman, and Faith in ourselves—so that whatever our tasks may be for this new day, it will be done in Thy Name's Honor and Glory.

It's Time To Build

The American home shortage continues to grow, according to government and other statistics of a reliable nature.

In the decade between 1920 and 1930 the country added a total of 5,600,000 families to its population. The need for new housing during that decade was approximately equal to the number of families added. In addition, a certain number of homes were destroyed by fire, obsolescence and so forth—a number which is placed at the conservative figure of 250,000 for the decade. Normal building, therefore, should have provided for about 5,850,000 families during the ten-year period.

The total number of families provided with new housing in 257 cities surveyed during the decade, was 3,616,000. These 257 cities accounted for 70.8 per cent of all residential building. On that basis, the gross of new homes built in the entire country was 5,180,000, leaving us with a shortage of 698,000 homes when we entered the year 1931. And now it is reliably estimated that the shortage has reached 1,350,000.

What all this leads up to is that we are on the eve of tremendous expansion in residential building. As recovery gets under way, and men go back to work, hundreds of thousands of American families are going to replace old homes with new ones, or move from rented quarters into homes of their own. Construction prices of all kinds are going to soar—and we will look back on 1933 as the year when almost inconceivable building bargains were offered us. It's time to build!

The Mosquito Situation In Clanton Is Getting Serious

When you (and I) go to bed at night and just as you close your eyes in anticipation of a good rest and undisturbed slumber, a very annoying humming is heard about your head, something has got to be done, or else a husky mosquito will probably sit down on you somewhere and enjoy a feast. The mosquito situation in Clanton is becoming serious and we believe everyone in Clanton will agree with us that it is.

Undoubtedly these pests have formulated a code and decided they would get busy, put more to work at higher feasts. We've never seen such a condition. Harmony certainly exists among the mosquitoes here. There seems to be no friction whatever, except between the mosquito and the person he bites. And that friction is becoming entirely too warm. We see only one benefit arising from the great number of these pests and that is in the increase of sales of spray guns and the liquid used to kill the mosquitoes. Stores here that sell this are undoubtedly enjoying a good business in that line.

But in all seriousness, this condition is becoming alarming and immediate steps should be taken by the authorities to curb the hatching of the mosquitoes. If it was merely bothersome to have the pests buzz around your head, it would present a different picture, but these insects are great disease carriers and are dangerous.

Several cases of malaria are being reported in Clanton, some are serious, and there is no telling how many persons are becoming full of malaria and typhoid and don't know it. All on account of continuous attacks from mosquitoes. There are several excellent breeding places in and near Clanton and a good breeze from any of these places will carry mosquitoes to many parts of town. But in fact, the whole town is infested with them.

We understand that our city officials have become somewhat conscious of the fact that mosquitoes are getting a little too numerous here and will probably take steps to determine the breeding places and give proper treatment. At least we certainly hope they take these steps now, because we understand that every day that passes there may be thousands of the insects brought to full grown stage and able to carry thousands of germs to those whom they bite.

Judge Ben Ray And The NRA

Last Thursday night the Kiwanis Club of Clanton heard in no soft words the importance of the workings of the National Recovery Act. Judge Ben Ray of Birmingham spoke to the club and told of the emphasis that should be placed on enlisting everyone to cooperate to the extent of their ability with the NRA.

We wish that every citizen of the county could have heard this address. It is "as plain as the nose on your face" that every citizen, whether employer or employee, should take hold of this idea for their own good and that those who are not doing their part are standing in the way of and obstructing progress toward bringing the nation back to normal business conditions. After hearing that address the News is more than proud that it is cooperating by a raise in wages, more men at work and shorter hours.

These "Belliachers" And Know-It-Alls

A man, a resident of Chilton County, walked into a store in Clanton recently and inquired if the store had displayed the Blue Eagle. His question was something like this, "Have you got up one of them blue buzzards?"

The clerk in the store very enthusiastically and patriotically replied that they were displaying the Blue Eagle. At this, the man, an American citizen, replied something like this, "Well, I'm looking for a store that doesn't have up a blue buzzard. I can buy things cheaper there."

While we are under the impression that those words about the "blue buzzard" were not the only ones spoken by this American citizen, they are enough to cause us to wonder if that man had rather live in Russia, Cuba or some country not under the leadership we are under today. We wonder if he calls the bird on the dollar a "buzzard." We wonder if it occured to him he might be throwing slanderous remarks at the emblem of the United States of America and we wonder if he found a store in Clanton without the Blue Eagle where he could make his purchase. No doubt he is still looking, and we expect that any full-blooded, patriotic American citizen really doesn't care if he trots his shoes off looking.

Figures Are Talking

Paul Mallon, writing in his column "News Behind the News" has the following to say:

"Strange as it seems, Mr. Roosevelt actually spent less up to Aug. 30 than Mr. Hoover had at that point in the last fiscal year. Mr. Hoover's total was $843,000,000 and Mr. Roosevelt's $580,000,000 for the first one-sixth of the fiscal year.

"Likewise Mr. Roosevelt's emergency relief program so far has cost less than Mr. Hoover's. The total Roosevelt outlay for emergencies up to Aug. 30 was $214,000,000. The main items in rounds are: R. F. C., $107,000,000; public works, $46,000,000; C. C. C., $43,000,000; farmers, $15,000,000.

"Last year Mr. Hoover had spent $262,000,000 through the R. F. C."

"EXPLANATION—The secret of Mr. Roosevelt's ability "to spend more and yet spend less" is economy. His adjusted service certificate payments to Aug. 30 were $50,000,000 instead of Mr. Hoover's $100,000,000. Also the postal deficit is around $3,000 instead of Mr. Hoover's $15,000,000."

All that sounds almost incredible, but we have every reason to believe that Mr. Mallon writes nothing but the truth and sticks to facts, regardless of where the cap fits.

There must have been a lot of money unnecessarily spent under Mr. Hoover's administration, and very little done. Is there any wonder that the country turned to the Democratic Party for help and is getting it?

A Tip To The Republicans

What the Republican party needs, or that is to say, what the shell of the Republican party needs, is a brand-new name.

Republican stock is low. It is lower than was Lightning Rod common during the gloomy days of The Crash.

What the Republican Party needs is a new name. The G. O. P. should pack up and go off somewhere for a fresh start under a new name.—Montgomery Advertiser.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

At Indian Springs, Georgia, I was talking with one of the re-forestation men about the young men employed by Uncle Sam. I asked after seeing his crew of men kill a tremendous snake, "Have any of the men been bitten by a snake since going into the employ of the government?" He replied, "Only one. This young man was from the city and knew nothing about the habits of snakes, and find a large rattle snake in his coil, the young fellow thought him to be without eyes. He looked closely, and not seeing the eyes of the snake he kept drawing closer and closer until his head was within two feet of the snake. Then the snake leaped and struck him on the forehead, just above his eyes. The poor boy was dead in less than an hour." Horrible to think about, and yet the same thing is happening in a spiritual way all over this land of ours. Our young men and women are finding the reptiles of the devil coiled and ready to strike. They fail to see any harm in the whiskey bottle, the card table, joy rides, and they inch up to them, and before they know it the reptile has leaped and struck them on the heart and they die to everything that is worth living to possess. Look out for the devil's reptiles that are coiled and ready to strike.

Two wicked men were riding along in a buggy together. A storm came up and one of the men started to cursing God and the lightning. The other fellow grabbed him in his arms and flung him out of the buggy saying, "Hush your mouth, fool. I will not ride with such profanity in a time like this. God might hear you and then strike at you and hit me." He threw the cursing man into a briar patch and drove off and left him. The most of us have met with like embarrassment on the account of profane men. Many a time I have looked for God to strike down men who cursed and fumed. How could I know but that I would be in the line of the stroke when it fell. I never hear an oath when I do not feel like the man in the buggy, I feel like flinging the profane man into a briar patch and leaving him there. I do not want to be very near when God strikes at a sinner, He might hit me.

While attending the Indian Spring camp meeting I went to the six o'clock prayer service. A good woman came in and kneeled at her seat to pray. After her prayer she decided that she would go a bit nearer the altar and when she arose a large lemon dropped from her garments and rolled down against my foot. Evidently this was a good woman, but I could not help thinking as I looked upon that lemon at my feet. Lots of folks go to church and many of them to prayer meeting and carry a lemon along with them. They kneel down to pray and get up to hand a lemon to somebody. I was saying my prayers and passed the lemon up and left it there. Blessed is the man who can have a lemon rolled to his feet and leave it there.

We were sitting at the supper table and had to endure the capers and the crowing of one of the most rude youngsters that I ever saw. He said nothing bad, but everything about him was rude and repulsive. He showed every indication of being selfish through and through. Supper being over we went down to the tabernacle and in the testimony meeting this rude young man was the first to be on his feet saying, "I am saved and sanctified and I praise God for a full salvation." After adjusting my glasses on my nose that I might see more closely, I looked him up and down and then said to myself, "Is that so? Then my young fellow, how could you cut such capers at the supper table and act in such a rude way toward those who furnished your meal?" It is better to live a sanctified life and say nothing, than it is to live in a repulsive manner and talk a blue streak. Folks will find out how good you are by the way you live.

I had to sleep in the room with a stranger. The next morning we were dressing and I said to him, "I presume that you are a conductor." The man looked astonished and replied, "Yes, but how did you know it?" My reply was, "I know it because last night you turned over in your sleep and said, 'Tickets, Tickets'." It is heard for us to keep people from knowing what we are. It might surprise you if people would tell you all they know about you. You are telling it in your dreams, on your face, in your actions.

Captain Ward On Times Of Plenty

Prehistoric man had the Gigantosaurus which was over one hundred feet long and as big as a two-story house, the Tyrannosaurus which packed the strength of a locomotive, the Pterodactyl, Flying Dragon, whose wings would throw a city block into the shadow. All lived with man as a contemporary. Where are they today? Exterminated because they could not adjust themselves to the changing conditions of the times. Mentally they stagnated. Most of us show that our minds are lethargic, stagnant or paralyzed. We seem unable to wake ourselves. It was not always so.

When we look back to the years 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, how vast a contrast from that which prevails today in this wonderful State of Alabama. During those years over $40,000,000 worth of roads were built, many fine bridges were constructed, school houses sprang up all over the State, the children were in schools, the teachers received their checks, the farmer sold his products, the workingmen had full dinner pails.

How did all these things come about? Through the leadership of one man in whom the people had confidence, and with whom they cooperated.

The mere mention of the name of Hoover and that of several others fills all with deeper gloom; but the mention of Roosevelt and Bibb Graves revives hope of a better day. We believe these two men will bring to America and Alabama "Beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness."

ARE YOU A CHISELER?

The American public has learned one lesson well from the depression of the past four years. It has learned that when the profit is squeezed out of business that everyone suffers.

When the merchant loses profits he discharges clerks. When the manufacturer loses profits he shuts down his factory. When the professional man loses profits he can no longer buy the things he wants, and workmen who make things to sell are thrown out of work.

The greatest chiselers in America are American housewives. The average woman will hang over a bargain counter like a bear at a beehive. They will perspire and fight over a bargain counter.

The bargain counters have killed American prosperity and the bargain hunters are responsible.

The woman who argues for 15 minutes to get a two-cent cut on the price of a dozen eggs, boasts of her acumen, but perhaps never realizes the disaster that she and other bargain hunters have certainly brought upon the nation.

Slash the price of eggs and the farmer loses his profit. Slash the price on other farm commodities and farm profits vanish completely and losses stare sixty per cent of the nation's producers in the face. Bring about this condition and farm buying power is destroyed. Then it is that railroad men, factory workers, clerks and day laborers find themselves without jobs.

There must be a profit in the handling of every commodity or the commonwealth suffers because that profit is missing. Too many people in the past have been too thick headed to grasp this fundamental fact.

On the other hand take the bargain hunter who argues and growls and complains about the price of dry goods. Such pressure on the part of bargain hunters ultimately tears down the price. Then it is that the textile manufacturers fight among themselves for lower wages to meet the demand for lower priced textile products.

The biggest nit wit in the country is a railroad man that complains about high freight rates.

The next biggest nit wit is the cotton mill worker or the farmer's wife who raves about the high prices of cotton goods.

An equally ridiculous nit wit is the wife of a machinist, car repairer or brakeman who thinks she can hammer prices down without interfering with her husband's employment.

Too many people buy on price alone. Too many people want bids for every simple little purchase. These are the chiselers, and the firms that sell on such a basis chisel on both price and service.

A chiseling public that buys on price alone permits a fly-by-night firm to get the business this month so that they can go bankrupt next month. The good of the community is seldom considered when the chiseler asks for quotations.

Chiselers pave the way for economic famine. China is filled with chiselers, and American chiselers would lower America's standard to that of the Chinese coolies.

Housewives chisel, thousands of them, and the pathetic thing is that they chisel their husbands out of work, place their homes in jeopardy, and destroy the security of their own children without knowing that they, the chiselers, are the cause of the crime.

We are certainly a civilized people. We get the dynamite, put it under our own homes, light the fuse, watch it explode, deplore the calamity, and then blame everyone but ourselves for the catastrophe.

Awaken, ye chiselers! We're not talking about somebody else. Search your own tactics, ye bargain hunters who boast and fume about your cunning, share the blame for the nation's chaos. You who read these lines, take your blame for this crime of chiseling.

There is aroused within intelligent thinking people a sense of disgust to hear others blaming everything on everybody when the cause of the crime is so readily discernible.

We need a holiday on chiseling so that men may return to work.

We must get away from the dog-eat-dog policy, and understand that if we expect to be well paid for our service that we must pay others well for the service they render.

President Franklin Roosevelt has declared war on chiselers. He knows the crime, and his new economic set-up is purposed to remove chiselers from our economic system.

The N R A opposes chiselers. And every right thinking American man and woman will join the procession if only they will pause to grasp the significance of the new deal for all.

The unfortunate thing about chiseling is that it is contagious. One chiseler begets another. One bargain hunter forces others to hunt bargains. One cut-throat price-cutter in an industry forces others to meet prices. Thus a whole nation is made helpless by being cast into the throes of mass chiseling, in which everyone is actuated by the ambition to buy something for less. It is then that mankind crucifies mankind. Losses take the place of profits. And profits gone, everyone works toward depression and despair.

Are you a chiseler? Write your own ticket.—J. O. Emmerich in McComb (Miss.) Enterprise.

MY TRIP TO DES MOINES AND CHICAGO

As written by Lawrence Duffey, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duffey of Mt. Creek.

We left Clanton at 2:00 Sat. Aug. 19, 1933. Our first night was at Red Bay, Ala. We left Red Bay, Ala., Sun. morning at five o'clock. I did not like Miss. much it was very poor land and old dilapidated homes. We traveled till 7:30 Sun. morning and we ate breakfast at Corient Miss. We traveled a few mi. and we entered Tenn. Tenn was a pretty state. We passed 10 mi. of straight road you could see hill over hill. The homes was very pretty in Tenn. We left Tenn. and entered Ill. We crossed a river in Ill. and went across on a big ferry boat it was the Ohio river. We entered Caro after we crossed the Ohio river. Ill was a pretty state. They had white barns and houses.

Most of all was pretty fruit trees They raise more fruit than anything else. Before we entered Mo. we crossed a river we had to go over a toll bridge Traffic was so heavy we lik to never got across. As we crossed the river we entered Saint Louis Mo. We spent the night in Saint Louis with Mr. & Mrs. T. H. Henderson. We enjoyed our visit very much. Mr. Henderson carried us to see the park we saw all kind of animals and pretty birds The birds were very pretty in a big cage as big as a house. We left Saint Louis Mon. morning at 9:30. We traveled 5 hr. in Mo. We saw lots of wheat in Mo. hay stacked up as high as a hous and corn as far as you could see. About 3:00 we entered Iowa it was the prettiest state we went through. We got to Day Moines Ioway at 6:00 Monday evening. We stayed at the Plaza Hotel in Day Moines. Monday nigh they had a ball at the Day Moines Hotel. Every rural carrier family had t register and get an Alabama Badg Tue. morning at the carriers meetin the ladies had a free trip all over th town. All the men and boys went in the evening, and we saw a polo gam It was a pretty scenery back to th Hotel. Every state had an exhibit. I think V. T. had the prettiest exhibi Thurs. evening we all had a free tri out to the State fair and I rode on a little train run by steam. We saw all kinds of fish and animals. We ate supper in a litte Tent house. Fri. even we left Des Moines at 4:30. We saw lot of corn on our way to Chicago. Most all the houses and barns were painted white. We did not see but a very few pines. The soil is very black and rich in Iowa. They plant corn almost as thick as we plant sorghum. We saw a mans barn burning down the hay was still burning.

We entered Chicago about 11:30. W ate dinner about 12:00. We got to th fair ground about 1:00. Dady rod o the sky ride. We saw the Chinese ex hibit it was the prettiest exhibit ther We saw the first train ever made. I was a funny shape train. I liked th hall of science very much. Sat nigh Vivian Gray, Mr. McCarty, Dady & ate in a Chinese cafe. That night dad and I went out to the grandstand & saw 6 boxin matches. Sun. morn. dad rode on an Air Ship. Mother wa scared and I couldnt go & ride. I like the rodeo best of all. They were calle the steer rider and they would lass little caves & tie them up. One ma lasso a calf and tied him up in 14 seconds flat. The steer wrestlers & cowboy would jump off his horse runnin as fast as he could go & grab a stee by his horns and throw him down o his back. The quickest down was 17 2- seconds. We saw some anamals tha suppose to have lived milions of year ago. They were called dionasaurs. The were big ugly animals. The Sinclair ga & oil co. had that exhibit.

We saw the bigest train engine in th world. It would mak 95 mi. hr. Th first cars that were made were ver funny looking. I saw one of the firs airplanes ever made. The motor wa in between the wings & the seat wa way out in front of the plane, the ma who rode in it was strapped in it. An I saw latest model out, it was a silve color. It was a closed in plane it looked very different from the other. Dad & I wint in to see the Indians dance & cut up like they used to do. We staye at the Wilde department house.

Monday morning we got up at and left for home. The senery was n as pretty as it was in Iowa. They d not farm much over in the eastern pa of Ill. as they did in the western. W came 185 mi from Chicago and had wreck. A bus hit us from the rear an turned us around in the road and turned us over down a bank. Daday ju had put 10 gal. of gas in the car & every bit run over us. They carried us t the city Hospital at Indianapolis, In The wreck delayed us 3 days. The tied an old gass tank on the back o the car & said it would be alwright s we got started Tue. evening. We spe Tue. night at Seymour, Ind. Wed morning we left Seymour, and start for Cave City. About 4:00 we arrived at Cave City. It rained on us a hr. o more. We spent Wed. night at Cave City. Thur. morning Dady & I went out 6 mi. to see New Entrance to Mammoth cave Frozen Niagara. We did not go in it took 1:30 to get through i was very pretty on the outside.

We came back as quick as we could and got started about 8:00 that morning. We got to Louisville, Ky. about 9:30 & we saw where they made Lucky Strick Cigarette. We traveled till about 12:30 & we got to Nashville Tenn At Nashville I saw a Monument I guess it was in memory of some man or battle. We made it to Decatur, Ala. about 5:30 Thur. evening. We got to Clanton. Ala. about 12:00 Fri. evening. We ate dinner at Uncle Nate Fri. We got us a new car there and stayed in Clanton till about 8:00. About 9:30 we arrived at home in Mt. Creek, Ala.

IN MEMORY

On Sunday night, September 23, near eleven o'clock a death angel visited the home of Mrs. Dossie Massey and took her away to her home in Heaven to rest. Death came after a long illness. She was operated on in May, and never regained her health. Although her suffering was very great, she bore it patiently. Everything was done that could have been, but God saw best and called her home. All her children were at her bedside, except one, when death came. She was a devout Christian, and a wonderful mother, and was loved by all who knew her. The beautiful life she lived not only won her friends, but made them love her. She has been a member of Liberty Hill Baptist church for twenty-eight years. Since there has been a Sunday school at Mt. Pleasant, she has been a teacher, until her health failed.

Mrs. Massey was the former Miss Dossie Baxley and a native of Coosa county. She was nearing her fifty-fourth year. Her husband, G. H. Massey, had preceded her to the grave thirteen years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss seven children, six boys and one girl, Aaron of Pittsburg, Penn., Stilman of Birmingham, Monroe of Bartow, Fla., J. C. of Selma, Lewin, Ilar and Roddie of Clanton; five brothers and four sisters, Will and Dixon Baxley of Weogufka, Rev. A. D. Baxley of Calera, King and Charley Baxley of Texas, Mrs. Fred Askins of Selma, Mrs. Mattie Crawford of Shelby, Mrs. Clemmie Richardson of Texas, Mrs. Stella Richardson of Texas; four half brothers and one half sister and a step-mother, also two grandchildren, Dasel and Willodean Massey of Birmingham.

She was laid to rest in Liberty Hill cemetery Monday with Rev. Lowery conducting the funeral, assisted by Rev. A. L. Foshee. Pallbearers were Ralph Mims, Dick Massey, Bill Wilson, Carl Pate, Luther Mims, Houston Melton. Flower girls were Pearl Wilson, Mamye Logan, Frances Massey, Bessie Marie Eiland. Spigener was in charge. The large crowd and beautiful floral offerings showed the many friends she had.

Grieve not for her, for your loss is Heaven's gain.

Begin Taking Cardui Today If You Suffer Like This Lady Did

"WHEN I was a girl, I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Maggie Stanfield, of Crandall, Ga. "I was very irregular for twelve months. Nothing did me very much good until my mother began to give me this medicine. Then I got all right, stout and well.

"After I was married, I was in bad health. I began taking Cardui again. I was troubled with my back a lot. Was awfully restless. I could not sleep well. I just weighed 90 pounds when I began taking Cardui. I improved rapidly. Before long I weighed 126 pounds. I felt fine. I was able to do a good day's work."

Cardui is sold by druggists here.

Put Your Liver To Work--Make This Test

Take Sargon Soft Mass Pills and watch constipation, gas, sour stomach, headaches and nervousness vanish. Don't be misled. Calomel, salts, oils, mineral waters, laxative pills, etc., have no effect on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually stimulate a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of them.

Only 60c for a full 30-day treatment. At your druggist, or write G. F. Willis, Inc., Atlanta, Ga.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Over a week has passed and now everything is sailing along smoothly. During the first week it was rather difficult to arrange a schedule to fit the regular students and those who did not attend the private school the last term of last year. For the benefit of those who are interested in this fact I will explain how the faculty is meeting this important problem. Those students who did not return for the second semester last year have been allowed to advance a grade as a regular student until the second semester of this year arrives. Then the student will be required to drop back and pick up what he missed when he stayed out of private school. There are a few exceptions to this, some students are doubling up on their work and others, a very few, are waiting till the second semester of this year begins before entering again.

Our new teachers are certainly making a hit with us students according to the remarks I hear, not here and there, but everywhere. Yessir, Miss Gulledge, Miss Smilie and Mr. Searcy have made good impressions of the students. But wait folks, we haven't had any examinations or received any grades from them yet.

* * *

Nope, Gabby, good ole Gabby, didn't leave us. We need you on that football field and in the class too, 'Gabby.

* * *

Along with our football team we need and need them badly, some real good enthusiastic cheer leaders. Somebody who can get on the sidelines and lead the students in those school spirited yells that put that punch in those tired bodies on the gridiron. How does the team know that we appreciate their efforts. No way except by seeing us on the sidelines, not just a handful, but the entire student body, and hear those yells. Other schools do it and there is no reason why we can't. If it's finances, Mr. Warr and Mr. Walker and maybe some of the other students could see to that.

—o—

We have almost three hundred students enrolled. There should be at least one hundred and fifty at each home game.

* * *

Too bad, Bill, you have a competitor. There he goes, Roy Wilkinson.

* * *

There are still a few students who want everything their way. Regardless of the hardships and difficulties it will put on the teachers and other students. They will learn some day where they are wrong.

* * *

The editor of this column would greatly appreciate all the contributions any student or any teacher has to offer. Any suggestions you have to offer or any criticisms you want to give, please don't hesitate.

* * *

Is this school too small for an Honor Council? It would be a mighty fine and noble thing to have at C. C. H. S. I know that I am stepping on some students' toes when I say we need one badly.

There is nothing to prevent a real instructive, educative, interesting and ideal academic and athletic season this year, filled with a zest of school spirit, enjoyment and pleasure to liven things up. Our faculty is capable of providing each and every one of the above qualities and to make this program perfect we need only the cooperation of each student as an individual and every class as a whole. And up to now it seems that there will be no doubt about the students doing their part.

* * *

Things are straightened out now and this week we are ready to go. Don't some of us be contrary and wander off the wrong track and get lost. Don't some of us lag behind. All of that will throw a monkey wrench in the wheels of this school. Come on, let's get the spirit of real Americans and the spirit of the New Deal and GO.

* * *

What's in a name? Watch in the near future for some queer and humorous names. Yes, right here. What name has the largest representation? What name has the smallest? Who has the oddest name?

* * *

Say! Why can't we students take a hand in this NRA movement? I believe we can. Trade only with those stores that display the Blue Eagle. Push the NRA. Give Miss Nira a rush. It is up to the public to do their own selves some good.

* * *

Chilton County High School should be duly congratulated by its students, its patrons and all others interested in education. This school is offering to its students a course as rich as any school of its size and as rich a some that are larger. Under the direction of our capable faculty we students can have the opportunity of being well tutored in four of the most practical sixes. This school includes in its course, Home Economics, Physics, Chemistry and Biology, all in one year. We will not now have to go to college, lacking one of these important courses. Congratulations to our faculty who by hard effort and no few sacrifices have provided those who graduate from C. C. H. S. a thorough fundamental training in the four most important sciences. This year will go down in our school history as the year providing the most for us students.

* * *

There are some classes here that need a little discipline. It may be the teacher, it may be the students. I think it's the latter.

* * *

Oboy! Look at Mack's sporty shoes. Another woman?

6, 14, 22, 26, 13, 15, 12, 7, eight, seven and 12, 14, 22, 8, 26, 9, 26—added together is what? That's what is on the faces of those little (?) freshmen as they come out of those math classes. Poor things, wait till they hit advanced algebra.

Although he is not a graduate of C. C. H. S. we are indeed proud of the fact that Luther E. Little, County Superintendent of Education of our county, was once a student in our school, having completed three years of high school work here. Mr. Little finished his high school studies at the preparatory school at Howard College. Mr. Little's education was not handed him on a silver waiter. He taught school several years in order to raise funds to complete his high school study and to enter college. He entered Howard College in 1924 and in 1927 he was awarded his master's degree. Besides this he has twelve hours of college work to his credit. After his graduation from Howard he taught a number of years, also worked in business offices in Birmingham for a year. Mr. Little was the principal of the Stanton Junior High School for two years. There he won the esteem of all those he came in contact with. He was a member of the faculty of the Chilton County High School in the year 1932-33 where he won the praise of his students and citizens of Chilton County. Everyone knows of the honor bestowed upon him by the citizens of Chilton county this year. He was elected to the office of Superintendent of Education, the first Democrat to hold this office in 23 years. We are indeed proud of Mr. Little, also due to the fact that he worked hard and honestly for his education. We remember him for his spirit, his kindness and friendliness when he was among us. He should stand as a model for those who through honest and sincere efforts desire to make a name for themselves in life.

NEW FORD V-8 TRAVELS OVER 10,000 MILES IN TEN DAYS

—o—

More than 10,000 miles in 10 days at a cost of only 1.27 cents a mile—this record for economical operation, just achieved by Eddie Pullen, noted driver, in a stock model, Pennzoil-lubricated Ford V-8, on the desert and mountain roads between El Centro and Jacumba, Calif., was announced here today by Clanton Motors, local Ford dealer.

Despite temperatures as high as 118 degrees, almost 5,000 miles of upgrade pulling, and almost continual running only 1.7 quarts of Pennzoil motor oil were added between crankcase drains at 1,000-mile intervals during the entire run of 10,227 miles. The radiator was sealed, no water was added during the first 8,666 miles and only 5½ quarts were consumed for the entire grind. Not a single repair of any kind was made in this long period of steady driving.

This stock Ford was up against conditions which the average car owner would never encounter in years and years of driving. The Ford wheeled over its course for 10 days and nights under intense heat, which reached as high as 118 degrees. It covered 1,000 miles a day, and in 10 days traveled a distance equivalent to one years driving by the average car owner. The course from El Centrol, California, to Jacumba Hot Springs, necessitated a climb from 60 feet below sea level to 3000 feet above. In this 43 mile stretch the Ford ran through 30 miles of the hottest kind of desert, and then encountered 13 miles of steep mountain grades. It was an excellent course to test the inherent qualities of a car.

Throughout the run the correct weight of tough-film Pennzoil motor oil was used. This, Pullen declared, contributed in a large measure to the cool operation of the V-8 motor.

Careful records were kept by Imperial Valley newspaper representatives, and the run was staged in El Centro by Edgar Brothers, Ford dealers in the Imperial Valley.

PARTY ENJOY TRIP TO AUBURN FARMERS' WEEK

—o—

A party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapp, Miss Ruth Pardue, Mrs. Horace Popwell, all of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wilkins f Enterprise; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Oden and Glynder of near Shoults; Claudia Eiland of Thorsby; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Robinson of Verbena, and Mr. Hawkins of Calera, Route 1, left for Auburn last Tuesday morning, August 29th, to attend the Farmers' Week Program. Mr. Jasper Dennis attended on Thursday.

One of the most interesting features of the program was the clothing and good exhibit prepared by the womens' clubs under the direction of the demonstration agents. Miss Pardue is hoping to have an exhibit there from Chilton County next year.

The party visited the different experimental stations and saw many things of interest.

Among the speakers were Dr. A. B. Graham of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and Edward A. O'Neal, President of the American Farm Bureau Federation. One of the usual features of the Womens' meeting was a public speaking contest in which thirteen women from over the State took part. Their subject was "The Farm Woman and Her Civic Responsibility."

There are many things yet to be told about the trip which is impossible to write in one small article.

Bankers Of County Express Opinion That The Outlook Is Brighter For Farmers; Large Amount Of Money To Be Spent In State

By C. E. Stapp

We are in the midst of a terrific battle against depression. Many seem to feel that the battle should have been over before now and that victory should have been proclaimed. Maybe the above is true, but as I told more than 3,000 farmers assembled in meetings over the County last winter, "It has taken us four years to get down the hill and I do not expect us to get back up the hill in a few months."

Many of us seem to have forgotten the condition that existed the first part of this year. I believe conditions generally are much better now than then. Cotton was 6:00 then; now it is 8:50. I agree that we don't think 8:50 is enough, but I can't recall when we ever felt that we were getting enough.

People engaged in every walk of life were down so to speak at the beginning of 1933. Some are beginning to see their way now. We can't all see it at the same time. A survey in the city of Birmingham shows that more than 4200 men have been given employment there during the past month. In the little town of Clanton more than 80 have been put back to work. Some of the above haven't had work in three years. Figures on possible new money to be spent in Alabama during the next few months look like this:

Cotton crop	$ 50,000,000
For cotton destroyed	10,000.000
Highway money	12,000,000
Public Works	50,000,000
State warrants	17,000,000
	$142,000,000

At a meeting of the bankers of the county at my office Tuesday afternoon, the fact was brought out that even at present prices, farmers are going to be able to take care of their 1933 obligations and pay more of their old obligations than they have in three years. Many are getting enough money for cotton acreage reduction to meet their 1933 obligations and have the balance of their crop for present needs and old obligations.

I may be wrong, but I can't help feeling optimistic. I realize fully that this is a critical time, just as comes in any battle, and that if we give up and turn back we will lose, but if we get a new hold on ourselves and all push right ahead, every fellow with his eyes, heart and energy to the front, that we will go over the top, and that in another year we will see much better conditions with less suffering humanity.

MINOOKA

Miss Evelyn Martin, who has been visiting points in Georgia and Tennessee, has returned home. She reports a very enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Williams spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Williams of Calera.

Mr. Roy Virgin of Prattville visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Virgin, last week end.

Mrs. Sara Crim gave a community singing at her home Sunday afternoon. Everyone had a wonderful time as well as the beautiful music that was rendered by various people who attended the singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Busby spent last week end in Bessemer with their daughter, Mrs. R. J. Williams.

Mrs. Susan Busby, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Cecil Martin, has returned to the home of her daughter in Calera, Mrs. Oscar Martin.

Misses Evelyn Martin, Ethel Busby and Mr. Vernon Busby motored to Newala Sunday afternoon to attend the singing.

Mrs. John Barefield, Mrs. Leonard Barefield, Elva and Robert Barefield, Mildred Killingsworth and Jessie Splawn attended the all-day singing at Newale Sunday. They report a very enjoyable singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnett spent the night with Mrs. Sara Crim Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Zuiderhoek and children spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schemell.

Messrs. Clinton Barnett and Leon Glass were in Calera a short while Saturday.

Miss Eleanor Merrell left Sunday morning for Tuscumbia where she will make her home with her aunt this winter, and attend college at Florence. Her many friends wish her a very successful freshman year.

Mrs. John Barnett and children spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Vess Sunday.

Mrs. R. A. Barnett spent the week with her son, Mr. Austin Barnett, of Pleasant Hill.

The many friends of Miss Era Busby are very sorry to hear that she is ill at her home. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

The community was very glad to see Monday morning, as he boarded the the little smiling face of Jimmie Grant school bus to attend school at Jemison, after being ill for several weeks.

Among the out-of-town visitors in our community last week we noticed Mr. Ensley Atkinson of Jemison, Mr. Carl Glasscock of Jemison, Mr. Leon Glass of Florida, Mr. and Mrs. French of Birmingham, Messrs. Arthur Davis and Earl Collins of Oak Grove.

Miss Eleanor Merrell was the charming hostess to a surprise and farewell party to a number of her friends Friday night. Many interesting games were played throughout the evening. Those present were Misses Marie Anderson, Myrtle Lou Crim, Frances and Mildred Killingsworth, Margaret Busby, Helen Zuiderhoek and Mrs. Edgar Barnett, Messrs. Robert and Harmon Barefield, Howard and Doris Anderson, Orburn Crim, Charles Busby, Rayburn Shirley. Miss Merrell's many friends hated to bid her farewell, yet we were glad for her, that she has the opportunity to attend college. We wish her all the success and happiness throughout the entire college year.

Mrs. Edgar Barnett, Misses Marie Anderson and Miss Helen Zuiderhoek sponsored an ice cream supper Saturday night for the benefit of "Minooka Ball Team." We as sponsors, wish to thank each and everyone for their donation and patronage.

Mrs. Sara Crim has suggested that Minooka young people as well as the adults, build a community club house. The idea struck with great force and the C. I. club girls are behind the movement and sometime in the near future we hope that Minooka may be the proud owner of a community club house. Let's all buckle down and pull together and get busy and erect our club house and the C. I. girls will guarantee all who take part in the building as well as all others, a grand housewarming.

The C. I. club girls met Monday afternoon, September 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Busby, with Miss Lillian Busby as hostess. The club was called to order by the president. The program committee then took charge, with Misses Helen Zuiderhoek and Marie Anderson having charge of the social hour. During this hour the committee appointed Miss Evelyn Martin to tell of her thrilling and adventurous trip to Lookout Mountain. Everyone enjoyed Evelyn's talk and everyone felt as though they had visited Lookout Mountain when she got through. The president then took charge and new and old business was discussed. The club goal for the year was discussed, but no definite decision was reached. A club motto was discussed and each member is to bring a motto to club next Monday afternoon. After the business meeting was adjourned the hostess served delicious apples. Never before have we had as much fun out of club refreshments as we did Monday. After each member finished eating her apple we took the apple seed and told fortunes. Those present were Misses Evelyn Martin, Neva [illegible] and [illegible] Ruth Key, Iva Campbell, Mildred and Frances Killingsworth, Elva Barefield, Myrtle Lou Crim, Elizabeth Roberts, Marie Anderson, Betty Martin, Margaret Matthews, Helen Zuiderhoek, Mrs. Donal Williams and Mrs. Sara Crim. Everyone had a wonderful time

On Monday afternoon, September 18, the C. I. club will meet at the home of Mrs. Sara Crim. Those serving on program committee are Mrs. Sara Crim and Miss Lillian Busby. All members are urged to be present and be sure to bring a club motto with you.

Miss Newell, if it is possible, we hope will meet with us.

All club absentees this week, we want you to be present Monday afternoon.

CHEVROLET SHOWS INCREASE OF CARS AND TRUCKS

With an increase in production of cars and trucks in August of this year, which more than trebled August, 1932, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced that it had passed the half millionth car in the year's output.

August production of 73,433 units was 204 per cent over the same month a year ago. It brought production for eight months to 511,433 units, as compared with 394,000 for the full twelve months of 1932.

When compared with 1930 and 1931, August, 1933, shows large increases, approximately 22,000 over the former and nearly 20,000 over the latter. The sizeable increases over those two years and the exceptionally large margin over August of last year show clearly and emphatically how business has turned for the better, Mr. Knudsen said.

The month just passed ranks fifth in point of production in August history. It was exceeded only by August of 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929.

NRA MEMBER U.S. CHEVROLET

"Proud and glad to do our part"

WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program.

Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago!

At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments.

On August 1st of this year, Chevrolet announced a blanket wage increase as well as the adoption of a 7½-hour, 5-day week and the employment of 12,000 additional men. This wage increase was the second in the last 4 months, Chevrolet having been among the first to put a blanket wage increase into effect.

We feel that the President's recovery program deserves the whole-hearted support of every citizen and manufacturer in America. It is a bold, swift, courageous plan to start the ball rolling toward economic recovery. Its sincerity is unquestioned. Its objectives are admirable. And the direct, forceful steps the President and his associates are taking to make it a success, should stir the pride and admiration of every American.

We are proud and glad to do our part. And we are deeply grateful to the American people for the patronage that has enabled us to anticipate the present recovery program and to play our part today. After all, the immense number of men employed by Chevrolet is a direct result of the continued preference America has shown for Chevrolet.

"What I Thought About The Fair"

By Miss Mary Lou Tiffin of Clanton

I believe I saw a million people at the Fair—maybe two million. Anyway I'm sure there were lots of people. As I went along probably not going as an individual. but as one unconsciously following the great throng, I thought that surely everyone must be in this street—but I soon found that the next and the next and the next street was just as congested. By this time I had decided that everyone was at the Fair and that Chicago proper would be a city without inhabitants, but en route to my hotel I found that there were just as many in Chicago as at the Fair.

As I unconsciously followed the slowly moving army of sight-seeing people, I looked at the giant buildings which were erected for the sole purpose of housing the great exhibits of the Fair. In the daylight these buildings looked rather cheap and ugly and too modernistic with their gaudy paint—anyway they were different. However at night they were things of beauty and art, especially from the opposite side of the lake they took on the beauty of the rainbow. Maybe it was the cool breezes from the lake that made what in the day time had seemed harsh, very beautiful and lovely.

Whatever I may have thought about the outside appearance of the Fair grounds—I marveled at the collections of exhibits. I don't suppose that there was anything from a baby's rattle to the most complicated machinery that was not on exhibit. There was something to interest everyone.

The building that interested me most was the Hall of Science. This building was U-shaped with the arms of the U extending to the edge of the water and enclosing a court of three acres. (In this court Hugh Johnson spoke while we were there on Labor Day). The building covers an area of eight acres. Two floors were used to exhibit geology, mathematics, chemistry, physics and astronomy. Another phase of the Fair that I liked was the exhibit of Beautiful Homes of today and tomorrow. I don't believe they were really meant to be lived in—only for show, I guess.

Perhaps the Federal Building was as interesting to me as any building I went through since I had a course in Political Science last year. This building told the story of our government's activities: legislative, judicial and executive. At its back, and in V-shape was the States building, thus showing the increasing loyalty between the Federal and State governments. Each state that wished, Alabama did not, had an exhibit. I believe that Wisconsin and Florida were the prettiest. Wisconsin had a huge waterfall and Florida had a fountain of youth which was made of rocks, running water and colored lights.

Speaking of running water I have never seen so many pools and fountains. When one thinks of pools one naturally thinks of flowers too. Water lilies floated in many of the pools and goldfish swam gracefully around.

Not everything of interest was at the Fair. I went through Fields Museum which proved to be a Fair in itself. It would take a full day to skim through this. The parks of Chicago are very interesting. It is said that no one in Chicago lives more than a fifteen-minute walk from a park.

After the Fair is all over I should like to go to Chicago with the hope that there wouldn't be so many people, and explore the city.

Jackson Chapel Church News

On account of the death of Mr. Aaron Cleckler of this place we didn't have any Sunday school nor preaching, but will have Sunday school and preaching next Sunday. Bro. Daniel gave his text for next Sunday: The Pardon of Two Lives. This sermon is mostly for the old people, so give him a good crowd.

I would like to ask everyone to be present in Sunday school Sunday, for it is necessary that we make arrangements for books.

The News stated that the singing class of this place would meet the second Sunday. I want to correct that statement. We will meet every first Sunday at 2 p.m. and we invite everybody to attend.

I understand that there will be an all-day singing in the Sacred Harp next Sunday at New Harmony.

Next Sunday is Rev. Perry Mims day to preach at Lomax Tabernacle.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

R. F. C. School At Riderville

A special course in gardening is being given to the farmers at Riderville. This five-weeks course was made possible by the R. F. C. administration. This is the first course ever given to the farmers in Riderville. They were never successful in getting an opportunity school. It is quite pleasing to see how interested they are down there, and how regular they are in attendance. From all indications great good is being accomplished in this enterprise. The gardens have been prepared and will be planted this week. The first demonstration on planting a garden was given Monday. Prof. E. W. Burt is teaching, with the assistance of the teacher of vocational agriculture.

In connection with this course many farmers have taken the advantage to learn of and apply for aid from the Federal Government, which was made possible by the Farm Mortgage Foreclosure Act, last May. Such men as J. E. Ford, Hubbard Goodwin, Will Waters, I. Marrow, and others, are taking advantage of this opportunity.

School Opens October 2nd

The County Training School opens its doors October 2nd. Let me emphasize the importance of starting your children the first day and urge you to send them every day thereafter. The term was very short last year and some changes in the regular grading will be necessary. It is the patrons' business to have his child present the first day. Incidental fees will be only two dollars ($2.00).

Vetch And Pea Time Near

Remember that September 15th-October 15th is considered the golden date for putting these winter legumes in the ground. I shall plant about the 25th of September. These winter legumes cannot be too highly recommended. It would be well for those who have never planted any to try these wonderful soil builders. Many farmers have planted them and can attest to their real value. Such men as A. T. Holifield, A. G. Gordon, Nute Brazil, Rodda Varner, Tom Bailey, Otho McKinney, Richard Turpin, Ben Brown, Matthew Chatman, Robert Spence, and Arthur Cleckley know from experience. Try 100 lbs. this year.

This Letter Will Bring Joy To Fat Folks and Neuritis Sufferers

"Dear Sirs: Iwas so crippled with neuritis all down left side of my head and arm and both knees so swollen that I could hardly get up and down. At times my feet pained so badly I thought my toes would break off. I tried everything. The doctor told me I would be no better while I lived here but I stopped in a drug store in Brooklyn, N. Y., one day last November and the man in charge told me to take Kruschen for 3 weeks steady and I would get relief which I did. Never felt better and along with it, have lost weight. I weighed 210 then. Now I weigh 154 and while I'm over 50 yrs. old I feel 30. I took it for one thing—got two—so I now have 6 others here taking it." Mrs. A. V. Carr, Ft. Tilden, N. Y.

"It's the little daily dose that does it" so take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast. Get Kruschen at any live druggist in the world—a jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. adv.

Thursday Contract Club Entertained At Home Of Mrs. Omar Reynolds.

A social function of note of the past week indeed was when Mrs. Omar Reynolds graciously entertained the members of the Thursday Contract Club and several visitors at her beautiful home last Thursday afternoon. The rooms open to the guests were beautifully adorned with pretty fall flowers, which formed an attractive background for three tables of delightful bridge. After a short series of games a delicious salad plate was served to the following ladies: Mesdames Grady Broadhead, Grady Reynolds, Lawrence F. Gerald, John Deramus, Hugh Jones, J. Lee Smith, J. P. Hayes, James Wade, Billy Smith, Julius Burnett, Dick Hayes, R. W. Barnett, Walter Bentley and Miss Feryl Martin. The high score prize was won by Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

Mrs. Annie Lamar Cole of Montgomery is visiting Mrs. G. L. Phillips this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlson of Thorsby attended the services at the Methodist church here Sunday morning.

Mrs. Willie Jones was in Montgomery Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Sumner and Miss Marie Powers, all of Thorsby, were in Clanton Sunday morning and attended the services at the Methodist church.

Mrs. P. T. Hinkle Entertains Entre Amis Club At Her Beautiful Home.

In her charming and gracious way Mrs. P. T. Hinkle was the hostess to the members of the Entre amis Club at her beautiful country home west of Clanton last Thursday afternoon. After a delightful program the guests were served delicious ice cream and cake. Those ladies fortunate in sharing Mrs. Hinkle's charming hospitality were Mesdames John Browder, J. Watts Moore, Hugh Simpson, Napoleon Johnson, T. C. McSwain, L. E. Diefenderfer, H. T. Pipes, John VanDerveer and M. L. White.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Farley of Birmingham were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Willis over the past week end.

Miss Eloyse Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones, returned to Montevallo Monday to resume her studies at Alabama College.

Miss Hilda Hart, versatile young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hart, left this week for Montevallo where she will enter Alabama College there.

"As You Like It Club" Entertained By Mrs. Gragg.

Mrs. V. J. Gragg was hostess to members of the "As You Like It Club" last Thursday at her attractive home. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed, and a delicious salad course was served to the following:

Mesdames G. C. Walker, W. M. Polk, W. W. Fox, W. A. Reynolds, J. B. Atkinson, L. H. Reynolds, Flem Higgins, M. A. Gore, L. C. Warr and Hattie Alred.

The next meeting of the club will be held with Mrs. T. R. Burdette.

Miss Erin Littlejohn Honored With Dance.

A lovely social event took place at the home of Mrs. Bob Jones when Miss Ethel Mae Jones was the hostess to a group of her friends in honor of Miss Erin Littlejohn of Birmingham last Saturday evening. Enjoying this event of Miss Jones were Charlsie Pyron, Helen Diefenderfer, Evelyn Littlejohn, Mary Edith Jones, Vivian Gray, Mrs. Tom Tiffin and the guest of honor, Erin Littlejohn. The boys present were Reese Mullins, Jr., James Arnold, Jack Burks, Carl Jones, Chester Wingard Tom Tiffin, Dick Arnold, Erle Ellis and Bill Minor.

500 Electric Ranges and 250 Electric Water Heaters to Alabamians Who Wish to Judge Alabama's New Low-Cost Electricity for Themselves In Their Own Homes

OUR "New Deal" RENTAL PLAN and NEW LOW RATES FOR HOME ELECTRIC SERVICE enable you to judge for yourself—in your own home—how useful electrical appliances are and how little it costs to operate them on our new low rates.

You simply call us and say you want an Electric Range or Water Heater (or both) installed in your home on our "New Deal" Rental Plan. Right away we install the famous Westinghouse D-431 "Flavor Zone" Electric Range and/or an Automatic Electric Water Heater. You merely agree to pay a small monthly rental for the use of these appliances. That's all. No further obligation. If after you've used them for a stated term, you find they don't measure up to your expectations, simply notify us. We'll come and get them and you owe us nothing more!

If, however, you are as pleased with them as we know you'll be, you can either keep renting them (on monthly payments which shrink every year for five years) or you can sign a contract to buy them—in which case a generous portion of the rent money you've paid in will be applied on the purchase price of the appliance.

● COULD ANY PROPOSITION BE FAIRER? ●

ACT NOW! Only 500 ranges and 250 water heaters available under this plan. You can't lose — except by putting off your decision to take advantage of this sensational offer!

MR. AND MRS. TANDY LITTLETON VISIT RELATIVES, CHICAGO

Mr. and Mrs. Tandy C. Littleton of Route 4, Clanton, Ala., are visiting their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Clark of Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Littleton have visited the World's Fair several times besides other points of interest in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark have made their home in Chicago for the past four years. They live at the Georgian Apartments on Deming Place. Mr. Clark is manager of the Interstate Company. He has been with the company six years.

Mr. and Mrs. Tandy C. Littleton will be returning to their home at Clanton in a few days. Ask them if you want to know anything about the Chicago World's Fair.

MT. PLEASANT HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

Tuesday afternoon, September 5, the Friendship Sewing Circle held a business meeting at the home of Mrs. Moodie Pate. Miss Ruth Pardue, our county demonstrator, was there to organize a Demonstration Club. Officers elected were: President, Mrs. Alvia Smith; vice president, Mrs. Grace Littleton; secretary, Miss Bessie Eiland; club reporter, Miss Gertrude Jones; demonstration leaders, Mrs. John Rollins, Mrs. Moodie Pate; community leaders, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. J. H. Eiland. After the business meeting the members and guests were served peaches and cream, cake and iced tea. Anyone else wishing to join this club, please be present at our next meeting which will be at the home of Mrs. Henry Eiland, October 3, promptly at 2 o'clock.

GERTRUDE JONES, Club Aeporter.

Thieves who stole $75 worth of food, including 50 pounds of cheese, from a grocery store in Gypsum, Kan., tossed a cleaver and a caned goods rack belonging to the shop on the front porch of City Marshal Pettijohn.

OAK GROVE

Here we come again. Most everybody is busy picking cotton. Health of this community is fairly good.

There will be an ice cream supper at this place on Saturday night, before the fourth Sunday, September 23, for the benefit of the church. We hope to have a large crowd.

Our B. Y. P. U. is doing fine since there's not so many meetings going on around us; also our weekly prayer service every Wednesday night.

Miss Golda Williams, formerly of Birmingham, has been visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glass and family of Florida have been visiting Mrs. Glass's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Webb and family spent the week end in Birmingham visiting friends.

Don't forget our preaching services on the first Sunday in October; also Saturday night before.

ENTERPRISE CLUB MEETING

The Enterprise Home Demonstration club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. C. L. Wilkins last Wednesday. Miss Pardue helped to make the meeting a success with her presence at which time she gave a demonstration on Canning Meat. Steak and chicken were canned. Fried chicken and minced chicken were put on exhibition, but best of all a can of the steak was opened and its tasty contents sampled by all of those present.

We extend a hearty welcome to our new members, Mrs. J. B. Boyd and Mrs. F. J. Thomas; and then to all of the other women of the consolidated community who are not members elsewhere we extend an invitation to be with us in our next meeting on October 4, 1933, at the home of Mrs. C. L. Wilkins.

After spanking her 19-year-old daughter, Mrs. Catherine Latzko of Whiting, Ind., was fined $1 and costs on a charge of assault and battery.

JOBS CREATED

from Ashland, Ky., the home of Henry Clay, where 2,076 men and women were added to pay rolls. Typical results from widely scattered points, showing the fidelity of employers to the recovery program, are as follows:

"One hundred and twenty-three firms in Evansville, Ind., added 1,472 employees, with 700 more due to be taken on before October 1. Galveston, Tex., increased its weekly pay rolls $13,500 by adding 636. Three thousand new jobs were created and filled immediately as a result of the drive in Fort Worth, Tex., and the city's weekly pay roll increased by $2,000,000. A chain of grocery stores in Brooklyn increased their employees 13 percent and their pay roll 10 percent. Eight hundred and twenty-two persons were reemployed at Corpus Christi, Tex. In Harrisburg, Pa., 1,445 workers were reemployed with pay roll increase of $127,284.

The NRA committee in Indianapolis reported their check-up revealed 21,000 persons reemployed, of which 5,884 went back to work for eight large companies, with increase of $113,391 to weekly pay rolls. A Bartlesville (Okla.) oil company added 3,000 men in their service stations in 30 states, "with more to follow soon." Warren, Ohio, added 1,331 employees, with pay roll increase of $109,000. Fort Dodge, Iowa, put on 456, with addition to pay rolls of $398,000 per year. The pay roll of Butler, Pa., was increased $259,000 per month. Minneapolis, Norwich, Conn., and many cities and towns in scores of states made similar reports. Incomplete reports indicate that many thousands are being put back to work in Chicago, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Denver, and other large centers.

Nearly 6,000,000 workers will be affected by the completion of the retailers' code and hundreds of thousands of others by the codes of the coal, construction, boot and shoe, and other large industries, in addition to the codes of several hundred smaller industries still in process of formulation.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES MAY ENTER MARINE CORPS

The U. S. Marine Corps District Recruiting Headquarters, located in the Municipal Auditorium, Macon, Ga., will have a few vacancies during the month of October. Applicants must meet the following requirements: Furnish evidence of having graduated from an accredited high school; be between 18 and 25 years of age; must pass a rigid physical examination and furnish at least two letters of recommendation from reliable citizens of their community.

The United States Marine Corps is a service of varied duties that include extensive travel and adventure with the opportunity for further educational advantages and advancement, and is recognized as one of the finest military organizations at home and abroad, and is the most difficult to enter due to its high educational, moral and physical requirements.

On completion of approximately three months training and instructions at the Marine Barracks, Parris Island, S. C., the new made Marine is assigned to duty at one of the many posts occupied by them at home and in foreign countries, or to sea service with the Atlantic or Pacific fleet.

COTTON REPORT SHOWS CROP AT 12,414,000 BALES

Staple Deteriorated East Of Mississippi But Improved In Western Area

A 12,414,000-bale crop of cotton was predicted for this year by the government board Friday, the forecast being an increase of 100,000 bales over that of Aug. 8.

Government experts said the staple east of the Mississippi had deteriorated but this had been more than offset by Western improvement.

The board predicted the yield an acre for the entire cotton growing section would be 197.8 lint pounds, compared to the forecast of 198.4 pounds on Aug. 8.

The indicated yield an acre this year is about 80 per cent higher than the the 10-year average and is the highest since 1914, with the exception of the yield in 1931.

The prediction that the United States would have virtually a normal crop of cotton was made after estimates that the farm administration reduction campaign had resulted in the removal of 10,396,000 acres from cultivation, 92,000 more than was anticipated on Aug. 8 report.

The crop reporting board said that boll weevil activity and unfavorable weather conditions had resulted in a decline in prospects since Aug. 1 in all states east of the Mississippi River except Mississippi and Tennessee.

Meanwhile, the Census Bureau reported cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to Sept. 1 totaled 1,394,000 running bales, counting round bales as half bales and excluding linters. Alabama's total ginned to Sept. 1 was reported at 88,851 bales.

The government estimate had little effect on the New Orleans market. There was slight change from Thursday's closing levels when trading resumed after publication of the report. The forecast was about in line with trade expectations.

The condition of the crop Sept. 1, and the indicated production in Alabama and bordering states was reported as follows:

Georgia, condition 69 per cent of normal and indicated production, 1,035,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight; Florida, 74 and 33,000; Tennessee, 72 and 432,000; Alabama, 65 and 962,000; Mississippi, 65 and 1,369,000.

LONNIE TEEL'S WIFE BURIED AT SYLACAUGA MONDAY P.M

Mrs. Ethel Teel, wife of Lonnie Teel, died at their home in Sylacauga last Sunday night at six o'clock. The remains were buried in the mill cemetery Monday afternoon. She leaves her husband, 2 girls, 3 boys, and one grand child. The mother of the deceased, Mrs. Houldich, lives in Montgomery. She is also survived by two brothers and one sister.

Mr. Teel was married to Miss Houldich at Maplesville about 22 years ago, when they were both living at that place.

Attending the funeral from Clanton were: Rudolph and Adolph Moates, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Teel, Lloyd and Ruth Teel, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Teel, Walter Teel and daughter, Miss Myrtle Teel.

Growers Receive Cash For Cotton

Checks in payment for cotton farmers took out of production are now being received by Alabama producers.

With extremely rare exceptions, all of the 836,000 acres offered in Alabama had been removed on August 23, and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has assured Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, that checks in payment will reach those who complied with their contracts within a short while.

Reports show that 1,037,000 offers to reduce production were accepted by the Secretary of Agriculture. These offers totaled more than ten million acres of growing cotton and cut the surplus about 4¼ million bales, according to Cully A. Cobb, chief of the cotton section of the Adjustment Administration.

It is estimated that Alabama farmers are 12 to 15 million dollars ahead as a result of the acreage reduction program. They will receive about 10 million dollars in cash payments and option contracts. In addition the crop being picked is worth from 2 to 3 or more million dollars more than the entire crop would have been worth had no reduction been made.

The option contracts are not being mailed as yet but it is understood that they will be received by growers within the next few weeks. A plan is to be followed whereby all producers will receive the options at about the same time.

Soil Builders Will Organize In County

At a meeting of Chilton County bankers at County Agent Stapp's office Tuesday p.m. a movement was started to create more interest in soil building in Chilton. The meeting was called by "Key banker" J. C. Page. Mr. Page suggested the idea of an association for the purpose of creating more interest in soil building, and that prizes be offered to farmers who save most Austrian pea seed per acre, also for farmers making best showing as result of crops of peas or vetch turned under.

Mr. F. J. Callen, president of Peoples Savings Bank, suggested that membership be free this year and that funds for the prizes fpr this year be raised by the banks and other interested parties, and that possibly by another year members of the association could pay fees to be used as prizes.

J. C. Page, cashier of First National Bank, was elected president of the Chilton County Soil Building Association, and C. E. Stapp was elected secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Stapp pointed out that we are interested in soil improvement because better soils mean higher production at lower cost. Mr. Stapp stated that from a mass production standpoint we may have too much now, but that he doesn't know any one man in the county who is making too much cotton, corn or other crops per acre, and that he does know that some are cultivating soil so poor that the cost of production of any crop on it is high.

The bankers assembled felt optimistic about business conditions in general.

TIFFIN RECEIVING MANY PRAISES ON NEW RANGE

The Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Co., of Clanton has been receiving many praises on the line of cooking stoves they are handling now, according to C. A. (Red) Sherrod, who is connected with this popular furniture store and who is doing quite a bit of work in pushing sales of the ranges.

They have recently received a new shipment of the famous "Romeagle" and "Black Diamond" ranges. Mr. Sherrod stated and the number of sales on these stoves is more than pleasing. Watch the News at various times for the advertisements carrying furniture bargains being offered by Tiffin-Klinner.

Al Jolson Coming To Clanton Soon

Supported by a cast of personalities, including three internationally-famous comedians who recently returned to the screen after extended stage engagements, Al Jolson will be seen at the WWadesonian Theatre, Fri., Sept. 15, in "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," his starring vehicle for United Artists. Thus the famed comedian will be seen upon the screen for the first time in more than two years.

Jolson, first in the talkies, will introduce a new screen technique in "Hallelujah, I'm a Bum," a technique which is confidently expected to revolutionize picture making. Discarding most of the outworn methods of the motion picture studios, the star will present his new story in what is variously called "musical dialogue" and "photographic music."

Hecht Wrote Story

In simpler words, his picture is something like 90 per cent musical, but in every instance the music and lyrics are an inherent part of the story instead of being songs, as such. And there is only about ten per cent of spoken dialogue.

With the exception of Miss Evans and Morgan, the entire cast plays strange characters, taterdemalions and eccentrics who glory in such names as Bumper, Egghead, Captain Hell, Squee, Acorn, Ma Sunday and Apple Mary. Morgan gets one of his greatest opportunities for his brand of subtle, sophisticated humor in the role of the gay banker who makes a vagabond his friend and confidante.

Here And There

By Crackie

* * *

Congratulations to Miss Corinne Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Polk of Clanton, on being selected as "Miss Chilton County."

* * *

Clanton had among its visitors Saturday, Mrs. T. C. Littleton of Route 4, and daughter, Mrs. James. While in town Mrs. Littleton and Mrs. James were pleasant callers at the News office, where they were given a subscription receipt.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Littleton have recently returned from a delightful trip to Chicago, where they took in the World's Fair, and visited their daughter.

* * *

Rev. J. E. Each of Thorsby was a visitor in Clanton Monday attending to business matters. While in town he was a caller at the News office.

* * *

We were glad to see our friend Horace Jones in town the other day. Horace and Mrs. Jones and little child were here visiting relatives. He is manager of the V. J. Elmore Store in Jasper, and wanted to be sure his News kept on its way so we gave him a subscription receipt.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moore and daughter and Mr. Bob Martin of Thorsby visited friends in Parrish, Ala., Sunday.

* * *

The "Old Destrick Skool" was a wow, as presented at the court house Friday night by Circle No. 4 of the Baptist church. The entire cast of characters is to be congratulated.

* * *

Carl Brown of Route Six was among the visitors to Clanton Saturday, and while in town dropped by the News office. We were glad to see Carl, and he had his name added to the News subscription list. Come to see us again, Carl.

* * *

Our good friend, Butler Lowe, dropped by the News office Wednesday of last week, and presented the boys with a large basket of fine scuppernongs. Mr. Lowe raises some nice ones on his place north of town.

* * *

J. C. Maddox of Route 7 was a visitor to our town the other day and we are glad to welcome him as a reader of the News, and want him to drop in to see us sometime.

* * *

Howard Mims of Jemison, Route 2, is another welcome and new reader of the News. We are plased to have Mr. Mims added to our list of readers.

* * *

Our friend Jake Henley dropped in the News office the other day. We haven't seen Jake in some time. He must be keeping mighty busy these days.

* * *

The News received a very pleasant visit recently from Mrs. J. H. Stange of Verbena. Mrs. Stange called to have her name added to the subscription list of the News, while in town shopping.

* * *

While we didn't see H. F. McClure of Route 5 in town, we know he was here the other day, because he had his name added to our subscription list. Come to see us sometime, Mr. McClure.

* * *

Our apologies to Mrs. W. A. Willis. We are sorry she failed to get her News last week, and hope it won't happen again. Mrs. Willis is the kind of friend one likes to have.

* * *

Clanton is always glad to see Mrs. V. [illegible] Curtis (Madelyn Orr) back in town now and then. Mrs. Curtis is always missed when she returns to her home in New Orleans.

* * *

Our friend J. L. Ruffin must be keeping mighty busy these days in his produce business in Clanton. We don't see him very often.

* * *

The News is glad to see everybody's friend, J. D. Williams, in town these days. He is well known in these parts, which makes his products of Proctor & Gamble doubly well known. J. D. believes in trading at home, and although he has headquarters in Tuscaloosa he buys a new car in his home town, Clanton. So, let's buy J. D.'s products. Read the soap ad in the News this week.

Reuben Lowe, our affable merchant of South Clanton, is about the most optimistic person we've seen in some time. He is always feeling good and business is always good with him.

SELECT BEAUTY OF COUNTY HERE

TWENTY-FOUR YOUNG LADIES ARE IN REVUE

Miss Corinne Polk Is Given First Place In Contest With Honors

SECOND AND THIRD ARE ALSO NAMED

Twenty-four young ladies of Chilton county appeared at the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton last Thursday night, representing as many business concerns of the county, for the selection of "Miss Chilton County," and the winner of a beautiful silver loving cup.

As the judges began the elimination process with the young ladies appearing in groups on the stage, and presented by Mr. Henry Steely, director of the revue, Miss Corinne Polk of Clanton, Miss Sara Lawrence of Clanton and Mrs. Virginia Polk of Clanton were presented last to receive honors of first, second and third places in the revue.

First place and the title of "Miss Chilton County" was awarded to Miss Corinne Polk, who was representing the Chilton County News, for her beauty and poise, who was also presented with the loving cup.

Miss Polk is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Polk of Clanton, and

Alabama Employment Shows Rise In August

Washington, Sept. 17.—Employment in Alabama for 509 establishments in all industrial groups except building construction increased 4.4 per cent during August, and payrolls were 22.1 per cent fatter, figures gathered by the Department of Labor show.

These 509 establishments reported their August employment total at 64,086 persons and the weekly payroll at $888,109.

Secretary Perkins estimated that for the entire country 750,000 workers returned to employment during the period. Her report showed that payrolls increased for the country 11.6.

HOME-MAKERS CLASS TO MEET FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The Home-Makers class of the Baptist Sunday school will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the church. An important business session will be held and all members are urged to attend.

NOW IS TIME FOR PLANTING PEAS & VETCH

Planters Urged To Become Members Of County Soil Building

County Agent Stapp calls attention to recent recommendations of the Alabama Experiment Station. At the recent conference held at Auburn, Mr. Funchess, Director of the Experiment Station, stated that apparently best results with vetch might be expected from planting made from the middle of September to the middle of October, while best results might be expected from plantings of Austrian peas made between the first of October to the first of November.

Mr. Stapp is stressing the importance of thoroughly inoculating vetch and pea seed. He suggests that farmers who have not planted vetch or peas be-

Callen Alred, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hance Alred, is now enrolled at the Gulf Coast Military Academy, at Gulfport, Miss.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Samuels of Rome, Ga., visited Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Teel first of the week.

Morris Pyron and Grady Carter left Monday for Gadsden where they will enter the Alabama School of Trades. Morris will take a course in Linotype operation.

Time Of Year For Subscriptions

September is passing, with October's bright blue weather coming on, and Fall is here. The News has been coming to you faithfully each week, bringing news from all sections of the county.

The time for paying subscriptions is at hand. The label on your paper will show if your subscription is paid up, is due or will come due within a short time. Look at it now. If it is out, attend to this now, or the first time you are in town, because we don't want to stop your paper. We want you to be one of our readers.

GINNERS MAY OPERATE NOW AS IN THE PAST

Ginners Code Has Not Yet Been Approved; $3.50 Considered Fair

Alabama ginners are free to operate their gins just as they have been doing in the past, reports Commissioner of Agriculture Seth P. Storrs, who announces that Secretary Wallace has not approved a ginners code and that Commissioners of Agriculture of four cotton growing states have filed a brief asking that no code be approved this season.

The brief containing the objections and proposed amendments to the ginners marketing agreement or code was submitted by Commissioner Storrs, G. C. Adams, commissioner of agriculture of Georgia, J. Roy Jones, commissioner of agriculture of North Carolina. They declare that $3.50 per bale including bagging and ties is a reasonable price to charge for ginning.

"We are filing this brief in behalf of approximately 1,000,000 cotton farmers of these four states and to save the thousands of small ginners who would be forced out of business if the code or agreement was approved," Storrs said.

F.E.R. Work To Continue Say Commis'rs

At a special meeting Saturday morning members of the Chilton county commissioners' court voted to continue the Federal Emergency Relief program in the county throughout this year. Under the present system the county receives from the Federal Emergency Relief fund three dollars for each dollar of local funds expended for relief work.

The action of the court provided for $2,500 of county funds to be used on relief projects. Miss Kitty Clyde Austin will be retained as supervisor of the department in this county, it was announced.

REV. JONES TO FILL PULPIT AT CHESTNUT CREEK, COOPER

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the Baptist church at Thorsby, has been called to serve the church at Chestnut Creek, Cooper. He will hold his first services the first Sunday in October and Saturday before. It is to be hoped that the church and friends of the church will turn out in large numbers for this first service. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

Nail Wound Is Fatal To 11-Year Old Youth

A slight nail wound in the right foot proved fatal to Lloyd Jasper Atchison, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Atchison of the Isabella community, who died Sunday at the Central Alabama hospital here where he was brought for treatment for lockjaw.

Lloyd stuck a rusty nail in his foot while playing near his home several days ago. Saturday his foot became inflamed and he was brought to the hospital where shots were administered but too late to save his life.

RO'SEVELT ACTS HELP BANKS IN INFLATION MOVE

$150,000,000 Made Available To Refinance Mortgages On Farm Lands

President Roosevelt put another $150,000,000 of federal pressure behind the credit expansion program Monday as Southern congressional spokesmen rallied for straight-out currency inflation.

The new federal funds were made available to Federal Land Banks by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to assist in the immediate refinancing of farm mortgages held by banks whose operations have been restricted by heavy portfolios of such paper.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman, announced the plan as the drive for currency inflation picked up its strongest force since Congress empowered Mr. Roosevelt to issue new currency or devaluate the dollar. The gathering here of cotton men and Southern political leaders

MR. AND MRS. BILL INZER GO TO ANDALUSIA TO MAKE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Inzer of Clanton left Monday for Andalusia where they will make their home in the future.

Mr. Inzer has been connected with the V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c & $1.00 Store here in a responsible position and goes to Andalusia to take over the management of another Elmore store which is to open right away.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Inzer will miss them from Clanton and hope they will find everything to make them happy in Andalusia.

County Agent Makes Comparisons Of Commercial Fertilizer and Austrian Peas, Vetch

It is estimated that 20,000 acres of corn in Chilton County are fertilized with an average of 1,000 tons of commercial fertilizer annually at a cost of $35,000 to $40,000. Should this 1,000 tons of commercial fertilizer be applied to corn according to the recommendations of the Experiment Station, the increased yield on the 20,000 acres would not be more than 160,000 bushels. If the farmers of Chilton County would spend this same $35,000 for peas and vetch this fall they could seed more than 14,000 acres of land to be planted in corn next spring. On the basis of an average increase in yield following peas or vetch, we might expect 280,000 bushels. In other words, do you think it would be better to spend $35,000 for Austrian winter peas and vetch this fall and for that get 280,000 bushels of corn, or would it be better to spend $35,000 next spring for commercial fertilizer and get 160,000 bushels of corn?

There is a difference of 120,000 bushels of corn in favor of vetch and peas. Are such figures worth considering, I ask you?

The above figures do not tell the whole story, because vetch or peas grown in the winter prevent soil erosion and when turned under in the spring make the ground easier worked, liberate other eeded plant foods and lasts more than one year.

TO TIGHTEN ON RELIEF SEEKERS

Merchants Have Soap Sale

Sixteen merchants in all sections of Chilton county are putting on a special sale of products of the Proctor & Gamble Co., manufacturers of soaps, washing powders and shortening, this week.

In this issue of the News will be found a large advertisement listing these specials that are being offered by these 16 merchants. The names of the merchants are also listed on the ad. If you are in need of any of these products, go to your nearest dealer as listed and take advantage of these special prices.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION AT COURT HOUSE

Strand Quartet Of Atlanta To Be Here And Put On Concert Monday Night

Next Sunday will likely be the big day of the season for the singers of Chilton County. The fall session of the Chilton County Singing Convention will be held at the court house, beginning at ten o'clock, W. G. Culp, the chairman, in charge.

A letter from Prof. Henson of Atlanta a few days ago stated that he would be in the midst of the convention and that the Strand Quartet, also of that city, will be here with him. The Strand is said to be among the best quartets in the South today.

Mr. Culp has also been authorized to announce that the Strand Quartet will put on a concert at the court house on Monday night, September 25th, beginning at 7:45 o'clock. An admission of 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults will be charged. People who have heard this quartet say that their singing is among the best. The public is asked to bear in mind the engagement and try and arrange to hear them.

Alred Drug Company Selling 'Crazy Crystals'

"Crazy Crystals" are fast becoming popular in this section, according to the Alred Drug Company, who are exclusive dealers in this section for this product.

In this issue of the News will be found an advertisement about "Crazy Crystals" from Alred Drug Company. Dr. Alred stated that this is one of the fastest selling products on the market and that they are pleased wih the sales here.

Need For More Feed In Chilton County

County Agent Stapp states that many farmers had to buy feed for their livestock in 1933. He also states that many farmers lost livestock because of insufficient amounts of the proper feeds. He points out that there are approximately 5,000 mules and horses in Chilton county, and that there should be two acres of oats planted for each mule or horse in the county. These should be planted this fall.

Mr. Stapp further states that the livestock of Chilton county do not get sufficient hay; that farmers would do well to plant oats and vetch or peas to be cut for hay next spring. He recommends about two bushels of oats and 20 pounds of vetch or 30 pounds of Austrian winter peas per acre, and states that the farmers should figure about one acre for each mule and milk cow on the farm.

VETERANS OF WILDCAT DIV. ASKED TO SEND IN NAMES

Montgomery, Ala.—Veterans of the Wildcat Division throughout Alabama are asked to send in their names, present addresses and former organizations in the division to Judge Horace C. Wilkinson, 401 Farley Building, Birmingham. The information desired is for use in connection with the 1934 reunion of the division which is to be held in Birmingham. —Thomas M. Owen, Jr.

UNFAVORABLE REPORTS BEGIN SHOWING UP

Many Seeking Aid And Have Refused Jobs When Offered Them

UNDESERVING CASES WILL BE REPORTED

C. E. Stapp, Chairman of the Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross, makes the following announcement:

"The Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross desires to take care of needy cases as far as possible in order to help relieve undue suffering and distress. It is not the policy of the Red Cross to help those who sit and wait for help."

Mr. Stapp states that recently numerous cases have been reported to him that some of the people in the County are refusing to accept work at reasonable wages. He requested that all such cases be reported to him and that an investigation will be made, and if found true, persons offered work at reasonable wages, whether in money or food stuff, will be discontinued help from charity.

Mr. Stapp feels that every person who can make his or her way should do so without calling on charity, and that very strict attention is going to be given these cases in the future.

Inspection Offered Strawberry Growers

Strawberry growers wishing to have their berry plants inspected this year are urged to make application to the State Department of Agriculture immediately.

B. P. Livingston, chief of the Plant Industry Division, of the Department reports that the state has reduced the inspection fees from $10 to $1 to individuals but that this does not apply to associations.

"Picture Snatcher" Is Coming To Wadeson'n

Cast As Tough, Resourceful Photographer On Scandal Mongering Tabloid Paper

According to Hollywood preview critics, the Warner Bros. production, "Picture Snatcher," which opens September 27th and 28th at the Wadesonian Theatre, provides James Cagney with the most exciting story of his entire motion picture career, with comedy drama and romance in profusion.

This comedy-drama is said to have every element that makes for pure entertainment of the kind that fits the fast moving, hard hitting Cagney personality. The socking young Irishman is placed in this story in the field of yellow journalism. As an ex-gangster who wants to go straight, he gets a job on a lurid tabloid on which no self-respecting reporter will work. This job consists of getting news pictures somehow when legitimate methods fail. If he can't get them with a camera, then stealing is not frowned upon by his employers. This small and rare phase of yellow journalism was chosen as providing a more vivid background for James Cagney than would the large field of legitimate journalism.

Critics and fans who may have been concerned lest Cagney had gone soft after seeing him in "Hard to Handle," may forget their fears, for according to reports, Cagney is even more aggressive toward the fair sex in "Picture Snatcher," than he has ever been.

Vivacious Alice White is cast in a prominent role as the tabloid's sob sister, and is said to be on the receiving end of Cagney's ungentleness when she tries to "make" him.

The strength of the picture is indicated in the cast of prominent, competent players chosen for the supporting roles. Important parts are played by Ralph Bellamy, Ralf Harolde, Robert Emmett O'Connor, Robert Barrat, Geo. Pat Collins, Arthur Vinton and Tom Wilson.

IF TELEPHONE SWITCHBOARDS COULD TALK

By T. E. Harris,
DISTRICT MANAGER

SOUTHERN BELL
Telephone and Telegraph Co.

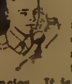
How interesting it would be if a telephone switchboard could talk. We would get a picture of the intimate daily life of our community.

A signal appears on the switchboard. "Number please," says the operator, and comes an excited voice, "Operator, please, quick I want 476 — Dr. Brown." There's a flash of quick moving hands and "central" has Dr. Brown on the wire. Another signal, and it's Johnny Green calling Mary Doe, and it's likely those lines will be busy for some time.

"Number please," and this time a stock buyer, is calling a distant city about a carload of hogs. Then it's Farmer Brown calling in a hurry for the town veterinary. His prize jersey cow is sick.

Then come a string of signals in quick order. Several women are calling friends to organize a church social. In the midst of this flurry a long distance call comes for Mrs. Jackson. Her married son, a hundred miles away, is calling to give the news that "it's a boy."

So on and on in never ending succession the signals come in while "central" sits at her post and with deft hands and sympathetic understanding weaves them together to form the fabric of the social and business life of the community. As some one so well expressed it, "Central and her switchboard are the nerve center of our community's 'life.'"



The telephone plays a leading part in every phase, station and activity of life. We turn to it in emergencies. It is a means of banishing loneliness, a comfort and protection at all times. Probably that's why people say the value of telephone service outweighs the small cost. Ask for our free 64-page illustrated book, Magic of Communication. It tells how the telephone, radio and television work, and other interesting things.

How One Woman Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat

Lost Her Prominent Hips—Double Chin—Sluggishness

Gained A Shapely Figure

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter and cream. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 salts most helpful to body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today. It's the safe way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first. adv.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

"As A Man Meriteth, So He Is Rewarded"

I am thinking now of the colored people, particularly the younger people in Clanton. It seems that they have lost all dignity as well as self-respect and respect for their fellow man. There seems to be no indication of culture whatever. I have in mind a recent visit to the Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton. As soon as I reached the door I heard voices, gruff, harsh, shrieky and clamorous and everything that goes along with rowdiness. From the outside one would get the impression that there was a contest of some sort on the inside. I know these folks have been taught better. They have sat before cultured people and know just how to carry themselves in public places. My appeal to you is "Show your training." No one wants to sit in a picture show and listen to your hilarious voices all the time, and pretty soon you'll find that you have been excluded and begin to wonder why. Then you say, "They stopped us from going," when in reality you stopped yourself. If you want to be respected you must carry yourselves in such a way as to demand respect. Abuse your privileges and they will be taken from you. Then not only you, but others will have to suffer the consequence. "As a Man Meriteth, so he is Rewarded."

Canning Ends This Week

Friday ends the canning at the County Training School for the summer. Since the opening of the canning center in July, twenty-five hundred quarts of vegetables and fruits have been preserved. This is without question, the record for the county. Our people show their sincere gratitude for the opportunity by canning up ninety-eight per cent. Too much praise can not be accorded them.

At Riderville

Next week will mark the end of the R.F.C. school at Riderville and the end of a very appreciated course. Those people down there and their white neighbors to be inseparable. I never saw such good spirit existing between the races. It makes me feel good to know that one county is free of racial animosity. I believe we can keep it up.

DeVaughn-Brown Wedding

A wedding of much interest around here was that of Miss Evelyn Brown of Mt. Pisgah, and Mr. Reuben DeVaughn on Saturday night, September 16th. The bride was lovely in a brown costume with accessories to match.

Mrs. DeVaughn is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brown. A wedding supper was given in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Aldridge.

CRAZY CRYSTALS

What are "Crazy Crystals"? Why are so many people so crazy about "Crazy Crystals"? What do they do? What are they for?

"Crazy Crystals' come in neat little packages and are becoming one of the fastest sellers on the market. For the answers to the above questions, ask any clerk at the Alred Drug Company in Clanton, where "Crazy Crystals" are sold by the dozens every week that passes.

Alred Drug Company are exclusive dealers in this section for this popular product and they say it is wonderful the way so many people are taking on to "Crazy Crystals" these days. Go to Alreds and ask about them.

Use This Laxative made from plants

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT is made from plants that come from seeds and grow in the ground, like the garden vegetables you eat at every meal. NATURE has put into these plants an active medicine that stimulates the bowels to act — just as Nature put the materials that sustain your body into the vegetable foods you eat.

In Black-Draught you have a natural laxative, free from synthetic drugs. Its proper use does not make you have to depend on cathartic chemical drugs to get the bowels to act daily.

Find out by trying Black-Draught what a good medicine it is for constipation troubles. In 25¢ pkgs. (dry)

P.S. — For Children, get the new, pleasant tasting SYRUP of Thedford's Black-Draught. 25¢ & 50¢ bottles.

RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

Low Cost...Free Estimate

Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

Breaks Record In Pike's Peak Climb

When Al Miller established a new record for the Pikes Peak climb on Labor Day, he negotiated the distance in 19 minutes, 55.2 seconds with a Goodyear-equipped Essex terraplane, according to Dief's Service Station, local Goodyear dealer.

"The Pike's Peak course," says Mr. Diefenderfer, "is a rough gravel trail that ascends from an altitude of 9,150 to 14,109 with 160 treacherous curves enroute.

"Miller broke the existing record by one minute, 25.7 seconds. Immediately following his successful climb, he wired Goodyear the following message: 'Your tires played important part in my record breaking climb up Pike's Peak and helped me win this event today with Hudson Essex terraplane.

"'The sharp edges of your All-Weather tread design enabled me to take the dangerous curves at a speed that I believe would have been impossible with any other combination. Your tires took tremendous punishment and it was a real test of your Supertwist cord construction.

"'I have had previous experience with Goodyears and was confident they would come through just as they did. The Goodyears I used were the regular four-ply All-Weathers with which every Hudson Essex car is equipped at the factory. I congratulate you on your product,' the telegram said."

HIGHLAND

Last Sunday evening was our regular singing evening. The opening song was led by the president, Mr. G. B. Billingsley, after which prayer was led by Mr. M. D. Dickey. We had a good singing and a nice crowd. The directors for the afternoon were Coy Lockhart, Cathran Coe, Soverign Dickey, Ruby Weldon, Fonzie Coe, Lucille Powell, Mildred Coe, Herman Culpepper, Elizabeth Culp, Gladys Wyatt, Willie Merle Lockhart, Mr. Elijah Weldon, Eddie Bell Wright and Lorena Billingsley. A quartet was sung by Clint Billingsley, Herman Culpepper, Lucile Powell and Gladys Wyatt. Organists for the afternoon were Dessie Wyatt, Eddie Bell Wright.

Our Sunday school is progressing nicely. Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Sunday school will be at ten o'clock and preaching at eleven o'clock Sunday morning. Everyone come and bring someone with you.

Don't forget, we have our singing every third Sunday afternoon. Everyone has an invitation to come and bring your 1934 Stamps-Baxter song books.

MITCHELL DEVAUGHN LIKES THINGS IN FOREST CAMPS

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 18, 1933.

Editor, Chilton County News:

Received the good ole Chilton County News Friday. Sure have enjoyed reading it and am looking for another issue this week.

I am in Camp No. 2420, C.C.C. P. 60, Chatom, Ala. Our camp is one mile from this good old Democratic town. We sure have a nice camp. We have about one hundred and sixty men, and hope to have full strength by October 12th.

We have four or more dear old Chilton county boys here. Come on, Chilton county boys, and let's help Washington county take care of their forests.

Thanking you for space in our paper for this, I am

Sincerely yours,

Working At Mt. Springs

Everyone interested in helping to clean off the church grounds for our home-coming day meet as early as possible with necessary tools on Thursday, October 5th.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Here we come this week telling you what a wonderful singing we had here last Sunday, as you know it was the day for our all-day singing. We had with us some very fine singers. Everybody seemed to be in a singing mood. We wish to thank each and every one for their cooperation.

There was also preaching here last Saturday and Saturday night. Bro. Lockhart brought to us his farewell sermon Saturday night. Everybody's heart seemed to be saddened when he told us good-bye. He has been with us three long years and during these years he brought to us many wonderful messages. To know him was to love him. He always wore a smile. He worked faithfully with the lost souls around here and won many. He never failed to do his duty. We are asking him to continue praying for us, and come back to see us any time.

We didn't have any B. Y. P. U. Sunday night on account of bad weather. But let's everybody come back to B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Parrish were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Glenn and family.

Mr. Ottis Glenn and mother visited relatives in Cooper Sunday night.

Miss Nora Gray was the guest of Miss Delene Davis Saturday night.

Mr. Oliver Glenn had as his Sunday dinner guest Mr. Raymond Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Downs of Birmingham were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs Sunday.

Mr. Claud Downs, Jr., was the Saturday night guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs.

Mr. Glaucus Baker, Jr., spent a few hours with Mr. Arnold Glenn Sunday afternoon.

The wedding of Miss Evelyn Brown to Mr. Reuben Devaughn was quietly solemnized last Saturday night. The many friends of the couple wish them much success and happiness in their future life. They will make their home with Mr. O. L. Devaughn.

Mr. Oliver Mims was the Saturday night guest of Mr. Cecil Davis.

Big Trade-In TIRE SALE

Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES

DOUBLE SAVINGS for Car Owners who buy now! Prices are going up—Don't Delay—Equip your car TODAY and SAVE.

Here is how you make a DOUBLE SAVING! First—you will get a liberal allowance for your old tires—and second, you will save the amount of the next price increase which must come soon. It will be a long time in our opinion before you will be able to make such a tire saving again.

Don't risk your life and the lives of others on dangerously worn, smooth-tread tires, when we will give you a liberal trade-in allowance to apply on new Firestone High Speed Tires — the Safest Tires in the World.

THE MASTERPIECE OF TIRE CONSTRUCTION

Firestone Tires are built with high stretch Gum-Dipped Cords. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure rubber. This extra Firestone process gives you 58% greater protection against blowouts.

The NEW Firestone SUPER OLDFIELD TYPE

Built to equal all first line standard brand tires in quality, construction and appearance, but lower in price—another Firestone achievement in saving money for car owners.

News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

The ladies of the Congregational church had an ice cream social at the parsonage last Tuesday night, the money to be used in repairing the windows of the church. Various table games were played during the evening and quite a number attended the social, even though the weather was not very favorable. Over eight dollars was cleared.

There will be regular services at the Thorsby Baptist church both morning and evening next Sunday.

The Eastern Star spend-the-day social will be at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard on Wednesday, September 27. Plates will be sold for 25c each and the dinner served in cafeteria style as usual. The public has a cordial invitation to attend the dinner.

Mrs. Harold Olsen and little daughter, Carol, left last Saturday for Chicago, Ill., to spend the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sims are taking care of the house and the tourist camp for them.

The home belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hayes, formerly known as the Teachers Cottage when it belonged to Thorsby Institute, was nearly destroyed by fire last Friday afternoon. The house caught from the flue, but was discovered in time to get help from town and was put out. However, the house is badly damaged from water and the weather boarding is torn off in many places.

Mr. S. E. Norton was taken ill Saturday morning from a stroke. This temporarily affected his speech, but he is much improved now. He is still confined to his bed. We miss seeing him and wish for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Collins entertained with a dinner in honor of Miss Susan Goodgame on Thursday night at their home. The following were the invited guests: Miss Edith Johnson, Mr. Kendall Franklin and Mr. Lloyd Howard.

Miss Esther Johnson spent the week end in Thorsby with her father, Mr. J. O. Johnson and sister, Edith. She returned to Birmingham a few weeks ago from Gary, Ind., and Chicago, Ill., where she has been visiting relatives and attending the Century of Progress.

Mrs. M. A. Wright returned Saturday night from a week's vacation with her parents in Lyerly, Ga. She also visited her brothers in Rome, Ga., and sister in Gadsden, Ala.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham spent the week end in Thorsby with her sister, Mrs. Emmett Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Collins and children and Miss Susan Goodgame left Wednesday for Florida for a visit. Miss Goodgame has been spending the summer in Thorsby with her sister, Mrs. Collins.

Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin moved last Thursday into the home belonging to Dr. S. C. Wood. They had been living in the brick home belonging to Mr. Djerhovd.

Miss Dorothy Butler returned Sunday night from a week's stay in Birmingham with her sister, Miss Margaret Butler.

Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Huffman of Clanton were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pate and family Sunday.

Mrs. Martin Peterson and son, Richard, and Mr. and Mrs. Self of Birmingham spent a few days of last week in Pensacola. Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Self returned to their home in Birmingham last Friday.

Mrs. D. H. Gentry spent Monday in Clanton with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard and Mrs. Webster Sharpe spent Thursday with Mrs. Sharpe's parents in Clanton.

Mr. L. M. Jackson spent last week end in Birmingham and Gadsden.

Mr. V. H. Sutlive spent Saturday and Sunday in Birmingham with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. N. Nixson and Mr. Howard Baldwin of Deatsville, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith of Thorsby, Ala.

Mrs. J. T. McEwen returned Saturday to her home in Columbiana after spending a while in Thorsby with her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Reinhardt, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Reinhardt spent the week end in Wilsonville with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gray of Montgomery visited Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin and other friends in Thorsby Sunday.

Mr. Willie Scott of Montgomery spent Sunday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott.

Mr. Carleton Collins, who is in business near Pelham, Ala., spent the week end in Thorsby with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Collins.

Mr. Sam R. Billingsley and family returned to their home in St. Petersburg, Fla., Saturday morning. Mrs. J. R. Billingsley accompanied them as far as Mobile, Ala., to spend some time with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Billingsley and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Moore and daughter. Ernestine, of Coopers and Mr. Bob Martin spent Sunday in Gadsden, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan spent Sunday in Selma with Miss Naemi Turnquist.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Birmingham were guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Harper, during the week end.

Mr. Robert Ward arrived in Thorsby Monday night from Pensacola, Fla., to spend a while with his mother, Mrs. D. L. Ward, and family.

Mrs. Lee Pate was hostess to the Lazy Daisy Eight Bridge club at her home last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Earl Marcus was winner of high score prize. Those present were Mesdames J. L. Mixson, R. R. Franklin, Spurgeon Calloway, Tom Robinson, Grover Bice, Earl Marcus and Miss Edith Johnson.

The A. T. Clark Sunday School Class of the Congregational church enjoyed a very delightful party given by Mr. and Mrs. Jim Higgins at their home on Monday night of this week. Many games were played in the evening after which refreshments were served to the following members who were present: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mixson, Miss Marion Fairbank the teacher of the class. Mrs. E. L. Thornburgh, Mrs. Janie Sutlive, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Meade, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Higgins and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Each, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson, Mr and Mrs. Carl Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goddard, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Leary, Miss Agnes Leary, Mr. Earl Leary and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Butler.

Little Miss Billy Ann Parrish entertained her little friends on her fourth birthday Monday afternoon at the home of her friend. Miss Peggy Mims Franklin. The following were present: Emogene Lowery, Inez Cox, Dion and Bettie Joe Raybon, Mary Virginia Bice, Elizabeth Jean and Mary Frances Collins, Helen Louise Meade, Grace Swanson and Dwight Leslie Mixson, Rennie Jean Gamble, Dorothy Howard, Joan Rowell. Aniss and Wilton Littleton.

Mr. Julian Lecey of Bessemer spent Sunday in Thorsby with Miss Clara Mae Kincaid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sorrell of Ensley spent Thursday in Thorsby with Mr. John Sorrell.

Mrs. H. N. Johnson and Mr. M. O. Johnson, who have been visiting Mr. N. Johnson and family left last Friday for Akron, Ohio.

Mrs. M. P. Mims of Mobile, Ala., known to her many friends as Miss Cora Hayes before her marriage, died Sunday, September 17, in the Mobile Infirmary after a short illness. She was 29 years old. Her body was brought to Thorsby Monday night and buried at Cedar Grove community on Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Limbrick and Rev. Green of Jemison with Spigener of Clanton in charge. Mrs. Mims leaves a husband and four children of Mobile; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes of Jemison; four sisters, Mrs. H. O. IN MEMORY OF MRS. MARY SCOTT

On August 27th, at four o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Scott and took from us our beloved mother and grandmother. Her death was not a surprise to us as she had been in ill health for two years. We know she has done what we all will have to do and she bore her suffering with patience.

Grandmother was endowed with an universally cheerful disposition, having always a word of cheer for everyone. She never refused to help a friend in need, and was always willing to assist and offer a word of cheer to those in trouble. We will all miss her so much. It seems that it is more than we can bear but we are thankful that God knows and does all things best. She was a comfort to her family, everyone of whom returned this love and affection.

Her words were kindness,
Her words were loved.
Her spirit humbles—
She rests above.

Let's weep not, loved ones, for mother and grandmother, for she is out of her suffering, sorrow and pain, and we trust that our loss was heaven's gain.

Grandmother was 80 years of age on May 10, 1933. Before her marriage she was Miss Mary Billingsley. Her husband, Jim Scott, had preceded her to the grave 25 years ago. She leaves ten children, 8 boys, Johnson, George, John, Ernest, Henry, Wash, Jake and Charlie Scott; two daughters, Mrs. John Mims and Mrs. Joe Wallace; and 39 grandchildren, and 26 great-grandchildren, and one brother, Mr. Jack Billingsley. The family extends their thanks to those who were so good and kind to us and her, and those who covered her grave with beautiful flowers. She was laid to rest at Shiloh on Aug. 28, with Rev. A. E. Trice conducting the funeral. Pallbearers were her grandsons, Horace and Leon Wallace, Willie and Hosea Mims, Arnold and O. T. Scott. Herren & Man of Tallassee was in charge.

—Written by a granddaughter who loved her, Miss Era Scott.

CARD OF THANKS

May we express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and doctor for the loving kindness and help shown to us during the illness and death of our beloved companion and father, Jesse G. Hayes.

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Club News

The C. I. Club met Monday afternoon, September 18, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Virgin with Mrs. Sara Crim as hostess. As the president and vice-president were absent, Mrs. Sara Crim acted as chairman. The meeting was called to order by the chairman and the minutes of last meeting were read, and then the roll was called. The club goal was then decided upon, it being "A Community Club House" to be erected not later than the latter part of November. A motto for the club was then selected, it being "Climb, though the way be rugged." A tramping party was then discussed. It will be given sometime in the near future. The business meeting was adjourned then for the social hour. Misses Urma Ruth and Neva Jane Key rendered a piano solo and Miss Helen Zuiderhoek rendered several piano selections. Refreshments were then served to the following: Misses Margaret Matthews, Betha and Evelyn Martin, Mildred and Frances Killingsworth, Armanda Spencer, Urma Ruth and Neva Jane Key, Elizabeth Roberts, Iva Campbell, Aileen Ellison, Myrtle Lou Crim, Helen Zuiderhoek and hostess, Mrs. Sara Crim.

The C. I. Club will meet next Monday afternoon, September 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberts with Miss Elizabeth Roberts as hostess.

All club members were very glad to learn that Miss Newell has promised us that if she possibly could she would meet with us Monday, Sept. 25. Miss Newell, we hope you find it possible to meet with us.

We had a good many club absentees Monday and if it is possible we urge you to be present next meeting.

Mrs. Alice Mims Died Last Thursday

Mrs. Alice Mims, wife of Frank M. Mims, died at the family home in Temple community, southeast of Clanton, last Thursday night, September 14, at 10:30 p.m. She had suffered for several years from a complication of diseases; about two years ago she underwent a minor operation and her condition improved somewhat; however, early in this year she grew worse again, and although everything was done for her that could be done, it availed nothing, and although her death was a shock to her relatives and many friends, it was not entirely unexpected.

Mrs. Alice Mims was born December 25, 1882, the daughter of Ben L., and Malissa Dennis: she would have been 51 years of age had she lived until Christmas Day. She was preceded to the grave by her father, mother, two brothers. Charlie and Harvey Dennis, and one sister, Mrs. Docia Mims, wife of Rev. W. P. Mims. She is survived by her husband, F. M. Mims, two sons, Wm. J. and Lester Mims, and two daughters, Mrs. E. V. Mims, and Mrs. Marion Thompson; six brothers, C. C. Dennis of near Wadsworth, J. E. and I. A. Dennis of Maplesville, B. D. Dennis of Clanton Route 6, Horace and Levi Dennis of Clanton Route2, and one sister, Mrs. J. A. Dykes, of Clanton Route 2.

She married F. M. Mims January 16, 1898 at the age of 15 years. She became a member of Walnut Creek church in 1899, and changed membership to Temple church when it was established about the year 1904, retaining her membership and active work in that church until her death.

Mrs. Mims lived a life of utmost devotion to her church, her husband and family, and was held in high esteem by her neighbors and friends. A devout Christian, she ever held as her life's motto her Master's command "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," and obeyed that command to the letter. She stood always ready to help wherever and whenever she could. To finish a perfect Christian life, she leaves a testimony of her complete submission to her Master's will; of her readiness and willingness to go to her reward for which she has lived and labored so long. A few hours before her death, the approach of which she was fully conscious, she told her family: "Do not worry and mourn for me, for I have lived the best I could, and I know that my home in Heaven is waiting for me." And so, intermingled with the mortal sorrow for a wife and mother here on earth, her family may still experience immortal joy that she was welcomed home by her Lord and Master with the words: "Thou has been faithful; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

The funeral was held at Temple church at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 16, in charge of Rev. W. E. Thurmond, of Laurel, Miss. Interment was in the cemetery at Temple church, with Martin in charge.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to express our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends during the sickness and death of my dear father, Mr. Aaron Clackler, and also thanks to the doctors and nurses at the Central Alabama Hospital, and especially Mr. Martin, our funeral director. May God's richest blessings be upon each and every one is my prayer.

LULA JONES.

MRS. CAMPBELL DIES AT CENTRAL ALABAMA HOSPITAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Irene Campbell, 43, wife of T. H. Campbell of the Mulberry community, who died Saturday afternoon at the Central Alabama Hospital, were held Monday at Mulberry.

Spending Is Saving Now

True economy is that which obtains the largest possible return for a dollar spent. Truer economy is to spend that dollar at a time when it will bring the most.

We have had a number of years of extreme depression. Prices have dropped to unimaginably low levels. Buying power has been close to non-existent. There was money in the country—but persons who had surpluses were afraid to spend. They went without needed articles in order to keep their savings intact. They permitted property to fall into costly disrepair.

If they pursue that timid policy any longer, they are going to be literally out of luck. That hoarded money is going down in value now. The worth of the dollar depends entirely on what it will buy. Six months from now it will buy much less than it will buy today. In other words, if you keep money in a non-productive state at present it amounts to throwing a certain percentage of it away.

You can get maximum value from your money only by putting it to use. There was never a better time to install a new heating plant, to repair or replace a roof, to build or rebuild, to paint or to do a thousand similar things. Every dollar so spent will appreciate in value—what it buys will, in a very short time, have a market value much in excess of what you paid.

Think it over! True saving now is through wise spending.

Fighting The Reckless Driver

This year the month of September has been dedicated to the most intensive campaign in the interest of automobile accident prevention ever carried on in this country.

The governors of 34 states and the commissioners of the District of Columbia have issued proclamations and messages. More than 90,000,000 persons—74 per cent of our total population—live in their areas. Seventy-five per cent of all automobiles in the country are registered within them, and last year about 76 per cent of the 29,000 deaths occurred in the participating territory.

In 1932 there was a decrease in automobile accidents and fatalities, as compared with 1931. This year the trend has been reversed, and the toll is again on the upgrade. The reckless, the discourteous and the incompetent still rule the highways. The public streets and roads are still shambles both for persons and for property.

Only the individual motorist can conquer this organized destruction. There are few such things as unavoidable accidents. And it has been proven that raising the safety factor of roads and vehicles does no good—the driver simply trusts to the engineers, and operates his car even more recklessly.

During the September campaign, facts and figures detailing the havoc wreaked by excessive speeds, by violations of right-of-way laws, by passing on curves and hills, by that most common of all motoring ills, discourtesy, will be brought to our attention. And all of us should consider it both a duty and a privilege to cooperate.

Credit Where Due

A columnist in the Portland Oregonian comments on the amazing care with which the federal public works program is being administered. Government engineers employed by the department in charge, are watched at all hours—and if they are seen to fraternize with persons who stand to gain from contracts, they are liable to be summarily dismissed. Every contract, small or large, is investigated and studied by officials to prevent graft and profiteering. The result is that the campaign is moving rather slowly—but with the assurance that the government, which means the taxpayers, is going to get full value for its money. If this report is correct, it is deserving of the highest commendation.

The Farmer And The NRA

The farmer and the resident of our rural communities have a vital stake in the National Recovery Program. Success of the program means a better, brighter day for them and proportionately more than for the industrial worker and the city dweller in general.

While there has been overproduction of certain farm products, underconsumption caused by business and industrial paralysis and widespread unemployment, resulting in a huge loss of purchasing power, has contributed principally to the farmer's distress.

Farm prices have been low largely because the drop in the income of the people has sharply curtailed demand and the farmer must take what he can get for his products, not what they are worth.

The farmer has rightly been called the backbone of the Nation. At no time in our history has his wholehearted help been needed more than now. He can work the more earnestly in contributing to the success of the recovery drive because he knows that when the big turn comes he will share in the prosperity that follows.

President Roosevelt, whose farsighted and dynamic leadership has already initiated comprehensive measures designed to aid the farmer directly in solving his own problems, is depending upon the rural dweller to put a shoulder to the wheel and help get the country back on its feet.

May He Rest In Peace

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said:
"My trade of late is getting bad,
I'll try another ten-inch ad,"
If such there be go mark him well
For him no bank account shall swell;
No angel watch the golden stair
To welcome home a millionaire.
The man who never asks for trade
By local line or ad displayed
Cares more for rest than worldly gain,
And patronage but gives him pain
Tread lightly friends, let no rude sound
Disturb his solitude profound;
Here let him live in calm repose
Unsought except by men he owes,
And when he dies go plant him deep,
That naught may break his dreamless sleep;
Wherein no clamor may dispel
The quiet that he loved so well;
And that the world may know its loss
Place on his grave a wreath of moss;
And on a stone above: "Here lies
A chump who wouldn't advertise."

Becoming Entirely Too Popular

Chilton county has been doing its share, and possibly more than its share in helping those people in the county who are out of work and need food and clothing. The Red Cross has been distributing food and clothing freely. The R. F. C. has been giving jobs freely and paying for them.

But the time has come that this has grown to be entirely too free and popular with a certain class.

Reports have reached the News of persons who have made application for relief, and who have been offered jobs, but refused them because they didn't think the pay was enough.

It has been brought to the attention of the News that some workers on the R. F. C. jobs are not putting in full time at work.

When a person who says he or she is in need of relief, is offered a place on a farm or other job, and refuses to accept that job, then that person should be stricken from any list of charity or relief.

We do not mean to cast any kind of reflection on anyone in making these comments. We do not know of any particular person to whom this might apply, but our information comes from reliable sources.

The News likes to see a deserving person who is in need of help, given a job or given food and clothing if necessary. Any person who applies for relief, is offered a job or place on a farm, and refuses, should be reported to the welfare office or the chairman of the Red Cross in the county.

"The Mosquito, He Fly High"

"The mosquito he fly high. The mosquito he fly low. And if he flies and lights on me, he ain't gonna fly no mo'."

So, that part of the old-time song must simply mean that the surest method of killing a mosquito is to let him light on you, then swat him.

Residents of Clanton have become more than concerned over the great number of mosquitoes here.

Comments on possible breeding places are being heard about town and someone has suggested that the city pass an ordinance making it compulsory for all useless cans or other containers, given to the trash pile, be cut so as not to hold water after they are discarded. Not a bad suggestion.

The News had hoped that it would carry a story this week to the effect that the city officials had taken some steps to treat breeding places of mosquitoes in and near the town, but we were not so fortunate.

The News Is Honored

The News feels highly honored on the outcome of the beauty revue held in Clanton last Thursday night for the selection of "Miss Chilton County."

The News does not feel honored because its representative was awarded first place. It is proud of that, but does feel honored that Miss Corinne Polk was so kind as to consent to be the representative of the News in the beauty revue. It is an honor to have such a charming young lady represent us, and our chest swells with pride that we selected the young lady who was given the title of "Miss Chilton County". Congratulations to Miss Polk.

The Editorial Page

According to J. David Stern, editor and publisher of The Philadelphia Record, who discusses the subject in The Literary Digest, the editorial page has staged a decided "comeback" in consequence of the uncertainties that have existed during the past few years.

He finds that the general public is more than ever concerned about public questions, and this concern is reflected in increased popularity of the editorial page, especially among those journals which handle the situation fearlessly.

To assert that the editorial page has "come back" is to admit that it had at one time lost considerable of its interest, which doubtless is true in many cases, but does not hold good in all.

There are a good many editorial pages in the country that have never lost their appeal, but such pages will be found free from the dry rot that is found in some others. They sparkle, regardless of changing conditions, and are read regardless of changing conditions.

In most instances where the editorial page has lost its appeal, it rests upon one or the other of two causes—either it is without positive opinion on any subject or it is characterized by a superior, we-know-it-all air that fails to get by with the reader.

The page that grips is the page that correctly interprets what is in the hearts of the people, voicing their aspirations and hopes, and speaking the language that is clear to the multitudes. It must be firm without bitterness and friendly without fawning. And above all, it must be sincere. Such a page does not require a "comeback." It always has its audience.—Gadsden Times.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

There was a little boy in the community where I was raised who had an uncontrollable appetite for red clay. His mother would find him at the clay bank eating dirt with the relish of hunger, and then she would proceed to lecture him and punish him, even at times threatening to cut him open with the butcher knife to relieve his stomach of the dirt. All this did no good. The lad had an appetite for dirt and eating and it caused him to grow thin and pale. The family physician was called and it was through his skill that the boy was relieved from his dirt appetite. The trouble with the youth of today is that they love the devil's dirt. Morning, noon and night they are gathering about the clay banks of sin and gorging their souls with the ways of the world. There is but one Physician who can cure them of their dirt appetite, and that is Jesus Christ. Our lads and lassies are dying by the thousands in a spiritual way, and all because they refuse to be treated by the great Physician.

I saw a man come on the train with his bundles. He walked down the aisle past the center of the coach and then placed his bundles in position and carefully arranged his seat. He settled down as for a long journey. Sure enough, he was a through passenger. At the next station a man came on the train and did not so much as let go his bundles from his arms. He sat down on the first seat and did not so much as lean back. When the train blew for the next station he was on his feet and ready to get off. He was just a station passenger. Thank God, there are a few people who come on board God's train to glory and settle down as through passengers. They mean to be loyal to the church and stick with her to the journey's end. There are others who are just station passengers. They are no more than in the church before they are not fit to stay there, and should either get off, or be put off. All our churches are crowded with station passengers. Joshua said that as for himself and family, they were through passengers.

We read the story from Eatonton, Georgia where a hawk seized a three-foot black snake and soared into the air. The snake was game and threw himself around the hawk and began to squeeze. Another hawk seeing the plight of his fellow came to his rescue. The snake succeeded in snaring the wings of both hawks and down they came. The hawks and snakes fell near a blacksmith's shop and he killed both the hawks and the reptile. How often de we see human beings seize the black reptiles of sin, and then try to get away with it. Sin is game and it will succeed in snaring the hearts of the best, and down they will come. When sin entangles the wings of the soul there is no such thing as a safe landing. It is like the nose dive of the plane. There is a great fall and a tremendous crash. Better let the black reptiles of sin stay among the rubbish of this world.

A friend of mine had a husband who was not much of a church man, and one day she was specially blessed in the service. She came down to the altar to shake my hand and she was shaking her head up and down and saying, "I am going right home and tell that husband of mine that he has got to come to church and do better." I replied, "Sister, he will not do it." She wanted to know why I had that opinion. My reply was, "As long as you shake your head like a cow that is going to hook, your husband will buck you in your leadership." Lots of folks go at the task of getting people to do better just like a cow going down a lane, shaking her head as though she would hook everything in sight. You can't do people much good if you doddle your head like a hooking cow, when you are talking to them.

I saw a great crowd of people coming out of a picture show. They were smiling, laughing and talking. Everyone of them seemed happy, and glad to say something pleasant. They talked about what they had seen until others wanted to see. Not so that great crowd of folks coming out of the church. They act as though they have been to a funeral. They smile little and say nothing. Some folks allow their religion to make their faces look like the hind wheel of a hearse.

A laudable aim in life doesn't count for much if one persists in shooting blank cartridges.

Necking parties were probably originated by a pair of affectionate giraffes.

AGRICULTURE

American Breeds of Chickens

This week I will start with the Wyandotte. The body of the Wyandotte is comparatively round and the general shape and character of feathering give it an appearance of having a rather short back and being low set. Like the Plymouth Rock, it is a good general purpose breed, well adapted for flesh production and a good layer when bred for egg production. All wyandottes have rose combs. The standard weights in pounds are: Cock, 8½; hen, 6½; cockerel, 7½; pullet, 5½.

Other types that come under this breed are the Silver laced wyandotte the white wyandotte, the buff wyandotte, the golden laced wyandotte, partridge wyandotte, the silver penciled wyandotte and the Columbian and black wyandotte.

Next comes the Rhode Island Red which has a rather long, rectangular body and appears somewhat more upstanding than the Plymouth Rock or the Wyandotte, although the body has good depth, is wide and of good length, making a good meat producing bird. There are two varieties, single comb and rose comb, which are otherwise identified. The Rhode Island white of which the rose comb is the only variety, is identical in size and type with the rose comb Rhode Island red and was developed from white wyandottes, partridge cochins and rose comb white leghorns. The plumage should be pure white, free from any tint of brassiness

The Jersey Black Giant, developed largely from Asiatic sources, is the largest of the American breeds. It resembles the other American breeds in most of their characteristics, although it has been bred so extensively for egg production. The plumage in all sections is black with a greenish sheen. The comb is single.

The Java originated from the Black Cochin used on the common fowls of the country in the early history of American poultry industry. It is a bird of good size, having a long and deep body with good width of back and a full, well-rounded breast. The comb is single. There are two types with this variety, the Black Java and Mottled Java. The last two varieties of American breeds are: The Buckeye and the Chantecler. The Buckeye is an American product resulting from the infusion of blood from the Barred Plymouth Rock, Buff Cochin, Dark Cornish and Black-Breasted Red Game. The comb is pea shaped. The surface color of the Buckeye is mahogany bay with a slightly darker shade on the wing bows of the males. The Chantecler originated in Canada between 1908 and 1920 from crosses between Cornish, White Leghorn, White Wyandotte, White Plymouth Rock and Rhode Island Red. It is pure white in all sections of its plumage. The most noticeable characteristics of the breed are a conformation resembling that of the Cornish, especially in breast development and carriage, the smallness of the cushion-shaped comb and the very small wattles.

Jemison F.F.A. News

The Jemison F.F.A. started the new year with an enrollment of 15 members. Hubbard Watson and Ervin Beasley recited the Future Farmer's Creed and are now ready to be initiated into the Future Farmer Degree.

The officers elected for the new year are J. T. Cobb, President; Hubbard Watson, vice-president; Joyce Howard, secretary; Ervin Beasley, reporter; J. P. Montgomery, Chapter Adviser.

The F.F.A. boys will have charge of the chapel exercises on Friday, Sept. 22, at ten o'clock. At that time they will feature the National NRA program. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Within the next few days the F.F.A. boys are going to put on a rat campaign in the town of Jemison and with all farmers interested. At present a list is being compiled of farmers who want poison. The poison will cost 40c per farm. The rats should be destroyed now before the fall corn crop is harvested. If you want rat poison, notify J. T. Cobb, Pres., F.F.A. Jemison, Ala.

PILGRIM REST CLUB MEETING

The Pilgrim Rest Home Demonstration Club held its regular monthly meeting at Pilgrim Rest school house last Friday, September 8th. Miss Pardue helped to make the meeting a success with her presence at which time she gave a demonstration on canning meat. Steak and chicken were canned. Fried chicken and minced chicken were put on exhibition. A can of steak was opened and served to all that were present. We extend an invitation to all members that were not present to meet us at the home of Mrs. L. H. Ratliff on the 2nd Friday afternoon in October.

Mrs. Lucy Littlejohn Dies After Long Illness

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at Liberty Hill church for Mrs. Lucy Littlejohn, 78, wife of the late J. M. Littlejohn. Mrs. Littlejohn died Saturday night at 11:45 o'clock at her home in Clanton, following an extended illness.

Mrs. Littlejohn was prominently known in Chilton county and had been a lifelong resident of the Liberty Hill community, where she took an active part in religious and social activities until declining health forced her to remove to Clanton to be near her children.

Surviving her are, four sons, Tom Littlejohn, Robert W., Edgar and John Littlejohn; three daughters, Mrs. B. J. Sessions, Mrs. Will Culp and Mrs. Jenny Logan, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Bessie Childers. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. A. L. Sims, who had made her home with Mrs. Littlejohn for many years.

The following friends served as pallbearers: H. S. Shaw, W. A. Wingard, Rip Burnett. M. L. Rogers, J. L. Ruffin, and H. A Harris. Burial was in the Liberty Hill cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge. Dr. S. J. Ezell conducted the services.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

Our chapel speaker last Wednesday was one of the beloved former members of our faculty, Luther E. Little. And did he get a welcome when he came upon the stage. He did and how. We were glad to have Mr. Little back with us for a while and I believe he was sorta glad to come back again, too. He made a fine speech on phases of the Constitution of the United States. He explained to us how our president got his power to make the moves that Roosevelt has made since his term began. We all enjoyed his brief but interesting talk immensely and hope to see him back among us again.

* * *

For some reason or other, a number of the boys and girls in C.C.H.S. do not realize that they are losing the confidence of their fellow students when they perform a dishonest act in school work, particularly on test. Some day these students will go out in the world and apply for jobs. Their fellow students still have in their mind memories of that student's dishonesty and refuse to trust him in any respect no matter what type of dealing he has with him. Dishonesty and unfairness is disgusting in a student of character and fine qualities.

Not much school spirit was shown last Thursday at the students' meeting. But I think the main trouble is that we are shy and really have the school spirit but are timid when the time comes to show it. Come on out of that. You can't learn to swim until you go in the water.

* * *

Let's give our new cheer leaders all the cooperation we have. They will need it. Four or five people yelling won't amount to much, but one hundred mouths open make a difference.

* * *

Pat the Junior Three Civic Class on the back for that splendid poster made by them boosting the students' cooperation with our football team. If we all were only like that.

* * *

Our first game, the score, 13 to 0, ended in a victory for dear ole C.C.H.S. Great work our team did. Verbena was no easy meat. And since we have been training only nine days we should be proud of our eleven. They are working hard for us so why shouldn't we show our appreciation of their efforts and come out on the field every Friday and root for them.

* * *

Hats off to that group of girls who, under the direction of our cheer leaders, Mary Edith Jones, Jeanette Tiffin and the writer, really brought out that genuine school spirit last Friday. There was not a boy, a single solitary boy, who helped those girls. Looks as if the girls have a lot more school spirit. Those boys were just shy, they will do one hundred per cent better next time. Come on boys show the girls that queen can't beat a king.

* * *

Don't forget the pep meeting tomorrow. Let's give our team a good send-off.

* * *

There are two passes to our next home game waiting for the persons or person who submits the two best yells. Put a lot of pep in them.

* * *

Now it is time for class elections. Let's get busy. School has been going three weeks.

* * *

How about some new songs. A new school song will be introduced some time in the near future and its a knockout and how. It was written by two members of our student body and has the tune of a popular song, "Marching Along Together." Let's all learn this tune and be ready to sing it when the words are issued.

* * *

It's sad but true C.C.H.S. is slowly beginning to be thought of as a school with no spirit. Outsiders who attended the games in the past commented on the lack of school spirit the student body displayed. Listen! We have it in us so let's fool everybody and show them that we DO have some school spirit.

* * *

Forty-'leven? Ask Punchie?

* * *

We were glad to have three former students among us last Friday. They were Margaret Jones, president of the Seniors last year, Mary Robinson and Clyde Jones. Margaret assumed her old role as cheer leader at the pep meeting in chapel Friday and put some real spirit in those yells too.

* * *

I really would like to know just how many read this space filler I write.

* * *

Two brothers. Look almost alike, and one is named Dolphine and the other Delphine. Poor teachers.

* * *

Appears like HE has a competitor in the form of a former alumnus. Don't know who HE is. See first issue of Ink Drops.

* * *

Wonder what the Senior class will leave as a memorial this year. Annual? Another gate entrance? or what have you?

* * *

Nelson Parrish, graduate of dear ole C.C.H.S. is making a name for himself at Auburn. This year he was highly commended for and awarded the post as Executive Cadet Captain of the Battallion Staff of the First Battalion, 1st F. A. in the R.O.T.C. Unit at Auburn. Go to it Nelson, we are proud of you.

* * *

From reports I hear that Jarrell is doing good on the Freshman football team at Howard College. He's quarterback. Another C.C.H.S. graduate.

Hope to see some of this year's graduates making a name for themselves.

Out of thirty-nine names in the Senior Two class there are only two given names that are the same. In the same class there are only two pairs of identical alst names. Out of 138 names in three classes there are only five Jones, and only three Smiths, and no Browns. In the Senior One class there are only two given names that are alike, leaving forty-four different names. Someone used an encyclopedia. Watch for more next week.

Let's everybody get the spirit and learn all these new yells and songs that will be given to you soon.

News In Brief

The Alabama Polytechnic Institute opened for its 62nd session on September 5. Registration is reported to have shown a gain over that for last year.

Farmers may expect some relief during the next few years from high fertilizer costs as a result of the work of the Tennessee Valley Authority, it is indicated by statements made by members of the Authority.

The Washington Cooperative Egg and Poultry Association handles between 70 and 75 per cent of the commercial eggs produced in the State of Washington and represents one of the most successful of farmers' cooperative activities.

Further expansion of the dairy industry is being checked by high feed prices and poor pastures, and prices of dairy products are expected to follow the rise of prices of all commodities, according to the dairy outlook report of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Limitation of cotton planting in 1933 to 25,000,000 acres is the goal of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, according to Cully A. Cobb, cotton production chief. This would be near a 40 per cent reduction under normal plantings and would be expected to result in close to a 10,000,000-bale crop.

Chilton Won First Game Of Season

Last Friday afternoon the Chilton Tigers won the first game of their schedule. After two quarters of scoreless playing Chilton put over two touchdowns and one extra point to win a close game from Verbena. At the end of the game the score was 13 to 0 in favor of Chilton. Both teams played superb football and at the end of the first half it appeared that the first game would go down as a scoreless tie. But the tired eleven of Chilton pushed the heavy team of Verbena up the field and put the pigskin over two times and once for an extra point.

Unity Association Meets At Alpine

It's Smart TO BUY TIRES NOW...

Now...

is the time to buy tires. Prices may go higher. If they do, it will actually cost you money to use up old tires. And with fall and winter weather and wet and slippery roads just around the corner, it's a good idea to have the protection of safe new tires all around. And remember this—tire wear is slower in winter than it is in summer—the tires you buy now will give you full protection all winter and you will still have good tires for next spring and summer to withstand the ravages of hot summer roads. We carry the complete line of Goodyear Tires—Speedway, Pathfinder and All-Weather. At the price you wish to pay we have a Goodyear Tire. Why not come in today and talk it over?

"King Of Jazz" Is Coming Here

Most Perfect of All Sound And Color Pictures To Be Revived At The Wadesonian Theatre

"King of Jazz," the most gorgeous and melodic of all music pictures in color, has been re-cut, re-edited and reshot in some particulars. The Wadesonian Theatre announces a special engagement of this remarkable product of the artistic genius of John Murray Anderson in a gala revival Friday and Saturday of this week.

There is no gainsaying the fact that America has been waiting long and anxiously for a revival of the music picture. It has come. Hollywood studios are frantically summoning composers, orchestras and singers to provide for the vogue which is certain to capture the movies again, as it did once before. Universal has anticipated this demand. The Universal studios have revived the most perfect picture ever made in Universal City. The great songs which flooded the radio broadcasts three years ago will once more captivate and delight this city. It Happened in Monterey" by Mabel Wayne, and "Song of the Dawn," "Ragamuffin Romeo" "The Rhapsody in Blue," "A Bench in the Park," and "Happy Feet."

fore, go to some farmer who has planted them and get about a bushel of soil from a field which had a good growth this year, for each hundred pounds of seed they expect to sow, and that this inoculated dirt be mixed with the seed after the bought inoculation is put on. He stresses the importance of covering the seed well soon after they are sown so as to keep the hot sun from killing the inoculation.

All who plant peas or vetch this fall are asked to become members of the Chilton County Soil Building Association by turning their name in to him at his office. By turning their name in they will be eligible for the valuable prizes to be offered next summer and fall.

INFLATION MOVE

again made the inflation issue one of Mr. Roosevelt's major problems.

Mr. Roosevelt, to whom inflation requests have been carried by a number of party leaders in recent days, was silent about any plans he might have on the subject. From every indication, the president was maintaining his announced intention of moulding his monetary policies to meet coditions as they arise.

Just now, the president was concerned particularly about boosting prices received by the farmer. The new R.F.C. plan to improve the position of banks holding farm mortgages was considered a new step in this direction.

The president was busy also pressing a number of other federal efforts toward credit expansion. These included:

Open market operations by the Federal Reserve Banks through which members are piling up credits available for commercial loans.

The R.F.C. plan making $1,000,000,000 available to the banks for relending to industry in aiding the recovery drive.

Cash expenditures by the public works administration out of its $3,300,000,000 fund.

Federal loans through such agencies as the farm credit administration and the home loan bank system.

Cash advances to farmers by the agricultural adjustment administration.

Plans of the deposit guaranty corporation and other agencies to reopen closed or restricted banks not hopelessly insolvent.

SINGING AT PLEASANT GROVE

The annual all-day singing at Pleasant Grove church, 7 miles west of Clanton on Billingsley highway will be held the first Sunday in October. All visiting singers are invited. It is expected that the Jemison Quartet and Mr. E. H. Glasscock's class of Jemison will be present. The 1934 Morris-Henson books will be used. Come and bring lunch.

The next meeting will take place in the high school auditorium on Friday afternoon, September 22nd at three o'clock.

BEAUTY SELECTED

one of the most popular young ladies here. Beauty is not the only outstanding quality of Miss Polk. Honors bestowed on her at Athens College, where she finished last year, show that she stood at the top of her classes and was selected as valedictorian of her graduating class, and was elected "Queen of the May" at the college exercises last May.

Miss Polk had considerable competition in the revue Thursday night with the other twenty-three young ladies presenting a most beautiful sight, bedecked in sparkling and charming evening dresses.

Second place was awarded to Mrs. Virginia Polk, who represented DeMabel's Beauty Shoppe, with Miss Sara Lawrence receiving the honor of third place. She represented Mrs. Goodman's Beauty Shoppe.

Three out-of-town judges were present and considerable time was taken by them in making their decisions. They were furnished with measurements and weights of the young ladies before the show opened. The judges were Miss Dorothy Baer of Calera, Miss Hawkins of Caelra and Mr. R. E. Bowden of Calera, all of whom are well known and popular in Shelby county.

Before the revue opened, several vocal selections were rendered by Mr. Bob Lucas, who was assisting Mr. Steely in directing the revue. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Ellis of Clanton.

In the near future, Miss Polk is to compete with winners of revues in other counties, in a state-wide revue to be held in Birmingham according to Mr. Steely.

JOE CARR GIBSON HONORED WITH FAREWELL PARTY

One of the outstanding recent social events in Verbena was a farewell party for Joe Carr Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Gibson, who left this week for Sewanee where he will attend the old University of the South.

The party was given by Mr. Charles E. Gulledge at his fishing camp on Blue Creek on Mitchell Lake. and was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, Mr. Gulledge, Joe Carr Gibson, Sidney L. Gibson, Jr., Miss Lila James Sheppard, Clyde Barrett. Arthur Colley, Mrs. Louise Willingham, Miss Bertha Barrett, John Messer. Bill Hester, Aubrey Robinson, Chester Wingard, Miss Bessie Gilmore, Milton Jenkins and Ernest Williams.

The guests enjoyed dancing, boating and other forms of entertainment, following which a delicious course was served.

LAWRENCE SERVICE STATION TAKES ON A NEW PARTNER

The Lawrence Service Station of Clanton, dispensers of Gulf gasoline and oils took on a new partner last week when C. M. Lawrence purchased half interest from Buford Lawrence.

The former Mr. Lawrence has been connected with the station for some time, being manager. The Lawrence Service Station is located at the intersection of the Selma and Birmingham-Montgomery highways and is enjoying a good business.

ENTERPRISE SCHOOL PICNIC

Come on, folks, and let's go to the picnic at Enterprise Thursday, Sept. 28, 1933. Everybody that is interested in the school is expected to be present with his family, friends and a basket full of food. We have plans for completing the building. We want everybody to come out Sept. 28, and express their opinions.

Supt. Little, Prof. Weldon and the trustees desire the presence of every patron and pupil to hear about these plans.

There will be plenty of entertainment and refreshment for you during the day. Everyone will have a chance to take part in the program. Everyone is requested to register and get your colors at the front as soon as they arrive, and get lined up for the day. The objective for the day is to arouse more interest among the patrons and pupils of the school. The program for the day is as follows:

10:00 a.m. Opening Exercises, Prof. Weldon and Trustees.

10:30 Special music and readings.

11:00 Intermission.

11:15 Song service by everybody.

11:20 Addresses, Supt. Luther E. Little and C. E. Stapp.

12:00 Lunch.

1:30 p.m. Our School Prospects and Problems, open discussion.

2:30 Races and Relays (1) Potatoes, (2) Sack, (3) Three-Legged Race.

3:00 Freak Baseball—Fats vs. Leans.

Don't forget to come and bring lunch.

INFANT DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. W. M. EDWARDS BURIED

A BANK OF APPROVED SOUNDNESS

DO YOU KNOW what it means to this community and to you, that the governing authorities have put their stamp of approval upon this bank, giving it the right to operate without restrictions?

It means that our assets have been examined and officially certified as sound and liquid. It establishes beyond question that this is a strong, well-managed bank, able to serve and protect the interests of every depositor.

For years this bank has been known for its conservatism; in fact, many people felt that often we were too conservative; too strict in our observance of certain rules of caution and safety. However, we feel that our strong position today is a sufficient justification of our policies in the past.

What of the future? The outlook today is brighter than it has been in years. The vigorous program of economy and reconstruction launched by the new administration, has given a powerful impetus to business recovery.

The spirit of the nation has changed from an attitude of fear to one of hope and courage. All signs point forward and upward. Aiding in this recovery will be the strong, accredited banks of the nation; each one a tested and accepted unit in a new and stronger banking system.

We are glad to be able to offer the service, co-operation, and protection of this bank to our old friends and new friends in this community. We have kept faith with you throughout the whole of a dark and difficult period. We shall continue to keep faith with you in the brighter days ahead, serving and protecting your interests, as always.

W. M. Polk Gives Information Regarding The Home Owners Loan Of The Government

Hon. W. M. Polk, local appraiser and representative of the Government's Home Owners' Loan Corporation, gives out some interesting information concerning the four per-cent bonds of this corporation. Following is the information concerning these bonds which are a part of President Roosevelt's program for relief:

These bonds are the direct obligations of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, "an instrumentality of the United States," the capital stock of which is $200,000,000 and has been fully subscribed by the United States Government.

Under authority of the "Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933", approved June 13, 1933, these bonds have the following provisions:

Guaranteed fully and unconditionally as to interest only, by the Government of the United States of America.

Acceptable at face value in payment of indebtedness due to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

Exempt as to both principal and interest from all Federal, State, municipal and local taxation (except surtaxes, estate, inheritance, and gift taxes).

Operations

The Corporation will function for a 3-year period ending June 13, 1936, by (1) making an exchange of its bonds in acquisition of first mortgages on homes, and (2) making loans in cash in certain cases. Negotiations will be conducted through local managers who have been appointed in every State. At the expiration of the 3-year period the Corporation will not make additional loans, but will remain in existence until final liquidation. In extending loans, the following are the principal conditions and limitations imposed by the law:

(a) The obligations must have originated on the house prior to June 13, 1933, when the act became a law.

(b) The property must not exceed $20,000 in value, based on present-day appraisals.

(c) The loan cannot exceed the present lien indebtedness (which include delinquent taxes, interest, repairs, etc.) against the property and is limited to 80 percent of the appraised value if the loan is made in bonds, nor can it in any event exceed $14,000. If made in bonds, the rate of interest charged the borrower is not over 5 percent. These terms are also authorized in redeeming homes lost by foreclosure within 2 prior years.

(d) The loan if made in cash (where the creditor will not take bonds and the situation is especially acute) cannot exceed 40 percent of the value of the property, and the rate of interest charged the borrower is not over 6 percent.

(e) If the loan is made solely to pay taxes, assessments, repairs, etc., where there is no other lien, it may be made in cash but cannot exceed 50 percent of the value, and the rate of interest charged is not over 5 percent.

(f) The loan must be secured by a first lien on the home.

(g) The property must be occupied by the owner as a home or held as a homestead and designed for not more than four families.

(h) All loans shall be amortized within a period not exceeding 15 years, the Corporation having the right to grant extensions under warrantable conditions in accordance with the provisions of the act.

Severe penalties are provided in the act for false statements and willful overvaluing of property. All appraisals are made by employees of the Corporation, and also by independent local appraisers who are carefully-selected by the Board. Only appraisers of recognized experience, integrity, and knowledge of local values are eligible for appointment. In making the title examinations all loans are certified as first liens by responsible title companies or attorneys.

DR. HINKLE SUFFERS CUT ARM RECENTLY

Dr. P. T. Hinkle suffered a severed artery in his left hand when the knife slipped while he was operating on a mule last Friday. Eight stitches were necessary and he has been in very weakened condition since that time from loss of blood.

INJURED AT GIN

When he grabbed for a stick to prevent it becoming entangled in the machinery at the Farmers Gin and Warehouse Co., recently, Thomas Simms, ginner, had his left hand severly mangled and according to reports it may be necessary to amputate two of his fingers.

Here And There

Has anyone found nine dollars or an amount thereabouts in Clanton last Friday? Miss Vera Jones is the loser and she hopes that the old saying "Finders Keepers, Losers Weepers" will not be true in this case. Miss Jones says the money was in a small change purse.

* * *

Our sympathy goes out to the family of Clyde Popwell and Andrew Bone this week. The untimely death of these two was a shock to this county.

* * *

Among those who will continue reading the News for another year are J. T. Traywick, of Route 3; J. J. Hampton of Route 7; B. M. Deason of Route 6; I. B. Yeargan of Route 6; C .D. Wells of Route 2; W. L. Tatum of Route 6; H. L. Traywick of Route 2; and J .H. Jackson of Route 1. These men were marked up for another years subscription to the News last Saturday, and we are glad to keep them as readers.

* * *

You will note in the News this week there is an advertisement stating that a years subscription is only one dollar now instead of the regular one-fifty.

* * *

And with each renewal or new subscription the News will give a free ticket to the Wadesonian Theatre. And the Wadesonian is showing some mighty good pictures now.

* * *

Mr. I. W. Bice was a visitor in town Monday and he will receive his first copy of the News this week, having been added to the subscription list for a year.

* * *

Another person who was a pleasant caller at the News office the other day was Zane H. Turner of Jemison. Mr. Turner will become one of the pleased readers of the News now.

* * *

And we simply must mention here that we are glad to have J. L. Moon of Route 5, Prof. U. H. Abrams of Clanton and E. D. Hand of Route 2, as readers of the News. They will receive their first copy this week.

* * *

This week's issue of the News carries a full supply of bargains from various merchants over town. Not only bargains are in these ads but there will be found a great deal of information as well.

* * *

We note that among the shoppers in Clanton Monday were Mrs. A. C. Wells and Miss Nolen Meroney of Jemison. Mrs. Wells strikes us as being one of the county's most industrious ladies.

* * *

Yes, and we are glad to have Mr. Rogers of Elmore's store to become one of the pleased readers of the News.

* * *

Our friend, D. A. Wingard, will be missing from his place of business for several days, so we learn. Mr. Wingard left Monday afternoon for Dezark, Ark., on a business trip. We wish him a nice trip.

* * *

Pupils at the local high school certainly are to be commended for the way they stand by their faithful janitor, "Mac". Mac's house and furnishings were destroyed by fire Monday and the students at the school immediately began to collect furniture, money and other items for him.

* * *

We were pleased the other day when we heard Curtis Billingsley saying that he has been and is, pleased with the sales of Firestone tires these days.

* * *

We note that our former Governor, Bibb Graves, and Mrs. Graves were recent visitors to Clanton as guests of Dr. and Mrs. Hinkle.

* * *

Friends and supporters of the former Governor give the impression that he is slated to be our next Governor.

* * *

Bud Parrish wanted to know the other day if anyone knew where Tom Heflin is, or what he is doing.

* * *

And to remind you again—the price of a years subscription to the News is only one dollar for awhile.

* * *

L. F. Butler of near Thorsby was a visitor at the News office the other day. This visit brought to our mind the sad death of little Jewel Butler, daughter of Mr. Butler, some few weeks ago. Little Jewel will be remembered as the little girl who was blown away from her home in the storms in the county, and who attracted wide attention while at the office of Dr. Arthur Johnson here, awaiting someone to claim her.

* * *

Our friend Fred Howard of Thorsby fame dropped in the News office Saturday and left the boys some fine pears and large persimmons. He also left a very old five-cent piece, dated 1870. Mr. Howard instructed the News to give this nickel to the first person coming in who was born in 1870. It is at the News office ready for the first person calling who is sixty-three years old.

* * *

Heartiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. (Dubb) Huddleston on the arrival of twin daughters last week. We'll bet Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston are about the happiest people in the world now, and we don't blame them. The new arrivals have been named Patricia and Anette. And of course their many friends in Clanton ad elsewhere will call them "Pat" and "Ann."

* * *

And we just must say here that the above makes Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Robinson grandparents twice at one time. We congratulate them and look forward to seeing the twins when they arrive from Montgomery.

The News Has A Birthday

If the Chilton County News should have a birthday party this week, there would be eleven candles on the cake, for with this issue the News enters on its twelfth year of service to Chilton County and surroundings.

The News passes the eleventh milestone and enters on the new year with a great deal of pride and gratefulness. Proud of its record of achievement and service to the people and grateful for its friends and the patronage shown it. The News hopes to make its twelfth year even greater than the others.

GRAND JURY RETURNS 49 TRUE BILLS

Fifty-Six Cases Investigated; Heavy Docket Awaits Fall Term

In session four days of last week, the Chilton county grand jury investigated fifty-six cases, ranging from petit larceny to first degree murder, and returned forty-nine true bills.

It is understood that an unusually heavy docket awaits the fall term of circuit court in Chilton county. With many old cases still to be disposed of and with the new indictments returned by the recent grand jury coming up, it is expected that the two weeks following Monday, October 30, will be busy ones about the court house.

When the indictments were returned late Thursday, three entered pleas of guilty and were sentenced by Circuit Judge F. Loyd Tate to hard labor in the state penal institutions.

They were: Oscar Underwood, grand larceny, two years and six months to three years; Dennis Williams, grand larceny, two years and six months to three years, and Ephram Morris, manufacturing liquor, one year and one month to 19 months.

STAPP ISSUES STATEMENT TO CORRECT RUMOR

Rumor Being Circulated He Plans Entering Race For Probate Judge

Rumors have been widely circulated over the county that C. E. Stapp, county agent, contemplated entering the race for Judge of Probate of this county. The News inquiring of Mr. Stapp about this received the following statement for publication:

"To my several hundred friends throughout Chilton County, representing both parties, who have asked me to consider running for the office of probate judge, I wish to say that I thank you for your many expressions of confidence and good will, but I am not interested in being Judge of Probate. My first interest is in county agency work. I feel that county agency work offers one of the biggest fields for service in this or any other county. It is my desire to render service to mankind.

"I am interested in putting over a real

Six Arrests Made; Four Go To Pen

Three white men and one Negro man were transported Tuesday afternoon to Kilby Prison to begin sentences of hard labor, according to information from the Sheriff's office.

They were: Oscar Underwood, who was sentenced recently to two years and six months to three years for grand larceny; Houston Headley, 164 days for violation of the prohibition law; Dennis Williams, two years and six months to three years for grand larceny, and Ephriam Morris, negro, one year and one month to 19 months, for manufacturing liquor.

The Sheriff's office also reports six arrests during the week as follows: one for assault and battery; one for abusive, insulting and obscene language; one for arson; one for violating the prohibition laws; one for driving while drunk, and one for second degree manslaughter and driving an auto while intoxicated.

The News has been requested to announce that there will be a big ice cream and box supper at the Concord church, near Billingsley, on Saturday night of this week, September 30th.

PRESIDENT APPROVES COTTON LOANS AT 10-CENT MINIMUM

Reduced Price Now Open For News

While the News has added somewhat to its operating expenses thru The Recovery Act by an increase in wages and employees, there will be no increase in the price of subscriptions.

On the contrary, the News takes pleasure in announcing this week that beginning today and for a limited time, the News can be had for only one dollar per year. This offer is good on new subscriptions as well as for renewals.

Not only does the News bring to you news of county, state and national importance, it keeps you in touch with your friends each week by giving you items from communities over the county. Next year brings to this county one of the important election years and every person should want to keep up with the happenings in a political way.

Now is your chance to renew your subscription or to become a regular reader of the News for only one dollar per year.

Principle Is Approved By Executive Following Dixie's Appeal

SENATOR BANKHEAD IS BACKER OF PLAN

Farmers will do well to hold their cotton for a farm price of ten cents a pound, Senator John H. Bankhead asserted Friday night following approval by President Roosevelt of his plan to peg the price at a minimum of ten cents by announcing the Government would make loans at that figure.

Senator Bankhead's announcement of approval of the plan was made as he left the White House 20 minutes before the New York Cotton Exchange ceased trading for the day and in that 20 minutes futures quotations advanced 20 points, a point a minute.

Later in the day, the President added his announcement and within an hour a formal anouncement was made by

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR IS INDICTED

Dewey Lewis Charged With 2nd Degree Manslaughter In Vinzant Death

Culminating an investigation that has been underway for almost eight months, Dewey Lewis, 28, of Shelby county, was arrested Monday on a charge of second degree manslaughter in connection with the hit and run death of R. Will Vinzant, 48-year-old brick mason of Siluria, last February.

Vinzant was struck while walking along the highway about two miles north of Jemison the night of February 20, and died at the Central Alabama hospital a few days later. Lewis was charged with second degree manslaughter and driving an automobile while intoxicated following an investigation by the Chilton county grand jury last week. Russell Hayes and William Parker, companions of Lewis on the night of the tragedy, were charged with violation of the prohibition law.

Officers stated that the investigation showed that Vinzant had been riding in the car with Lewis and several others, but following a disagreement had got out and was walking along the highway when the car struck him.

MAN HIT BY AUTO WILL RECOVER

George Freeman Was Injured Near Scene Of Popwell Accident

George Freeman, 40, operator of a service station on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, three miles north of Jemison, is in the Central Alabama hospital suffering from internal injuries received when he was struck by an automobile early Sunday night while walking along the highway near his station.

An unidentified woman, who said that she was from Montgomery, was driving the car, which is said to have struck Freeman. The accident occurred within about 100 yards of the scene of another accident Saturday night in which both Clyde Popwell and Andrew Bone, of Clanton, were killed.

Hospital attendants said Monday that Freeman will recover. No charges had been booked against the driver of the automobile, according to information from the Sheriff's office.

DR. HARMAN TO SPEAK AT INSTITUTE

Prominent Educators To Attend County Institute Meet At C.C.H.S.

A rare treat will be enjoyed by the teachers and friends of education in Chilton county when Dr. A. F. Harman, state superintendent of education, and John E. Bryan, president of the Alabama Education association, deliver addresses at the annual county institute to be held next Monday at the Chilton county high school in Clanton.

Both Dr. Harman and Mr. Bryan are octstanding men in educational affairs in the state. Recently Dr. Harman attended a conference in Washington and together with a group of other educators made a plea to divert a percentage of federal aid funds that are being appropriated to the various states into educational channels. Contemplated results of this meeting will be discussed at the institute, it is expected by friends of Dr. Harman.

Exercises will open at 9 o'clock. Other features of the program will be addresses by County Agent C. E. Stapp, Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, Luther E. Little, county superintendent of education, U. H. Abrams, the Rev. R. P. Cochran, Miss Jennye Robinson, Miss Emma Sue Morris, and Howard Roper.

FIRST MONTH OF SESSION NEARS CLOSE

Superintendent Sees Bright Outlook For Schools In County

With the first month of the 1933-34 school session in Chilton county nearing a close, Superintendent Luther E. Little reports that the outlook for a successful year is unusually promising.

Although no statement can be made as to the length that the schools may continue until a report is had from the state tax assessor's office, Mr. Little seemed very optimistic regarding the school situation in his county.

With nine schools, with an enrollment of more than 2,000, already in session and forty-one others to open their doors Tuesday morning, October 3, education in Chilton county has every indication of a better break than it has received in the state for the past few terms.

The following teachers are engaged in the nine schools now in session:

$21.216.00 IS ALREADY PAID TO PRODUCERS

Over $200,000.00 Will Be Paid In County For Plowed Up Cotton

CHECKS ARE GREETED WITH WELCCME SMILE

A unique experience is being realized by hundreds of Chilton county farmers this week!

Cotton checks!

Never before in the history of civilization have farmers received payment for "not producing." The Biblical proverb—"By the sweat of your brow."—has always been the farmers' slogan. So no wonder smiles of gratification ripple over their faces as they make their ways into County Agent Stapp's office to be paid for cotton "they didn't have to pick."

Three hundred-twenty-four checks, bearing the insignia of the United States Treasury, and amounting to $21,216, have been received and are being distributed to farmers over the county.

More than $200,000 will be paid to Chilton county farmers for plowing under approximately 13,000 acres of cotton in co-operation with the government's gigantic program to raise the price of the South's staple crop. Other checks are expected in every mail.

Chilton county merchants and business men, too, are wearing optimistic smiles. For $200,000 cash dollars should go quite a long way toward paying some old debts and laying in a supply of winter clothing.

COTTON REPORT

Statistics show a slight increase in cotton ginning to date over the corresponding period of last year in Chilton county, accordng to information from B. L. Vance, recently appointed county cotton statistician. Mr. Vance stated that until September 15, 3,503 bales had been ginned in the county, compared to 2,799 for the same date last year.

SOLOMON'S TO OPEN BIG SALE HERE FRIDAY

Full Page Adv. Tells About First Dry Goods Sale Of The Year

The first big dry goods sale of the season will open Friday morning (tomorrow) in Clanton when Solomon's Dept. Store begin their big Harvest Sale.

In this week's issue of the News is a full page advertisement from this large dry goods store announcing this sale which is to run for ten days. In commenting on this event Mr. Solomon said "This sale will open rain or shine, and we are really putting out some outstanding bargains for the people of this section in these ten days. This stock must move and our prices will make it move."

The doors of the store open Friday morning at eight o'clock and marks the beginning of the sale. Mr. Solomon said it would be a good idea to be there early and get first choice of the many bargains they are offering. Turn to the page ad and see some of the bargains they are offering.

Dr. Gragg Gets A Real Eagle Here

Perhaps not being satisfied with the Blue Eagle posters everywhere, Dr. V. J. Gragg, local physician and surgeon, brought to town the other day a real eagle.

Dr. Gragg captured the eagle on the Bud Baker place just west of Clanton last week, while in that section with Irvin Baker. The eagle is of the true American bald eagle species, and had a wing spread of sixty-three and one-half inches, and was apparently young.

The American bald eagle is the bird from which is copied the emblem of the United States which is used on coins, currency and on the posters of the NRA. It is very seldom that an eagle is seen in this section and Dr. Gragg should feel proud of this bird.

"Half Boom And Half Broke"

After only three months, during a period of usual summer lethargy, NRA shows this record of achievement. Its program has just got under way. There has passed one eighth of the 2-year emergency period. Yet, it is estimated that it has restored steady jobs to 3 millions. Already, in its initial stage, it has vastly improved working conditions and rased the basic pay of four times that number in stores, factories, and mines. It has brought employers and their workers to the same council table for frank discussion of their problems, with a realization that they are mutual, and especially that whatever the nature of the problems, they also concern the consuming public, upon which both management and labor depend.

NRA is actually stopping waste, not only in our business structure, wherein production costs will be known to all, but also the waste of our long-neglected natural re sources. The NRA program contemplates melting frozen credits and hitherto hard hearts. It is bringing back confidence to the extent that people are again buying merchandise with faith in the future and in themselves. Nearly 2 millions have notified relief agencies of their new independence. And NRA has only covered the first furlong.

But NRA has done infinitely more. In enlisting business men and their customers under the Blue Eagle, all determined to bring the country out of the depression, it has promoted a spirit of solidarity, local and national, the value of which will be incalculable for many years to come. As the President solemnly warned, "This Nation cannot subsist half boom and half broke." This fact the American people have come to realize to an extent unprecedented and incomparable in our history. At a time when we were at our lowest ebb, NRA seeks to teach our complete interdependence one upon another. We now know, from the saddest of all experience, drawn out over 4 years of hideous helplessness, that the President's appeal for earnest and continuous cooperation is not to be given in a spirit of philanthropy but for our own salvation.

Government Is For The People

People are thinking as they have not done before about their government. Many good citizens feel that governments are costing too much for the service they render. In some instances it begins to seem that government is something that must be maintained for its own sake, regardless of how great the cost to the people.

That is wrong. Government in all its agencies is intended to serve the people. Nowhere in all our great plan of democratic government can there be found even the suggestion that the people must serve government. Every man elevated to office, either by election or by appointment, is but given a place to be of service to his people. That man who feels that by election to a public office he became any thing greater or more important than a servant of the people, is entirely out of line with the whole plan of government for a democracy.

The people are thinking of these things today. It will not be surprising if they act on them when they come again to choose a new set of public servants. — Shelby County Reporter.

John Pratt, Centre, Ala., Was Inventor Of First Typewriter

Will I. Martin, member of the editorial staff of the Gadsden Daily Times, who from the files of the Gadsden Times of fifty years ago, compiles a column of interesting news items for the Sunday Daily Times, last Sunday said 50 years ago John Pratt of Centre, had been employed as editorial writer on the Times.

In this issue of the Times was a news item of the fact Mr. Martin had been granted a patent on his invention of a typewriter and in substantiating the news Chas. H. Meeks gave Mr. Martin the following facts about Mr. Pratt's typewriter:

"I remember when John Pratt, inventor of the typewriter, came down from Centre 50 years ago to become editor of The Gadsden Times which was then owned and published by my father, the late W. M. Meeks," said Charles E. Meeks. "Mr. Pratt brought his writing machine with him and I recall seeing it many times in the editorial rooms. He called it a pterotype. I do not remember to have seen him write copy for the paper on it, but I am quite sure that he did write a number of editorials on his typewriter. It is likely that The Gadsden Times was the first newspaper in the world to have editorials produced on a typewriter, for John Pratt built and operated the first practical one in the world. I remember that he had a sort of rolling gait and when asked why he walked that way he said it was because he had spent so much time on ships. You know, Mr. Pratt's invention caught the eye of one of the big mechanical manufacturing concerns of the north and it took over the patent. It also sent Mr. Pratt to Europe about 25 or 30 times to study the progress being made there in typewriter experiments. All civilized nations were dabbling with the idea, but Mr. Pratt came back and reported that his old machine in The Gadsden Times office was the only practical thing of its kind that had ever been made. The company paid him a life pension of $3,500 a year and proceeded to perfect his invention, which was the daddy of all typewriters. Mr. Pratt was a fine old gentleman. He was highly educated and was as cultured as any of the old school southerners of his day." — Cullman Tribune.

NRA Must Not Fail ---

Every day sees the plans go forward for the establishment of the new order in industry and business that is represented to us by the symbol, NRA. Some people are beginning to wonder if the plan can succeed after all.

President Roosevelt has said that it must succeed; it must not be allowed to fail. Our country can not afford for it to fail. Our president has said too, that success or failure of NRA lies with the people. Plans have been made, organization has been set up, now we, the people, must do our part.

What is our part? In the World War, we learned that every community, however remote, could help to win the war. Every individual had his work to do. That is just as true today as it was in the time of the World War.

Six Months Of Roosevelt

Franklin Delano Roosevelt has been in the White House six months.

So fast has the world turned since that historic March 4 when the fifth cousin of Theodore Roosevelt smiled down from the inaugural platform and began: "My friends," that it seems hardly a few weeks have passed. But into the short half-year Mr. Roosevelt has been in office has been packed more dramatic, more consequential history than some Americans of other years saw during their lives.

The last six months have proven the leadership of the man in the White House.

The last half-year has given him a political leadership that had no precedent in this country.

He asked powers of Congress. And Congress gave him everything he asked for.

He asked the cooperation of industry. And industry is cooperating.

He asked cooperation of the farmer. And the farmer is cooperating.

His program for the last six months cannot adequately be covered in a few words. There has been too much for even trained political observers to grasp. The man in the street is just beginning to learn what it is all about. And he is able to follow only those programs which are beginning to affect him directly.

The President thus far has been master of every problem he has tackled.

Few leaders have caught the public imagination as has Franklin Roosevelt. No President of the United States ever held such power.

These last six months have given the President the absolute confidence of the people, extraordinary political power.

Now the machinery for the President's programs is being set up.

Yesterday marked not only the completion of the first half-year of the new deal administration, but the beginning of the actual experiment through which the President and the people place their hope for recovery.

The National Recovery Act is just beginning.

The people were more than willing to enter into the experiment. Only a few, very few, indeed, have shown unwillingness to enter. But soon everyone will have shown willingness to aid in its success. Everyone must follow the blue eagle.

Roosevelt's leadership is assured. Industry has brightened. The gray days of the Hoovera are behind.

But the next six months will see the actual testing of the programs on which the country bases its hopes.

Now that the Recovery program is underway the Administration cannot make it succeed. Only the people can do that.

Mr. Roosevelt's first six months made dramatic history.

But the second phase of his Administration, just beginning, will be just as dramatic—and more consequential.

The next six months will test the new deal.

Senator Bankhead And The American Cotton Farmer

Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, does well to specialize in agricultural economics. He has a natural aptitude for the subject. His background is agricultural. His native wisdom teaches him that the first lesson which the American learns in economics is that if agriculture does not prosper, all else must languish.

Accordingly the junior Senator from Alabama early in his career at Washington declared, by action rather than words, his devotion to the cause of rural revival. That seems to be his primary concern as a statesman. It is a specialty well worthy the best thought of all responsible citizens.

It is not too much to say that Senator Bankhead is personally responsible for what the Associated Press calls "the continued violent fluctuations toward higher levels" in the cotton market yesterday.

The Senator from Alabama, according to Russell Kent, The Advertiser's Washington correspondent, seems to have prevailed upon the President to peg cotton at 10 cents a pound.

The government will make loans at that figure, and bid the producer godspeed in his effort to sell cotton for any price above that which he can get.

But there is a production-control fly in the ointment. The government will trot along with the cotton grower and Senator Bankhead only if it is agreed that production will be limited next year to the point of making the government's present daring investment profitable.

That is a fair arrangement. It is not possible for taxpayers to eat up every surplus that the American farmer produces.

As the producer prospers at the expense of the taxpayer, so must the taxpayer share in that prosperity.

If we make demands upon the Federal treasury now to see us through our crisis, we must pledge ourselves to relieve the treasury next Spring when we plant our next crop.

In the meantime, according to Alabama's junior Senator, President Roosevelt, himself a cotton grower, is ysmpathetic with the idea of pegging cotton at a minimum of 10 cents.

If we get from 10 cents up for our cotton we in The Belt can make our way. Otherwise we cannot.

—Montgomery Advertiser.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

—o—

We were on a long stretch of the highway and many cars were in sight. They were going and coming. Along came one of those reckless drivers, blowing his horn and raising a terrible dust. He would endanger himself and others as he shot by the rest of us on the road. What cared he for the rights and privileges of other travelers? Traffic law meant nothing to him. He was one of those road hogs who gobble everything in sight like a hog. After much noise, dust and confusion he had disappeared down the road. Three miles away there was a bad swamp and when we reached the swamp pike, there he was. He had rushed headlong into a bog hole and his car was hopelessly stuck. He stood by the roadside with uplifted hands, begging that we stop and pull him out of the trouble into which his recklessness had plunged him. There is lots of reckless driving going on along the highway of life today. The wets and the world in general, are running by and over the church and Christian people rough shod. Listen to what I say, the very people today who are filling the air with their dangerous propaganda, and who are advocating false ideals of life, will soon be by the roadside in distress, begging the church and all Christian people to come to their rescue and deliver them out of the mess into which they have plunged. May the Lord pity the Christian traveler while the reckless fools are endangering our very civilization. Of course the church will help the nation out of its muddle when it calls for help. You may listen for that call not many days hence.

I went into the sculptor's shop and watched him at work. Before the workman there was a large, rugged rock, and I observed that he was using the chisel and the hammer freely. In his mind he saw something hid out beneath that bulk of stone and he was working to bring it into view. Evidently he had the same thing in mind as Michael Angelo had when he defined Sculpture as: The art that works by the force of taking away, for he was removing great hunks of stone from the bulk. After all, that is God's way of making men great. It is done by the process of elimination. Our bad habits must go. Our selfishness must be chiseled away. Our evil passions, our greed for gain and our relish for power, must go from us. We are all in God's shop and He is doing His best to bring out the best in us. It is the resigned marble out of which will be chiseled the finest statue.

I saw a man going down the side walk who was an object of laughter and pity. He was tall and handsome, richly dressed and very graceful in mannerism. The thing that made him an object of laughter and pity was that he took no notice of other people on the side walk, but constantly watched himself as he walked before the show windows in which he could see his reflected form. It seemed to me that he was wondering if the world, the universe, were up-to-date enough to take notice of him. He looked for nothing and he thought of nothing but himself and his wonderful shadow. That shallow head resting on a handsome shoulder gives to us a modern picture of life. As we stand by, it is no trouble to see men who see nothing and care for nothing but those things that make them the center of the universe.

I heard a man arguing on the street—and he was a man who acknowledged that he had a son who had gone to the dogs on account of whiskey—that if the repeal of the 18th Amendment came, that we would have better whiskey. Listen to me folks, Whiskey is whiskey. You had just about as well be talking about better rotten eggs as be talking about better whiskey. Better highway robbery, better thieving, better home breakers, and better form of murder, a better Brill's fever, a better typhoid germ, better small pox, better kidnapping. You say have "Old Rye" and pride yourself that you have the best whiskey on the market. Just as well throw back your shoulders and strut down town saying, "Gentlemen, I feasted on the best rotten eggs in town at my breakfast table this morning." All whiskey has hell enough in it to make a devil out of any man who drinks it down for any length of time. Whiskey, like rotten eggs in the home, needs to be discarded as worthless and repulsive. There is no better to whiskey—it is all bad.

Letters To The Editor

COMMENTS ON NEWS EDITORIAL

—o—

Clanton, Ala., Sept. 22, 1933.

Editor, Chilton County News:

I am writing in regard to the editorial you published in your paper last week. The heading starts something like this: "Becoming Entirely Too Popular."

I don't think there are many people who are getting charity help that wouldn't be more than glad to get work to do so they wouldn't have to ask for help from any charity forces. I believe you said any person who was offered a job on farm or any other kind of work and did not accept did not need help from charity. That is true if said person or persons are able to work and if the one who wants to hire work done pays a reasonable price. But the trouble is the most people who have to hire help seem to think 75 cents or one dollar per day for farm help is too much to pay.

So you see they have got us in a jam, if we do not work for less they get mad and try to get us cut off from any help anywhere else or any other way. And the class of people who have to get help from the Red Cross or the R.F.C. can't live on 40 or 50 cents a day, for this class of people do not own a home of their own. They have house rent to pay. They have to have something to eat and wear and still some people want to make things or life as miserable for them as they can. Is it fair for anybody to kick about the other fellow not working for 50 cents a day when the person hiring the work done wouldn't do it for twice that price.

There are people working for the Red Cross and R.F.C. who wouldn't think about working for less than 3 or 4 times as much as they give the people who really need help. I am not kicking about these people getting as much pay as they do. I am glad they are getting good wages and wish everybody could get more that need help. I only hope that the people who have plenty will try not to be so hard on the poor man.

For a man can be wealthy today and have nothing tomorrow. There is lots more I could say but I will stop this time. Thank you.

CLARENCE DAVIS.

DR. GRAGG URGES MORE CONSIDERATION OF FARMER

—o—

Dear Editor:

Some months ago, in an article in your paper, I begged for consideration of the farmer and insisted at that time, that he was not getting fair consideration. I said that he was the foundation and keystone to our very economic existence. That every other laborer, business man, lawyer, doctor, teacher, office holder, or what not was entirely dependent on the farmer for food and clothes; and that every school, college, factory, business house and bank owed its living to the farmer; and this being true, I set forth that it was necessary for the farmer to prosper in order to avoid ultimate downfall of others dependent on him, resulting finally, in absolute destruction of all. I still see this in the same light, but I believe there are others that do not so see it.

Is the game being played fair for or with the farmer? He was liberal, he was loyal, he plowed up his cotton as requested, and while destroying the fruits of his labor he, himself, was in many instances barefoot and clad in rags with patches planted up on top of each other. Understand, I do not say he should not have done this, when so requested, I think he did the right thing. But listen, we are told that there is more than 13,000,000 bales of cotton in the warehouses and we know that much of this is an inferior grade of damaged cotton, some rotten and unfit for almost anything. Yet, as long as it remains in the warehouses it is a "bale" of cotton and as a bale of cotton helps to hold up the volume in the warehouses and keep down the price of the growing crop of the farmer year after year.

Just allow me to suggest that the next time it becomes necessary to destroy 12,000,000 acres or 4,000,000 bales, that we ask the big cotton speculators who are holding these millions of cotton, to be just as enthusiastically loyal as our cotton farmers have been; and truck out 4,000,000 bales of their cotton and burn it. We would suggest they destroy the poorer grades and be paid what it cost them plus interest and storage, then they would not have lost anything. However, under the plan of the farmer destroying the growing crop, it leaves him only a relative chance of a small profit on what is undestroyed, while the speculator has his chances of profit on his entire holding.

This is what I mean. Let me make myself clear, if cotton should go to 15 cents and a farmer has plowed up half of his crop, the other half will only bring as much as his entire crop would bring at 7½ cents. On the other hand the speculator would get the 15 cents on his entire holdings and double, or in some instances, treble his money invested.

Then there is another side to it. When this 12,000,000 acres of the South's cotton land was plowed under, how many millions of days of unemployment was caused at one fell swoop? At $5.00 per bale, and I think that very conservative, that would have meant $20,000,000 for picking alone, not to have mentioned hauling, ginning, marketing, etc., and the $20,000,000 would have gone mostly to that class of needy women and children, who are in a distressing, yes, alarming condition without work or employment of any kind whatsoever.

Then let us see what the cotton farmer is getting for his product. If he desires to buy food or clothing, a bale of cotton would go about as far Sept. 1st, 1932 as two bales would go Sept. 1st this year. Flour was just about double in price, so was manufactured cotton goods, but the price of cotton was little different. The wheat farmer in the West is now getting a fair price, so is the corn grower in the Northwest, but I cannot see that our Southern cotton farmer is getting fair play.

Let our farmers get together, cut their acreage in cotton, make some hog and hominy, peas and potatoes; live at home and above all, demand fair play from the speculator, manufacturer, tax-gatherer and money sharks in gener And what I have said about the farm holds good, in a great measure, with laboring class in general.

If we have no job our condition gro worse as necessities of life go higher price and our buying power is reduc we must buy less, therefore our gr eryman and merchant must sell less a less.

If we are fortunate enough to hav job and our wages are double, then w can buy about the same we did befo but if we are more fortunate and a saving part of our wages above a livi then we can profit by the higher wag So it would seem the only hope is to careful and not live up to or above income. To help our farmer friend his demand that he and we be give fair deal.

I would not, for one minute, hav understood that I am objecting to ruling of the NRA or some such c tralized controlling power. I have s clearly for months an dyears that th must be some kind of control or saf element to call a halt on the rich gro ing richer and the poor growing poo day by day. I have seen that the pr vailing economic conditions would ul mately place the wealth of the ent nation in the hands of a few while masses would be standing on the bri of starvation. Now that we have so such ruling power, I am desiring to it hastily arranged to help the man who is at the same time most needy a most useful to the life of our government, the farmer and laborer.

Asiatic, English and Mediterranean Breeds of Chickens

Foreign breeds not being of much interest in the United States I will make the article very brief this week. Starting with the breeds of the Asiatic type, whose class are of distinctive type and have large bodies, feathered shanks, and are usually heavy in bone. All have yellow skin, except the Black Langshan, whose skin is a pinkish white. All have red earlobes, lay brown-shelled eggs and are classed as broody.

Under the Asiatic type are three main breeds: 1. The Brahma, apparently was the first imported into America in September, 1846. Brahma are massive in appearance, well feathered and well proportioned, and pea combed. Under this type is the Light, Dark and Buff Brahma. 2. Cochin originated in the Shanghai district of Cihna and was known as the Shanghai fowl. It was imported into America about 1845. The outstanding characteristics are its massive appearance and abundantly feathered shanks, low breast, and long feathers which make it appear larger than it really is. Under this type is the Buff White, Black and Partridge cochin.

3. Lanshan originated in the Langshan district north of the Yangtse Ki ang river in China. Introduced into America about 1873. Has about th same characteristics as the Cochin. Th Langshan stands up well and is w proportioned, which makes it a ver graceful bird. The comb is singl. There is the White and Black Langshan.

The breeds of English origin described in the American Standard of P fection are for the most part utili breeds noted for their excellent fleshing properties. With the exception the Cornish, all the breeds have whit skins and red ear-lobes, and, excep the Dorking and Red Cap, lay brow shelled eggs. All are classed as brood Under the English breeds are: 1. Th Black, White, Buff and Blue Orpingtons. 2. The Dark, the White, th White-laced Red Cornish. 3. The Speckled, the Red and the Light Sussex. The White, the Silver-gray, and th colored Dorking. 5. The Red Cap. The Autralorp.

The Mediterranean breeds of Itali origin are smaller than the Asiatic a other classes and in America the Leghorn especially has been bred for production rather than for the produ tion of table poultry, except as br ers. The breeds of Spanish origin a somewhat larger than the Leghorns a Anconas, but have not bee bred so tensively for egg production. All Mediterranean breeds have non-feat ered shanks, white or creamy ear-lob lay white-shelled eggs, and are no broody. The Mediterranean breeds ar 1. The single-comb white leghorns, rose-comb white leghorns, the singl comb light-brown leghorns, the singl comb dark-brown leghorns, the singl comb buff and black leghorns, the silver and the red leghorn, and the lumbian leghorn. 2. The single-comb ancona. 3. The single-comb and rose-comb black Minorca, the bla Minorca, the buff Minorca. 3. Tl white-faced black Spanish. 4. And blue Andalusian.

SOME COTTON PICKING

—o—

Lots of people have the idea that darkies are just naturally shiftless a lazy, but this theory has been quite fu ly demonstrated to be erroneous, a cording to W. S. Bond, a promine farmer of near Dothan, Ala., who ce tified to some cotton picking records made by young negroes on his farm this season, as follows:

Willie James Grimsley, aged 17, picked 628 pounds in one day.

E. V. Grimsley, aged 15, picked 601 pounds in one day.

Mary Lou Grimsley, aged 14, picked 492 pounds in one day.

Harvey Grimsley, aged 16, picked 492 pounds in one day.

William Henry, aged 12, picked 409 pounds in one day.

Jack Grimsley, aged 18, picked 497 pounds in one day.

When it is considered that from 50 to 80 separate bolls of cotton must be gathered to make a pound, it must be admitted that these negro youngsters moved about some to make such records.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

"Nature has given men one tongue but two ears, that we may hear from others twice as much as we speak."—Epictitus.

This statement by a famous Greek philosopher covers lots of ground. People often speak when they should be listening. What we say sometimes gets us in trouble and what we hear can never get us in trouble if we do not speak. Remember this in your class room and there will probably be less disappointments when our report card comes in.

The writer of this column wants to take this space to correct an unavoidable error of last week. In mentioning the cheer leaders, Grace Plyler's name was left out. This was an unintentional error and the writer wants to say that Grace Plyler is one of the cheer leaders.

Say! Who said we didn't have any school spirit? Just look him in the eye and say that he's wrong. Why? Because we do have it. Listen to the students yell and cheer for their school and their football team. It makes one feel patriotic to hear those songs and cheers "out through the rafters ring". Chilton County High School can boast of its school spirit.

* * *

It is quite noticeable, the way courtesy shows out here at school. You should notice how in the classes some of the boys will stand aside and let all the girls pass by. Courtesy is the mark of culture, and according to observations culture is stamped on the students here, at least the majority of them.

* * *

One should watch how Mr. Varnell has his students to march in the laboratory. Each row marches in one at a time and this eliminates all unnecessary congestion and noise.

The Senior Class has been informed that they will be allowed library privileges provided that no Senior abuses them. This will be a fine thing for the Senior Class to have. If they do not abuse these privileges they will be the first class to retain them the entire year. The Seniors should cooperate together and obtain this honor and privilege.

Our speaker at the chapel period last Wednesday was the Rev. R. P. Cochran. We are always glad to have an outside speaker during chapel and welcome them, especially those of the Rev. Cochran's personality. We all like his witty manner of getting an important idea over to his audience.

Quite a commotion was astir a few days last week. Junior One girls, "freshmen", were seen scurrying here and there with an upper classman right behind them. A few minutes of calm and then here appeared the same "freshmen" with a surprised look on her face, yet happy, and her dress on backwards. Only the old tradition.

Don't forget, students, that we need some new desks and to get them we must pay our incidentals. Set an example for your classmates and pay your three dollars.

Let's don't forget that our team goes to Selma tomorrow and we want to give them a spirited send-off tomorrow morning. And as many as can go, try to be at the field in Selma to boost our gold and blue and team.

One month of school gone down in history. Was your part of it such that ten years from now you will be ashamed of it or was it the type that you can point back to with pride and say that was my record in high school. Remember, "It is always to late to be what you might have been, but it's never too late to be what you can be."

The entire student body and faculty sympathized with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Popwell on the death of their son, Clyde, last Sunday. "Clyde was well known and well thought of here at school. He was popular with all his fellow students and his teachers. The football team elected him as their captain during 1933-34. To show their respect for him the C Club of which he was a member, gave a beautiful wreath.

The student body and faculty showed their appreciation of the loyalty and faithfulness of Mack, our janitor, last Tuesday. On last Monday, Mack's home was burned down, destroying most all if not all of his belonging. We, the student body and also the faculty, presented Mack with many gifts that will help him make another start, and this was done with a smile because everyone of us love Mack. The gifts were in the form of old clothes, household furnishings and some even gave sums of money.

The two passes to the next home game or to any home game the winners wish to use them, were won by Sara Hollis and Mary Ruth Goodman. During the football season two like passes will be given to those two students turning in the best yells to either of the cheer leaders, Grace Plyler, Mary Edith Jones, Janette Tiffin or the writer.

Mr. Varnell: Name three articles containing starch.

(Name him yourself): A shirt and two collars.

There will be a large number of new books to be put in the library some time in the near future. These books cost money and our faculty picked those which will do us the most good. Let us show our appreciation of their efforts and make the best of these books and most important of all do not abuse them.

Only thirty-two more weeks of school. Two days out of every week are holidays, we will have two weeks for Christmas. Therefore there are only about twenty-one more weeks of school. Let's remember this and make the best of those few weeks. Time is like a fast flowing river, only a short while and it is swept into the past.

Ham Is Petrified In Willcox Spring

Hawkinsville, Ga., Sept. 16. — Miss Rebecca McGriff, one of Hawkinsville's oldest residents, is in possession of a rare geological specimen, which has been in possession of her family for almost a century.

This object is a petrified ham, taken from the bottom of poor Robin Spring in Wilcox county. According to the story, as custom nearly a century ago for the people of this section to gather at this spring for an annual camp meeting the waters of which then, as now, was noted for its almost icy temperature.

An unusual object had been noted protruding from the bottom of the spring and for many years was a subject of much comment. Finally during one of the camp meetings the people decided it should no longer be a matter of conjecture and several men present agreed to dive and try to bring this strange looking object to the surface. After several attempts, Mr. Daniel McDuffie finally brought it to the surface and presented it to Miss McGriff's mother, who was then a young woman. It proved to be a petrified ham and was said to resemble venison. It was thought to have been part of a deer placed by the Indians at the bottom of the spring as a means of refrigeration. The low temperature of the water, together with the mineral elements, as well as elements in the soil, caused it to petrify. It is not only in the shape of a ham, but has a greasy appearance, one side looking exactly like a layer of fat. At a distance, it may be easily taken for a real ham. The specimen is on exhibition at the Hawkinsville library.

SARDIS

The people of our community are feeling fine that cotton picking season is almost over.

Our Sunday school and B.Y.P.U. are still on foot. We don't have as many as we would like to have. We invite everyone to come and take part with us. B.Y.P.U. met Sunday night and elected new officers for the coming quarter. Following are the ones who were elected: President, Mr. Welch Roebuck; vice president, Miss Lucinda Sansom; quiz leader, Mr. G. L. Adams; secretary and treasurer, Miss Melda Sansom; group captain No. 1, Miss Gladys Sansom; group captain No. 2, Mr. G. L. Adams; critic, Mr. W. L. Williams. Let's everyone come next Sunday night at 6:30 and bring someone with you.

Several from this place attended the singing at the Court House Sunday and reported a good singing.

Misses Melda and Gladys Sansom spent Saturday night with Mrs. W. M. Headley.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Scott had as their guests Sunday Mr. W. M. Headley and family, Misses Melda and Gladys Sansom.

Let's don't forget the Sunday school next Sunday at 10:00 and B.Y.P.U. at 6:30 o'clock.

Vermont Jr. High Opens October 3rd

On next Tuesday, October 3, the Vermont Jr. High School (Sardis community) will open with what is expected to be the largest enrollment in the history of the school.

This will be the first year that Jr. High work has been carried since the 1929-30 term. There was no school at Vermont last session owing to the old building being torn away and not being replaced in time for either semester.

At present a beautiful new modern frame structure, built from the latest plan drafted by the State Department of Education, awaits the arrival of the students.

This biulding, costing between five and six thousand dollars is located on a high level overlooking a wide expanse of rolling country which surrounds it. A large campus, suitable for all athletic diversion, surrounds the building.

All pupils who live in the school district and expect to attend school at that place are urged to be present the first day, and to bring all second-hand books. Much can be saved by he exchange of good used textbooks.

The parents and friends of the school are especially requested to be present for the opening exercises.

The faculty this year is composed of the following teachers: R. B. Johnson, principal and Jr. high instructor, Jemison; Miss Ethel Cagle, 5th and 6th grades, Verbena; Miss Birdie Grant 3rd and 4th grades, Verbena, Miss Dorothy Manning, primary, 1st and 2nd grades, Maplesville.

"The dollar we have had has been a rubber dollar as to value; what we need is a dollar which is rubber as to weight but fixed as to value." said Col. J. Take a Pinch of BLACK-DRAUGHT For Distress After Meals

He had suffered distress after meals, but by taking Thedford's Black-Draught he was relieved of this trouble, writes Mr. Jess Higgins, of Dawsonville, Ga.

"I had sour stomach and gas," Mr. Higgins explains, "and often I would have bilious spells. I read about Thedford's Black-Draught and began to take it. It relieved me of this trouble. I keep it all the time now. I consider it a fine medicine. I take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals when I need it. It helps to prevent sick headache and to keep the system in good order."

Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the unwise choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

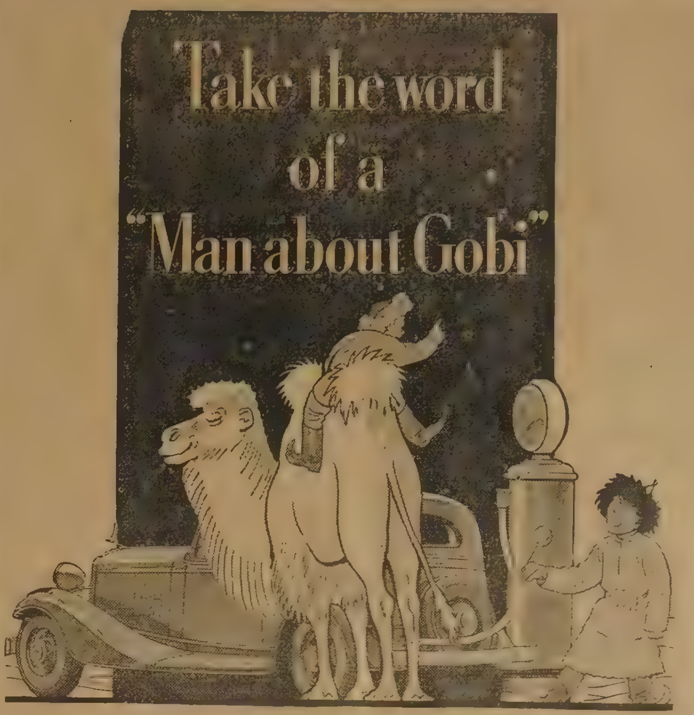
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics:

First. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains senna, a natural laxative which is perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.



Take the word of a "Man about Gobi"

Next to a Camel

Chevrolet gives most miles per gallon

CHEVROLET No argument about the camel. When it comes to miles per gallon, there's nothing in all the Gobi desert—or Sahara—or anywhere else—that can beat him. No argument about Chevrolet, either. It's the most economical form of full-size transportation on wheels.

You can travel a long, long way in a Chevrolet Six without a single stop for gas or oil. In fact, you can get more miles out of a gallon of gas in a Chevrolet, than you can get in any other full-size car. The best proof of this is the way Chevrolet is being preferred by leading national business firms. These firms know their mileage figures. And today, Chevrolet is their first choice by an overwhelming count. Chevrolet is also first choice of the American public by the widest margin in history.

"What Are My Child's Chances?"

By Mrs. Claud Billingsley

A thought which looms large in the mind of many an Alabama parent at present is, "What are my child's chances for a full term of schooling?" Opinions on this subject are both numerous and varied. In view of the very uncertainty of the situation, many straight-thinking people are making plans to have their child take advantage of every day which is taught. Heretofore, all too many children have been kept out upon the slightest pretext.

A day lost out of a child's school life is a serious matter for both pupil and teacher. Connections between today's lesson and tomorrow are missed and instead of a natural continued current of learning, the child receives only some piece meal information which he isn't able to assimilate. News from Thorsby

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

There will be Communion services at the Congregational church next Sunday morning during the church hour.

Two changes of time have been made for two services at the Congregational church. The mid-week prayer meeting will begin at seven o'clock beginning this week where the former time was 7:30; and Christian Endeavor will begin at 6:30 instead of seven as it has been doing all during the Summer months.

o

Next Sunday night Stereopticon pictures will be shown at the Congregational church on "Far East in the Near West." Seven-thirty is the hour the service will begin. The public has a cordial invitation to be present and enjoy the pictures.

o

Four additions, Mr. R. A. Hicks and family, were taken into the membership of the Thorsby Baptist church last Sunday morning.

o

The B. Y. P. U. members are planning a social to be held at the Baptist church next Friday night.

o

The Ladies Guild will meet this week Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. E. Each. The first plan was to have the social in the evening, but that has been changed and will meet at the regular time. A special invitation is given to the faculty of the Thorsby Public School and the faculty of Thorsby Institute.

o

The Parent-Teachers association of Thorsby will present Uncle Bud and his Boll Weevils at the Public School auditorium next Saturday night, September 30 at 8 p.m. Admission will be ten cents for children and 25 cents for adults.

o

The first meeting led by Miss Pardue for the benefit of starting a home demonstration club was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Goddard last Wednesday afternoon. Any of the town ladies wishing to attend any of the meetings may do so and they will be announced in the paper each time. There are no dues connected to this club and is for everyone. Various subjects will be studied during the year and the first one to be taken up is Winter and Fall Gardening. Mrs. C. S. Howard will have the next meeting at her home the third Wednesday in October, which is Oct. 18. The meeting will last from 2:30 until 4:30. The following officers were elected last Wednesday: President, Mrs. J. H. Goddard; vice president, Mrs. C. S. Howard; secretary, Mrs. C. M. Williams; demonstration leaders, Mrs. Nat Bentley and Mrs. C. S. Howard and community leaders, Mrs. Burt Higgins and Mrs. Malcolm Manning.

o

Mr. C. C. Petersen went to the Norwood Hospital last Thursday and was operated on Saturday morning. The last word received of his condition is very favorable. He is getting along nicely. Mr. Petersen is greatly missed here by his many friends and we hope that he may be able to return to Thorsby in a short time.

o

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald, who is spending some time with her daughter and son in Birmingham, spent the week end here in Thorsby.

o

Miss Mary Ella Gerald of Andalusia, Ala., spent Saturday and Sunday in Thorsby.

o

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Norris and their friends from Birmingham, Mr. A. A. Ash, Mr. Bob Warden, Mr. William Adom and Mr. H. C. White spent the week end on the river.

Thorsby Institute News

On Friday afternoon the first business meetings of the Pushmataha and Philomathic Clubs were held. Milton Diefenderfer was elected chairman for the next meeting of the Philomathic and Gladys Martin, Secretary. C. B. Jean was elected program sponsor for the semester.

At the Pushmataha meeting Winnie Boring was elected chairman for the next meeting and Preston Shaw, secretary. S. E. Maddox was elected program sponsor. Milton Higgins was elected athletic manager for the boys and Ruth Higgins for the girls.

The new members will be chosen this week by Committees appointed by the Clubs.

Next Friday afternoon the last period there will be the first business meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society. October 7 the first open meeting the society will be held at the Institute auditorium. The program will have special reference to October events —particularly Columbus Day and Hallowe'en. Everyone is invited. Admission is ten cents for all not pupils or teachers at the Institute.

The Institute Girls' Trio consists this year of Verlon Goodgame, Edith Foss, and a new student, Lessie Rasco.

The Institute faculty was very pleasantly entertained Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gerald at their home in Clanton. A delicious buffet supper was served. The rooms were decorated with lovely dahlias, pond lilies, spide lilies, etc. Mrs. Diefenderfer, Mrs. Broadhead, Miss Celia Gerald and Miss Jones assisted Mrs. Gerald in serving.

Melvin Dollar from Steppville, Ala., enrolled as a Senior in Thorsby Institute Monday. He is a cousin of C. B. Jean. He came by car with Miss Davidson and Mrs. F. E. Jenkins, who were returning from a business trip to Decatur, north of Steppville.

The Choir of the Congregational church had a picnic Saturday afternoon two miles from Oak Grove at Lovers' Lane. They reported a very enjoyable time.

The Dormitory teachers and pupils, who are not in the choir, had a picnic on a grove back of Mr. Butler's home. He and Mrs. Butler and Dorothy were guests of the dormitory at the picnic. After the supper all adjourned to the Butler home for a short time.

The Commercial Department had a meeting September 18, for the purpose of organizing a commercial club. Besides the active members there will be associate and honorary members. The following officers were elected at the meeting: President, Conradine Pate; vice president, Conway Thornburgh; secretary, Jean Swanson.

Why
Liquid Laxatives
are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

SANDERS WRITES ON BEHALF OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Editor, The News:

As school days are at hand, and every child should enroll the earliest moment possible, I wish to say a few words in regard to this matter.

We all know that times are still hard, and money with which to put our children in school is hard to get, but since the future welfare of this country depends upon their education, we should put forth every possible effort to educate them.

Many may think it impossible to get their children sufficient clothes and books. This, I'm sure, is true in many cases, but let us not keep them out of school just because we can't get everything they need at once.

Some people will say before they will send their children to school with patched clothes to be laughed at and made fun of they will keep them at home. Let us not be so foolish as to punish the child on the account of those who may laugh or make fun.

I'm sure that some of the best citizens and leaders of our country came from those who when in school sat upon double and trible patches. So, let us wash up and patch up the best clothes our children have and send them to school that they may be better able to meet life with all its difficulties.

After we have washed up and patched up little Tommie's and Sallie's clothes we have yet another task to do before the job is complete. We must furnish them with books, pencils and paper. It is very embarrassing for the child to have to borrow a book to learn its lesson, a pencil and paper to do its assigned work. This, in most every case will retard the child's progress.

We, as patrons, should visit the school, inquire of the teacher of our children's needs, show the child that we are cooperating with the teacher for their benefit.

Every citizen, whether patron or not, should encourage his neighbor who is careless about sending his children to school. Show him how his child will be handicapped if it grows up without an education. The general public should not only give its moral support to education, but its financial aid as well. There will be a large number who will need help to get their children books and clothes.

If anyone has books or clothes they can spare, try to find the child that needs them, offer the father work to pay for them. If any haven't the books or clothes to spare and wish to contribute to the cause, offer to buy them for the child after the father has worked the required amount.

And to the man that hasn't the money with which to buy your children's clothes, ask your neighbor for a job that your child may go to school. Show him that you have an interest in your child and that you are not depending upon charity to educate them.

If we can't get high wages let's take what we can get. We have problems to solve as never before, so let's join heart and hand and solve them together.

Yours in behalf of the child,
W. L. SANDERS.

Mr. J. Luther Gaines of Centerville preached an excellent sermon at the Baptist church Sunday evening. His theme was, "Jesus Cares." He was heard attentively by a large congregation.

CONCERT HERE MONDAY NIGHT WAS A VERY SUCCESSFUL ONE

A large and appreciative audience attended the concert put on at the court house in Clanton Monday night of this week by the Morris-Henson quartet of Atlanta, Ga. It was very regrettable that so many people had to stand, but after the program started there was no complaining. Late comers were glad to get even standing room in order to get to hear the enticing and entertaining numbers put o by the singers.

There was a total of $103.80 collected at the door, all of which went to the quartet. However, the boys very graciously donated to the singers of the county seventy-five of the new Morris-Henson song books, which will be kept at the court house and used when the singers meet there. It is the custom of the Morris-Henson quartet to get all the proceeds from one concert when they make a convention on Sunday as they did here, but inasmuch as the turn-out at this concert was so good, they felt that they were due something back to the people of the county—hence the donation of the song books.

This quartet went from Clanton to Holtville, where they put on a concert in the school building Tuesday night. Wednesday night they were at Thorsby school building, and Thursday night will be at Rockford. They will make Eclectic Friday night, and are planning to sing at Ashland in Clay county Saturday night.

The quartet is composed of Andy Hughes, F. A. Thomas, J. T. Cook and J. P. Waits. — T. E. WYATT.

"Cynara" Vidor's First Try At Urbanity

Ronald Colman Picture Contrast For Both Star and Director

Ronald Colman in "Cynara," filmed by King Vidor from the international stage success, is presented by Samuel Goldwyn at the Wadesonian Theatre Friday, September 29. Playing opposite Mr. Colman are Kay Francis, as sleek and finely groomed as ever, and Phyllis Barry, a newcomer, in the dual feminine roles, and Henry Stephenson in the part he created in the New York stage production.

In selecting "Cynara" as a successor to Mr. Colman's "Arrowsmith" of last season, Goldwyn did so largely out of a sense of contrast, not only for Colman, but for King Vidor as well.

For this grim story of "fashions and fidelity" is different from anything Colman has done in a long time, and it is Vidor's first effort at urbanty and sophistication.

"Cynara" is, of course, the story of a man and a wife, devoted, upright, faithful and of how, when the wife went away, the husband casually became involved—he meant to be kin—to a shopgirl with turbulent eyes that foretold tragedy even through Arcadian romance, and of how a wife came home to contemplate the wreck of their lives and to face with him the task of building anew.

It is a quiet, human story that might have come out of yesterday's headlines. Its story is an every-day story. It happens to anyone. No melodramatics, no villians, no theatrics. It is this humanly romantic drama upon which Vidor and his players, Mr. Colman, Miss Francis and Miss Barry, and Mr. Stephenson worked against a background of luxury and well-being and nice-living.

Frances Marion and Lynn Starling adapted the play by H. M. Harwood ad Robert Gore-Brown. The play was based on the novel, "An Imperfect Lover," by Mr. Gore-Brown.

Misses Neva Jane and Urma Ruth Key were entertained last Tuesday night with a surprise party given at the home of their parents. Dancing was enjoyed throughout the evening. Music was furnished by Mr. Rayburn Shirley and Mr. Cecil Ellison, accompanied by Miss Helen Zuiderhoek. The following were present: Misses Myrtle Lou Crim, Elizabeth Roberts, Lorene Shirley, Margaret Busby, Evelyn Martin, Aileen Ellison and Helen Zuiderhoek and hostesses. Messrs. Milton and Arebin Crim, Rayburn Shirley, John Busby, Cecil Ellison, Howard Anderson, John Zuiderhoek, Howard Busby, Robert Barefield, Goob Martin and little Roy Roberts, Jr., Mrs. Roy Roberts. A delightful time was had by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Herman Barnett were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Virgin last Friday night with a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Buelow. As the guests arrived they registered. Miss Myrtle Lou Crim had the bride's registering book. After all guests arrived Messrs. Rayburn Shirley, Delmus Tate and Cecil Ellison rendered several musical numbers, then little Dot Watts presented the bride with the registrar and then led the bride and groom to the gift table which was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. Dot then presented the presents to the bride who unwrapped all gifts and expressed her gratitude to her many friends and relatives. Mrs. Henry Virgin, grandmother of the bride, presented the bride with a butter dish that had been handed down from generation unto generation. After this delicious refreshments were served to the following: Misses Iva Campbell, Elizabeth Roberts, Vera Busby, Lorene Shirley, Evelyn Martin, Ethel McDaniel, Nera Jane Key, Irma Ruth Key, Marie Anderson, Helen Zuiderhoek, Elna Barefield, Frances and Mildred Killingsworth, Armanda Spencer and Myrtle Lou Crim, Rayburn Shirley, Delmas Tate, Loyd Splawn, Urmi Lee Anderson, John Zuiderhoek, Ralph Ellison, Curtis Martin, Harmon Barefield, Cecil Ellison, Milton and Orban Crim, Howard Anderson and Roy Roberts, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Virgin, Mrs. Roy Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Watts, Mrs. A. Buelow, Mrs. S. Crim and little Dot Watts. A grand time was had by all.

Club News

The C. I. Club met Monday afternoon September 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roberts with Miss Elizabeth Roberts as hostess. The social hour was enjoyed by all. Misses Neva Jane and Urma Ruth Key rendered several piano numbers and Miss Helen Zuiderhoek rendered several selections. Mrs. Sara Crim sang a song entitled, "Stay In Your Own Back Yard." Then the club as a whole played several games. The president then called the society to order and the minutes of last meeting were read and then roll call after which our organizer, Miss Newell, of Jemison, talked to us. After her talk delicious refreshments were served to the following: Misses Neva Jane and Urma Ruth Key, Bertha and Evelyn Martin, Margaret Matthews Armanda Spencer, Myrtle Lou Crim, Aileen Ellison, Marie Anderson and Helen Zuiderhoek. The club was also fortunate in having with them several visitors, among whom our beloved organizer, Miss Newell, was seen. Misses Meiggs and Gladys Cobb were the other visitors. The club was then adjourned.

The C. I. Club will meet with Margaret and Bertha Martin next Monday afternoon, October 2, 1933. There was quite a number of club absentees Monday. We urge you to be present if possible next Monday and visitors have a very cordial invitation.

Miss Newell, the club appreciating your interest you take in it, and we hope you find it possible to meet with us many times throughout the coming year.

THOSE "GOOD OLD DAYS"

Most of us can easily remember the "good old days" before the war when hobble skirts made walking all but impossible, when elaborate feathers dropped fetchingly from every feminine hat, when the turkey trot was the dance of the hour, when moving picture houses were nickelodeons.

Today we laugh at the picturesque mannerisms of 20 years ago, but there is another side of the scene that was no laughing matter. Every Monday was a blue Monday, and women got up at dawn. Clothes had been put to soak the night before. Backs were bent, knuckles bruised over scrub-boards. It was afternoon before the complete washing was on the line.

Small wonder then over the interest that followed the news that an electric washing machine had been invented! Its wooden tub sprouted a maze of belts, levers and gadgets, but crude as it was, it promised welcome relief from washday drudgery. Washing machines have been improved again and again, like automobiles, until they bear little resemblance to the earlier models.

Better yet, washing machines no longer are made for simply the families of the well-to-do. They are produced in such a wide range of prices that there is one suitable for every family, regardless of the home's size or circumstances.

HIGHLAND

Our Sunday school is doing fine. We had a very large attendance last Sunday. We have elected the following officers and teachers for the next six months: Superintendent, Mr. G. B. Billingsley; secretary, Mr. Coy Lockhart; Bible class teacher, Mr. M. D. Dickey; advanced class, Mrs. Cecil Armstrong; juniors, Mrs. M. D. Dickey; card class, Mrs. Lillie Weldon. And let's everybody come and do our best and strive to make the next six months the very best we can.

The Shiloh B. Y. P. U. put on a splendid program at Highland last Sunday night which was greatly enjoyed by all, and we invite them back at any time.

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Two wonderful sermons were delivered by our pastor, Rev. A. E. Trice, which were enjoyed by all that were present and those who were absent missed some wonderful messages. Remember our regular preaching days come every fourth Saturday and Sunday in each month, and everybody has a special invitation to come and be with us.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Limbrick of Independence were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Billingsley and family.

Miss Lorena Billingsley, Mrs. E. B. Wright and Mr. Cecil Billingsley spent a while with Miss Min Lee Lockhart Friday night.

Misses Mildred, Catherine and Mr. Fonzie Coe spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Weldon and daughter, Miss Ruth Maddox, Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Culpepper and little son, Jimmie, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Culpepper of Clanton.

Mr. Euell Martin and Misses Pearl and Elsie Vinson spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Armstrong Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Cecil Billingsley was the dinner guest of Mr. Clint Billingsley Sunday.

Miss Myrtle Powell was the Sunday dinner guest of Miss Ruth Maddox.

The many friends of Mrs. M. D. Dickey are very sorry to hear that she is very ill. We all hope her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crim and family and Mrs. George Weldon of Birmingham were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Weldon and daughter, Miss Ruth Maddox. Mrs. Georgie Weldon is spending a while with her son, Mr. E. T. Weldon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Wyatt and daughters, Misses Gladys and Dessie, and Mr. Clint Billingsley attended the singing at the home of Mr. Jake Henley Wednesday night.

Mr. Fonzie Coe was the Sunday night guest of Mr. Herman Culpepper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coe and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Franklin and family of New Cedron community Sunday and Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Billingsley of Thorsby visited Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Billingsley Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Trice spent Saturday night with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Odis Scott, of Pleasant Grove.

Miss Ruth Maddox spent a while with Mrs. Herman Culpepper Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lockhart and little son, Ross, spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Dickey Saturday night.

Mr. Coy and Miss Willie Merle Lockhart and Mr. Fonzie Coe spent a few enjoyable hours with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Culpepper Saturday night.

Mlle. Elizabeth Ravette of Paris attended a dance with her head completely shaved.

NEW CEDRON

The cream supper was a real success Saturday night. We want to thank all those present for their help and cooperation with us.

Rev. and Mrs. Carroll were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Edwards Sunday.

NATION CALLED ON TO AID IN RELIEF CAUSE

Areas That Have Looked To Government Solely For Help Are Scored

Washington—Summoning the country to contribute for the relief of the destitute, President Roosevelt at the same time Friday arraigned "some areas which lately have not done their share and have been coming hat in hand to the federal government."

His extemporaneous talk was in opening the third annual mobilization for human needs conference in the White House grounds, one declaration being that the people are better able to support charity now than in years immediately past.

Responding, Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, announced the mobilizers were about to undertake a campaign "of surpassing importance for human needs" in every community of the country.

Kellogg spoke in place of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, as chairman of the relief conference, whose illness prevented his attendance.

He said the greatest obstacle to the drive would be widespread belief that the government will furnish the means and that there is no necessity for private subscriptions and aid.

"Nothing is further from the fact," he said. "The aid rendered by the federal government and the state and local governments is limited in its scope and does not and cannot cover the ground which the private organizations must carry on."

"In some states relief is mixed up with politics," said the president. "Legislatures are thinking in political terms and not in human terms. Muncipalities in some instances are spending taxes for political purposes and then saying they have nothing for relief.

"But I am glad to say these instances are growing less. The people are understanding that we are not wielding the big stick but making the obligation clear."

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that the action of the federal government in giving relief appropriations was on an emergency basis and that he expected the government eventually to be relieved of this responsibility.

"The whole period we are now going through will in the end get back to individual initiative and responsibility," he said.

The president spoke optimistically of the trend of affairs and said he expected everyone to cooperate in the relief drive.

"I believe you can do the work more effectively than last year," he said. "Taking it by and large the country is in a more hopeful mind.

"The people have more to spend and don't you let them tell you otherwise.

"There will be some who will have excuses but there is going to be no such thing as being left out. No one can be left out. They've got to join you.

Great Responsibility

"You have a great responsibility on your shoulders and I know you are going to do it. This is an essential part in the program of the United States. Go to it. make a record, not only of money but of service of which we all will be very proud."

"We have got to build from the bottom up, and not merely supply food from the top down."

Starting the conference later at a hotel, John Stewart Bryan, publisher of The Richmond News Leader and president of Community Chests and Councils, Inc., declared mobilization for community help was in no way minimized by the fact that federal, state and municipal governments "are today carrying 95 per cent of the material unemployment relief load."

Praising President Roosevelt's "courage, initiative and hopefulness" in his handling of a desperate situation, Bryan said the first and supreme objective, the restoration of the confidence of America in itself, has been achieved.

School Opening

It appears that pupils from practically every section of the county are making ready to enter school on Monday, October 2nd. Those people down at Billingsley are making game efforts to get transportation facilities to come to us. If they are successful it will mean fifty more pupils entering the Training School. Here is hoping their plans will mature. There are a good many people down there and it is necessary that some steps be taken in order to get the children in school.

Buy Vetch and Peas with Cotton Money

You will soon be getting your check for that cotton you took out of production. If you invest a part of it in peas or vetch you will get a much larger check for your corn and cotton crops next year. Too many of us have the wrong conception of using money. If we were more definite in our planning and spending the results would be amazing. Unless there is some sacrifice there can never be any appreciable gain. Now let us make a greater sacrifice this year, than ever, to get peas or vetch for our corn land next spring. You will actually be proud of the increased yield.

WOMEN! Get rid of the handicaps of a weak, debilitated condition with the assistance of Cardui.

Mrs. R. L. West, of Huntsville, Ala., writes: "I was weak and run-down. I had a pain in my side, and I kept losing weight. I grew nervous over my condition — this was unusual for me, for I am very cheerful when I am well and don't easily get 'nervous.' I knew I ought to take something. My aunt told me I ought to try Cardui, which I did. I began to feel better. I kept it up until I had taken three or four bottles. My side quit hurting and I was soon feeling strong and well."

DATE & PLACE

How Do Our NEW LOW RATES Affect You?

ALABAMA Public Service Commission has ordered certain revisions in the rates of this Company for urban, residential, suburban and rural service to be effective on all bills rendered on and after October 1st, 1933.

The effect of these revisions, which are the most drastic in the entire history of Alabama Power Company, is to reduce substantially the cost of electric service to our customers.

These NEW LOW RATES will bring an immediate reduction of $336,000 annually in electric costs to our residential customers. The new rate schedule provides also for further progressive reductions over a three year period, bringing the total saving to our customers to over $600,000 annually.

In addition to these rate reductions, the Federal Tax (amounting to approximately $82,000 annually, which heretofore has been charged to the customers) henceforth will be paid by the company. These reductions added to the increased operating expenses, as shown in the report of the Commission, result in an $825,000 ANNUAL REDUCTION IN THE INCOME OF THE COMPANY. This does not include the new State Income Tax, nor does it take into consideration the increase in cost of materials used by the company.

BENEFITS TO SMALL CONSUMERS

The largest beneficiary under the revised rates is the small consumer using 45 (and less) kilowatt hours per month. Over 70 per cent of our domestic customers are in this class. This class receives an immediate average reduction of 23.1 per cent in electric service costs.

Important as this saving appears, it is even exceeded in importance by the opportunity our new low rates open to the small consumer to increase his consumption of electricity—either at no additional cost whatever, or for a negligible amount, depending on his individual use of our service.

WATCH FOR EXPLANATORY ADVERTISEMENTS

In a series of explanations which follow this announcement, the new rates—the savings they make possible and the opportunities they create—will be explained in detail. It will be shown how each class of consumers—small, medium, and large—can obtain the fullest benefits from the new rates in both the comfort and the economy of living.

We sincerely hope that every customer will read these advertisements as they contain a message of genuine interest and utmost importance.

The next advertisement about our New Low Rates will appear in next week's issue of this newspaper.

Trade Association Can Give Information

Birmingham, Sept. 17.—Trade associations and the National Recovery Administration are requesting that individual complaints and requests for rulings, interpretations and detailed information be made through local and state trade associations because the Washington office is being flooded with requests and, despite increased office personnel, is unable to give attention to communications from every individual, B. C. Apperson, secretary of the Alabama Independent Merchants, Inc., advised today.

Merchants finding complete adherence to the President's Re-employment Agreement injurious to their business because of some particular provision may apply for and obtain temporary stays or exception through the Alabama Independent Merchants Association, 614 Lyric Building, Birmingham.

FARMERS LOSE MONEY ON 100 POUNDS ACRE YIELD

Southern farmers who plant cotton on land that yields less than 100 pounds an acre will lose money, warns F. W. Gist, statistician of the department of agriculture.

A study of six years was behind the statement, and the announcement was hastened by the recent cotton acreage reduction campaign which did not pay for acreage that yielded less than 100 pounds.

"According to the reports of the United States Department of Agriculture, the cost of producing cotton at around 74 pounds per acre during the six years averaged about 21.8 cents per pound. The price obtained by the producer during the same period averaged 11.7 cents per pound, including an actual loss due to the low yield of this portion of the acreage of 10.1 cents per pound," Gist said.

In concluding his report Mr. Gist suggested that farmers not plant land to cotton which will not produce over 100 pounds to the acre. "Each individual farmer will probably know that part of his land which may be expected to fall within this class and it would appear to be the part of wisdom to leave this type of land out of cultivation as one of the best means of meeting current prices with the lowest possible cost of production, since production costs depend upon acre yields more than upon any one other item," he said.

Circus Is Coming To Montgomery

The Great Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, one of the two largest railroad shows in America, will exhibit in Montgomery, on Saturday, September 30th.

The huge circus, traveling on three special all-steel trains of double-length circus cars, will, this year, offer more brilliant features than ever before. Everything on the lengthy program is new and of gigantic proportions, resplendent with scores of features new to circus patrons.

Clyde Beatty, world famous wild animal trainer, will again occupy, In Person, the highlight position on the extensive program, with his group of forty lions and tigers. The most thrilling display of the kind in the world.

Other stellar features will include the famous Hanneford Family of bare-back riders, starring "Poodles" Hanneford, greatest of riding clowns; the Billetti Troupe of breath-taking high-wire performers; "Bombayo", The Man From India; the Canestrelly Family, sensational unsupported-ladder performers; the Flying Hills, and the Clarkonians, thrilling trapeze displays; the Picchiani Troupe of spring-board acrobats, and over 100 other ring, track, and stage displays offered by the 500 men and women arenic stars with the mammoth show this season.

The performances will open with a new 1933 version of "Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt," gorgeous spectacle of ancient Egypt, which climaxes in an elaborate pyrotechnical display, while, a whole congress of clowns to the number of sixty-five will weave mirth and merriment throughout the length of the thrilling program.

The Great Hagenbeck-Wallace menagerie, the largest on tour in the world, is, this year, augmented by five herds of performing elephants—40 in number, 30 camels, and a herd of zebras. Performances are scheduled for 2 and 8 p.m., with the doors opening one hour earlier allowing time for inspection of the mammoth zoological display.

IN MEMORY OF GRANDMOTHER HAYES

On last Monday afternoon, September 18, four o'clock, God in His great power and wisdom sent the angels of Heaven to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox of Centerville, Ala., and carried away the spirit of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Jim Hayes.

Grandmother lived to the ripe old age of seventy years. She had been failing in health quite a number of years. She leaves to mourn her departure ten children, three sons and seven daughters, Jack and David of Clanton; and Walter of Centerville; Mrs. John Cherry of Pletcher, Mrs. Lee Smith of Florida, Mrs. Willie Nichols of Stanton, Mrs. Charles Cox of Centerville, Mrs. Pate Headley of Clanton, Mrs. Mose Donovan and Mrs. Judy Milford of the Sardis community; forty grandchildren, eighteen great-grandchildren, besides a host of other relatives and friends, for grandmother had such a pleasant disposition and winning ways that everyone who knew her loved her.

Grieve not, loved ones, for we feel that our loss is Heaven's gain, for grandmother was a true Christian wife and mother, always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to those in need and to speak comforting words to those that were troubled. Grandmother isn't dead. She is only sleeping that sweet, peaceful sleep. She's resting in the arms of Jesus in that beautiful land where we'll never grow old; away from this old world of sorrow, pain and cares. God didn't take her away from us to make us sad, He only granted her the privilege of going on to Heaven where she could be with her loving husband and three children that have already gone on.

We know all was done that could be done while she was here on earth with us. But there is yet one more thing we can do for her to make her happy and rejoice, and that is to be ready to meet her when God sends for us. If we will all live as grandmother did, and follow the advice she has so often given us we will surely meet her again some day, where we will never have to part again. Isn't it wonderful that God will give us the privilege of meeting our loved ones and friends again to be with them always if we will only do His will.

The remains were laid to rest in the Sardis cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. L. Foshee.

MISS MARY HAYES,
A Granddaughter.

Reduction Added Quarter Million

The 1933 cotton reduction program has added around a quarter of a billion dollars to the prospective income of cotton producers' this season, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

This calculation is based on the fact that had there been no crop reduction program producers would have been forced to sell their cotton at probably 5.5 cents per pound. Economists find ample statistical justification for this assumption as a 16-million bale crop piled on top of a 12-million bale carry-over would have resulted in a record supply more than two million bales larger than last year's 26-million bale supply.

Based on 5.5 cent cotton, the gross income from the potential 16,500,000 bale crop as forecast by the Crop Estimating Board would have been $454,000,000. The gross income from the present prospective crop, after the 10,304,000 acres have been taken out of cotton production, is estimated to be exactly $100,000,000 more than the income from the full crop of 5.5 cents per pound. This calculation is based upon the present farm price of cotton of around 9 cents per pound which, on 12,300,000 bales, yields a gross income of $554,000,000. Added to this is the estimated cash payments of $110,000,000 and potential profits on government-held cotton which has been optioned to the producer at 6 cents per pound. On the basis of present market prices these profits would approximate $36,000,000.

So the income to the South from its 12,300,000 bale cotton crop this year is estimated at around $700,000,000. This is $246,000,000 more than would have been received if the potential crop had been harvested and sold at 5.5 cents per pound. It is also greater than the income from the 1932 crop which was $431,000,000. The producer received an average of 5.7 cents per pound for the 1931-32 marketing season.

ALABAMA PECAN CROP DOUBLES LAST YEAR

o

A pecan crop that is 100 per cent ahead of last year is announced by F. W. Gist, statistician of the Department of Agriculture.

This state will produce a total of 2,900,000 pounds of nuts this year compared with 1,400,000 pounds last year and a five-year average of 2,442,000.

Production of pecans for 1933 in the entire United States is placed at 55,763,000 pounds compared with 53,160,000 pounds in 1932.

News In Brief

o

Approximately 3½ million pigs have been purchased by the Agricultural Administration in the hog production control program. It is expected that more than 4½ million will be purchased.

Records show that cows producing 100 pounds of butterfat annually return $14 over feed costs, that 200-pound cows return $52, 300-pound cows $93, and 400-pound producers $135 over feed costs.

Representative R. J. Goode of Gastonburg, farmer and livestock breeder, has pointed out that only 2.5 cents of each dollar spent by the State goes to agriculture, while agriculture creates about 74 per cent of the new wealth created in the State.

Planting of winter legumes is now in progress in Alabama. It is expected that the State will break its former records in the use of legumes for building soils. Last fall nearly six million pounds of vetch and winter peas were planted in Alabama. They added nitrogen and humus to soils and prevented erosion.

STATE RAISES LESS PEANUTS

o

Alabama's 1933 peanut harvest is estimated at 144,900,000 pounds by the State Department of Agriculture. This figure compares with 170,560,000 pounds last year and a five-year average of 121,030,000 pounds.

The total harvested crop of the United States is estimated this year at 912,000,000 pounds against 1,000,000,000 pounds last year and a five-year average of 811,000,000.

TEXTILE WORKERS SHOULD THINK TWICE BEFORE JOINING UNIONS

The attention of the News has been brought to the organization of unions among textile workers over Alabama. Our attention has also been brought to the serious conditions arising from these organizations over Alabama.

It is generally known that a union is being organized among the textile workers of Clanton.

Clanton has never before had any experience with labor unions and this is something new to the workers who have paid their dues and to those who are being sought to join. It is so new that we are afraid textile workers do not fully understand every detail.

Unions among textile workers at cotton mills have been organized in several towns in the state and at present there are approximately 700 workers in Piedmont, Ala., who are without jobs due to a strike at the mill. We understand there are other towns where strikes are being held, throwing many hundreds of workers out of jobs and means of support for them and their families.

We are not acquainted with the organizers of these unions, but if it is their purpose to create strife and antagonize the workers, then we are against them. Such conditions eventually lead to strikes, shut down mills, hundreds without work.

There are approximately 275 employees at the local mill. If this union materializes and follows in the path of other unions, these 275 people will be without work, which means approximately 1,000 persons in Clanton without any means of support.

It is left entirely with the workers at the Mill. The management and supervisors have no say-so.

The codes under which various manufacturing concerns are now operating are as much labor's codes as they are manufacturers' codes—and under them the Administration expects labor to cooperate. President Roosevelt called upon all workers to "go along with us in a spirit of understanding and helpfulness."

There is a strike among textile workers at Jacksonville, Ala. It is understood there is a union organized among the workers there.

A strike is caused only by organized workers, and the workers only can cause a strike and throw themselves out of jobs. Employers are doing their part under the present code of fairness. The twelve-hour day in cotton mills is a thing of the past unless in cases of emergency.

We fear that the employees of the local textile mill are making a mistake. Unions are great methods of taking steps toward progress if they cooperate with the manufacturer. But if workers are antagonized through such unions, their purpose is contrary to progress and end in trouble. The wise employee will seriously consider becoming a member of any organization not sanctioned by the government, before paying his dues.

COTTON LOANS

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Nine-Month Loans

Under the plan, the Federal Government will loan cotton growers 10 cents a pound on cotton of the 1933 crop remaining in their hands and, should any loss occur, the Government will bear it. The loans are to run nine months, with the option of the Government to ask sale if cotton goes to 15 cents a pound in the meanwhile. No loans will be made on cotton which has passed from the hands of the producers.

Growers in a position to do so—that is, owners of land or those who have leases running through next season—must sign when they obtain a loan an agreement to abide by the reduction campaign for next season which is to be a combination land rental-domestic allotment program with a maximum planting of 25,000,000 acres, which is 16,000,000 acres less than was planted originally this season and 6,000,000 acres under the acreage left for harvest after the plowing-under campaign of the Summer.

"This means that cotton will go to 10 cents or better on the markets immediately," Senator Bankhead said, expressing keen gratification that the plan has been adopted by the Government.

Details of the plan remain to be developed such as the rate of interest to be charged, etc. These will be worked out immediately and the full plan probably will be ready for execution within 10 days.

It is estimated 8,000,000 bales remain in the hands of growers. The amount the Government is willing to advance is $50 a bale, at local markets, which is almost $10 a bale higher than recently prevailing prices.

On the basis of 8,000,000 bales, the plan will add at least $80,000,000 to the value of the cotton still in the hands of producers, but a total of $124,000,000 to the full crop, much of which has passed out of growers' hands.

Must Make Pledge

Washington, Sept. 23.—Officials of the Farm Administration, Reconstruction Corporation, and Farm Credit Administration definitely decided today to require farmers who borrow 10 cents a pound on their cotton to co-operate in the production control plan for next year.

In the case of tenants, however, the pledge may mean little, for they may cultivate other land next year, or possibly may not cultivate any at all.

The prospect that thousands of tenant farmers might be unable to make arrangements with their landlords next year due to the fact that cotton planting is to be reduced to 25,000,000 acres is one of the things causing the Farm Administration concern.

The county allotment will be made on the basis of the land itself and numerous complaints have been made, but there is nothing to prevent the owners of property from hiring labor to work the land, or from reducing the number of tenant farmers that ordinarily would cultivate the farm.

Secretary Wallace today insisted that the Government's agreement to lend 10 cents a pound on cotton still in the hands of the producer be connected with the control program for 1934.

The extent of that connection probably will be that borrowers will pledge themselves to join the plan designed to take about 15,000,000 acres out of production next year. Any arrangement beyond this, it was held, would be impractical, for the number of acres which each cotton county may plant has not been allocated by the Farm Administration.

The plan for next year is to limit each worker to four acres, with a maximum limit of 24 acres to any family. The credit advanced them is to be raised and they are to be allowed land to grow garden crops and other food commodities, rent free.

In addition, the use of tractors is to be abandoned and all cotton land is to be farmed by tenants.

The readjustment is expected to take care of all tenant families now on the plantation and farm officials are hoping that similar arrangements will be made for other tenant farmers in the South.

agricultural program in Chilton County so that farmers, merchants, lawyers, doctors, and in fact, people engaged in every vocation, may enjoy a richer, fuller and happier life.

"It has occured to me several times within the past few months that some people in the county seem to feel that I am trying to build up a sentiment that I might be elected to some county office. If such idea has prevailed in the mind of anyone, I wish to correct it now, and further say that what I have done since coming to the county has been done for what I thought was for the best interest of the people of Chilton County.

"I hope to continue in county agency work in Chilton County, and I solicit the cooperation of every man, woman and child in the county in doing something to bring agriculture and the whole citizenship to a higher level."

County Agent Gives Out Information On Cotton Loans And 1934 Acreage Control

Following is a statement issued on Tuesday to all farmers in this county by County Agent Stapp that is of importance:

To Chilton County Cotton Growers:

In our desire to give you full information on the cotton marketing program we give you the following information:

1. In an announcement made by Secretary of Agriculture, Honorable Henry A. Wallace, Friday, September 22, in discussing the plans for cotton production control in 1934 and 1935 he outlined in part a plan to

"Offer loans to cotton producers of 10c per pound on their present crop enabling them to hold their cotton until prices are nearer fair exchange value."

It is probable that the 10c per pound would be loaned on basis middling 7-8" cotton, with lower grades taking lower loan values.

2. Working details of this plan have not yet been received. This office at present cannot make loans on cotton. It will not be necessary to visit this office for information as any additional facts will be sent you promptly as received.

3. This letter is not meant to indicate that cotton prices will go up or will go down but is sent you to give you the above information for whatever it may be worth to you.

Yours truly,
C. E. STAPP, County Agent.

Mack's Becomes Popular With Mugs Of Beer

Beer in Clanton? Sure, and why not? Counters at Mack's, one of Clanton's popular soda fountains and lunch shops have been lined with thirsty people demanding beer and beer they get—in the old fashioned mugs.

Mack's is the first place to bring beer to Clanton on draught and the faucet from which the beverage flows is continually called on with pretzels offered by the bowl full.

L. E. Diefenderfer, or perhaps we should say "Dief" of the famous Dief's Service Station is demanding that Mack keep his beer of the highest quality, since "Dief" has been appointed official beer taster of Alabama generally and Clanton in particular. "Dief" says that any irregularity in the taste of beer sold here will be corrected by him as soon as he can get at it.

Beer in Montgomery. Beer in Birmingham. Beer in Calera. Beer in Wetumpka and almost everywhere else and now—beer in Clanton.

Isabella High School News

The Isabella High School began its regular session of school September 4, with a larger student body than ever before. Everyone has started to work to make this year a more successful year than ever in the history of the school.

The Senior class had a business meeting a few days ago and elected officers and talked over the aims for this semester. They decided to continue the publication of "The Sounder," a very interesting and worthwhile paper. Subscription rates are fifteen cents (15c) for a semester or five cents (5c) for a single copy.

Some improvements are being made on the buildings. The Ag. building has just received a new coat of paint, and plans are being made to put concrete steps to the front of the main building.

The football boys are really working this year, and are receiving some very capable coaching. They will play Verbena Friday here on Isabella's field. The game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock, with small admission charges.

The Seniors will sell sandwiches and drinks at this game. Let's come to this game, help the Seniors by buying a drink or a sandwich, and do our part in helping the boys to win the game. Rah! Rah! For I. H. S.

MISS WEBB WEDS MR. PATE RECENTLY

A social event of interest in the Mt. Pleasant community was the wedding Sunday, September 17, of Miss Avoleen Webb to Mr. Carl Pate. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. T. Nelson, who celebrated his 100th birthday last January 5, at the home of the groom's parents.

Mrs. Pate is the attractive daughter of Mr. S. J. M. Webb, a member of the Chilton county school board, and Mr. Pate is prominently known in his community.

Shelby County is undoubtedly proud of its cows, being disposed to exhibit them to motorists along the highway. Only last Sunday night several automobiles were badly damaged near Calera due to one of the cows doing an act of crossing the road. Fortunately no one was injured in the scramble of the four or five automobiles.

MASS MEETING CALLED TO GET VIEWS ON SCHOOL FUND LOAN

Here And There

By Crackie

* * *

Over at Maplesville this Friday night, those who go to the high school auditorium will find a treat from the famous McDonald Quartette. The Maplesville Parent-Teachers Association is sponsoring this entertainment.

* * *

Which brings to our mind back a few years ago when Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Payne of Maplesville were married, and both are having just as much fun out of life as they were back before the past few years.

* * *

May we bring to your attention this week that we are glad to have the following persons added to the subscription list of the News during the past few days:

M, E. Thrash, Mrs. L. O. Zimmerman, Mrs. Louise Higgins, T. W. Johnston, Miss Icie Belle Cobern, Miss Ressie Burks, H. W. Lewis, N. L. Owen, W. L. Henderson, C. M. Williams,

* * *

Cecil B. Smith (will say something about him later), M. S. McGhee, Miss Elsie Barrett, A. J. Dennis, W. R. King, J. B. Boyd, T. R. Burdette, S J. Twilley, H. B. Owen.

* * *

Speaking of T. R. (Tom) Burdette of Clanton. We believe he is about one of the busiest men and hardest working fellows we've seen in sometime.

* * *

Unless it is Maurice Lande at The Leader. We dropped in The Leader Monday and Mr. Lande was certainly busy, and his store was busy all over. The teachers found a welcome there.

* * *

Our good friend J. H. Davenport from Thorsby, Ala., Rt. 1, was a caller at the News office Saturday and we certainly enjoyed seeing him.

* * *

We saw Fred Howard of Thorsby in Clanton Monday and we missed having him drop in to see us.

* * *

Speaking of Thorsby reminds us of a very pleasant visit from our friend Ernie Hanson, of Thorsby. Things just wouldn't run right, we don't believe, unless we could see Ernie now and then.

* * *

C. M. Downs from Verbena, Route 2, was a caller at the News office the other day and we were pleased to hand him a subscription receipt.

* * *

We note in the News this week that a group of citizens are giving notice that their land is posted. It might be a good idea to call the attention of hunters to this. They will find it somewhere in the News.

* * *

Did you ever drop in Culver's I. G. A. Store in the morning and after three o'clock in the afternoons? If you did, you saw one of the busiest places in town. And did you notice the extra care taken by the clerks there to see that each customer is properly waited on? While Mack Culver looks just like an ordinary clerk in the store, he is the head knocker and knows the market and grocery business.

* * *

Andrew Crowson who resides on Jemison, Route One was a pleasant visitor at the News office Monday morning and said he wanted the News to keep coming to him, so we gave him a subscription receipt. He brought in a large piece of petrified oak. It is one of the best formed pieces of petrified wood we have seen, and is on display at the News office. The grains of the wood are easily seen.

* * *

From Maplesville, Route 2, comes a visitor to Clanton, and it was none other than M. M. Ratliff, a progressive farmer in that section. Mr. Ratliff is a reader of the News and says he knows good reading when he sees it. We were glad to see him.

* * *

Exclamations of thrills and excitement could be heard over the audience in the Wadesonian Theater Monday and Tuesday night at the showing of "The Mystery of the Wax Museum." The Wadesonian is bringing some mighty good pictures to Clanton now.

* * *

E. H. Calfee of Route 7, was among the business visitors to Clanton the other day. Mr. Calfee didn't go back home until he had renewed his subscription to the News.

* * *

And another one of our friends who attended to this little matter of subscriptions was G. R. Duke, who resides on Route 5, Clanton.

* * *

Our good friend and electrician Hubert Farley will sit by his fire this winter on Thursdays and read the News.

* * *

Mrs. T. J. Mims of Verbena, Route 2 was a recent visitor to Clanton and attended to having her News sent to her at her new address.

Others who will enjoy the News during the coming months are, H. A. Williams of Jemison, E. E. Franklin of Route 3, I. M. Deason, of Route 3, Mrs. Anna G. DuBose of Maplesville, Tom Kemp of Clanton, Dr. N. S. Johnson.

The News was pleased last week to be visited by the one and only Hon. Cecil B. Smith, attorney-at-law of Lakeland, Fla. Cecil is the type of fellow one always likes to be visited by, and we feel that Clanton lost a mighty fine fellow when Cecil went to Lakeland where he is as widely known as he was in Chilton County.

We were pleased Tuesday morning to receive a very pleasant visit from one of the oldest subscribers to the News. He is Mr. D. M. Martin, of the Mulberry - Isabella community. Mr Martin says he has been a reader of the News for many years and just won't be without it, even if he has reached his 75th birthday.

LEGION OFFERS CERTIFICATES FOR STUDENTS

Students With High Rating To Receive Honor Of Local Legion Post

At the regular monthly meeting of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion, held last Monday night, a committee was named to work out plans to present through schools of this county whereby a certificate may be awarded to the member of the graduating class of a high school who shows by his or her work, conduct and general attainments as a student that she or he is outstanding, and comes up to the requirements of the Legion.

The meeting Monday night was presided over by Commander Grover A. Bice, and Adjutant V. C. McKee. This matter of certificates was brought up by Percy M. Pitts, who has been appointed chairman of the "Americanism Commission" for the sixth Congressional District.

The committee formed here will be known as the "Americanism Commission" and will view all records of eligible students in senior and junior high schools of the county, for these awards. More definite announcements on this are to be made later, it was stated.

Another matter that was brought up before the meeting Monday night was the matter of funds that might be available for widows and orphans of deceased veterans of the World War.

PLANNING TO TREAT CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS

Expert Says Farmers Passing Up Opportunity For Sale Of Cattle

Plans are underway for an extensive campaign with the purpose of immunization of tuberculosis among cattle in Chilton county. Dr. C. W. Carey, of Auburn, and Dr. Jackson, representative of the Federal government, appeared before the county commissioners Monday, and outlined plans for the campaign, petitioning the court to grant necessary funds to match federal funds for carrying on this work in the county.

Although members of the court expressed sympathy with the work, no action was taken because of the absence of Commissioner C. D. Duke, who is ill.

Dr. Carey termed Alabama as one of the best sections in the United States for the production of cattle and declared that Alabama farmers are passing up one of the greatest opportunities they will ever have in not producing cattle for sale. In most sections of the state, Dr. Carey said it is possible to have an all-year pasture and thus minimize feed bills.

The eradication of tuberculosis among cattle in the county will greatly enhance their value on the foreign market, he said, and besides prevent the spreading of the disease by the use of milk from diseased cows. A like campaign has been conducted in several other counties in the state.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION TO MEET AT MINERAL SPRINGS

ENTERPRISE COMMUNITY GATHERING

School House Scene Of A Delightful Day With Several Speakers

A most delightful day was spent at the Enterprise schoolhouse, in the Enterprise community last Thursday when a regular community get-together was held.

A delicious and well prepared dinner was served by the ladies of the community, and speakers were also on the program. Supt. Luther E. Little delivered a most inspiring address to the people and received whole-hearted applause. Among the other speakers were J. Z. Mims, C. E. Stapp and G. C. Weldon, principal of the school.

The faculty of the Enterprise school is composed of G. C. Weldon, principal, Howard Boockholdt, Misses Claudia Eiland, Nina Teel, Mabel Wilkins, Mrs. Claudia Boockholdt, Mrs. Vesta Burkhalter and Mrs. Myrtle Taylor.

Trustees of the school are Walter Broadhead, Bud Boyd and Arthur Wilkins.

The Rev. J. S. Hand was taken to a Birmingham hospital Monday to undergo treatment. The News joins his friends in wishing for him a speedy recovery.

NRA COMPLIANCE BOARD IS SET UP TO HEAR COMPLAINTS HERE

Many Taking Offer Of $1.00 A Year

Since the announcement by the News last week that the price of a year's subscription has been reduced to one dollar, many subscribers have taken advantage of this opportunity to renew their subscriptions at the reduced price, and many new names have been added to the list.

The News expresses its thanks for this ready response to its special offer and continues it for a limited time. With each new subscription or renewal, a free ticket to the Wadesonian Theatre will be given, and can be used within ten days from receipt. Look at the label on your paper now. If the date of expiration has been reached, now is the time to renew at this special price, or if the expiration is near, take advantage of this saving.

Few Auto Tags Bought Scores Get H. Licenses

Although there has been shown a tendency by automobile owners in the county to postpone buying tags, according to figures at the probate office, the same has not been true of those who shoulder the musket and hie forth to "shoot at" the wary inhabitants of the wilds.

Tuesday afternoon only thirty-six auto owners had made application for tags, while 515 hunters had bought licenses. Mrs. Audelle Miller, probate clerk, declared this to be approximately half the usual number of hunting licenses sold during a season.

She said that automobile licenses might be paid any time before November 14, after which date a 15 per cent penalty will be charged.

COTTON CHECS CONTINUE TO ARRIVE HERE

A Total Of $50,496 Already Received; Large Sum Is Yet To Come

A stream of cotton checks continues to flow into the office of the county agent in payment to the farmers, who cooperated with the President's giant program to bring this country back to normalcy by plowing under a percentage of their cotton crops.

A total of 835 checks had been received this week, amounting to $50,496. Clerks at Mr. Stapp's office declared that only about one-fourth of the amount due the farmers in the county has been received to date. Thirteen thousand acres of cotton were eliminated in this county by the 3,121 signed pledges.

ELEVEN ARRESTS REPORTED BY SHERIFF'S OFFICE HERE

PROMINENT RESIDENT OF THORSBY DIES

S. E. Norton, Pioneer Of This County, Succumbs After A Long Illness

Funeral services for S. E. Norton, prominent resident of Thorsby, who died Saturday morning at 5 o'clock at his home following an illness of long duration, were conducted Sunday from the Thorsby Congregational church, of which he was a member and co-founder, and burial was in the City cemetery. The Rev. J. E. Each and the Rev. E. W. Butler officiated.

Had Mr. Norton lived until his birthday, October 14, he would have attained the venerable age of 85. For the past 30 years he had been a resident of Thorsby and was prominently known throughout the county, having been connected with The Union-Banner, as a Thorsby correspondent, for many years. He was also affiliated with many worthwhile movements that tended toward the upbuilding of his community.

Mr. Norton was a co-founder of the Thorsby Congregational church and the Thorsby Institute, which has one of the highest ratings of any preparatory institution in the state. He also attained considerable fame as an inventor, having perfected the tin can and other minor inventions. He was always a student of culture, flowers being one of his greatest hobbies.

TRANSIENT SURVEY BEING MADE THROUGHOUT STATE

Throughout Alabama a survey is being conducted this week by the recently established Alabama Transient Bureau to determine the number of transients in the state; and to make some provisions to establish them in permanent jobs, or assist them in returning to their homes.

Miss Kitty Clyde Austin, social director, is supervising the survey in Chilton county, with workers in the several small towns throughout the county. Late Tuesday she said that only four transients had been reported from the Clanton area.

LARGE RATTLE SNAKE IS KILLED ON WALKER PLACE

One of the oldest and largest rattle snakes seen in this section in some time was brought to the News office Saturday by Nathaniel Davis, negro who lives on William Walkers place between Clanton and Maplesville.

Davis said he killed the snake at night in big Mulberry swamp after putting up quite a fight. The snake had sixteen rattles, a button and a half, showing it was over seventeen years old, according to Davis. It measured a little over five feet in length. Davis stated the reptile was stretched out when first seen, and as soon as the light struck him he coiled to strike.

C.C.H.S. Makes Change In Members Of Faculty

A change-up in the faculty of the Chilton County high school here took place Monday, when Coach T. H. Walker's resignation became effective. Walker, who is a member of the officer's reserve of the United States Army has been called into active service and reported Monday to Camp McClellan.

He will be succeeded as coach by J. T. Searcy, who recently became connected with the school. Searcy played with the varsity squad at the University of Alabama where he was graduated and has coached high school athletics for the past nine years. T. H. Vaughan of Birmingham, will fill the vacancy created.

Walker has taught here for the past four years.

MILTON SHARP OF VERBENA ENLISTS IN U. S. MARINES

The enlistment in the United States Marine Corps of Milton T. Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Sharp of Verbena, was announced by Lt. Col. H. W. Stone, today. Sharp was a member of the baseball, basketball and football teams while attending Verbena High School, where he graduated in May, 1931.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lett of Verbena were visitors to Clanton Saturday.

Mrs. W. I. Mullins, [illegible] Mullins and Miss Betty Mullins visited friends in Verbena Sunday.

Raised At Home

If you have spent a great deal of time in the water, or like to swim, then you know possibly that many a person who has drowned would probably be alive today if he had just "kept his head."

And even now, with the American people "Swimming" for life, the most important thing is to "keep our heads." A persons can work his arms off, and still fail if he does not use his head.

We, the people of Chilton County, could possibly profit by using our heads a little more. Someone give us a suggestion as to the best thing to do. We have urged the trade-at-home movement and that helped some. The News believes that a raise-at-home movement would be very fitting right now.

There is a possibility that thousands of dollars roll out of Chilton County to the Western states for food products that could be raised at home. It is a great drain on our county and our people when this money is sent away. If you drained your mule of a pint of blood a day, he certainly would not last long. So it is with any community that might be caught draining itself of money.

There are hogs, cows, chickens and mules. And many farm products that could be raised the year round, not only fo rhome consumption but for the market. Let's give this some thought and some action. We all will benefit from it.

Thank You, Alabama Journal

The following was taken from The Alabama Journal of Montgomery, one of the broadminded and fair daily papers of the state:

> "Chilton County News
> Has 11th Birthday
> "With the modesty of any well bred newspaper, Billy Smith's Chilton County News this week celebrates its 11th birthday and "enters on the new year with a great deal of pride and gratefulness" writes the brilliant young Billy Smith, Clanton editor. "Proud of its record of achievement and service to the people," he says, "and grateful for its friends and the patronage shown it, the News hopes to make its 12th year even greater than the others."

The News says "much oblige, Alabama Journal." We didn't realize our little birthday would attract the attention of such a worthwhile daily newspaper. We feel flattered.

Pardon Us . . . Please

In face of the fact that The Alabama Journal accuses the News of being modest, we ask you to pardon us while we do a little boasting and "tooting of our own horn."

We are thinking of the past seven years with the News. In 1927 when the present management of the News took charge of the paper, it will no doubt be well remembered by many that it was a small, four-page paper, not so well printed at that time.

Gradually the News made headway, replaced old machinery with new, and gained the confidence of the people. We hope we have not faltered in keeping this confidence even now. In 1927 only a few persons could be counted as readers of the News. Now, we are proud of the thousands of readers of this newspaper each week.

The News has weathered the lashing of hard times and like everyone else, has emerged stronger and steadier. In 1928 it published a little historical edition, with many articles giving data of the county. In 1931 the largest issue of its history was published and distributed to the people of the county. This issue was said to have been the largest issue of any newspaper published in the county. Many persons said it could not be done. The News did it in good style, successfully.

In 1929 the News was selected as one of the most outstanding weekly papers in Alabama for its editorial policies, make-up, news interest and general appearance.

In 1930 the News was honored by being awarded the silver loving cup which goes to the weekly newspaper for having rendered the greatest service to its community within the year and for its outstanding qualities. This award was made by the Alabama Press Association.

In 1932 the News put on a circulation campaign that reached into every nook and corner of the county, giving away hundreds of dollars worth of prizes to the winners. It was termed as one of the most successful and one of the best such campaigns conducted in the county.

In 1933 the News has a distribution of papers that is the largest in its history. We are proud of our readers. We are proud of those persons who write the news of their communities each week for this newspaper.

Now after throwing aside our modesty for awhile and talking about ourselves, we ask you to pardon us. Last week's issue marked the beginning of the twelfth year of the News. The thoughts above came to our mind as we sat back and reviewed the struggles for existence we went through and the kindness shown us by the people of this section during these years.

The Democratic Party In Chilton County

For the past six months or more this country of ours has been undergoing quite a change, and a decided change for the better, if we might say so.

The price of cotton is considerably better now than at the price of four cents or slightly more sometime ago. Our Democratic national government not satisfied with the price of cotton, now agrees to lend the farmer ten cents per pound on cotton. Prospects are that it is going higher.

Millions of men and women who have been without jobs are now back at work, drawing wages and salaries, buying goods and helping in general. Thousands of young men are drawing salaries and sending the money back home from the forest camps. These are only a few of the steps to bring better times, that have been made in six months by the Democratic form of government our country is under.

It is no wonder that this newspaper is proud to tell of these things. Proud of President Roosevelt. Proud that it took a part in boosting him for the office, and proud that Chilton County gave him a big margin.

The Democratic Party in Chilton County backed President Roosevelt to the letter, as it backs every Democrat candidate, county, state and national and as it will support the Democratic nominees in the elections next year. The Democratic Party of Chilton county wants to elect its candidates for county offices next year.

The Democratic Party of Chilton County is to be commended for its attitude toward Republicans. One doesn't see or hear a Democrat in Chilton County gossiping about the obvious failure of the Republican national administration to even make the first effort to bring this country back into its own. One does not hear a Democrat criticising a Republican unless the latter places himself up for such.

One will and can hear a Democrat speaking proudly of the policies and platform of the great Democratic Party that is doing so much for the people.

When election time comes next year, voters of Chilton County will have before them a list of Democratic candidates for various offices to be filled in this county.

Only one Democrat has been elected to a major office in Chilton County during the past twenty odd years. We are proud of our superintendent of education and we believe the people of the county in general will agree with us.

The actions and work of your Democratic superintendent of education gives the people here a fair sample of the policy of fairness, equal rights to all, under which the Democratic Party operates. Things are being done. Action is being received from the offce of the superintendent and board of education.

The Democratic Party of Chilton County is coming to the voters of this county next year with its candidates, men of high standing in their communities. Men carefully selected, of high character. They will ask for your support and recognition. They want to be of service to their county. And they will be Democrats who have stood by their party and will stand by their people.

The Organization Of Unions Among Textile Workers

An editorial in the News last week apparently has caused considerable and wide-spread interest in regard to textile workers becoming members of unions.

We fear that our editorial touched spots not intended to touch. We fear that we were understood to be eternally and specifically against the formation of unions among textile workers. The News will be found to be quite a supporter of cooperatives, provided, however, that cooperatives are formed for the benefit of all concerned and not for the advancement of one class and the detriment of another.

The News has been approached by a person interested in the union of local textile workers with an explanation of the purpose of the union, from the view point of a member. We quote him:

> "The union does not want strikes, nor does it intend to create strife and antagonize the workers. We are backing the President and the NRA."

The National Recovery Act is a code. A code for employers and employees. The News will be found to be in favor of unions as long as they do not make unreasonable demands of the manufacturer. No manufacturer in any industry can possibly limit production, increase the cost of production and still make enough profit to pay higher wages and allow short hours.

We are glad that some one came to the defense of the unions, because when rumors of detrimental natures are circulated, then it is time for all sides of a matter to be given a proper hearing before the people.

We are glad to see that even in far-away Louisville, a man saw fit to give us a rather lengthy letter stating some thoughts for consideration in regard to this, and in reference to our editorial of last week. The local union will find the News open to its statements so long as they are within reason and that the News will lend an ear at all times to the voice of the union.

In the conversation with a member of the local textile workers union, he stated, "I would like for you to give some thought to the causes of strikes. It is usually where the company failed to coöperate with the union. All unions are cooperating with the companies as best they can and all workers have a right to join unions."

We quote our editorial of last week, "Unions are great methods of taking steps toward progress if they cooperate with the manufacturer." Perhaps we should add to that with, "* * * and the manufacturer cooperate with the unions so long as the demands of the union are not unreasonable."

As an added thought, and we think it a very worthwhile thought, we quote the following from an editorial appearing in another newspaper, "The New Deal can only be made effective thru reasonable cooperation between employers and employees, thru the effort to supply good work in return for good wages and thru increased productivity as an offset to increased cost of production. 'Sweating' employers is as unwise as 'sweating' labor, and extortion from employers is as dangerous as oppression by employers."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I had a friend who had a bad case of rheumatism and I visited him often. The strange thing about this suffering man was that he could talk about nothing but his pains. If I mentioned the weather that immediately reminded him that he suffered more in bad weather. If I mentioned the illness of a neighbor, he was sure that his trouble was much worse than the boils of the sick neighbors. If I referred to a vacation, golf or a ball game that reminded him that he could never enjoy either one on account of his rheumatism. He could see nothing in the world, only through his rheumatism. If you ever locate a man or a woman, who has a well set case of soul disease, that disease becomes the topic of conversation at all times. Wicked Haman had a selfish heart and he could talk and think about nothing but Mordecai sitting at the king's palace gate. When the awful disease of jealousy enters the heart of a husband or a wife, that becomes the topic of conversation. When a man's soul is diseased with the sin of covetuousness, he can see nothing beyond the circle of the dollar. I must say that there is more soul rheumatism in the world than there is physical rheumatism.

The other day one of my best church members made me to open wide my eyes. This is what he said, "Preacher, I had just as soon tell my boy to go to the movies, or to the swimming pool on Sunday, as to tell him to go to Sunday school." In wild amazement I looked at the fellow, but was too much astonished to make reply. Then the good brother modified his statement with these words "I say to my boy, come with me and WE will go to Sunday school." That is exactly what every parent in this country should be saying to the children in their homes. It amounts to little for you to say, "Son, you must go to Sunday school," but it amounts to much when you say, "Son, we are going to Sunday school and church." Parents, it is up to you to set the right example if you expect your children to go right.

A young man was returning from Pensacola with his truck and came to the State line about eleven o'clock at night. A large gathering of noisy Beer drinkers were there, and among them, this young man saw a very prominent member of the church out of his home town. He had heard this man get up and give his testimony and then lead in prayer. He sat in his truck and looked on and this professed follower of Jesus Christ at his church, was as rowdy and as thirsty as the lowest in the dance hall. I heard this young man say to his mother, "I will never have any more confidence in that man." That is the very thing that is runing the influences of the church today. When prominent men and women who claim to be leaders in the church, will ride to the State line and then order Beer and drink with the rowdies who make that place their gathering resort, how can they hope to escape the wrath of God. A church member can drink Beer, but he does it at the peril of his Christian influences. No sinner wants a Beer Bag to stand up before him and talk to him about his salvation.

Not since I have been born have I ever seen so many men looking to one man to lead them out of the wilderness. We have gone on with our sinning until we are almost in chains, and we have become hypnotized with the idea that Mr. Roosevelt will be able to lead us out. We are not repenting of our sins and we are not trying to right our wrongs. In place of that we are going deeper into sin and squalling our daylights out to Washington to get us out of our dilemma. All I hear is "Co-operate with Mr. Roosevelt and he will get us out." Men are crying to a man for relief and mark what I say, there is no relief in sight. If Roosevelt were a Moses, if he was co-operating with God, then there might be some hopes that he would be able to lead us thru. Our only hope is to co-operate with God and then there will open a way across the Red sea. As long as we leave God out of our recovery plans, there will be no prosperity in sight. A one hundred per cent citizen will co-operate with God first. All this co-operation with the government with God left out is tommy-rot. Get on God's side and then come through.

Letters To The Editor

THE UNION AT THE LOCAL TEXTILE MILL

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29, 1933.
Editor Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

Your editorial of Thursday, Sept. 28th, captioned, "TEXTILE WORKERS SHOULD THINK TWICE BEFORE JOINING UNIONS" seems to have been conceived without a great deal of information and facts concerning organizations or unions which have for their purpose the protection of the working classes.

Your editorial might have made appropriate reading and would have been more in harmony with current thought twenty or more years ago, but it is rather odd at this time amid the national effort to organize and classify all forms of industrial development.

It is, as you probably know, a commendable fact that the majority of the larger newspapers are apparently favorable to all the efforts of men and women to organize for their needed protection. Very few if any of the daily newspapers of today are manned by non-union employees and the editorial reflection is usually friendly.

The National Government and our recent congress whom I believe you are eager to support have made it very clear just how they feel about the working man.

Representatives of The American Federation of Labor are well reflected in our present national administration.

You are no doubt familiar with special precautions that were taken with regards to collective bargaining in the enactment of our National Recovery Act.

It has been a comparatively short time since the men that are today organized were laboring ten and twelve hours per day. Those conditions are as unthinkable at the present time in the larger industrial centers as you are prone to think a union organization might be at Clanton, Ala. To whom are we due this credit?

I have frequently noticed in your columns where you have stoutly encouraged organization and co-operative effort in many other lines of industry. You ask the neglected farmer to cooperate in order to secure benefits obtained only through unionization. You are heartily in accord with actions of merchants and other forms of employers as they band together for concentrated effort and unity of purpose, but when the poor and unfortunate laborers of a local textile mill begin to see the light and are offered the opportunity of joining an organization which means fair wages and decent working conditions, you rush into print with an unwarranted and unfamiliar article that, in your opinion "We fear that the employees of the local textile mill are making a mistake."

I, of course, gather from your message that you are not very familiar with results already obtained for the laboring class by the strong chains of fraternal organization.

The fact that Clanton has never before had any experience with labor unions could be just as well applied to the N.R.A. or any other new comer and does not justify the accusation that they are liable to become outlaws at any minute and are ready to strike at the slightest provocation. It does mean however that unless they are regarded with some degree of consideration by their employers and superiors, as a unit they are prepared to demand what any white man is justly entitled to.

I would like to ask if you can suggest any workable and better way for obtaining results?

Why do you attempt to imply that the laboring element has been over zealous in its demands at other nearby textile mills without knowing or without stating the reasons for which they quit their jobs? Do you think a man who is underpaid for services rendered and whose working conditions are unnecessarily burdensome should remain at his post without a protest? Do you for any reason think that progress can be attained by the masses while "The wise employee" continues to ponder over the possible results of "paying his dues" and "seriously considers becoming a member of an organization not sanctioned by the government"?

It is an easy matter to understand whether or not the organized labor movement is "sanctioned by the government."

As a matter of information, I would like to inquire if this cotton mill has been a very great blessing to the city of Clanton? Do you know of any local stock holders who have received any dividends or otherwise benefited as a result of having subscribed to stock in this company.

I am sure that the history of this enterprise is most familiar to the people of Chilton county. Apparently it has sought to defraud and rob them from the beginning. The cosmopolitan idea in its conception has been thoroughly demonstrated to you and the entire community. Obviously, this corporation is making money—evidently, most of it is returned to the big industrialists.

Why do you hesitate to champion the cause of these daily toilers who live and spend their money in Clanton and who justly deserve a decent livelihood and support of local enterprises?

Sincerely yours,
C. M. ROPER.

I. L. SMITH TAKES SIDE WITH DR. GRAGG

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 1, 1933
Editor of the News:

Will you please allow me space to congratulate Dr. Gragg on the subject that he wrote up in the last week's News. I can only speak for myself, but I feel that each and everyone should highly congratulate Dr. Gragg in the great effort he has put forth for something to be done for the farmer, for we should remember that our very existence depends solely upon the tilling of the soil. The farmer has always been, is now, and always will be, the backbone and the great drive wheel of our great and noble nation. And he has had more hard knocks than anyone else under Heaven. Let's plead more, and contend more for the right, and uplifting thing to be done to lift the farmer out of the rut of poverty and place him on a higher plane of living and prosperity.

Always remembering at all times that our wealth, yes and our very existence, depend solely upon the farmer. Let us also remember that while NRA is still in its infancy, it has already done much good. We only ask that each and everyone strive to work in peace and harmony with our great and noble President Franklin D. Roosevelt. We hope there will be relief for our farmer next. And let's all put more trust i God, and in His only begotten son, Je us Christ. We have drifted away fro God, and we must come back and sta up bravely for Him, and lift high the blood-stained banner of our Saviou Jesus Christ. We cannot prosper a ways here in this world and leave G out of our business. Let us repent a come back to God; or we will all likewise perish.

I close by thanking you for this spa in your paper, and by saying let's all strive to get closer to God each da Then He will be more merciful to u

Yours for the right thing, and for God.

INK DROPS FROM C. C. H. S.

By Dan Smith

"Remember that thou art an actor in a play, and such sort as the Author chooses, whether long or short. If it be his good pleasure to assign thee the part of a beggar, a ruler or a simple citizen, thine it is to play it fitly. For thy business is to act the part assigned thee well."
—Epictitus.

* * *

This is true. Don't bemoan the fact that you were not a ruler, instead play your part to perfection. Someone must take the part of a beggar or the play would be no good. Make the best of what Fate bestowed on you and you will receive your praise some day.

* * *

The school is indeed grateful to the Clanton Study Club and especially to two of its members, Mrs. J. P. Hayes and Mrs. Grady Heflin, for the volumes of fine books they have presented to the school. The writer speaks for the faculty and the student body when he says, "Thank you, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Heflin and the Clanton Study Club." Let us show our appreciation of this rich gift by using them to the best of advantage.

* * *

We are indeed glad to know that Mrs. Warr is getting along just fine after a minor operation last week. Hope to see her among us again, and Junior, too.

* * *

A number of students, if not all of us, should give more mind to our posture. Some almost lie down in their seats in study hall and some stand as if the next minute is the last. Brace up. Put a little military snap in your body. It is not only healthful, it helps one's appearance quite a bit.

* * *

The "rubber band" menace ended as abruptly as it began. Two weeks ago one was always a possible target for a nice hard "spit ball". But now not a sign of a miniature warfare is evident. Thanks to our teachers.

* * *

Who is the fair damsel who is taunting "Punchie" with unsigned notes? Some daring maiden has him guessing and he would like to know her identity. (Probably he would give her a little consideration).

* * *

Last week was an important week in the lives of many of our students. For we had our first month tests last week. Some students got a taste of what the subject they were taking really was. Some learned their teachers and some of the teachers learned more about their pupils. If your grades were nothing to boast about this time don't get discouraged, just fight that much harder. Stick out your jaw and determine to make a better one the next time. Suppose George Washington had lost his first battle and had become discouraged.

* * *

The writer wishes that each student would tell him what articles in his column he likes the best. I want to please everybody. Also if any of you teachers have any suggestion they would be more than appreciated. This goes for the out of school readers and graduates too.

* * *

The entire student body was saddened last Friday when it was announced that we were going to lose one of our best loved teachers, Mr. Horton Walker. Mr. Walker was also coach of our athletics, besides the instructor in several classes. Mr. Walker, who is a first lieutenant in the R. O. T. C. has gone to Fort McClellan, where he will assume his new duties. We deeply regret to lose him but we know that he will be well liked at his new home. Every student learned to love and respect Coach Walker for his outstanding gentlemanly qualities. It is hoped that he will retain a pleasant memory of his years spent here in the like manner that the students of C.C.H.S. will hold a loving memory of him.

* * *

His position as coach will be filled by Mr. Searcy, a present member of our faculty, who has had several years experience in playing on college teams and coaching high school elevens. Let's cooperate with him and keep our team on the up grade that has started on this year.

* * *

The vacancy in the faculty will be taken by Mr. T. H. Vaughan of Birmingham. It seems that the students will like him fine.

* * *

This week the pass to any home game goes to Miss Dorothy Waite who submitted a winning yell.

* * *

More of our students should take part in the activities of the B. Y. P. U. and Epworth League. Let's remember this next Sunday and show our real spirit in young peoples spiritual activities. We sometimes neglect our moral teachings when they are as, if not more, important as mental teaching to our lives in the future. Three hours a week devoted to our church work will mean many happy hours later in life.

* * *

The teachers went to school Monday of this week. I hope that they were good little children.

Miss EDITH JOHNSON, Correspondent

An Appreciation

The death of Soreno E. Norton, on September 30, at the good old age of nearly 85 years, brought sorrow to this entire community. On Sunday, October 1, at 11 o'clock, preceded by a short service in the home, the funeral was held at the Congregational Church, of which he was a devoted and loyal member. The large attendance at the funeral attested the love and respect in which he was held.

Mr. Norton was the last of nine brothers and has one sister still living. He was the son of a pioneer missionary of the Presbyterian church in the states of New York, Illinois and Wisconsin. He leaves a wife, who has been his devoted companion through the years, and one son, Sereno, who lives in Brunswick, Ga. He had one brother who died at 12 years of age.

Mr. Norton came to Thorsby 30 years ago and his life has been woven into the best of the community life ever since. More than anyone else, he is responsible for Thorsby Institute being here today.

He was the prime mover in organizing the United Protestant church of Thorsby, whose influence for good in the lives of students, through the years, has reached out to many other states. Thus his life has been multiplied many times over and none can measure the extent of its good influence.

He was a man who never lived in the past, but to the very last maintained his interest in things of today. He was always interested in the Boy Scouts and gave time and thought to that work. He was interested in every movement for civic betterment. He loved music and flowers—the beautiful things of life.

And in all of life, he was one of the sweetest spirited men I have ever known. He said "Life is too short to hold grudges" and however strongly or sharply he might be opposed, he always maintained that sweet Christian spirit.

Laboring under physical disabilities that many of us would have thought insurmountable, he continued his activities with a smile and a cheerful word.

Brother Norton lived a life of faith in God, and as Paul said, "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day."

Our church will miss him, Thorsby Institute will miss him, and the whole community will miss him, but our loss is his gain.

Surely the words of the wise man are true, "The hoary head is a crown of glory, if found in the way of righteousness."

—His Pastor, Joseph E. Each.

Quite a number of the readers are interested in the fact that Mr. S. E. Norton, of Thorsby, has received his well-earned promotion to the wider activities, the larger opportunities, the richer life "over there". May I have a little room in your columns to speak my appreciation of his life and character.

I would speak especially of his relation to Thorsby Institute which for nearly 30 years now has been the center of his thought and hopes and prayers. It has been as it were the Child of his old age. I am sure it is generally the opinion of those who knew the story of the beginning of Thorsby Institute that Mr. Norton was so much responsible for it that, but for him, the school would not have been established. He was the first Secretary of the Board and continued in that position until very recently his failing eyesight compelled his resignation. But he never lost in any measure his interest in it. Since he became totally blind a few months ago, I have heard him talking by the hour of the things he hoped to do for Thorsby Institute. This death removes from our Board the last remaining member of the Board as first organized.

Some of Mr. Norton's slogans are worth remembering. "If anything ought to be done, it can be done." Mr. Norton believed that thoroughly and directed his life accordingly. He would tackle any job that he thought needed doing. He had no place in his vocabulary for the word "can't".

Another saying of his, "Life is too short for grudges." If anything unpleasant has occurred "Forget it." If there was anyone in the world towards whom he felt unkindly, I never heard of it.

Another striking characteristic of Mr. Norton closely related to some of the foregoing was his youthful enthusiasm for life and its duties. He kept closely in touch with all that was going on. Though blind and nearly 85 he was planning enthusiastically for the days and years yet to come, looking forward as eagerly into the future as a young man of 20.

I cannot think of Mr. Norton as dead. He is alive, wonderfully interested in all that is going on anywhere. To my mind such a life as his is a tremendous argument for immortality—at any rate for his immortality. "His is not dead."

—His Friend, E. W. Butler.

Thousands of Women Have Taken Cardul on Their Mothers' Advice

It is an impressive fact that many women have said they learned of the value of Cardui from their mothers.

What stronger evidence of her confidence in a medicine could a mother have than that she advises her daughter to take it!

Cardui is given the credit for relieving so many cases of womanly suffering that it is widely and favorably known. Druggists, everywhere, sell it.

If you are weak, run-down, suffering monthly, take Cardui. Take it for a reasonable length of time and try it thoroughly. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of women who have written to say: "Cardui helped me."

J. W. Moore Elected To Succeed H. A. Harris

J. W. Moore, former superintendent of education of Chilton county and prominent in the field of education in this county for the past thirty-five years, has been appointed by the county commissioners court to succeed H. A. Harris as work relief director for the distribution of emergency relief funds in the county.

Mr. Harris resigned to become principal of the Cooper Junior High School, which began its session Tuesday morning. Mr. Harris has served as work relief director since the creation of the department in the county last January.

Mr. Moore will begin work immediately, it is understood. At a recent meeting of the Commissioners' Court it was voted to continue relief work in the county for at least another quarter, which ends January 1.

Adult Evening Schools Are Doing Good Work

The evening schools being held in Pate's Chapel community are progressing nicely. J. P. Montgomery, vocational teacher at Jemison is conducting an adult evening school there with the men. Miss Leacy Newell, Home Economics teacher at Jemison, is conducting a school with the ladies.

The schools will run for six weeks. They meet regularly every Monday and Wednesday evenings. The men met at the school house and the ladies at the home of some member in the community. The course for the men will include work in soil building, home orchards and some poultry work. The ladies have a unit course in sewing.

On Friday, October 6th. the men will have a day time meeting. They will meet at 2 p.m. on the farm of Mr. Alex Maddox and there the laying off of terraces will be taught. Several terracing machines will be on hand so the farmers may handle the machine enough to learn about it. Terraces will be laid off. Any person interested is invited to be present.

The following men have enrolled as regular members of the men's adult school: Burney Blow, Ornie Barnett, W. D. Caton, Tom Caton, Lloyd Caton, Lee Caton, M. E. Champion, Evan Dawson, Tom Foshee, Grimes, Charley Hays, Enoch Hays, Riley Hays, Archie Kleckley, Eugene Kleckley, Alex Maddox, Wilbert Maddox, Tommy Maddox, Isam Pate, Joe Robinson, J. M. OAK GROVE

Our B. Y. P. U. is doing nicely. Also our Sunday school. But the attendance at both services was somewhat small because of the bad weather. But everyone is invited to come and be with us and help us in our programs.

We had a very successful ice cream supper September 23. We thank everyone that helped out in any way about the supper and ask every visitor to come and be with us next time. We cleared about $20.

Remember that every first Sunday is our regular preaching day, also singing day, and everyone has a cordial invitation to come and be with us.

Don't forget that we have prayer meeting here every Wednesday night.

Mrs. Barbara Cofer is ill at her home, but hope that she will soon be well.

Mrs. J. E. Bledsoe is visiting her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley.

Miss Onzell Littleton dined with Miss Mary Jim Sutley Sunday.

Mr. James Sutley returned home from Sylacauga, reporting a grand time but he lies sick at his home now, but hope he will soon be well and able to enter school.

Mr. D. S. Edwards spent the week end with his wife here.

Little Miss Nola Mae Seay spent Wednesday in Calera visiting relatives.

Mrs. Luther Varden entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Lester Pate of Thorsby.

Mr. Grady Lewis and little daughter, Marguerite, of Marble Valley, Ala., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lessley and family.

Messrs. Stape and Jim Bailey of Birmingham visited Misses Irene and Pauline Lessley Saturday evening.

Miss Pauline Lessley of Calera spent the week end at home.
